MANY INSPECTED HOSPITAL BLDGS.

New Private Room Pavilion Viewed by Large Crowds on Two Occasions.

GOVERNORS PRESENT

S-Ray Laboratory and Wright Memorial Operating Room Also Seen By Vistors—A Description of Private Room Pavilion.

Some seven hundred residents of Plainfield and nearby towns took advantage of the opportunity offered by the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital on Saturday afternoon and yesterday and visited the commodious new private room pavilion which will be thrown open to use this week. Both afternoons there was a continuous stream of people passing through the building, admiring the thoroughly business-like and practical arrangement of the rooms and equipment, which was explained to them by the members of the Board, all of whom were present on both occasions. By far the larger crowd of visitors was in evidence yesterday afternoon, and there was not a corner of the bright and attractive fireproof structure which was missed by them. Many took advaneage of the opportunity to inspect other parts of the building, which they had never had occasion to visit before.

The furnishings were in place in the rooms, everything was in readiness for actual use in the private-room pavilion. While the visitors were permitted to inspect as much of the work as has been completed in the new pathological laboratory, being erected in memory of the late Craig A. Marsh, that building is yet in such an incomplete state that little could be learned about the splendid work that it will be possible to do when this part of the hospital is completed. The Wright Memorial operating room, and the X-Ray laboratory were also open for inspection. The new Edgerton Memorial maternity pavilion, having been publicly inspected a few weeks ago and now housing patients, was not open to the general public.

The private room pavilion, an imposing three-story structure of tapestry brick, is the largest of the group. The patients' rooms are located on the front and ends of the building, and the work rooms, lavatories, stairways and elevator occupy the centre rear. On the first floor, in addition to the reception hall and general reception room, there are seven commodious rooms for private patients. Twelve similar apartments are on the second floor. The top story of the building is given over to five semi-private rooms, with accommodations for twenty-five patients.

On all of the floors are diet kitchens, equipped with the most modern steam tables and refrigerators for the proper handling and care of food. Dumb-waiters are installed in the kitchens and the necessary china closets are conveniently located. The plumbing throughout the building is of the best, and most sanitary description, particularly adapted to hospital purposes. At the southern end of the Private Room Pavilion are roomy solariums for the benefit of convalescing patients.

Each floor of the building also contains nurses' duty rooms, maids' closets, linen rooms, blanket warmers and every convenience known to modern hospital practice.

An electric signal-light system is installed and a patient has only to touch a button to light the call signal over his door, in the diet kitchen, the nurse's duty room, the nurse's station in the hall and also at the several nurses' stations on the other floors.

These lights can only be put out by the nurse when she arrives in the patient's room in response to the call and turns the lights off by pressing a button. The new building is finished throughout in oak with tile floors in corridors and Service Rooms and is arranged with a view to most thorough sanitation.

TENDERED SURPRISE BY SCHOOL FRIENDS

Miss Jubilee Rowley's Birthday Celebrated with Social Program.

Miss Jubilee Rowley was tendered a surprise party at her home on Grove street Saturday night by about twenty of her friends. The affair was a complete surprise and the evening was pleasantly spent. Dancing was the main feature of the evening and the large parlor floor together with the large front porch, both of which were waxed for the occasion, afforded great enjoyment for those who danced. There were also two tables of cards and some of the boys entertained with jokes, tricks and recitations. Before the party broke up refreshments were served by the committee.

Those who were present are Jubilee Rowley, Ann Hull, Dorothy Martin, Marion Avery, Edna Green, Lillian Spencer, Edith Dailey, Marjorie Burtis, Lucy Douglas, Marielle Dunham, Ralph Smalley, Roy Love, Franklin Lowe, John Hull, Russell Lee, Hoyt Tomkinson, Elmer French, Addison Newkirk, Warren Townley, Lester Chandler and Frank Dunning. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Frank Rowley, who was assisted by Marielle Dunham and Lester Chandler.

CANTATA IS HEARD AT 1ST M. E. CHURCH

"The Life Everlasting" Excellently Rendered by the Quartet Choir.

The quartet choir of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Clifford A. Braider, organist and choirmaster, gave a special musical service last evening during the cantata, "The Life Everlasting," together with other selections were sung before a large congregation.

Early in the service the quartet sang the anthem, "No Shadows Yonder," and as an offertory, Miss Gabrielle Drosse, soprano, sang Haydn's "With Verdure Clad," by request. This beautiful selection was given excellent interpretation by the singer.

The greater part of the service was taken up with the rendition of the cantata, which affords an excellent opportunity for the four voices of the quartet. Edgar A. Cole, baritone, had considerable solo work, and he was in unusually good voice throughout, his expression of interpretation being marked. This was also true of Aleck MacGowan, tenor, whose rich, full voice was a delight in the solo parts as well as the quartet numbers.

Miss Drosse, soprano, did not have any solo work in the cantata, but in the quartet selections her singing was pleasing. Miss Ethel G. Kinnaman, contralto, had a solo part, with quartet accompaniment, in which ample apportunity was afforded for her to display her excellent voice. Altogether the work was one of the best given by the quartet, showing careful training by Mr. Braider.

LECTURER LAUDS MARY BAKER EDDY

V. O. Strickler Claims Founder of Christian Science as World Benefactor.

"ELEVATED RELIGION"

Says Through Her Spiritual Understanding "She Has Revealed a Perfect Divine Principle That Governs Mankind."

Prefacing his address by the declaration that it is undeniable that the practice of the faith has "healed many sick persons and has brought about the regeneration of many who were victims of sin," Virgil O. Strickler, a member of the Board of Lectureship of the "Mother Church" at Boston, explained Christian Science to a large audience at the Plainfield Theatre yesterday afternoon. In closing he paid this tribute to the late Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer of Christian Science:

Some day all mankind will recognize the immeasurable service that Mrs. Eddy has rendered to humanity by her discovery of Christian Science and the establishment of the Christian Science movement. Through her teaching she has elevated religious understanding from a theoretical to a practical basis. She has taught the world that it is the mission of religion to heal people of sickness, sorrow, unhappiness and fear, as well as to destroy sin, and has so clearly defined the process by means of which these results may be accomplished as to make it possible for every one to prove it for himself and thereby to heal himself and others. Christian Science is applied Christianity just as truly as engineering is applied mathematics. There is no mystery about it, and when one does his work correctly, according to its rule, healing and regeneration must follow.

In the Bible (John xx:17) we read that Jesus said to Mary, "Go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father, and your Father; and to my God and your God." Also in 1 John, iii:2, "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." St. Paul also wrote (Romans 8:16, 17), "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ."

Christian Science demonstrates the truth of these inspired statements. It makes available as a present right and possibility man's inheritance as the son and heir of God by showing that the real man created by God is spiritual and not material; that his life, continuity, intelligence and harmony are in spirit and not in matter; that all of his qualities and attributes are derived from Spirit, and that every function of the real man is governed by the divine Mind. Man, therefore, expresses the divine nature, and hence he is the image of God, and as such is perfect and immortal. The material man is not the likeness of God, for matter cannot be the image of Spirit. He is the false concept of man, and the sin, disease and death involved in this false concept will disappear as false mortal beliefs are dissolved by truth. The material belief must give place to the spiritual fact in every case.

Out of the amplitude of her own spiritual understanding Mrs. Eddy has translated into human language the truth about God and man, and their relationship; has revealed a perfect divine Principle that governs mankind, and has proved that the truth taught by Jesus is scientific, and may be demonstrated today as of old to deliver the sinning, sorrowing and suffering from their oppressors, to set all mankind free from bondage to evil, and to establish the kingdom of God on earth.

CO. K WILL PARTICIPATE IN A BATTALION DRILL

Company K, the local citizen-soldiery, will participate in a battalion drill to be held in the First Battalion, Second Regiment armory, at Elizabeth, tonight. Following the drill, which will undoubtedly be conducted by Major William B. Martin, a short dance will be held for the benefit of the members of the battalion and their friends.

The Plainfield company and their friends will leave Elizabeth for the return trip on the 1:00 o'clock train, arriving in town about 1:40 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. CAMPAIGN FOR FUND DEFERRED

Association Decides to Postpone Organized Effort to Raise $150,000.

The officers and directors of the Young Men's Christian Association have decided that the time is not opportune to attempt a special campaign to raise $150,000 for the purpose of erecting a new building on East Fifth street as proposed, and therefore have announced that the matter will be deferred for the present.

It had been arranged to start the campaign next Sunday, at which time Charles S. Ward, who has managed similar campaigns in other large cities, and recently in New York, was to present the cause at the Crescent Avenue church, but in view of the recent decision of the association officers nothing further will be done just now. This will doubtless be a disappointment to some people, but the fact that it is just on the eve of the holidays and the people are under more or less expense for other things, it was thought unwise to start a campaign without being assured of the success of the movement.

NEW SUNDAY SCHOOL BUILDING PLANNED

Pastor Tells of Proposed Addition to the First Presbyterian Church.

Following a sermon on the theme, "The Child," by Rev. Dr. C. E. Hering at the First Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, the pastor presented informally plans for the erection of a new Sunday school building in the rear of the present structure, setting forth the urgent need of a modern building with increased facilities.

This matter has been under consideration for some time and it is now thought opportune to try and bring the project to a realization. With that end in view there will be a congregational meeting Wednesday night when it is expected that definite plans will be decided upon. It is estimated that such a building as required, completely furnished would cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

ACCIDENTLY DASHED HOT WATER ON CHILD

Suffering with burns caused when her mother accidentally emptied the contents of a basin filled with boiling water as she stumbled over a cat, Ellen Winn, daughter of Mrs. James Winn, of 166 Manning avenue, is recovering at Muhlenberg Hospital, where she was taken Saturday. The child was sitting on a couch. As the mother passed with the receptacle of hot water she spoke to her off-spring. The next minute Mrs. Winn fell to the floor the water dashing on the child.

Dr. Norman W. Currie was summoned and ordered the little victim removed to the hospgital.

AUTO STRIKES WAGON; HIS SHOULDER DISLOCATED

Driving his automobile on West Third street about 7 o'clock last night John Haskard ran his car into a wagon belonging to Steffano Ferrana, of Fanwood. The autoist said the vehicle his car struck was minus a light as required by law. The Fanwood man was thrown to the road and sustained a dislocated left shoulder. Mr. Haskard, assisted by several witnesses of the accident, placed the injured member back in place and sent the victim home in a trolley car.

Ferrana had attended a party at the home of Raffe Sandie, of 15 West Third street. The collision occurred near that house.

GREAT SHOW COMING.

"Bunty Pulls the Strings," with Molly Pearson, the original Bunty in the title role, will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and evening. Miss Pearson will be surrounded by the same strong cast that made the play such a success in New York city.

MRS. MARIA OLDEN.

Mrs. Maria Olden, colored, widow of Samuel Olden, died this morning at home in Harmony street. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Hillside Cemetery.

SAYS CHRISTIANS PERSECUTE JEWS

Joseph Cohn Alleges Hebrews Are Despised and Insulted Even in America.

CONVERT MISSIONARY

He Speaks on His Work at the First Baptist Church Following An Address at the Temple Baptist Church.

Denouncing the Christian world, especially Russia, where under the guise of prosecution barbarous persecution of the Jews is alleged to be allowed without interference, Joseph Cohn, son of former Rabbi Leopold Cohn and a Christian missionary among his own race in New York, spoke yesterday afternoon before a large gathering at the First Baptist church. That the Jewish people are insulted and despised to a large extent even in this country was one of the assertions made by the speaker, who after educating himself in Christian religious work is now devoting his life to converting persons of his own blood to Christianity. He said in part:

"The problem before the world today is not how to enlighten the Jew, but how to enlighten the Christian. The Christian race is responsible for the conditions existing in the Jewish populace. Nine-tenths of the 1,000,000 Jews that make up the nation know nothing of Jesus Christ. Why? Because the Christians stand as a barrier toward the Hebrews' enlightenment.

"The Jew is despised today as in the days of barbarism. He is downtrodden and ridiculed by the Christians. If a Jew enters our Christian churches today to worship Jesus Christ, he is scorned by those of evangelical beliefs. Therefore he finds that he is not wanted by the Christian and is subjected to scorn. He is not given a welcome when he enters a Christian church, but is made to feel that he is in the wrong place. A Jew is afraid to express his belief in Jesus Christ, if he has any, before his own people and if he expresses it before a Christian he is scorned. Who is responsible for the condition of the Jewish race? None other than the high officials of the churches' missionary field. Ask them what they are doing for the Jew and they will tell you 'nothing.'

"In New York city today there are one and a quarter million Jews in every walk of life taking part in every civic enterprise. The Jew has become a part of our nation and yet he is an outcast of Christianity. Jews in New York who are earning a weekly wage of six, seven and eight dollars are supplying, periodically, funds for the transportation of Jews from such countries as Russia, where the men of this race are still subjected to barbarous persecution. Even after arriving in this country they do not ask to be taken to our public institutions and asylums but are taken into the homes of those meagre wage-earners who are already supporting a family of four or five on six dollars a week. Jews of the juvenile class are being brought to our country, who have witnessed the execution of their fathers in Russia at the hands of the so-called Christians. The Jewish youngsters are daily haunted by the horrors they witnessed in Russia and they daily pray to give them strength to obtain revenge from the Christians.

"You refer to the Jewish peddler when he comes to your door, as a 'Sheeney,' and on Sunday you worship this same 'Sheeney's' brother. When asked to supply or support a fund for the enlightenment and Christian enducation of the Jew, you say your budget is already too full, or you have no use for the race. In Spain 400 years ago 120,000 Jews were put to death by the Christians and even today in Russia the Jew is threatened with execution if he utters a rebellious word. This condition of affairs and the outward expressions of despair and scorn are what have made many Jews secretly loth the Christian."

Concluding his remarks the bright Mr. Cohn recited a brief life-history of his father, a rabbi who became a Christian.

He was introduced by Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, who presided. At the morning service at the Temple Baptist church, Mr. Cohn gave a similar address.

TEMPLE SHOLEM SERVICE.

Rev. Samuel Schoenbraun, of New York, was in charge of the services at Temple Sholem, Y. M. H. A. Hall, Friday night and Saturday, preaching to large congregations. The officers of the temple have decided to organize a Sunday-school and steps toward that end were taken Saturday morning with gratifying results.

RASORES MEETING.

The Rasores will meet tomorrow morning with Mrs. G. Herbert Condict on Central avenue.

FRED'K VORDERMEIER DIED THIS MORNING

Aged Resident of North Plainfield Succumbs Suddenly to Kidney Trouble.

Frederick Vordermeier, aged 73 years, a well-known resident of North Plainfield for the past twenty years, died suddenly this morning of kidney trouble with which he was taken during the early morning hours at his home, 72 Fairview avenue. A physician was summoned, but Mr. Vordermeier was beyond help.

Born in Germany, Mr. Vordermeier came to this country when six years of age and made his home in New York with his parents. For many years he was engaged in the dyeing and cleaning business. When he retired twenty years ago he removed to North Plainfield. He was not identified with any societies. He is survived by a wife and three daughters, Mrs. Henry Haurand, Mrs. Martin A. Korff and Mrs. P. F. Delgyer. The funeral will be held at the late home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and the burial will be in Hillside cemetery.

HARVEST CANTATA SUPERBLY RENDERED

Quartet Choir of Crescent Ave. Church Provides Musical Feast.

The jubilee cantata, known as the "Harvest Cantata," by C. M. vonWeber, was given a fine rendition at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon, by the quartet choir under the direction of Dr. E. Metler Davis, organist and choirmaster, it being the monthly musical service.

An organ recital by Dr. Davis preceded the cantata, during which these numbers were given: Menuetto (Symphony 2), Andante and Menuetto (Surprise Symphony), Jos. Haydn (1732-1809).

The cantata, which is a very tuneful one, comprises selections for chorus, tenor, bass, soprano and chorus, and soprano and contralto, and the singing by the quartet, as well as the solo numbers were delightful throughout, showing perfection in the rendition of the work. It is seldom that the quartet has been heard to better advantage and the large congregation of worshippers expressed their pleasure at the conclusion of the service. The work of Dr. Davis at the organ was most praiseworthy not only in the cantata, but the recital which preceded it. The quartet comprised Miss Lillion Vernon Watt, soprano, Miss Grace J. Carroll, contralto, Paul J. Haskell, tenor, and Graham Reed, bass.

MANY ARE SAVED BARELY IN TIME

Fast Freight Wrecked Minute After Reading Flyer Sped Past.

NO ONE IS INJURED

But Considerable Damage is Done to Roadbed and Tracks at the North Avenue Station of the Jersey Central.

The wrecking crew and a large gang of laborers were kept busy Saturday night and a greater part of yesterday clearing up the debris and making repairs to the roadbed and tracks at the North Avenue station of the New Jersey Central, dananged by the freight wreck early Saturday night. Within an hour or so after the accident the wrecking crew arrived and shortly after midnight all the tracks were cleared and normal traffic was restored. But between 8 o'clock and midnight trains were obliged to use the eastbound freight track, thereby causing some delay in the movement of trains at that point.

That more damage together even with loss of life did not result from the accident is considered remarkable. A Reading flyer, eastbound, had just passed the North Avenue station when the Allentown fast freight, westbound, came along traveling at least forty miles an hour. At the Watchung avenue bridge a wheel broke on one of the freight cars, derailing it and a couple of other cars.

Striking the girders of the bridge, the cars were thrown against the iron fence which separates the east and westbound tracks, and stripping it clean and clear, rolled it up like a ball of yarn and deposited the huge mass of iron at a point near the Park avenue bride, where the train was brought to a stop. The force of the train's momentum may be realized when it is known that the heavy concrete foundations into which the fence was bedded were pulled out of the ground.

The westbound freight tracks were torn up for a considerable distance west of the Park avenue bridge and many of the ties between Watchung and Park avenue were damaged to such an extent that they had to be replaced, while at several points it was found necessary to re-guage the tracks.

Had the accident to the freight train happened a minute sooner, the Reading flyer, which usually passes through this city at a mile a minute speed, would have been involved in the wreck with the possibility of many of the passengers being hurt or killed. When the freight came to a stop one of the cars was found to be so close to the main eastbound track, that a train going in that direction could not have escaped striking it.

The accident attracted hundreds of people to the scene Saturday night and all day yesterday crowds gathered there. The company has erected a temporary wooden fence separating the east and westbound tracks, which within a short time will be replaced by another one of iron.

STYLE SR RELIABILITY

Wailed some melancholy poet, as he gazed sadly upon his last royalty check.

He was thinking of the murky days of Autumn Time, when the birds skin back to the South and the dry leaves crackle underfoot.

With some people happiness is an all year round condition; others have it in fits and spells, and spend the rest of the time in a cloud of gloom.

At the Rothberg Store happiness reigns thruout the year, irrespective of season, weather or the rise and fall of the Wall Street Empires.

The reason why? It's just this:

It pleases men and women to get full value for their money, and the brand of clothing sold at Rothberg's is so good, yet so cheap; so desirable, yet so reasonable, that every customer leaves in a happy frame of mind.

APPROVES PUTTING PRISONERS AT WORK

Wm. M. Wherry, Jr., Commends Union Co. Board of Freeholders' Action.

William M. Wherry, Jr., a New York lawyer, who as a resident of Plainfield has taken much interest in uplift work here, has commended favorably on the plan to take the prisoners out of the Union county jail and place them at outdoor work at Bonnie Burn sanitorium. The idea is to pay these prisoners for their labor, the earnings, a dollar a day, to go part to the county for their support and part to the families dependent upon them. He is loud in his praise of the Union County Board of Freeholders for its action in passing a resolution for this purpose, adding that he coincided fully with the expressions made by several other prominent men as published in the Daily Press a few days since.

"The principle of making prisoners work and turning their earnings over to those dependent on them for support is making progress, slow but sure," said Mr. Wherry. "Two years ago at Plainfield's Welfare Exhibit thousands paused before the cartoon which pictured the mother and children applying to the overseer of the poor for material relief while the husband was gleefully sitting in jail supported by the State.

"Everyone familiar with conditions in Plainfield knows that the most serious problems of relief are due to the stupid way in which the law deals with non-support cases. The lazy man is hauled before the judge charged with letting his wife and little ones starve. Can the judge make him work? No, even when the work is found for him and offered to him, all the judge can do is to put him in jail where he is certainly quite comfortable according to his standard.

"The absurdity of this aroused much discussion then and the discussion has continued and if the Freeholders follow through in their present plans, it looks as if the discussion would bear fruit and this county take its place among others who have adopted the enlightened policy of providing a workhouse for the prisoners and paying their earnings over to the support of those dependent on them.

"The objection to this plan which used to be urged, viz., that prison labor disturbs the market, has been successfully met by limiting the labor to non-competing lines. This solution has been approved by such labor leaders as John Mitchell.

"The advantages of the workhouse were admirably stated in a recent article on the subject by a Plainfielder who is an acknowledged expert on such subjects:

"'First, the family would be cared for by the person whose duty it was primarily to so care for it; second, the prisoner would be kept in good physical condition and would so be the better equipped to work on leaving the institution; third, such a course would have a deterrent effect on the large army of individuals who seem to be quite content to loaf in jail at the expense of the State while their families are left in want; fourth, instead of the brooding and bitterness engendered by solitary confinement, there would be the continuing incentive which steady occupation brings with the consequent change for the better in the mental and moral attitude of the prisoner.'"

ST. NICHOLAS FEATURES.

All children, and most grown-ups for that matter, hate to go to a book store and ask questions about books unless they are ready to buy them, however desirous they may be for information. This accounts for the large correspondence that has been created by The Book Man department in St. Nicholas Magazine. The Book Man is a genial person who discourses with children about books through direct correspondence. He has some difficult questions put up to him from time to time; for instance, he was recently asked by an inquiring child, why Bret Harte made fun of a number of great books in his famous "Condensed Novels." Rudyard Kipling is conceded to be one of the greatest experts alive in titles for his stories and books. His Jungle Books, which originally appeared in St. Nicholas Magazine, contain many unforgettable titles. Another less distinguished, but widely read contributor to St. Nicholas, is Miss Ariadne Gilbert, author of a series of biographical sketches. Her paper on Yincoln is called "The Matterhorn of Men;" on Washington Irving "The Sunny Master of Sunnsyide;" on David Livingstone "The Torch Bearer of the Dark Continent."

Plainfield, N. J., December 1, 1913.

NOT THE RIGHT TIME.

It is the belief of the Daily Press that a large majority of the people of Plainfield will thoroughly approve of the decision of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association to delay, for a few months at least, the campaign to raise $150,000 to be used to erect a new building. We have felt ever since the project was first suggested that the present condition of business, not only in Plainfield, but in New York, where so many of our residents are identified with great interests, is such that many who would naturally be looked to for substantial contributions would be unable to give as generously as might be expected, while others would have to refuse altogether. Others would feel that they gave so generously to the hospital less than two years ago, that they could not do anything at the present time for the Y. M. C. A. cause, although it is a most worthy one.

Everyone admits that the Association could do much better work in a larger and commodious building. That it is now doing a splendid service with facilities which those in charge consider inadequate is undeniable. But with the business depression there are many who do not feel that it is wise to undertake the construction of a home which will eventually cost $200,000 or more, when it is considered that most of that sum must come from the public at a time when money is tighter than it has been for years. When business resumes its normal condition and there has been a chance to recuperate from the serious drain now being made on all enterprises, it is safe to predict that $150,000 can be raised here, with an added sum as good measure.

We congratulate the directors of the Association upon their careful and accurate analysis of the situation, and believe that it can be safely predicted that when the proper time does come the people of Plainfield will respond handsomely to aid this work, which is doing so much for the young men of the city.

TUBERCULOSIS DAY.

That bright young Governor of ours, Leon R. Taylor, recently issued a proclamation warning young women of the perils of going to California to seek work in connection with the San Francisco Exposition, and his timely action was most warmly approved. Since then he has issued another important proclamation which has also met with a hearty welcome. In this, he sets apart Sunday, Dec. 7, for the observance of Tuberculosis Day. This he has done following the designation of that day by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis.

In explanation of his action, the Governor very rightly states that the crusade against the White Plague should not be placed on the shoulders of a few self-sacrificing and public spirited citizens but that it should be a matter for the whole people.

"The study of the subject of the prevention of tuberculosis," says the Governor, "should not be confined to these self-sacrificing individuals who have taken it upon themselves to collect information, urge the need of legislation, collect statistics and educate the public in the ways and means of preventing the spread of this terrible disease. It properly becomes a part of the duty of the State to aid and assist in all ways in which it is possible to do so."

Probably no community in the whole State has done anywhere near as much to prevent the spread of this disease and at the same time to help the afflicted as Plainfield. Here we have a noble band of more than 700 citizens directly interested in the campaign. The Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis body has not only waged a vigorous fight here but can justly claim the credit for that grand institution, Bonnie Burn sanitorium. It was the local body that presented the plan to the Union County Board of Freeholders and thanks to the Freeholders the county now has an institution of which any State might well be proud.

Elizabeth is to be congratulated in having among its residents a man like Father Charles H. Mackel, who has the courage to fight for the enforcement of the laws and ordinances. The way he tackled the saloon violation problem won admiration for him. But he did not rest there for now he insists that gambling devices be thrown out of all public places.

Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy has not met with the fierce denunciation which former Presidents have experienced when coping with similar situations. No other President has been so well supported by the press and the people when he has undertaken to sole an international problem in his own way.

In the death of General J. Madison Drake, Elizabeth loses a brave old veteran of the Civil War, a historian of that great Rebellion of no mean worth and a most picturesque character.

Former Speaker Cannon says that the people will retire President Wilson in 1916 if he doesn't make good. "Uncle Joe" ought to know; the people gave him a recall.

A Jersey court has dismissed a complaint because it was too verbose. Too bad the courts have no jurisdiction over political spellbinders.

The Oak Tree Club, recently formed, will meet tomorrow night at the residence of the president, H. M. Wright. The club is composed of local residents for the betterment and welfare of the community, socially, politically and financially. While the name of the club does not signify its purpose, it was organized to take up whatever might present itself to better conditions.

The club, although in its infancy, is growing steadily and new members are elected at each meeting. The officers for the year ending the first meeting in October, 1914, are: President, Harold Wright; vice president, William S. Moore; secretary, Henry C. Holsten; treasurer, James Kirkpatrick.

The meetings are held semi monthly at some member's residence, until a regular meeting place can be secured. Among the things to be taken up by the club is better roads and a more extensive lighting system throughout Oak Tree and the surrounding country.

PREDICTS GOVERNMENT OWNED RAILROADS

President Ripley, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, in an interview in Chicago predicted government ownership of railroads if present conditions continued for long.

"A system whereby private individuals furnish money but practically have no voice in the management may go along temporarily and by previously acquired velocity, but cannot long endure. The vertain result will be government ownership of railroads. Few want this now, and practically everybody realizes it would be about the worst thing that could happen to the government."

A 52-Years' Reputation

Any one contemplating the purchase of a piano or player-piano should consider first the store. Has it a reputation for quality? Are the instruments it offers built to produce good music and to give long service? Are they offered at a fixed price? Have they been built to live with as companions and friends? Or are they the clever counterfeits, hastily constructed and alluringly advertised as better than their asking price—instruments made just to be sold without thought of future? Is the reputation of the store one of giving real service to the customer or one of trying to make sales? A little investigation will set you right on these important points.

Pianos of Great Prestige

Five of America's oldest and most honored pianos are in the Wanamaker Piano Salons—CHICKERING, SCHOMACKER, EMERSON, LINDEMAN and KNABE. Totaling up their years of uninterrupted building, we get an aggregate of 380 years, an average of 76 years each. Time has tested them. Experience has improved them. There is no uncertainty about them. They are pianos of quality, with a name and a reputation which is broadening the demand for them—not fatherless thump-boxes with any name stenciled on. They are the gold-standard of the piano industry.

The World's Widest Choosing

Under no other one roof in the world, we believe, is there assembled such a choice of new instruments—all new, not a discontinued style among them—39 styles of pianos and 19 styles of player-pianos to be tried and tested side by side in competition with each other.

From the LINDEMAN upright piano at $220 to the SCHOMACKER-ANGELUS player grand at $1,500, there is variety and price-range sufficient to meet the wishes of any one desiring to purchase a piano. And no matter how one chooses the instrument selected will be found to be, and will continue to be, all that the purchaser has hoped it might be.

ANGELUS---Greatest Player-Piano

There is not the slightest question of this. Its PRIORITY is established by the Encyclopedia Britannica, the U. S. Census Report of 1900, the Scientific American of Dec. 1, 1905. Its SUPERIORITY is attested by very impartial, widely informed pianists. It is almost human. It is more than human in one respect—its perfect control of expression is not subject to moods. Wonderful as it is, a child can play it—any child that can climb stairs or ride a wheel. And the whole of the world's music is at the call of the home that has it. The ANGELUS is built, as an integral part of the piano, into each of the five great instruments on the Wanamaker Roll of Honor.

Convenient Terms

A small sum paid at time of purchase makes any man or woman who is conscientious in the discharge of responsibilities the owner of any piano or player-piano we have and enables any younger member of a good family—no matter how subordinate his position—to give to Some-one the greatest of all Christmas gifts. The remainder of the purchase price will be accepted in monthly payments.

The Piano Salons are open each week-day from 8:30 to 6, but arrangements can be made (telephone Stuyvesant 4700, extension 315) for evening inspection of instruments by those who cannot come in the daytime. Selection should be made now. Delivery will be made when desired.

Legislators Who Will Lead Wilson's Trust Busting Campaign.

Photos by American Press Association.

SENATOR NEWLANDS. CONGRESSMAN CLAYTON.

A conference on the subject of legislation further regulating operations of interstate corporations will be held at the White House. President Wilson will take up the question with Representative Clayton of Alabama, chairman of the house committee on judiciary, and Senator Newlands of Nevada, chairman of the committee on interstate commerce, the committees that will have charge of the anti-trust legislation. The Democratic party is committed to the integrity of the Sherman anti-trust law, and it is understood that a course of action will be mapped at the conference looking to the passage of bills supplementing the existing anti-trust act.

CAN'T LOSE MARTINE.

Those political soothsayers who have been taking it for granted that Senator James E. Martine would not be a candidate for a second term in the United States Senate have been notified by Mr. Martine that they are a trifle previous in wiping his name from the slate. Mr. Martine likes his job and is no hurry to let go. If he was good enough for one term, the Senator can see no sufficient reason why he should be denied a second, and serves notice that any Democrats with aspirations in the direction of the Senate will have to measure popularity with him at the primaries.

Discussion as to Mr. Martine's successor is somewhat premature, as he still has three years to serve, and much water will pass over the dam in that time. Governor-elect Fielder, whose term will expire shortly before Senator Martine's, has announced that he has no further political ambitions, but it will be recalled that not many months ago Mr. Fielder denied possession of Gubernatorial aspirations. Circumstances brought about a change of mind on this point, and other circumstances may arise which might make the Governor's candidacy almost a party necessity. The year 1916 will be of great political importance ,especially in New Jersey. Along with the Presidential contest will come the election of both Governor and Senator. Since nominations will be made by the direct primary system, with perhaps the preferential ballot, the old plan of nominating weak or unpopular candidates, trusting to the heavy Presidential vote to pull them through, cannot so easily be worked. The candidates will be those preferred by a majority of the voters of the party and not hand-picked by a few leaders.

Mr. Martine thinks that his record as an industrious and conscientious representative should commend him to the people's favor. Certainly few Senators have been so faithful to duty or missed so few roll calls, or, on the general run, voted right more often. It can also be said for Mr. Martine that he is one of the Senators upon whom the administration can depend to stand without hitching, and that he has been less interested in grabbing patronage than he has in attending to the public business.—Newark Evening News.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Miss Roxana Love, instructor in science, and Helen Hughes, valedictorian of the class of 1913, have given the High School a pennant of Mt. Holyoke College. Miss Hughes is at present a student in that institution and Miss Love was graduated from that place.

Mr. Earley has arranged with the U. S. Department of the Interior to have sent to the High School an art exhibit which has been prepared by the U. S. Bureau of Education. This exhibit shows the best art work of the schools throughout the country. It is impossible to say definitely when the exhibit will reach here as two other schools in New Jersey have arranged for this work.

The Sanazone Company has placed one of their plaques in the High School.

James Goodwin and William Fass, two members of the freshman class, have made a pedestal for the High School platform. On this pedestal has been placed the statue of winged victory which was given to the High School by the class of 1913.

The Galena Signal Oil Company has donated to the High School an exhibit consisting of six samples of their products. Samples of barborundum and Portland cement have also been received from Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Easton, Penn., respectively.

Principal Earley has given to each members of the American class a bulletin of the history of the short ballot movement.

In the temporary absence of Miss Bernice Attner, instructor in Latin, Miss Rosalie Kling is substituting.

Principal Earley has announced that he has secured from the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, a prize of $5 in gold to be given to the student in the High School who shall write the best essay on some patriotic topic connected with the Revolutionary War. The time limit on these essays is February 1 and they must contain between one thousand and fifteen hundred words.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sandford have returned from Philadelphia, where they spent a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bergman, of Passaic, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wagner, of Rahway, have returned home after attending a family reunion at the home of Captain and Mrs. W. C. Smith, of Grandview avenue.

Miss Anna Warnock, of Craig place, has returned home after a visit with relatives in Brooklyn.

Elmer Gayle, of Vine street; Herbert Reninger, of Fairview avenue, and James A. Thompson, of East Second street, returned last night, after several days' visit with friends at Mount Freedom, Morris county.

Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Rogers have removed from 525 Madison avenue to their new home at 645 West Seventh street.

Mrs. O. S. Rogers, of West Seventh street, has been called to Lockport, N. Y., on account of the serious illness of her father.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Van Court and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bryant Randolph and daughter, of Oak Tree, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. William Randolph, of Rockaway, since Thanksgiving Day, returned home last night. They were accompanied by Mr. Van Court's mother, Mrs. Eugene Van Court, who will visit him until after the holidays.

Austen Randolph, of Oak Tree, lost a valuable colt a few days ago, when his father-in-law's horse kicked the colt in the leg breaking it. The animal had to be shot.

WOMAN FOR BOARD.

The executive committee of the North Plainfield Parent-Teacher Association held a meeting this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Matthew H. Ewart, in Fairview avenue, where the idea to have a woman elected on the Board of Education was discussed. No candidate was selected although the qualification of several women were discussed informally. It is probable that some action will be taken at the next regular meeting of the organization. The district school election will be held in March.

FIREMEN TO MEET.

The North Plainfield Fire Department will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at the headquarters in Somerset street. A general social time will be held following a business discussion.

HARMONY PARK WILL SELL 1,000 CHICKENS

To Make Room for Miss Corey's Stock From England, Recently Imported.

It has been announced that the entire plant of Harmony Park, Scotch Plains, will be devoted to the stock imported from Miss Carey, of England, who has established her American depot there. This makes it necessary to dispose of the entire flock of Harmony Park Single Comb White Orpingtons, and more than 1,000 specimens are to be sold at a figure considerably under their value.

This sale will afford a most unusual opportunity for breeders to obtain thoroughbred White Orpingtons at a low price.

The Carey stock, which is to be carried in place of the Harmony Park strain of White Orpingtons, includes the different varieties of Orpingtons, Campines, Favorelles and the Barron strain of Single Comb White Leghorns, which have been winning at the recent egg laying contests.

At the recent poultry show under the auspices of the New Jersey Association for Poultry Improvement the entries of the Harmony Park Farms carried many prizes.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 36.

I BELIEVE in classified advertising. I believe that the classified columns of a good newspaper are the natural market-place for human wants.

Glance through the advertisements in the classified columns of the newspaper you are reading. Is there not something vitally interesting and human in the little announcements listed there?

Some one asked me the other day if I really believe what I preach in these Talks. I do. No man can even attempt to write convincingly unless he believes in his own printed word. I know the "pulling power" of Classified advertising, and no one can make me believe other than that it pays.

Proof? Why, yes,—in my own experience and in the experience of many of my friends and acquaintances I have seen the little, but mighty WANT AD "work out." My own entry into the newspaper business was effected some eight or ten years ago, through a WANT AD. A little announcement set in the middle of some white space in the Classified columns, attracted the attention of the Business Manager of a newspaper in my native city, and a position on that newspaper resulted.

I know of folks who have advertised in the Classified columns for cooks, for butlers, for maids, for stenographers, for positions, for help, for horses, for automobiles—for pretty nearly anything you can think of. And they got what they advertised for.

There are exceptions to every rule that was ever made, but I know, just as surely as I know that the carriage of this typewriter is humming along with every stroke of the keys, that, in the great majority of instances, the little WANT AD. is a power 'way out of proportion with its trivial cost.

Day-Before Desserts.

There are many day-before desserts that help to make Sunday a day of rest. Many women, on other days than Saturday, prefer to cook desserts for two days at a time, and so make dessert cooking a tri-weekly occurrence. In cool weather, when all sorts of food keep well, this feat is not difficult to accomplish.

Following are some recipes for simple day-before desserts that are at the same time dainty and delicious.

Orange Sponge.

Squeeze three large, juicy oranges and put the juice in half a cupful of sugar. Dissolve a quarter of a package of gelatine in half a cupful of water and beat half a cupful of water with the yolkes of two eggs. Add the eggs to the orange juice and sugar and heat over hot water until it begins to thicken, stirring all the time. Then add the gelatine and strain through a wire sieve. Place the dish containing it in a pan of cold water and ice, and beat for eight or ten minutes, when it should be cool. Then add the unbeaten whites of two eggs and beat constantly until it begins to thicken. Pour into a mould and put on the ice. Serve with cream, either plain or whipped.

Rice Pudding.

This caramel rice pudding is more unusual, and therefore more tempting, than the usual rice pudding. Simmer six ounces of rice in a quart of milk in a double boiler until the rice is soft. When it has partly cooled add two or three tablespoonfuls of granulated sugar, four well-beaten eggs and a teaspoonful of vanilla extract. Melt eight ounces of lump sugar with a cupful of water over the fire and let it brown slightly. Pour this caramel into a mould and turn the mould from side to side until the caramel has touched every part of the inside of the mould. Pour in the rice mixture, cover with a sheet of buttered paper, securely tied down, and steam for fifty minutes. Put on the ice and just before serving time turn from the mould. The caramel does not mix with the pudding, and forms a sauce around it.

Baked Apples.

Skin and core half a dozen good sized, tart apples. Put them in a buttered dish and fill the core cavity of each with sugar. Add a little water, cover and bake slowly until they are tender. Remove the cover and cook ten minutes longer. Then cool. When serving time comes put a tablespoonful of orange or quince marmalade or jam in each core cavity and top with a spoonful of whipped cream.

Tarts.

A pie, according to some cooks, ought to be made as soon as possible before it is eaten. Otherwise the under crust becomes soggy. Small tart shells, however, may be made the day before they are wanted and then filled with any sort of filling. A tart shell baked in a patty pan can be filled with half a canned peach and topped with a spoonful of whipped cream. Jam of any sort can be used. The filling for lemon pie can be cooked in a double boiler until it is jelly like and kept on the ice to be put into crusts just before they are used, and the meringues to go on these tarts can be browned in the oven on a wooden board and slipped off when they are needed.

Some Cookery Suggestions

VEGETABLE ECONOMY.

DINNER MENU.

Clam Soup. Crackers.
Baked Eluefish, Creamed Sauce.
Mashed Potatoes.
Baked Tomatoes. Shredded Cabbage.
Finger Rolls.
Coddled Apples, Whipped Cream.
Tea or Coffee.

A CLEVER housekeeper says that she always tries to have at least two kinds of vegetables for each meal. Sometimes she combines them when first cooked, and sometimes she combines the fragments to make new and appetizing dishes next day. In this way she is able to save on her expenditures and give variety to her meals.

With Minced Cucumbers.

Stuffed Beets.—Take new beets of even size and boil until tender. Set aside for several hours covered with vinegar. When ready to serve rub off the skin, scoop out the center of each to form a cup and lay the cups on lettuce leaves. For each five cups chop fine a cucumber. Make a French dressing of two tablespoonfuls of oil, a teaspoonful of vinegar, one-fourth of a tablespoonful each of paprika and salt. Stir the dressing into the cucumber and fill the beets with the mixture. Take the beet removed, cut slices, forming stars or any shape, and decorate the top of each cup.

Chopped radish, cress, olives or celery may be used for a filling.

Palatable Viands.

Scalloped Okra and Tomatoes.—Take ripe tomatoes, peel and slice them, then cut young okra pods in slices after washing them well. Allow a pint of tomatoes to a quart of okra and enough water to cover. Stew for fifteen minutes, then add a teaspoonful of salt, quarter teaspoonful of pepper and a tablespoonful of butter. Put into a deep baking dish, cover with buttered bread or cracker crumbs and bake an hour in a moderately hot oven.

An Italian Dish.

Macaroni and Chestnuts.—Take about twenty chestnuts, boil them, then remove the skins and cut the kernels in halves. Cook some macaroni in salted water, add the chestnuts and when cooked drain and add butter, salt, pepper and grated cheese. Turn into a buttered baking dish and place in the oven after sprinkling the top with fine breadcrumbs and melted butter. Serve when brown.

He Carried the Pigs to the Pond.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — Patsie and Pinkie Are Given a Bath.

JACK and Evelyn stood before daddy clad in snowy night clothes.

"We've had our baths," they said demurely, "and now we are ready for our story."

"So you are, bless you!" daddy answered, "and speaking of baths makes me think of the bath Patsie and Pinkie Pig had one day.

"Perhaps you think pigs don't like baths. Well, mostly they do, and, being nice clean little pigs, Patsie and Pinkie ought to have acted better.

"They lived in a nice pen, and Mother Pig tried to bring them up to be well behaved little pigs. They had only one fault in her eyes, and that was that sometimes they would spat.

"The farmer had just built a nice new trough for them to eat out of. Mother Pig had taught them the proper way to eat their food.

"'You should eat quietly and slowly,' she said. 'It is very rude to bolt your food or try to shove one another away from the trough.'

"But Patsie was always afraid Pinkie would get more of the nice things than he would, and Pinkie was afraid that Patsie would get ahead of him. So when the farmer's wife came out and poured their meal into the trough each little pig would run, squealing, to the trough and begin eating as fast as he could. If one grabbed a piece of food which the other wanted there would be a quarrel and very often before it was over some of the food would be spilled out of the trough.

"The farmer's wife began calling them 'the mean pigs.' Mother Pig was much mortified. She was ashamed of her children.

"One day they had a perfectly awful quarrel, and Patsie and Pinkie upset the new trough. They spilled the food all over themselves.

"When the farmer's wife came out and saw what had happened she was quite cross.

"'You don't deserve a nice new trough to eat out of,' she said.

"She sent the boy who helped her husband with the work into the pen, and after cleaning up he nailed it down, so they couldn't upset it again.

"Then he picked up Patsie and Pinkie and carried them to the pond.

"Before they knew what he was about to do he had dropped them into the water.

"There was no danger of their drowning, for the pond wasn't so very deep. After splashing around they scrambled out and ran, squealing, back to the pen. They were nice and clean, and when the boy poured a pail of buttermilk into the trough they drank it down quietly without trying to splash any of it about or push one another from his place."

Practical Fashion Hints

The collar is the important feature of this simple morning dress. It is designed to be worn high or low. A full length one-piece sleeve may be used or a regulation shirt-waist sleeve with double cuff. The skirt shows a habit back. Wool bengaline is one of the new materials for this style of dress and would be very effective in a dark brown relieved with a collar of dull gold and bone buttons in a dark cream color.

7719 would also be suitable for serge or ratine, and the addition of a sash or broad folded girdle would make it dressy enough for afternoon wear.

To make a dress after this design in size 36 it requires 5¼ yards of 36 inch material or 4½ yards of 42 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 7 sizes; 34 to 46.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

To the many patrons of the theatre who demand the best in theatrical endeavor a word may be said in regard to the different attractions that are booked for the forthcoming season. Messrs. Proctor & Sanderson have made it their aim to accept only the best plays that are on the road and with this aim in view they have notified their New York representatives; so the play going public can feel assured that they will receive more than their moneys worth every time they pay a visit to the theatre. Among the number of good plays booked here will be the noted Harris theatre success, "The Master Mind," which ran for over 200 nights at that theatre. The play abounds in dramatic features and is said to be the first American play that contains the real "punch." Although the author has succeeded in writing around a strong every day topic, he has not forgotten the comedy which runs through it and sparkles like the rarest champagne. "The Master Mind" will be seen here on Wednesday, December 3, with the original New York productions and effects.

THRIFTY JERSEY CITIES.

Two illustrated editions recently published in connection with two of the State's well-known newspapers, the Orange Chronicle and the Plainfield Daily Press, merit more than passing attention. Both cities illustrate well, and these newspapers have performed the task with singular good taste and intelligence. Union county, as a whole, is proud of Plainfield, and the Press has certainly demonstrated that it appreciated its opportunity to emphasize the progress of "The City of Opportunity." Such efforts as those made by the Press and the Chronicle are well worth while now and again. They reflect credit on our progressive cities and incidentally upon the newspapers. Undoubtedly Plainfield business interests appreciate the timeliness and the value of the carefully edited and fully illustrated production of the Press.—Elizabeth Journal.

THE DAILY PRESS IN SOMERVILLE will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon after 4:30 by Jacob Gernert, the Main street newsdealer and stationer.

Initials For Forming Monograms.

Monograms are so quickly and easily embroidered that sets of linens may be marked in a short time. Each piece of linen in a set should be worked with the same style monogram in a size which conforms with the size of the article.

An endless variety of monograms may be formed from the initials in pattern No. 14528, which include 375 transfers of one initial in one pattern. These initials are particularly suitable for marking sets of linens as each initial comes in a number of different sizes in eight varieties. There are six each of the 4 and 3-inch flowered letters, and 12 each of the 2 and 1-inch size; 6 each of the 4 and 3-inch fancy script and 12 each of the 1¾ and 1-inch size; 6 each of the 4½ and 3¼-inch narrow Gothic and 12 of the 2¼-inch size; 6 of the 3¼-inch wide Gothic and 12 each of the 2¼ and 2½-inch size; 6 each of the 4 and 3¼-inch plain script and 12 each of the 2 and 1-inch size; 12 each of the 3 and 1½-inch cross-stitch letters; 12 each of the 3 and 1½-inch size block letters and 12 of the 2, 1½, ¾ and ½-inch size slated letters. For a two-letter monogram two patterns will have to be bought and for the three letter monogram, but three patterns; one pattern for each letter.

If a three-letter monogram is to be used, place the middle initial in the center of the space and transfer that, the first initial should then be arranged and transferred and then the initial of the surname.

These initials may be developed in heavily padded solid work alone or combined with outline and seed-stitch in mercerized cotton.

Wreaths may be used to enclose these monograms which are suitable for embroidering handkerchiefs, stockings, lingerie, pillows, towels, bureau scarfs and fancy articles as well as bed and table linens.

For embroidering a monogram on a square table cloth, stamp the letters in one corner about 5 inches from each hem, on a round table cloth, 12 inches from the center or so that the marking will fall two inches over the edge of the table when the cloth is in use. For marking napkins the initials should be placed so that when folded four times the letters will be in the center of the outside fold. On sheets, the letters should be stamped so that the monogram will be right side up when the end of the sheet is turned over, and at the center of one end, two inches from the hem for marking a pillow case.

Pattern No. 14528 will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for 15 cents.

BANK CLERKS ONE POINT BEAT HOPE

Chapel Five Lost First Game of the Season on Its Home Court.

SPECTACULAR PLAYING

Game Went to Visitors When a Big Spurt Was Flashed in the Second Half of a Game That Looked Like Another Hope Victory.

A single point separated the Hope Chapel and Elizabethport Bank Clerks' team at the completion of the scheduled contest in the chapel gym, Saturday night, and one of the best contests seen on that court this year was returned as a verdict against the chapelites by a score of 27 to 26. In the first half of the game the home team completely outclassed their foreign rivals and rang up twice as many points in this session. Spectacular field goal shooting was evidenced on each side and the chapelites managed to roll up a big lead through superior basket caging from difficult angles.

In the final session the visitors started off with a spurt and before the home team realized their plight the score was tied. Four points was the sum and substance of the church boys score in this period while the Elizabethport Bankers drew sixteen counters or four times as many as their rivals.

The opponents of Saturday night are conceded by the Hope chapel athletes to be a set of the strongest that ever played on that court and the home team, although beaten, put up an unusually creditable fight against big odds. For the winners, the shooting of Laurie and Nolan were bright features while the local starring was done by Tommy Heron and Jim Doig.

Query—Are there any legal holidays in the United States? If so, what are they?—N. D.

HUNSTMEN ENJOY RIDE THROUGH WATCHUNG VALLEY

The heavy going did not prevent a good sized field from turning out for the Saturday run of the Watchung Hunt Club. The meeting place was at Cook's poultry farm, Scotch Plains, the hounds being cast in nearby, going up and over the mountains into the picturesque Watchung Valley, where they were checked for the first time. Cast in again at the Deserted Village, the hounds went in the direction of Glenside, where they were checked for the second time.

They were again taken up and cast in nearby and the last check was at the water tower, Netherwood. Several riders were croppers, including the master, but no one was injured. The following finished: R. C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, Harry A. Bourne, R. H. Towner, Col. C. E. S. Bellows, E. R. Finch, S. D. French, Miss Gertrude Noe, Miss Marjorie Brown, Beverley Brown, H. L. Finch and Huntsman Harrison.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS' QUINTET WILL TACKLE WESTFIELD

Tomorrow afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team will stack up against the strong five from Westfield High School. This team has always been a strong rival of the borough girls and a good game should be presented.

Captain Elsie Debele put the team through a severe practise Saturday and will take it lightly today. The local girls are going out for another victory to add to the lone one of last week.

North Plainfield Athletes Score at Will in Preliminary Contest.

Presenting a whirlwind offense and rushing their opponents completely off their feet with an attack that was bewildering, the Marathon A. C. basketball team hung up a 25 to 4 verdict at the expense of the Boys' Club team of the Y. M. C. A. in a preliminary contest in the association "gym" Saturday night. The Marathons completely outclassed their Y. M. C. A. foes and the home players were never in the running after the initial half had been sent under way.

When the first half curtain was drawn the visitors led by a count of 7 to 4 and in this period the fighting was considerably closer than it was in the final session. The Marathons opened the last stanza with a rush and flash of speed soon carried them far into the lead. In this session the Y. M. C. A. boys failed to tally a single point and watched their opponents roll up eight field goals.

BURLESQUE GAME WON BY Y. M. C. A.

Discouraging Exhibition of Basketball in the Association Gym Saturday.

CONTEST WAS A FARCE

Somervillians Fail to Offer Needed Resistance against Plainfield Opponents—Visitors Held Scoreless in the First Session.

One of the poorest exhibitions of basketball seen on the local Y. M. C. A. court this season was staged Saturday night when the association quintet annexed its sixth straight victory of the season by a score of 39 to 13 at the expense of the Somerville quintet. From the first chirp of the referee's whistle until the final blast the contest was nothing more than a farce, both teams being equally guilty of bad basketball.

During the first half the visitors were held without a single point while the Plainfielders were piling up fifteen counters and in this session both sides wasted numerous opportunities to make their shots count. The second half showed little improvement over the first although the Somervillians managed to cage a half dozen field goals and one point from the penalty mark.

Despite the fact that a few spasmodic passing stunts were pulled off the game was a listless affair and from a spectator's point of view it was the worst yet played by the Y. M. C. A. five. Players on both sides had difficulty in making their shots count and time and again apparently easy trys were wasted by the forwards. "Dummy" Messler put up the best game for the visitors while Captain Brynairski was the most aggressive player on the local side.

HOLY CROSS PRACTICE.

Captain Jack Wilson, of the Holy Cross football team, has issued a call for practice tonight on Hyde Oval and every man on the team is requested to be on hand for the final drills before the big game of the season next Saturday afternoon, when the Franklins come here for the third time.

FIRST P. H. S. PRACTICE.

Captain Hatfield, of the Plainfield High School basketball five, has issued his initial call for basketball candidates and the first drill will be held in the High School "gym" tomorrow afternoon. The opening game is booked for next Saturday with the Hope Chapel team.

ALL AMERICAN TACKLE IS BALLIN OF THE PRINCETON TEAM.

Ballin of the Princeton varsity football team has been awarded the position of right tackle on the All American team for this season. Ballin and Talbot of Yale stand out in the lead for the position, but Ballin's work against Yale and Harvard won him the preference.

P. H. S. MANAGER WANTS TO PLAY HOPE IN Y. M. C. A.

Efforts are being made by the management of the Plainfield High School boys' basketball team and officers of the Boys' Athletic Association to stage the game scheduled with the Hope Chapel team for next Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. "gym" as a preliminary to the Y. M. C. A.-Trenton game which will be played at that time.

This contest is the first of the season for the P. H. S. quintet and Manager Leighs of the Hope chapel five was given to understand when he booked the game that it would be played on the chapel court. Manager Cottrell, of the High School five, claims that he did not designate a playing court but left the matter in an unsettled condition as he understood that the P. H. S. "gym" would be ready to play in by that time. It is now certain that the game can't be played in P. H. S. and Manager Cottrell is desirous of substituting the Y. M. C. A.

RUBBER GAME WILL BE PLAYED ON CRICKET FIELD

Manager "Doc" Doyle, of the Holy Cross football team, has completed arrangements for the appearance of the Franklins here again next Saturday afternoon, when the third and deciding game of the series with the locals will be staked on Cricket Field.

The local management is making elaborate preparations for the coming of the Newark eleven and the contest will probably be the best of the season here. The initial contest was won by the Franklin outfit by a score of 6 to 0 and Holy Cross evened up matters Saturday by handing down a decision of 7 to 6.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be found on sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Pennock, druggist and newsdealer.

WHY IS BASKETBALL A FINANCIAL FAILURE?

Scotch Plains Plans for Renumerative Exhibitions Have Been Exploded.

Although an agitation was launched at the beginning of the basketball season by those in charge of Scotch Plains Parish House athletics to wage a campaign whereby renumerative audiences could be worked up to support basketball in that place. During the two years the game has been played in an organized way in Scotch Plains it has not been a paying proposition because of the irregularity of the schedule and the inferior calibre of teams brought to the Parish House for competition.

At the outset of this season Supervisor Batterson proposed to arrange a schedule whereby Scotch Plains fans would be treated to an exhibition of their favorite pastime every Saturday night and for that reason refused to book games on Plainfield courts for that night. Up to the present time the management has failed in its efforts to promote a revival of interest and as a result the game is sinking instead of becoming popularized.

There is an abundance of good basketball material with which to form a team in Scotch Plains but the fact that no regular schedule is promised and the inficiency of the booking system has tended to discourage the athletes. Up to the present time several games have been cancelled and although two games were announced for last Saturday night neither of the opposing crews put in appearance and the fans had to go without their exhibition.

"HE WHO LAUGHS LAST, LAUGHS BEST"—DEXTERS

Anxious to unearth some source of revenge for the publicity they received following their unsportsmanlike cancellation of the football game scheduled to be played with the local Holy Cross eleven here on Thanksgiving Day afternoon, the Dexter football cohorts caused a notice to be published in the Perth Amboy papers Saturday night, which described in detail how the Plainfield clan had lost its final game of the season at the hands of the Cranford Boys' Club.

The article in question told how Holy Cross had been outclassed by the juvenile eleven and how unworthy a foe of this calibre was to compete with the Dexters. In reality it was the Holy Cross junior team that was whipped by the Cranfordites in the final contest of the gridiron season Thanksgiving Day.

MANY PLAINFIELDERS SAW ARMY GET THE NAVY'S GOAT

A number of Plainfielders occupied seats in the Polo Grounds stadium Saturday afternoon, when the Army football team defeated the Navy eleven by a score of 22 to 9 in one of the greatest football contests of the present season.

Among those from Plainfield were Mrs. Murray Burtis, William Burtis, Miss Marjorie Burtis, William Wooton, Miss Helen Wooton, Dr. and Mrs. Norman D. Probasco, Judd Stewart, Chauncey Stewart, Franklin Lowe, "Doc" Hamilton and Pames P. McNamee.

TRENTON-Y. M. C. A. NEXT.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team of this city, will entertain the Trenton Y. M. C. A. quintet on the local court next Saturday night in the regular week-end match. The Trentonians are coming here with a record that includes victories over all of the bigger teams in and about the State capitol and the Plainfielders have the hardest proposition of the season on their hands.

WITH THE SWIMMERS

Leo Handy, the all-around swimming champion of New England, will again be a bidder for interscholastic honors this season. He is a student at the Brookline High School and is eligible. The fact is particularly interesting because his old rival, Gilbert Tomlinson, of Philadelphia, is also a candidate. A fine pair of youngsters these two, aged fifteen and sixteen, respectively, and already proud bearers of titles.

Tomlinson, owing to his victory in the national half-mile event, is considered by experts to be Handy's superior, but the latter's supporters believe that at the distance of a furlong the Philadelphia lad is not a bit faster than their favorite. Handy defeated Tomlinson at Princeton last February, and during the summer he lowered the New England 220-yard record. His chances seem good.

A meeting of the graduate advisory committee of the Inter-collegiate Swimming Association will be held today at the New York Athletic Club for the purpose of discussing the new water polo code drafted by Conrad Trubenbach, of Columbia, and E. C. M. Richards, of Yale, and adopting it, if satisfactory to all the delegates. The changes made were spoken of at a former meeting and none opposed them, so it is anticipated that the committee will vote unanimously in favor of the revised rules.

The swimmers of Wisconsin University are advocating the formation of a national swimming board, with representatives from both the Intercollegiate and Conference Associations, to govern water sports throughout the country. The Westerners believe that the best interests of aquatics will be served by establishing uniform rules and co-operating in improvement of general conditions. The plan is not new. Easterners have had it in mind for some time, but the difficulty of reuniting the delegates proved a serious obstacle. The various associations have lacked the funds to finance the needed trips. Matters are improving steadily, though, and now that both bodies favor the scheme it may materialize.

There is likely to be opposition to the new fancy diving code soon to be submitted to the authorities. Considerable comment has been aroused by the proposed lowering of the outdoor platform, the striking from the list of permissible dives of some popular feats, and the verdict that in performing the somersaults with twists, the somersault must be completed before starting the twist. Contestants do not approve of these changes, as a rule, and some of the national delegates have been induced to object to them, in order to have the matter thoroughly thrashed out. Otto Wahle, who has been mainly instrumental in formulating the code, does not think that the competitors should have any say, as they are usually prompted by selfish motives. He is confident that when he gives the delegates his reasons for advocating the changes they will fail to vote for them.

The indoor swimming season has been opened brilliantly in Chicago and St. Louis. The Windy City's first carnival was held under the auspices of the Cherry Circle Tankers, a lively organization devoted exclusively to promoting the interests of water sports, and was a most successful affair, combining several regulation contests with a number of comical novelty events, which appealed even more to the big crowd than the straight swimming. The St. Louis curtain raiser was given at the Missouri A. C., and its striking feature was the remarkable work done by the younger element. A dozen lads, ranging in age from twelve to sixteen years, competed against the veteran leaders of the district, and took their full share of the plate.

The University of Wisconsin is building a swimming team which is expected to make a strong bid for the Conference collegiate championship. Coach Hindman has a wealth of sterling material to draw from and an almost sure winner for at least one event, the breast stroke, in H. Taylor, who is also a likely candidate for national honors.

Frank Rogers, of Pittsburgh, undertook, a few days ago, to swim across San Francisco Bay and back, but half way on the return trip the tide changed against him and he had to quit. He will try again soon and feels confident of success.

The Honolulu Swimming Club, in a recent triangular meet held at the Sutro Baths, Sat Francisco, in connection with the Portola festival swimming carnival, captured the majority of the prizes.

Swimmers in the East and Middle West are accustomed to think of the coast swimmers as being a rather slow and untrained lot. This is erroneous, especially among the universities. The University of California has produced a swimmer who ranks with the best college swimmers of the East. In the Coast Association championships, Ernest Smith, a student of California University, captured the 100-yard title in the good time of 58 2-5, beating the association standard and equalling the best mark made over this distance by a member of the Intercollegiate League. George Hodgson, of McGill University, Canada, last year won the 100-yard race in a dual meet with Yale in 58 2-5, but John K. Shyrock, of the University of Pennsylvania, made the faster league performance, 58 3-5, in February, 1912.

Duke Kahanamoku, who represents the Honolulu Swimming Club, won the 50, 100, 220 and 440-yard events. The 50-yard and 100-yard events were won by him within a fraction of the world's best time for these events, 24 seconds flat and 54 4-5 seconds, respectively. The Sutro Baths, one of the largest in the world, has never seen within its tiled walls such immense crowds, and after the relay race, which was won by the Duke for the Hawaiian team, he was cheered for several minutes. In this event the Duke showed what a really good sprinter he was. With his team trailing along in third position by the time his turn came to swim, he smiled confidently, plunged into the water, and with the other teams eight yards in the lead, he swam as he had never before, overhauling the Olympic Club and the University of California seven yards from the finish, winning by two feet. The Duke won the 220-yard event in 2:31 2-5, which is a few seconds slower than the best marks of swimmers like McGillivray, Hebner and Raithel, although at the Olympic Games in 1912 he won second place for the American team in the 800 metre relay race by his superb swimming in that event (200 metres per each man), his time being much faster than any of the other contestants in that event (which included both McGillivray and Hebner who represented the American team), while his 440-yard performance, when compared with the best made during the year, is placed in even worse light, there being a half a dozen men in the country who can better his mark for the distance. There is no doubt but what if the Duke trained for this distance, that he could lower the American record, and possibly the world's record, for this distance, as he is one of the most natural swimmers the writer has ever seen.

Louis Manley, formerly of the New York Athletic Club, is reported to be plunging around 72 and 73 feet and to have designs on the title, but unless he can do better than that his prospects are not bright. F. B. Willis, of Philadelphia, has done 80 feet, and at least Brown and Reitman, of Chicago, and Kaiser, of St. Louis, can beat 75 feet.

Devotees and followers of long distance swimming will be glad to hear that Otto Wahle, the A. A. U. committeeman, has taken steps toward the supervising of this branch of water sports by the national authorities. Hitherto there has been so much faking and claiming of questionable records that every new performance has brought forth squabbles and arguments until the public looked askance at any feat reported, and usually was left skeptical. This naturally militates against the interests of aquatics, and an effort to improve matters should be welcome to all concerned. It is the plan of Mr. Wahle to have all tests of endurance investigated, and when their importance warrants it and the proper credentials are handed in, to inscribe them in the annual A. A. U. almanac, even if they don't comply with record regulations. A swim to Sandy Hook, for instance, cannot be accepted as a standard, but under the new rule, would be chronicled among the worthy swimming feats of the year. Offered such recognition there is no doubt that the really good distance paddlers will not fail to seek A. A. U. and other reliable officials to accompany them in their attempts, and this should do away altogether with the regrettable and bitter controversies which have marred the sport of late.

George South, of the New York Athletic Club, has just returned from a coaching trip to the Lawrenceville natatorium and says the New Jersey school will have a stronger swimming team than last year's. Remembering what Director Prentiss' boys did then in the interscholastic meets we may anticipate some tall performances.

Judging from reports from Philadelphia, Gilbert Tomlinson, the fifteen-year old national champion, will have a formidable rival in his schoolmate, Robert Dippy, the lad who took third last summer in the race for the quarter-mile title. Dippy has been sprinting in great form this fall, and not a few of the home experts think he may defeat Tomlinson, both at 100 and 220 yards.

Frank Jouannet, the crack fancy diver of the Brookline H. S., Mass., is looked upon by competent authorities as the favorite for national interscholastic diving honors this season. He won the New England A. A. U. title outdoors and is now showing form off the low springboard which promises to make him very hard indeed to beat.

The Illinois A. C., of Chicago, has issued blanks for its opening indoor meet, which was postponed owing to delays in the modernizing of the home bath. The event will be held on December 4. A full list of interscholastic championships and four open races are on the program.

HOLY CROSS EVEN WITH FRANKLINS

Local Football Warriors Score a 7 to 6 Victory Over Conquerors.

FORWARD PASS DID IT

"Shake" Clarke Carried Ball Over the Line on a Delayed Forward Pass Manipulated by Coyle—Game Played on Slippery Field.

Holy Cross evened up matters with the strong Franklin A. A. football team, of Newark, on Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon, hanging up a 7 to 6 defeat at the expense of their speedy rivals who succeeded in taking the opening game of the season played here by a score of 6 to 0. The Holy Cross outfit resorted repeatedly to trick plays and succeeded in making their lone touchdown on a forward pass to Clarke over the goal line. Coyle slipped in making the pass on the treacherous field of mud and Clarke also slipped several times in making the run to the goal line.

The field was wet and slippery but the interest in the contest was intense and it was conceded to be the best exhibition of football seen here this season. The third and deciding game of the series between these two rivals will be played here next Saturday afternoon.

Captain Wilson's first kick-off was poor and only traveled 25 yards, and the Franklins ran the ball back 10 yards before they were stopped by Mair. Gillen hurled his weight at the Holy Cross line three times in succession for a total of 25 yards. Holy Cross here took a brace and with 7 yards to go on the third down, the Franklins tried a forward pass, which Carty intercepted, giving the ball to Holy Cross in midfield. Holy Cross worked the ball to the one-yard line by split and shift plays, only to find a stone wall defense by the Franklins and lost the ball on downs. Gillen again started his fierce tackle bucking and worked the ball to the centre of the field, when time was called for the quarter.

When play resumed the same tackle bucks advanced the ball to the 25 yard line, and it looked very threatening for Holy Cross until Wilson fell on a fumble and it was Holy Cross' ball on the locals' 30 yard line. Manning, Wilson and Coyle contributed 25 yards on shift plays, but here the umpire detected the backs in motion before the ball was snapped and penalized Holy Cross 15 yards. With 24 yards to go on the third down, a trick play was tried. A double pass from Wilson to Coyle, and a forward pass to Clarke made the touchdown. Manning kicked the goal.

Wilson kicked off to Yule, who made 12 yards before he was downed. At this point it looked as if the Holy Cross boys had solved the Franklin's famous tackle plays, because the Newarkers could not gain and Yule kicked the ball to Wilson, who made ten yards before Struble brought him to earth. Struble was hurt pretty badly on this play, but returned to the game after a two minute rest. Holy Cross again worked the ball to the Franklin's 35 yard line on the famous split play and with 35 seconds to play Manning failed at a try for a field goal.

Engelke kicked to Wilson, who ran the ball back ten yards. Holy Cross was unable to gain and Coyle kicked to Yule, who was downed in his tracks by Webster on the 35 yard line. The Franklins worked the ball right down to the three yard line, where Yule went through tackle on a mass play for a touchdown on the last down. Kiefer failed to kick the goal.

Engelke kicked off and as the ball went over the goal line it was brought out to the twenty yard line, from which point Wilson made a twenty yard gain on a line plunge and he then added another ten on a split play. Coyle made ten more on a fake forward and on a forward pass from Coyle to Mulford the ball was placed on the fifteen yard line. Wilson could not gain and a fake forward failed. It was the visitors' ball on the ten yard line at the end of the third quarter.

The Franklins fumbled on the third rush and Ruttledge recovered the ball on the fifteen yard line. Wilson and Manning made a first down, but here the Franklins again put up their stonewall defense and Holy Cross lost the ball on downs. The Franklins started up the field and after making several line plunges and finding that time was becoming short, resorted to forward passes. They made about thirty yards on two passes and the third one was intercepted by Caulfield, who made a spectacular run through a broken field for twenty-five yards as time was called.

"MAC" SAYS

A WEEK FROM NOW.

A week from now the hero will have fled,
The laurel sere and faded on his brow,
His name forgot, his ancient glory dead,
A week from now.

Today, if he should feel the slightest sprain,
We read the news with anguish on our brow,
But he can bust his gol darn neck in vain
A week from now.

The open season for hero worship is at an end as far as gridiron warriors are concerned and the collegians go back to their laborious school duties to make up what they have lost while damaging the pigskin.

Someone has asked, "What does football fit a man for?" We would add, "What does football do for the spectators who parts with three or five long greens in order to get on the other side of the fence ". The hospitals and doctors are the only ones who profit by the slaughtering process.

Men may come and men may go, but the game goes on forever. What has become of that star who adorned the newspapers following the first meeting of the Army-Navy tweaty years ago? Did he have to remain away from that struggle Saturday because he couldn't pay the price? Shouldn't wonder!

Basketball enthusiasts who witnessed that fracas in the Y. M. C. A. "gym" Saturday night thought of that little phrase "Paid In Full." Those who were separated from the admission fee Saturday night to witness that game will be able to pull up on even terms once more by getting a glimpse at that Trenton-Plainfield clash in the local "gym" Saturday night.

Joe Gavett, like "Doc" Cook, thinks he has discovered something. Gavett is now busily engaged in the art of proving to the pessimist the advisability of ringing up a long chain of field goals in each contest Such is fame.

Losing by one point leaves a pretty bitter taste in one's mouth. Nevertheless the chapelites have something to gloat over in supplying basketball followers with an article of basketball such as that of Saturday night.

The basketball season has now been officially opened. One local team has found enough courage to once more come to the fore with that kick against the Hope chapel "gym." Plainfield High School has been the faction to turn the annual stunt this trip.

By the way, what has become of that new edifice they were going to erect for the Hope chapel youngsters to run around in?

It is rumored that the Scotch Plains Parish House basketball team has not made any money this year. We also hear a bigger rumor approaching the great beyond that savors of more discrepancies if someone doesn't take hold of the managerial reins pretty quick.

At one time this season that Marathon basketball team was accused of being unwinable among junior quintets. But now the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Club has come into existence. A victory supplies the necessary amount of encouragement for bigger stunts.

NOTICE.

It has been brought to our attention that certain individuals have taken advantage of the closing of our Plainfield store, to spread malicious reports, hoping to profit by the same.

Some of these were that "The Hallet & Davis Piano Co. had failed"; also that the undersigned "had been discharged from the employ of the company," etc.

Such reports usually die a natural death; however, to a certain degree, they have a poisoning influence, and in order that any former or future patron may feel no alarm, we desire to make a public statement.

The growth of the Hallet & Davis Piano Co. in and around New York city has become so large that it was necessary for them to erect their own building, which is known as "Virtuolo Hall," at 18 East 42nd street, New York city. Upon the erection of this fine building, which contain six floors, the Company felt that it was no longer necessary to maintain stores in the smaller surrounding cities, as the business can be transacted through one centrally located large store.

In carrying out the idea, the Plainfield store was closed and for no other reason.

The financial standing of the company is one of the strongest in the Piano industry, having grown from a capital of one million dollars to three million dollars in seven years. During that time a large reinforced concrete factory costing six hundred thousand dollars has been erected in Boston, Mass.

The undersigned has not been discharged from the employ of the company, but has been given the management of a large territory.

Tuning and repairing formerly transacted through the Plainfield store, will now be taken care of through the New York office.

Player-piano patrons may exchange their music rolls at Virtuolo Hall, New York, or at Hallet & Davis Piano Co., 607 Broad street, Newark, N. J.

Monthly payments may be made direct to the Home Office, at 146 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.

We cordially invite our former patrons and the public in general to call and inspect Virtuolo Hall at 18 East 42nd street, New York.

MINOR MATTERS BEFORE COUNCIL

City Offers to Settle Claim for Death of Employe While on Duty.

TAX APPEALS ARE FILED

Reports and Petitions Received—Order to Pay the State School and the County Tax Passed—To Attend a Commencement.

Mayor Percy H. Stewart and Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed were authorized in a resolution offered by Councilman Francis J. Blatz at the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, to make an offer of settlement of the claim made by Mrs. Joseph Angerbauer for the death of her husband, who was employed by the city by allowing her $500.

Mr. Angerbauer was employed in the street department and while in the performance of his duty fell off a cart, receiving inuries which caused his death.

Several applications on tax appeal were presented and the usual procedure being followed. Among those who filed applications were Van Zandt & Voorhees, Harry Dreier, A. H. Atterbury, H. C. McVoy, Woodland Realty Company, L. R. Fort, Annie Hand, Charles H. Hand, Mrs. Ella Voorhees, Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, B. J. Isles and F. W. Carlisle.

Petitions for lights on George street were received and referred, and the contract with the Nott Fire Engine Company for the purchase of an auto fire engine, was filed.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon, representing J. D. Loizeaux, served a stop-notice on the city in the case of Mr. Loizeaux against Michael Garafone, a sewer contractor, who it is claimed owes the complainant $162.43. This was referred to the corporation counsel.

The Plainfield Plumbing and Mason Supply Company requested permission to remove two dwellings on West Front street from one part of a lot to another and this was referred.

The International Motor Company, through its president, informed the Council of the changes that have been going on in the company's affairs, the dissolution of an injunction, which it is claimed now makes the concern a safe one to do business with. The communication was filed.

Ward, Carpenter & Co., of New York, offered to make a map of the city, under the new law requiring assessment maps, and this was referred to next year's Council.

The members received an invitation to attend the annual commencement of Herr's Business College at the Plainfield Theatre, December 17, and on motion of Mr. Calkins, it was accepted and the clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Herr to that effect.

Petitions received from residents of St. Mary's avenue asking for sidewalks and proper street grade, were referred to the street committee. The Public Service Corporation notified the Council that seven electric lights have been placed as ordered.

The Board of Health informed the Council that there are twelve cesspools and eighteen vaults in the east end and 220 vaults and 313 cesspools in the west end on streets where there are no sewers and requesting that the sewers be extended as rapidly as possible.

Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett reported the granting of eleven sewer permits during the month. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the District Court, reported receipts of $285.28, expenditures of $73.98 and a balance of $211.30 for the past month.

A resolution offered by Councilman C. C. Randolph authorized the payment of $168,659.17, the city's share of the State school and county tax, and another resolution by the same member provided that City Treasurer W. F. Arnold's original bond of $23,000 be intended to cover his service as custodian of the police pension fund, he being treasurer of the police pension commission. Still another resolution by Mr. Randolph authorized the expenditure of $200 for a filing case for the city clerk's office.

Councilman Fred Endress offered a resolution appropriating $200 for the purchase of two miles length of copper wire, rubber boots and coats for the fire department, and the matter was referred to the 1914 Council. When the Council adourned it did so to meet on Monday night, December 22.

GAVE 500 PARTY.

Miss Gladys Marsh, of Maple avenue, entertained a few friends yesterday afternoon at "500" in honor of Miss Charlotte Hand, of Sandford, Florida. The honors were won by Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Miss Marguerite Jimerson and Miss Elizabeth Smalley. The dining decorations were yellow.

PROTEST AGAINST WIDENING STREET

Property Owners Object to Proposed Improvement of Madison Avenue.

Winfield S. Angleman, representing Harry Dreier and William Newcorn, the latter as counsel for the Dreier estate, and J. Henry Crane representing Wadley & Goodenough, appearing at a public hearing of the Common Council, last night, to protest against the proposed widening of Madison avenue between Front street and the railroad bridge, in accordance with an ordinance which has been adopted on two readings. Charles P. Senger, representing one-fifth of the Dreier estate, appeared to favor the improvement.

Mr. Angleman objected to the widening for the reason that it would so decrease the size of Mr. Dreier's store as to render it unfit for business purposes. He suggested that the southern half of the street be taken for the purpose, that is appropriate the street up to the point of the hydrant in the sidewalk at the corner of Front and Madison avenue, whereby the congestion of traffic could be relieved at practically little expense and at no detriment to the business interests.

He declared that the southern half had practically been dedicated for the purpose, while if the original plans were carried out, the expense would be without a corresponding benefit based on the entire cost, for the improvements wiufd be out of all proportion to the benefits, he said. He suggested that Park avenue or Somerset street be widened instead.

When Mr. Senger said that he, representing one-fifth of the Dreier estate, favored the improvement, Mr. Angleman explained that by the terms of the will the estate was tied up for a period of fifteen years. But Mr. Senger said that even that fact did not prevent him from representing one-fifth of the estate, to which Mr. Angleman agreed.

Councilman Fred Endress took exception to Mr. Angleman's statement as to part of the street being dedicated, adding that James W. Jackson informed him that he had never dedicated any part of his property for the purpose, not even the sidewalk, and that three-quarters of the property-owners on that thoroughfare favored the improvement.

Mr. Angleman said that he meant the street had been "practically" dedicated, if not legally, and that the sidewalk up to the point of the hydrant could be removed and given for street purposes, thereby relieving the congestion, whereupon Mr. Endress remarked that Mr. Jackson told him that he had never given the city the right to place the hydrant at the corner of his property.

Mr. Crane protested against widening the street between Second street and the railroad, claiming that it was unnecessary and that the congestion of traffic was between Second and Front streets. He thought the ordinance was drafted to cover too much territory and that the public does not demand the improvement. According to the plans, he said, the Public Service Corporation property, opposite that of Wadley & Goodenough would not be touched.

This led Street Commissioner Gavett to explain that the company's main building is on the line to be widened, it being proposed to make the street fifty feet wide throughout.

It is expected that action will be taken on the ordinance in the near future. Public hearings were granted on the ordinances to establish the curb line on West Eighth street and to open Spooner avenue, no one appearing to speak for or against either ordinance. The ordinance to widen Spooner avenue has been held up for the present.

CO. K BOYS INSPECTED AND ARE COMPLIMENTED

Company K participated in a battalion drill at the First Battalion Armory at Elizabeth, last night. When the Plainfield company marched out upon the drill floor, Major William B. Martin, commander of the battalion, put the four companies through their paces so that Lieut. Strayer, assistant inspector-instructor of the War Department for the State of New Jersey, could inspect the drilling of the various companies. Lieut. Strayer complimented the officers for the grade of work done by the men and Major Martin in turn thanked the men for the interest.

Following the drill period the orchestra marched out upon the floor and dancing was enjoyed by all the members and their friends.

VICTIM OF AUTO IS UNCONSCIOUS

Mrs. Scott Campbell is in Precarious Condition in Muhlenberg Hospital.

AUTOIST SURRENDERS

Alfred A. Keenan is Released on His Own Recognizance to Await Outcome of the Woman's Injuries.

Mrs. Scott Campbell, of 310 Grant avenue, was removed to Muhlenberg Hospital late yesterday afternoon suffering from injuries about the head and body, the result of being run down by an automobile owned and driven by Alfred A. Keenan, a butcher, of 440 East Fifth street. The accident occurred at West Front and Liberty streets. The woman was hurried to the office of Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, and later was taken to the hospital, where she is unconscious and her condition is precarious.

After the accident, Mr. Keenan went to police headquarters and gave himself up. He was placed under arrest on a technical charge of reckless driving. He was released on his own recognizance when arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza, this morning, to await the outcome of the woman's injuries.

According to Mr. Keenan and witnesses, the accident was accidental. Mrs. Campbell is said to have stepped from the sidewalk into the street, directly in front of a horse and wagon which hid her from the view of Mr. Keenan. Mrs. Campbell became confused and the next instant the machine struck and knocked her down. Two or three women, who happened to be passing, assisted the injured woman to Dr. Lufburrow's office where "first aid" treatment was given.

PROBERS RELEASED BY COMMON COUNCIL

Democratic Members as Committee to Investigate Health Board Abandon Work.

Councilman Francis J. Blatz, at the December meeting of the Common Council, last night, made a request that inasmuch as it had been about seven months since Councilmen Fred Endress and Patrick J. Reville had been appointed a committee to investigate Board of Health affairs that a report was timely. He said he thought it was only fair to the Board of Health that the matter be disposed of before the present Council retires.

Mr. Endress resented the interference somewhat by explaining that it was always customary to appoint three members to a committee, instead of two, whereupon President Clay remarked that if Mr. Endress had made the suggestion at any time he would have been glad to name a third member. He then named Councilman A. D. Edgar to serve as the third member, but the latter declined.

Councilman Calkins finally moved that at the committee's own request it be discharged unless it desired to continue, and as both Mr. Endress and Mr. Reville were glad to retire the motion prevailed.

This committee was appointed following rumors of irregularities in the Board of Health affairs, it being the purpose to clear the board of any alleged irregularities. Nothing has been accomplished.

An ordinance to establish the curb line on West Eighth street, between Plainfield and Spooner avenue, was adopted on third reading on motion of Councilman C. C. Randolph.

"DO IT FOR PLAINFIELD" SAYS BOARD OF TRADE

ACCEPT RESIGNATION.

The resignation of Calvin A. Brodhead was accepted at the regular monthly meeting of the Plainfield Board of Education held in the High School last night, and a large amount of routine business was disposed of during the session. The custodian of school moneys reported a balance on hand of $170,713.06.

GEORGE A. HEARN GOES TO REWARD

Merchant-Prince and Unostentatious Philanthropist Dies in New York.

New York, Dec. 2.—George Arnold Hearn, senior member of the firm of James A. Hearn & Son and noted as an art collector, died yesterday afternoon at his home, 46 East Sixty-ninth street. He became ill of pleurisy ten days ago and since then had been in a serious condition.

Although Mr. Hearn was famous as an enthusiastic and discriminating purchaser of paintings, as well as a patron of young artists, particularly Americans, he did not confine his art purchases to pictures. His collection of ivories is almost as famous as his pictures and his home has long been the resting place of miniatures, bronzes, early English cabinets, porcelains, snuff boxes and other objects which delighted his artistic eye.

His generosity to the Metropolitan Museum of Art and to the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Science has been great; he has made several large gifts of money and pictures to the Metropolitan and it is thought that others will be made by his will. He was a generous contributor to charities and public affairs.

Mr. Hearn came from a long line of merchants; the big dry goods store in Fourteenth street west of Fifth avenue, of which he was the head, is the modern home of a small shop started in 1827 by Aaron Arnold and his nephew, George Arnold Hearn.

RED CROSS SEALS ARE NOW ON SALE

Every one Bought Here Means So Much Money for the Local Campaign.

George M. Holstein, representing the Anti-Tuberculosis League of Plainfield and North Plainfield, has charge of the sale of the Red Cross seals, which are used so extensively at this time of the year, and through which the league hopes to secure needed funds to carry on its work.

These seals can be secured at the banks, drug stores, news-stands and shops generally throughout the city and borough. One can buy them by the hundred and it is hoped that the sale will be a large one. No sum is too small to invest in this cause. The seals are sold for a penny each.

The money received through the sale of seals goes direct to help the sick and dying and people are urged to use them as generally as possible, affixing them to letters or packages of all kinds. It bears the sign of the Red Cross and it's a greeting of "Merry Christmas" wherever it goes, inducing sympathy and helpfulness by suggestion and stimulates others to action for good.

Arrangements have been made whereby school children are to sell the seals. They have undertaken the work with enthusiasm. By buying from them you will give them the feeling that they have done something to lessen the sum of human misery.

ACCIDENT VICTIM NEAR DEATH DOOR

Motorcyclist Picked up Unconscious is in Critical Condition in Hospital.

FOUND JUST IN TIME

Newarkers Meet With Mishap and Morristown Man Comes to Their Rescue—Andrew Du Pont May Die.

If Andrew DuPont, a motorcyclist, of 47 Marshall street, Newark, recovers from an accident of which he was the victim he will owe his life to Carl Click, of Morristown. Passing Randolph and Rahway roads about 1 o'clock this morning, Click saw two men lying prone beside the roadway. One was Andrew DuPont and the other was William DuPont, his brother. Placing them in his car unassisted, Click broke speed records between Rahway road and Muhlenberg Hospital. At that institution, William DuPont recovered quickly, but his brother Andrew, is at death's door, not having gained his senses since being picked up. He is suffering with wounds about the head and probably from internal injuries.

According to the story told by William DuPont, he and his brother were coming from Newark to Plainfield riding a motorcycle tandem fashion. Turning the corner at Randolph and Rahway roads, where the streets are in poor condition, the machine skidded. The break failed to work and the two riders were sent crashing into a fence. No one, according to the police, witnessed the accident and the two victims lay unconscious beside the road until noticed by Click. Both men suffered severely from the cold.

At the hospital Andrew DuPont was operated on immediately and the doctors say there is a slight hope that he will recover. The physicians also say that he would have undoubtedly succumbed to his injuries had his entrance into the hospital been delayed an hour longer.

HE CAN'T FIGURE OUT HOW MUCH HE STOLE

When arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning on a charge of larceny preferred against him by Herman Theis, a butcher of Muhlenberg place, Hugh Breen, 18 years old, of 745 South Second street, told the court that he did not know how much he stole. The magistrate said he would give Breen another night in jail to calculate and remanded him back until tomorrow morning. Breen will be supplied with pencils and pads, if he requests them, said Sergeant Maurice Higgins.

GRATITUOUS ADVICE FROM A GRAND JURY

It Would Have Plainfield Enforce the State's Liquor Laws.

The last Grand Jury of Union county of which James F. Buckle, of this city, was foreman, in a communcation to the Common Council last night, asked the co-operation of that body and the city in a more strict enforcement of the laws, especially excise. Reference was made to the lax enforcement of laws at outdoor picnics, etc., and the fact that prosecution is delayed by the tardiness of justices in filling complaints.

The fact that county prisoners are to be put to work was cited, and attention was directed to alleged violations of the excise laws, especially on Sundays and in the sale of liquor to minors. It directed that police chiefs make a close inspection of places where liquor is sold under such conditions with a view to prosecuting the violators. The matter was referred to the police committee. This communication is similar to one that has been sent to all municipalities in the county with a view to securing a strict observance of the laws and the local authorities propose to co-operate in the future as in the past.

A. & P. TEA COMPANY OPEN 500TH STORE THIS WEEK

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, whose advertisement appears in the Daily Press every Tuesday, opened their five hundredth store yesterday in Woonsocket, R. I., and to celebrate the event, they have arranged an extraordinarily special sale where the values are most liberal. They have made a special selection of goods and the prices of the same have been considerably reduced.

In 1859, the first store was opened at 49 Vesey street, New York, and the Woonsocket store marks another important milestone in the progress of this live business house, who have built up a big reputation here. The policies and methods of merchandising are well known to all who patronize the store here. George R. Vanderhoef has been the local manager for the company for a great many years, and under his careful care, the business has gained a local reputation for high grade goods, coupled with service, fully in keeping with that of the company in all of their 500 stores.

DESPOT HUERTA MUST GO—WILSON

President in Annual Message Expresses Confidence in His Waiting Policy.

END IS NOW IN SIGHT

Expects Downfall of Ursurper at Early Date—Discussses Currency and Other Problems Including the Trusts and the Philippines.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 2.—In his message, delivered at a joint session of the houses of Congress at the beginning of the second session of the Sixty-third Congress today, President Wilson urged immediate currency legislation, devoted considerable space to the needs of the farmers and referred to the Mexican crisis. The Sherman anti-trust law, he said, should be changed so that its exact meaning would be clearer. The President also urged the choice of Presidential nominees by the direct vote of the people expressed at primaries. The message in full is as follows:

Gentlemen of the Congress—In pursuance of my constitutional duty to "give to the congress information of the state of the Union" I take the liberty of addressing you on several matters which ought, as it seems to me, particularly to engage the attention of your honorable body, as of all who study the welfare and progress of the nation.

I shall ask your indulgence if I venture to depart in some degree from the usual custom of setting before you in formal review the many matters which have engaged the attention and called for the action of the several departments of the government or which look to them for early treatment in the future, because the list is long, very long, and would suffer in the abbreviation to which I should have to subject it. I shall submit to you the reports of the heads of several departments in which these subjects are set forth in careful details and beg that they may receive the thoughtful attention of your committees and of all members of the congress who may have the leisure to study them. Their obvious importance, as constituting the very substance of the business of the government, makes comment and emphasis on my part unnecessary.

WANTS TREATIES RATIFIED.

Asserts That United States Leads In Peace Negotiations.

The country, I am thankful to say, is at peace with all the world, and many happy manifestations multiply about us of a growing cordiality and sense of community of interest among the nations, foreshadowing an age of settled peace and good will. More and more readily each decade do the nations manifest their willingness to bind themselves by solemn treaty to the processes of peace, the processes of frankness and fair concession. So far the United States has stood at the front of such negotiations. She will, I earnestly hope and confidently believe, give fresh proof of her sincere adherence to the cause of international friendship by ratifying the several treaties of arbitration awaiting renewal by the senate.

In addition to these it has been the privilege of the department of state to gain the assent, in principle, of no less than thirty-one nations, representing four-fifths of the population of the world, to the negotiation of treaties by which it shall be agreed that whenever differences of interest or of policy arise which cannot be resolved by the ordinary processes of diplomacy they shall be publicly analyzed, discussed and reported upon by a tribunal chosen by the parties before either nation determines its course of action.

There is only one possible standard by which to determine controversies between the United States and other nations, and that is compounded of these two elements—our own honor and our obligations to the peace of the world. A test so compounded ought easily to be made to govern both the Common Council Selects Him to Succeed Henry L. DeForest.

Garret T. Dunham, who has been acting overseer-of-the-poor pending the acceptance of the resignation of Henry L. DeForest, was appointed to that office at the December meeting of the Common Council last night, for a term of three years. The vote was by ballot, upon advice of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed, and Mr. Dunham received nine votes, and Alexander D. Ayers received one vote. Councilman W. L. Gloak, who nominated Mr. Ayers and voted for him, afterward moved to make the vote for Mr. Dunham unanimous, which was done.

The question of appointing an overseer of the poor was introduced by Councilman W. W. Wilson after the Council had taken a recess at his suggestion. It was generally known that Mr. Dunham had the majority votes of the Council and so when he was chosen for the office there was no surprise. It was also known that Mr. Ayers was a candidate to regain his old position, he having the support of the Republican organization, but an informal canvas showed that Mr. Ayers could not count on enough votes to elect him to the position.

After Mr. DeForest's resignation was accepted with regret on motion of Mr. Wilson, a resolution was offered by him appointing Mr. Dunham to fill the vacancy. Mr. Reed raised the question as to whether the vote should not be taken by ballot, but Councilman Calkins thought an aye and nay vote legal and so moved. Mr. Blatz thought it best to follow Mr. Reed's suggestion, and the question was finally settled when Councilman A. D. Edgar's motion to vote by ballot prevailed.

Mr. Gloak sought to hold up the appointment until another meeting when he saw there was a difference of opinion as to how a vote should be taken, but his colleagues did not agree with him. Mr. Gloak then nominated Mr. Ayers, Councilman Randolph being the second. Mr. Wilson nominated Mr. Dunham, Mr. Edgar being the second. The ballot showed nine votes for Mr. Dunham and one for Mr. Ayers. Councilman Mygatt was absent.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 11

ANY housewife knows that good bread should be white.

She would not attempt to make bread unless the flour was spotless. She would know that if there were dirt in the flour the bread would not be good.

The making of chewing gum is as simple as bread-making. Gum takes the place of flour and the other ingredients are sweetening and flavor.

If the gum is clean, it is white. Chewing gum made from clean gum is white.

Yet there is only one clean white gum on the market to-day.

MO-JO Gum is white inside and out, clean through and through. It is the chewing gum for people who care. It is a revelation to chew a clean gum that is daintiness and sweetness personified.

Just try a MO-JO. Ask your dealer for a Dainty, Pure White Gum. He will give you MO-JO Gum. There is no substitute.

Wailed some melancholy poet, as he gazed sadly upon his last royalty check.

He was thinking of the murky days of Autumn Time, when the birds skin back to the South and the dry leaves crackle underfoot

ROY LOVE ELECTED TREAS. OF GREEK LETTER FRATERNITY

The Phi Pi Psi, a Greek letter organization in the North Plainfield High School, held its second monthly meeting of the year at the home of Franklin Lowe, last night. All the members were present except Donald C. Ketcham and Edmund Kenney, who are attending college.

Ralph Smalley, who was elected treasurer last month, resigned, and Roy Love was unanimously elected to fill his place. Several new candidates for membership were brought up by the different members, but none gained admittance. There was also some discussion about forming a basketball team as was done last year, but this together with a proposed dance was not acted upon.

After the meeting a delightful repast was served by the host's mother and a general social time was enjoyed. Those who were present are Franklin Lowe, Ralph Smalley, Dudos Van Mater, Ashley Burner, Newton Spencer, Roy Love, Charles Beckman and Frank Dunning.

VESTRYMEN ARE CHOSEN AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH

For the first time women attended the regular parish meeting of the Holy Cross church last night, when these wardens, vestrymen and delegates were elected: Senior warden, Dr. John H. Carman, junior warden, Herbert E. Langford; vestrymen, James A. Van Mater, J. Brognard Betts, Francis L. Sill, Frank B. Ball George O. Stevens, C. Everett Murray and Douglas C. Anderson; delegates to the diocesan convention, Herbert E. Langford, Mr. Betts and Mr. Stevens; alternates, Mr. Sill, William J. R. Thiers and Mr. Van Mater; delegates to convention, William Little and Brown Rolston; alternates, Dr. Francis Du Bois and Alson M. Abbott.

After the reports from various committees had been submitted and the elections over, a general discussion of the proposed activities for the ensuing year was held. After adjournment, the vestry held a meeting for organization purposes.

All the successful candidates were elected unanimously. The meeting was said to be one of the largest held in years.

It was announced that Rev. William S. McCoy concluded his rectorship of the church on Sunday, but that he and his family would remain at the rectory for the present. No definite arrangements have been made as yet toward securing a successor to Mr. McCoy, but it is the purpose of the officers of the church to engage a clergyman to serve until a permanent rector is settled upon.

EARLY CLOSING FOR POLITICAL CLUB

Jefferson Democrats Decide on That and Also for One Big Ball.

In addition to endorsing the candidacy of Patrick J. Reville for the postmastership, as told in another column of this issue, the Jefferson Democratic Club transacted a large amount of business at its regular meeting, last night. President Edward Strappe was in the chair and ten new members were elected as a starter. By a unanimous vote it was decided to conduct a ball under the clubs' auspices early in the new year, Richard Scott being named as chairman of a committee to make the necessary arrangements. Robert Scott was appointed chairman of a new house committee of seven to supervise the club rooms.

The attendances have been so large at the regular sessions that the question of scheduled closing hours was discussed at great length. It was finally decided to close the rooms at 11:30 week nights and 10:00 Sunday nights. Regular business meetings will be held the first and third Monday nights and the election of officers will take place the first meeting in January. It is probable that Edward Strappe will be re-elected president because of his excellent administrative work in the past.

RECTOR FOR CURFEW LAW.

Newton, Dec. 2.—The creation of public sentiment looking to the establishment of a curfew law in Newton and its strict enforcement were urged Sunday in a sermon by Rev. Ernest C. Tuthill, rector of Christ Episcopal church. The rector took to task the parents of girls who allow their daughters to roam the streets evening, quoting conditions as seen by a physician. This physician, the rector said, had told him that it was common for him, when returning home from night calls as late as 2 o'clock in the morning, to see girls walking the streets. Mr. Tuthill without mentioning any names, made a plain reference to the case of Dr. Harvey J. McClougnan, canvicted of illegal practice. He condemned the sympathizers with the convicted physician. The rector made a particular reference to scenes at the trial, when spectators applauded when evidence was brought out favorable to the defendant. Rev. Mr. Tuthill promised another sermon next Sunday morning, in which he would tell the community some more facts about itself.

NOTICE.

It has been brought to our attention that certain individuals have taken advantage of the closing of our Plainfield store, to spread malicious reports, hoping to profit by the same.

Some of these were that "The Hallet & Davis Piano Co. had failed" also that the undersigned "had been discharged from the employ of the company," etc.

Such reports usually die a natural death; however, to a certain degree, they have a poisoning influence, and in order that any former or future patron may feel no alarm, we desire to make a public statement.

The growth of the Hallet & Davis Piano Co. in and around New York city has become so large that it was necessary for them to erect their own building, which is known as "Virtuolo Hall," at 18 East 42nd street, New York city. Upon the erection of this fine building, which contain six floors, the Company felt that it was no longer necessary to maintain stores in the smaller surrounding cities, as the business can be transacted through one centrally located large store.

In carrying out the idea, the Plainfield store was closed and for no other reason.

The financial standing of the company is one of the strongest in the Piano industry, having grown from a capital of one million dollars to three million dollars in seven years. During that time a large reinforced concrete factory costing six hundred thousand dollars has been erected in Boston, Mass.

The undersigned has not been discharged from the employ of the company, but has been given the management of a large territory.

Tuning and repairing formerly transacted through the Plainfield store, will now be taken care of through the New York office.

Monthly payments may be made direct to the Home Office, at 146 Boylston street, Boston, Mass.

We cordially invite our former patrons and the public in general to call and inspect Virtuolo Hall at 18 East 42nd street, New York.

THE IDEAL NEWSPAPER.

There are many people who know just how a newspaper should be run. The fact is that there are few who do not. Some who have had the money and the inclination have been self-sacrificing and good enough to start in and show those "from Missouri." Training and other little incidentals of the like have been of no consequence. They are not needed, of course, any more than in any other profession or business. Probably enough money has been spent in this amateur effort to elevate the press and publish the ideal newspaper to build a Panama Canal. And as long as time lasts the experiment will be continued.

But to be serious, opinions of these foolish mortals as to what a newspaper should be are not worth while. What the long experienced and successful men in the field have to say is of value. There is Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, for instance. He has described the attributes of the true newspaper and maybe some may be interested in what he has to say. He gave his ideas before the Pulitzer School of Journalism one day last week. To be very brief he declared that the ideal newspaper is to be published not for crime's sake nor for scandal's sake, but for the real news' sake. The reader's point of view, moreover, is not to be that of one whose judgment is biased by moral obliquity or degraded by low tastes.

The Scranton Times makes this summary of Mr. Stone's ideas of the ideal newspaper:

A newspaper should be both trustworthy and temperate in its presentation of the news; it must be informative, it must either supress nor distort the truth, it must not be dull and lethargic, and yet it must not lie nor be guilty of editorial discoloration of news matter. It should let the trivial go for the sake of affairs of major consequence. It must not invade the sanctities of the home and of private life for the sake of scandal. It must not give ear and tongue to defamatory gossip. It must be clean, vivacious, inspiring, intelligent, and it must lay stress on the great and ever-present tidal current or human activities rather than the by-play and the by-product of insignificant accident and incident. In short, the ideal newspaper is to be published not for crimes' sake, nor for scandal's sake, but for the news' sake; and the point of view of the reader is not to that of one whose tastes and judgment are biased by moral obliquity, warped by innate viciousness, degraded by low motives and evil associations.

Commenting on Mr. Stone's remarks, the Philadelphia Public Ledger correctly states:

Of course a newspaper can win a large circulation by cheapening itself to the gutter level. There are always people who want the worst and are willing to pay for it. They do not want that which is soberly and precisely so; they want to read a good story, irrespective of the facts. One who essays to produce and to circulate the ideal newspaper must make up his mind to forego that clientele. They will take the paper that gives them what they want in the way of salaciousness, bloody horror and prevarication. Though the conclusions of the editorial page may not be accepted, the reader of the ideal newspaper has before him the ingredients (as they might be called) from which he is at liberty to concoct his own opinions. The newspaper with a self-respecting attitude toward its mission and its trust will distort nothing and fear nothing and steer by the polestar of the truth.

WILSON ON HUERTA.

Firmness and directness characteristic of his brief but most brilliant political career feature every part of President Wilson's message to Congress and especially his treatment of the Mexican situation. He says that that troubled and troublesome country has "no government" but only a "mere mlitary despotism" with Huerta as the ursurper, predicting that the dictator's end is near. Sanguine that the murderous despot's days as "President" are numbered he expresses his hopeful belief that the United States' policy of "watchful waiting" needs not be abandoned.

The whole country will applaud Mr. Wilson's determined and enlightened stand. Not only is it "safe and sane" but it is admittedly the best that could be taken. It is the policy that will win out and at the same time will prove to all the world that the United States is, as the President declares, the champion of constitutional government in all America.

GEORGE A. HEARN.

To the general public, possibly George Arnold Hearn, senior member of James A. Hearn & Co., of New York, who went to his reward yesterday, was best known as a merchant-prince, but to a discerning public he had a reputation as a liberal and always anonymous contributor to charities and to public affairs. He gained much and he gave much. He was what the Master would regard as the personification of the true philanthropist. George A. Hearn has crossed "the great bourne" leaving behind him a record of which any mortal might be justly proud.

It was a foolish piece of business for the Union county grand jury to send to the Common Council last night a communication requesting a more strict enforcement of the excise laws. If these laws were enforced throughout the State as stringently as they are here it would be a fine thing. Plainfield doesn't need any advice from a grand jury when it is living up to the letter and the spirit of the laws.

The President's message is one that the thinking man will read and re-read and will ponder over. It is the utterance of a statesman and not that of politician and partisan. It marks an innovation in the history of the United States Government. Democrat, Republican, Progressive or whatever one may be, he must admire the immeasurable greatness of this document.

Friends of LeRoy J. Ellis are advocating his appointment as a member of the Union County Board of Equalization of Taxes to succeed Calvin E. Brodhead. Mr. Ellis is a good citizen, a good business man and an upright man. The Daily Press commends him to Governor Fielder, who could decide upon no better choice.

Our contributing editor for next Saturday will discuss a real live topic—the same as they all do.

"Lest we forget"—Do it for Plainfield.

FOR ILLEGAL SELLING.

Lewis Moore, of Newark, a driver for the Greenhut, Seigel-Cooper Co., of New York, arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning, charged with selling intoxicants in Plainfield without a license, was held for the grand jury. Bail for his release was supplied by his employes. Mrs. Frank Linke is the complaining witness in the case. He delivered a package containing liquor to one of her neighbors. She stated that the articles were marked "C. O. D." and that she paid the driver the amount specified on the invoice. Mrs. Linke then ordered Moore's arrest, claiming he had violated the law.

NURSES' DANCE.

The nurses attached to Munlenberg Hospital Training School gave a dance for their friends on the third floor of the new private room pavilion, last night. The guests numbered fifty and were from this city and nearby places. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Miss Sarah Smith has removed from 334 East Sixth street to 221 New street.

BUSINESS MEN CUT OFF ALL THE GRAFT

Will Advertise Only in Legitimate Mediums and Will Make No Donations.

The Plainfield Business Men's Association at its meeting in the Frost building last night, decided that the local merchants will advertise in no medium except those entered as second-class mail matter at the postoffice, and no donations to fairs and entertainments will be made directly and all applications for such donations will be referred to a donation committee to be passed upon. The names of this committee will be known only to the president and secretary of the association. Jacob Tepper was made chairman of the executive committee.

Fred G. Thomas and W. D. Quick, of the Somerville association, spoke informally of the benefits derived by the merchants in that place through an association.

It was reported that the arrangements for the dollar dinner to be held at the Waldorf Hotel Monday night at 7 o'clook, were complete and in addition to a fine menu there will be several interesting addresses.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, a New England supper will be given at the church on Thursday evening from 6 to 9 o'clock. There will be a special musical program comprising vocal and instrumental selections.

FIRST POSTAL TRAIN.

It Was Tried In 1864 and Proved a Thorough Success.

The first trial of a postal car service, in which mail matter is assorted while in transit, was made in 1864 on the Chicago and Northwestern railway. The scheme was a thorough success, and railway mail service was inaugurated that year on several of the important railway lines and was gradually extended all over the United States and adopted by other countries.

In 1874 the American railway mail system was thoroughly organized on a permanent basis, with eight territorial divisions, each in charge of a superintendent subordinate to a general chief at Washington.

This service was among the first to adopt a modern classified civil service, appointment of railway mail clerks having always been made for a probationary period, permanent employment being conditioned on satisfactory service and conduct and removal based on good cause only. The service has been gradually increased and new divisions organized and is now operated on practically every railway.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Swordsmen of the Sea.

The swordsmen of the sea are the sawfishes, spearfishes, sailfishes, swordfishes and the narwhal, with its spirally twisted straight tusks. Sawfishes inhabit the warmer seas, while the narwhal is a creature of the Arctic. The tusk of the narwhal is hollow nearly to the point and is spirally grooved. It uses its tusk as a weapon of defense and to plunge through the ice to breathe, the narwhal being a cetacean. Sometimes when a boat has been caught in the ice great damage has been inflicted by the inquisitiveness or blundering of this great creature, that sometimes reaches a length of fifteen feet, with a tusk of from six to ten feet in length. As a rule, however, the narwhal uses its tusk for the purpose of killing fish for food. In the castle of Rosenberg the kings of Denmark have long possessed a magnificent throne made of tusks of this cetacean. These tusks are harder and whiter than ivory.

Author Who Wrote Legibly.

No author, or any one else, for that matter, could possibly have written more legibly than Francis Thompson. He wrote frequently in pencil in a careful round hand that would have put a schoolboy at the top of his writing class. His copy was always "good" for the compositor, which was fortunate, for there was always the greatest difficulty in getting him to correct the proofs of his reviews. I have the manuscript of one of his later poems, which a child of ten could read with ease, though it is written partly in ink and partly in pencil and carefully stuck together where lines have been snipped out with scissors. He was probably the only writer of genius who used penny exercise books as manuscript paper.—London Spectator.

Tennyson and a Telescope.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree in "Thoughts and Afterthoughts" tells this tale of Lord Tennyson: The poet was invited to a certain country house, and all the neighboring luminaries of the county had been invited to meet him. After dinner his host asked whether he would like to look at the stars. Tennyson took up the telescope and, forgetting all else, gazed for twenty minutes at the wonders of the heavens. "Well, what do you think, Mr. Tennyson?" inquired his host. "I don't think much of our county families," Tennyson replied.

Tumblers.

Drinking glasses called tumblers owe their name to the fact that they are the successors of the little round silver bowls, so perfectly balanced that, which ever way they were tipped about on the table they tumbled into position again and there remained with the rim upward.

THREE YEARS FOR FRAUDS.

Trenton, Dec. 2.—A sentence of three years in State prison was imposed in the United States District Court yesterday upon Nelson B. Giles, a produce dealer of Asbury Park, who had pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him with using the mails to promote fraud. The specific offense alleged, was, that Giles wrote to wholesale dealers in other cities, obtaining live stock and other produce and giving bogus checks in exchange. The case of Giles was recently before the courts, but Judge Relistab deferred sentence in order that United States District Attorney J. Warren Davis might obtain evidence concerning the past career of Giles. The investigations by Mr. Davis disclosed that Giles had been sentenced to a year in State prison for burglarly, but had been paroled after serving seven months. The court was also informed that Giles had been fined $5 for violating the school law in refusing the send his eldest son to school.

BENEFITS OF DRAMA MRS. MARKS' THEME

Playwright and Poet Talks Interestingly to Monday Afternoon Club.

"The Relation of the Drama to the Life of the People," was the subject of an interesting lecture by Mrs. Josephine Peabody Marks, playwright and poet, before the Monday Afternoon Club, at the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Marks was the winner of the prize offered by the governors of the Sharkespeare Memorial theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, her play, "The Piper," being chosen from 315 manuscripts submitted.

Referring to the drama, Mrs. Marks said that it was the most dramatic of all arts, being such a combination of resources of interest and development, and for that reason was sure to demand a close study by intelligent people. The speaker declared that only through the drama could the nation hope to build up an artistic consciousness.

Men and women coming from foreign lands join in contributing their characteristics to the drama and it is a known fact that more can be made of the art in this way than through any other source. It developes new thoughts and emotions in the mind.

Mrs. Marks emphasized the fact that the drama tends to revive and refresh, for while people are being entertained they are at the same time being educated. It is the poet who writes the drama who knows and studies human nature and knows best how to please both the eye and ear.

It was announced that Mrs. Frank H. Pattison would give the next club lecture at the Hartridge Auditorium on Monday, December 8, her subject being "Household Equipment, Utensils and Labor-Saving Devices."

ELLIS MAY SUCCEED BRODHEAD ON BOARD

LeRoy J. Ellis is being boomed by local Democrats for appointment as a member of the Union County Board for the Equalization of Taxes to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Calvin E. Brodhead, recently of this city and now of Scranton, Pa. It is expected that Ellis will be named for the place.

PLAINFIELD C. E. UNION PLAN FOR BIG RALLY

The seven societies comprising the local union of the Christian Endeavor Union were represented at a congress meeting at the Y. M. C. A., last night, when plans were discussed for the rally to be held either January 20 or 27, when it is expected that Dr. Greenway, of Philadelphia, will be the speaker of the evening. The meeting will be held at Hope chapel. Dr. Greenway spoke at the meeting held in Warren chapel, last year, and made such a favorable impression that the union decided to try and secure him for the coming rally.

Robert Latourette, of the Temple Baptist church society, was elected vice-president to succeed Frank Kellogg, who has removed from the city. The former will fill the unexpired term of Mr. Kellogg.

P. R. C. NOTES.

The Plainfield Dramatic Club, which is under the supervision of the Public Recreation Committee, will hold its weekly rehearsal tonight at the Franklin School, instead of at the Washington School.

The folk dancing will be continued at the Washington School, tomorrow night, this department being in charge of Miss Emma Ryno, who for a time was the supervisor prior to the appointment of Miss Anna Melvin.

HUERTA MUST GO---WILSON

establishment of new treaty obligations and the interpretation of those already assumed.

HUERTA MUST GO.

Predicts Downfall of "Usurper" Who "Cast Aside Even Pretense of Legal Right and Declared Himself Dictator."

There is but one cloud upon our horizon. That has shown itself to the south of us and hangs over Mexico. There can be no certain prospect of peace in America until General Huerta has surrendered his usurped authority in Mexico. Until it is understood on all hands, indeed, such pretended governments will not be countenanced or dealt with by the government of the United States. We are the friends of constitutional government in America. We are more than its friends; we are its champions, because in no other way can our neighbors to whom we would wish in every way to make proof of our friendship work out their own development in peace and liberty.

Mexico has no government. The attempt to maintain one at the City of Mexico has broken down, and a mere military despotism has been set up which has hardly more than the semblance of national authority. It originated in the usurpation of Victoriano Huerta, who, after a brief attempt to play the part of constitutional president, has at last cast aside even the pretense of legal right and declared himself dictator. As a consequence a condition of affairs now exists in Mexico which has made it doubtful whether even the most elementary and fundamental rights either of her own people or of the citizens of other countries resident within her territory can long be successfully safeguarded and which threatens if long continued to imperil the interests of peace, order and tolerable life in the lands immediately to the south of us.

Even if the usurper had succeeded in his purposes, in despite of the constitution of the republic and the rights of its people, he would have set up nothing but a precarious and hateful power which could have lasted but a little while and whose eventual downfall would have left the country in a more deplorable condition than ever. But he has not succeeded. He has forfeited the respect and the moral support even of those who were at one time willing to see him succeed. Little by little he has been completely isolated. By a little every day his power and prestige are crumbling, and the collapse is not far away. We shall not, I believe, be obliged to alter our policy of watchful waiting. And then, when the end comes, we shall hope to see constitutional order restored in distressed Mexico by the concert and energy of such of her leaders as prefer the liberty of their people to their own ambitions.

VIEWS ON CURRENCY BILL.

Urges Measure That Will Prove Benefit to Farmers—Hopes For Quick Action.

I turn to matters of domestic concern. You already have under consideration a bill for the reform of our system of banking and currency, for which the country waits with impatience, as for something fundamental to its whole business life and necessary to set credit free from arbitrary and artificial restraints. I need not say how earnestly I hope for its early enactment into law. I take leave to beg that the whole energy and attention of the senate be concentrated upon it till the matter is successfully disposed of. And yet I feel that the request is not needed—that the members of that great house need no urging in this service to the country.

I present to you in addition the urgent necessity that special provision be made also for facilitating the credits needed by the farmers of the country. The pending currency bill does the farmers a great service. It puts them upon an equal footing with other business men and masters of enterprise, as it should, and upon its passage they will find themselves quit of many of the difficulties which now hamper them in the field of credit. The farmers of course ask and should be given no special privilege, such as extending to them the credit of the government itself. What they need and should obtain is legislation which will make their own abundant and substantial credit resources available as a foundation for joint, concerted, local action in their own behalf in getting the capital they must use. It is to this we should now address ourselves.

It has, singularly enough, come to pass that we have allowed the industry of our farms to lag behind the other activities of the country in its development. I need not stop to tell you how fundamental to the life of the nation is the production of its food. Our thoughts may ordinarily be concentrated upon the cities and the hives of industry, upon the cries of the crowded market place and the clangor of the factory, but it is from the quiet interspaces of the open valleys and the free hillsides that we draw the sources of life and of prosperity, from the farm and the ranch, from the forest and the mine. Without these every street would be silent, every office deserted, every factory fallen into disrepair.

And yet the farmer does not stand upon the same footing with the forester and the miner in the market of credit. He is the servant of the seasons. Nature determines how long he must wait for his crops and will not be hurried in her processes. He may give his note, but the season of its maturity depends upon the season when his crop matures and lies at the gates of the market where his products are sold. And the security he gives is of a character not known in the broker's office or as familiarly as it might be on the counter of the banker.

The agricultural department of the government is seeking to assist as never before to make farming an efficient business, of wide co-operative effort, in quick touch with the markets for foodstuffs. The farmers and the government will henceforth work together as real partners in this field, where we now begin to see our way very clearly and where many intelligent plans are already being put into execution.

The treasury of the United States has by a timely and well considered distribution of its deposits facilitated the moving of the crops in the present season and prevented the scarcity of available funds too often experienced at such times. But we must not allow ourselves to depend upon extraordinary expedients. We must add the means by which the farmer may make his credit constantly and easily available and command when he will the capital by which to support and expand his business. We lag behind many other great countries of the modern world in attempting to do this. Systems of rural credit have been studied and developed on the other side of the water while we left our farmers to shift for themselves in the ordinary money market. You have but to look about you in any rural district to see the result, the handicap and embarrassment which have been put upon those who produce our food.

Conscious of this backwardness and neglect on our part, the congress recently authorized the creation of a special commission to study the various systems of rural credit which have been put into operation in Europe, and this commission is already prepared to report. Its report ought to make it easier for us to determine what methods will be best suited to our own farmers. I hope and believe that the committees of the senate and house will address themselves to this matter with the most fruitful results, and I believe that the studies and recently formed plans of the department of agriculture may be made to serve them very greatly in their work of framing appropriate and adequate legislation.

It would be indiscreet and presumptuous in any one to dogmatize upon so great and many sided a question, but I feel confident that common counsel will produce the results we must all desire.

UPHOLDS ANTI-TRUST LAW.

Recommends That It Be Supplemented With More Explicit Legislation to Facilitate Its Administration.

Turn from the farm to the world of business which centers in the city and in the factory, and I think that all thoughtful observers will agree that the immediate service we owe the business communities of the country is to prevent private monopoly more effectually than it has yet been prevented. I think it will be easily agreed that we should let the Sherman anti-trust law stand, unaltered, as it is, with its debatable ground about it, but that we should as much as possible reduce the area of that debatable ground by further and more explicit legislation, and should also supplement that great act by legislation which will not only clarify it but also facilitate its administration and make it fairer to all concerned.

No doubt we shall all wish, and the country will expect, this to be the central subject of our deliberations during the present session, but it is a subject so many sided and so deserving of careful and discriminating discussion that I shall take the liberty of addressing you upon it in a special message at a later date than this. It is of capital importance that the business men of this country should be relieved of all uncertainties of law with regard to their enterprises and investments and a clear path indicated which they can travel without anxiety. It is as important that they should be relieved of embarrassment and set free to prosper as that private monopoly should be destroyed. The ways of action should be thrown wide open.

FAVORS DIRECT ELECTIONS.

Would Retain Conventions, Delegates to Be Nominees For Office, Whose Duty It Would Be to Frame Platforms.

I turn to a subject which I hope can be handled promptly and without serious controversy of any kind. I mean the method of selecting nominees for the presidency of the United States. I feel confident that I do not misinterpret the wishes or the expectations of the country when I urge the prompt enactment of legislation which will provide for primary elections throughout the country at which the voters of the several parties may choose their nominees for the presidency without the intervention of nominating conventions. I venture the suggestion that this legislation should provide for the retention of party conventions, but only for the purpose of declaring and accepting the verdict of the primaries and formulating the platforms of the parties, and I suggest that these conventions should consist not of delegates chosen for this single purpose, but of the nominees for congress, the nominees for vacant seats in the senate of the United States, the senators whose terms have not yet closed, the national committees and the candidates for the presidency themselves, in order that platforms may be framed by those responsible to the people for carrying them into effect.

PHILIPPINE CONTROL.

Must Hold Ultimate Independence In View and Strive to Fit Filipinos For Self Government at Future Date.

These are all matters of vital domestic concern, and besides them, outside the charmed circle of our own national life in which our affections command us, as well as our consciences, there stand out our obligations toward our territories over sea. Here we are trustees. Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines, are ours, indeed, but not ours to do what we please with. Such territories, once regarded as mere possessions, are no longer to be selfishly exploited; they are part of the domain of public conscience and of serviceable and enlightened statesmanship.

We must administer them for the people who live in them and with the same sense of responsibility to them as toward our own people in our domestic affairs. No doubt we shall successfully enough bind Porto Rico and the Hawaiian Islands to ourselves by ties of justice and interest and affection, but the performance of our duty toward the Philippines is a more difficult and debatable matter. We can satisfy the obligations of generous justice toward the people of Porto Rico by giving the ample and familiar rights and privileges accorded our own citizens in our own territories and our obligations toward the people of Hawaii by perfecting the provisions for self government already granted them, but in the Philippines we must go further. We must hold steadily in view their ultimate independence, and we must move toward the time of that independence as steadily as the way can be cleared and the foundations thoughtfully and permanently laid.

Acting under the authority conferred upon the president by congress, I have already accorded the people of the islands a majority in both houses of their legislative body by appointing five instead of four native citizens to the membership of the commission. I believe that in this way we shall make proof of their capacity in counsel and their sense of responsibility in the exercise of political power and that the success of this step will be sure to clear our view for the steps which are to follow.

Step by step we should extend and perfect the system of self government in the islands, making test of them and modifying them as experience discloses their successes and their failures; that we should more and more put under the control of the native citizens of the archipelago the essential instruments of their life, their local instrumentalities of government, their schools, all the common interests of their communities and so by counsel and experience set up a government which all the world will see to be suitable to a people whose affairs are under their own control.

At last, I hope and believe, we are beginning to gain the confidence of the Filipino peoples. By their counsel and experience, rather than by our own, we shall learn how best to serve them and how soon it will be possible and wise to withdraw our supervision. Let us once find the path and set out with firm and confident tread upon it, and we shall not wander from it or linger upon it.

PROBLEM IN ALASKA.

Urges Development by Nation of Natural Resources and Full Territorial Form of Government.

A duty faces us with regard to Alaska which seems to me very pressing and very imperative; perhaps I should say a double duty, for it concerns both the political and the material development of the territory. The people of Alaska should be given the full territorial form of government, and Alaska, as a storehouse, should be unlocked. One key to it is a system of railways. These the government should itself build and administer, and the ports and terminals it should itself control in the interest of all who wish to use them for the service and development of the country and its people.

But the construction of railways is only the first step—is only thrusting in the key to the storehouse and throwing back the lock and opening the door. How the tempting resources of the country are to be exploited is another matter, to which I shall take the liberty of from time to time calling your attention, for it is a policy which must be worked out by well considered stages, not upon theory but upon lines of practical expediency. It is part of our general problem of conservation. We have a freer hand in working out the problem in Alaska than in the states of the Union, and yet the principle and object are the same wherever we touch it. We must use the resources of the country, not lock them up.

There need be no conflict or jealousy as between state and federal authorities, for there can be no essential difference of purpose between them. The resources in question must be used, but not destroyed or wasted; used, but not monopolized upon any narrow idea of individual rights as against the abiding interests of communities. That a policy can be worked out by conference and concession which will release these resources and yet not jeopard or dissipate them I for one have no doubt, and it can be done on lines of regulation which need be no less acceptable to the people and government of the nation at large, whose heritage these resources are. We must bend our counsels to this end. A common purpose ought to make agreement easy.

EMPLOYER'S LIABILITY ACT.

Urges Legislation to Safeguard Workmen Both on Land and Sea—Points Out Needed Economical Reforms.

Three or four matters of special importance and significance I beg that you will permit me to mention in closing.

Our bureau of mines ought to be equipped and empowered to render even more effectual service than it renders now in improving the conditions of mine labor and making the mines more economically productive as well as more safe. This is an all important part of the work of conservation, and the conservation of human life and energy lies even nearer to our interest than the preservation from waste of our material resources.

We owe it in mere justice to the railway employees of the country to provide for them a fair and effective employer's liability act; and a law that we can stand by in this matter will be no less to the advantage of those who administer the railroads of the country than to the advantage of those whom they employ. The experience of a large number of the states abundantly proves this.

We ought to devote ourselves to meeting pressing demands of plain justice like this as earnestly as to the accomplishment of political and economic reforms. Social justice comes first. Law is the machinery for its realization and is vital only as it expresses and embodies it.

An international congress for the discussion of all questions that affect safety at sea is now sitting in London at the suggestion of our own government. So soon as the conclusions of that congress can be learned and considered we ought to address ourselves, among other things, to the prompt alleviation of the very unsafe, unjust and burdensome conditions which now surround the employment of sailors and render it extremely difficult to obtain the services of spirited and competent men such as every ship needs if it is to be safely handled and brought to port.

May I not express the very real pleasure I have experienced in co-operating with this congress and sharing with it the labors of common service to which it has devoted itself so unreservedly during the past seven months of uncomplaining concentration upon the business of legislation? Surely it is a proper and pertinent part of my report on "The State of the Union" to express my admiration for the diligence, the good temper and the full comprehension of public duty which has already been manifested by both the houses, and I hope that it may not be deemed an impertinent intrusion of myself into the picture if I say with how much and how constant satisfaction I have availed myself of the privilege of putting my time and energy at their disposal alike in counsel and in action. WOODROW WILSON.

Medical Specialists In England.

What makes a doctor a specialist? Can any physician or surgeon with money behind him take a house in Harley street or neighborhood and practice as a specialist? He can do so, but it by no means follows that he will be recognized as a specialist by the profession.

To win the professional status of specialist a man must hold or have held a professorship at a medical school or an appointment at a hospital in connection with the disease or group of diseases in which he professes to specialize.

Further, he must conform to certain rules of professional conduct. He must not take a less fee than 1 guinea—2 guineas is the rule in London, and some charge 3 or even more—for a consultation, save in extraordinary circumstances. He must not see a new patient except on the introduction of the patient's own medical man. If called to a case the patient's medical man must be present or the specialist will decline to see the sufferer.—London Tatler.

Public Health.

Diseases and epidemics used to be counted as "acts of God" in the old legal phrase. It has taken modern sanitary science to discover that the most of them result from acts of man and that a good portion of the rest may be controlled by the exercise of man's power over nature. The United States government has been a pioneer among the nations in demonstrating the power of modern sanitation to save life. It sent Waring to Havana. He made it a city of health and laid down his life in so doing. It took a fever smitten tropic wilderness, its noxious jungles steaming under a torrid sun, and the death rate of the Panama canal zone is today an example to the most salubrious regions of the world. The whole history of modern sanitation tends to drive home public responsibility for public health.—St. Louis Republic.

A Fairly Good Reason.

Sir William Meredith, chief justice of Ontario, and Mr. Hellmuth are mutual fathers-in-law, the lawyer's daughter having wedded the son of the knight. During a rather tedious argument on a case which Sir William was hearing Mr. Hellmuth was proceeding to elaborate on a certain point of law which he thought had an important bearing on the issue. But the chief justice thought otherwise. He was impatient. For awhile he listened to the lawyer's argument; then he leaned back with an air of boredom and interrupted with: "Mr. Hellmuth, it seems to me that this is not relevant. What reason is there why I should be compelled to listen to all this?" Mr. Hellmuth's mouth had just a suspicion of a smile around its corners as he answered: "Reason, my lord? Why, $8,000 a year."

Canals of Venice as Sewers.

One by one the illusions of life are shattered. Who has not heard of the gondoliers of Venice, the sweet singers whose voices are wafted across the waters as they guide their graceful craft through the canals of the streetless city? "I used to think how poetical it was," said a returned traveler, "but I found the real reason for their singing was a very practical one. Venice has absolutely no sanitary regulations, and the little canals are just so many sewers into which is dumped all the garbage from the houses. There is no system of plumbing, and the refuse is simply thrown from the windows, so unless you let the householder know you are passing by you are apt to get a douche of dirty water or garbage."—New York Tribune.

CAPITAL AND LABOR

A Sermon by REV. DR. G. R. MAGUIRE

Before a throng that taxed the auditorium of the Park Avenue Baptist church to its utmost capacity and overflowed into the Bible school room, Rev. Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire preached Sunday night from the text, "Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them." In announcing the subject of his sermon, "Capital and Labor," Dr. Maguire told his congregation that he knew of only three ministers who had ever preached from the same text and topic, and that all three pastors were requested by their church board to resign their charges. Dr. Maguire said he knew not what his own fate would be, but his uncertainty on this point did not deter him from speaking the plain truth throughout his discourse.

The greatest war the world has ever seen, the speaker said, is that between capital and labor, a war of centuries, reaching throughout Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and America. The middle classes in this country who have held the balance of power acting as mediator between the two extremes, are diminishing, should this state of affairs continue as it has during the past twenty-five years, there will soon be no middle classes—there will be the very rich or the very poor, palaces or hovels. Some people have an idea that this trouble between capital and labor is just like a crying child that will soon fall asleep; but the problem is far more serious than that. Most of the men who have tried to pacify these two parties have miserably failed. The Trades' Unions are more bitter today than it ever was. "Give us more wages," cry the employes. "You shall have less," says the capitalist. There are 10,000,000 people in this country tonight on the verge of starvation, and 4,000,000 paupers. Several million hungry people cannot be kept quiet very long, no matter how large the police force, nor how many the enactments of the Legislature.

This war between capital and labor will never be settled by human wisdom. Christianity is the only force in the universe that has the power to settle this controversy. There are in this country of ours 77,000,000 boys and girls, men and women, who never attend the Sunday-school, or come under any religious influence whatsoever; and 10,000,000 between the ages of 5 and 18 who receive no religious training.

The laboring class is not found in our churches today, and there's a reason for it. They think the church is supported by the capitalist, and that therefore the rich own the preacher. The church has got to wake up. There is too much cold-storage religion. A conservative estimate is responsible for the appalling fact that 95% of the ministers of today are paid by capitalists, and the church has got to wipe out that reproach. The greatest strike leader in the United States at a certain labor meeting advised the men to have nothing to do with preachers because they were the tools of the capitalist. Do you blame the laboring man for keeping away from the church? There is too much Churchianity, and not enough Christianity. You men who have wealth must get the grace of God in your heart and then put your arm around this class of people who never cross the threshold of a church door. It's a sin to build million dollar churches in New York city, with the thousands of poor and needy at our very doors. That's Churchianity, not Christianity. Jesus Christ loved the poor as well as the rich. Whether you are rich or poor, if your heart doesn't throb for those in distress, you're not fit to live. The church must accept the truth that labor, and not capital, is the basis of production, or she will never have the working force within her courts, neither will she enjoy the blessing of God.

How shall we solve the problem? First, this controversy between monopoly and labor cannot be stopped by crying out against the rich. There is no laboring man in America who wouldn't be rich if he could. It is no sin to be rich if the riches are attained honestly; if fortunes are amassed through skill and industry; but if wealth comes through grinding down the wages until there is barely sufficient to keep soul and body together; if the millionaire is known to take the bread from the children's mouths, the curse of God will surely follow him.

Second, neither is this problem solved by a cynical and unsympathetic treatment of the laboring classes. The tendency of our times is to make the chasm between capital and labor wider and wider; the bridge is broken at both ends, and only the Church of God can repair it.

Third, this question can never be settled by violence. God never blessed murder. If you were to blow up all the magnificent residences in Plainfield tonight, all the brick and stone would fall back upon your own head. The attempt to blow up the House of Commons threw thousands of Irish out of positions. The torch applied to the factory, the obstacle placed upon the railroad track to wreck the train because of the dislike felt for the president of the road, all are hard blows on the head of American labor, crippling its arms and piercing its heart.

Again, anarchy will never heal the breach. Barbarism never was known to cure the ills of civilization.

Capital and labor stand today with thumbs on each other's throats, and it's high time we looked somewhere for a settlement of the difficulty; and this is not to be found in Churchianity. There is too much caste in the church today, too much bowing and scraping to Mr. and Mrs. Somebody-or-other because they live in a big house, have several servants, and their names head all the society affais. Thank God, the time is coming when the Church, like a sleeping lion, will wake up. No force or influence in the universe will ever be able to settle this momentous question but the Church of the Living God.

The day is coming when the lady of the house will apply the Golden Rule to her treatment of her servants, and the capitalist will look upon the men working for him as human belings. When that happy time arrives, many servants in the homes, and men in the factories and mines, will wonder what has come over their employers; but they will soon discover that it is merely a dose of real Christianity that has changed the attitude of the employer toward the employed. And one of the happy results of such a dose is the honest desire of the servant and the laboring man to work for his employer more conscientiously than ever before; and if times are hard, they'll work along a while without pay until business picks up. This is not a picture drawn from imagination, but an established fact. Where is this to begin? In our own homes, in our stores, in our shops, but first of all in our churches. You Christian employers have got to do differently; get a good dose of Christianity. The great want of the world today is this Christ-like injunction to do unto others as we would be done by.

The law of demand supply will never regulate this thing so long as God is on His throne. Do you know who demand and supply are? They stand on the shore, one on one side, and one on the other; a boat comes along and they say, you pay us what we demand, or down you go to the bottom. Supply and demand are partners in a robber firm, the biggest liars the world has ever seen. They buy up all the wheat and corn and eggs, putting it away in crib and cold storage, and then turning to us, say, pay what we demand or starve. That's the devilish law of supply and demand.

Capitalists, be your own executors, make investments for eternity. Don't spend it all on your mansions. Don't walk around among your employes as though you were the monarch of all you survey; you're made of common clay, just the same as the man who works for you and helps you to make your millions. You're only a trustee of the wealth you have accumulated. Your shroud wont have any pockets. You will occupy only a little space about six feet long and two feet wide in the ground some day. You're no better than your men. Be a real Christian employer, not merely a church employer. A certain man died leaving behind him $20,000,000, and not one dollar in the will for charity or the church. I call that a disgrace to civilization.

And now a word to the laboring man—don't judge Christianity by the modern Churchianity. Be a Christian yourself, and measure your life by the Golden Rule. The greatest field of labor is Jesus Christ. All who do not live up to the Golden Rule is in discord with Him. Jesus says, give all you can. The world tells us to get all we can, and to can all we get. Christ promises that if we sow bountifully we shall reap bountifully.

Jesus is the only one who can settle this gigantic question—He who first opened his eyes not in a mansion, but in a stable; who spent his first night with shepherds; who worked like any other carpenter at his trade; who resigned all for others, and who died a death of shame on the Cross. Before such a Cross I ask the capitalist and the laborer to meet, to shake hands, to permit the Golden Rule to govern their lives, and to worship the Savior who gave His life for both.

Sensible Christmas Gifts

The real value of a gift cannot be computed in terms of money alone—utility, interest and lasting beauty are determining factors.

What gift could be more appropriate and acceptable than an Eastern Rug which, in weave and effect, is the same today as that carried by the traveller in the Holy Land centuries ago?

The association of locality, and the charm of the old designs, wrought in a fabric of extreme durability and utility, provide for the recipient a source of constant gratification for many years.

Dependable rugs of the old designs can be supplied at prices ranging from $12.00 upward.

Mail Orders will be carefully and conscientiously filled.

"DEITY OF JESUS CHIRST," HIS THEME

Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong Delivers Second of Series of Sermons.

Dr. Philip B. Strong delivered the second of his series of sermons on Jesus Christ Sunday morning: "Jesus Christ; His Deity."

In opening the subject, Dr. Strong said, "Any doctrine that requires labyrinthine argument and juggling with the Scripture in order to substantiate it is not worth the while. The doctrine of the deity of Christ is not one of these, however. Jesus came at a time when learning was by no means at ebb-tide, but when great teachers like Shammai and Hillel were in their prime, and into the golden age of philosophy. Jesus needed not to quote from any of these, nor even from the Old Testament to buttress any thing He said, but only to illustrate. 'I am not come simply to teach truth; I am the truth,' said Jesus.

"What was the impression men had of Him while He was among them? These people knew men. No race has ever been able to boast such great men as the Hebrew race: Moses, Abraham, Joshua, David, Isaiah—how their greatness overawes us as we study them! And yet these people said of Jesus: 'Never man spake as this man.' Thomas, who was reluctant to believe for a time, exclaimed, 'My Lord and my God!' After the crucifixion, the centurion staggered by the awfulness of the tragedy, affirmed: 'Surely this was the son of God!'

"In fact, the New Testament does not set out to prove the deity of Christ so much as it does to prove His humanity. It assumes His deity, as do all but His enemies, and even they admit His sinlessness, which could not have been said of any other being of their time or any other. Jesus Himself is the only one who used the term, 'Son of Man,' in speaking of Himself. The difficult thing for His friends to believe was not His deity, but that the Word could be made flesh and dwell among them.

"Infidels grant that in Jesus Christ were only characteristics which if expanded would make the character of God Himself. By His own statement on many occasions He was not only Son of God, but deity Itself, the Lord (or Jehovah) Christ.

"Only in Him can we see God and know Him, for He was God incarnate; only through Him can we approach the Father, and only by Him have we the hope of eternal life."

The departure of the cook or maid does not prostrate the lady who knows the efficiency of Press want ads.

DOES RACE WAR EXIST AT WASHINGTON SCHOOL

That there is a race war at the Washington School was the assertion of Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn, testifying this morning in the city court, when William Dixon, colored, 14 years old, of 516 West Fourth street, was arraigned before Judge DeMeza, charged with knocking down and beating a five-year-old white boy.

Flynn said he had received many complaints of this character. This morning, Flynn happened along and saw one of the teachers separating the colored prisoner from his adversary.

The meeting began at 11 o'clock, and a feature was an address by Rev. Charles P. Tinker, of New York, who for five years was chaplain of "The Tombs." He spoke on "The Bright Side of Immigration," which was followed by an informal discussion. Mr. Baer entertained the clericus at luncheon.

REVILLE IS ENDORSED FOR POSTMASTERSHIP

The Jefferson Democratic Club last night endorsed Councilman Patrick J. Reville for the postmastership appointment and ordered the following message telegraphed to United States Senator James E. Martine and Congressman William E. Tuttle:

"The Jefferson Democratic Club of Plainfield, comprising seventy-five active Democrats, at a regular meeting held tonight, unanimously endorsed Patrick J. Reville for postmaster. Reville is fully capable and is only one entitled to position. Reville has approval of a large majority of Democrats and citizens. As a true public official we request you to respect the people's wishes by appointing Reville. We intend to back up our endorsement on Election Day.

UNION COUNTY PROVES TO BE AN EASY MARK

Elizabeth, Dec. 2.—After John Clinton Lear, formerly of this city, had been brought back from Florida by extradition proceedings at an expense of some $600 to Union county, on an indictment charging him with the larceny of $23 from the Metropolitan Insurance Co., he was only fined $24, when arraigned before Judge James C. Connolly, in the Court of Quarter Sessions, in Elizabeth.

The Union County Board of Freeholders will pay the bill of two police officers' trip to Florida. This sort of thing has been going on for some time but none has objected.

GRADUATE NURSES REJECT HOSPITAL GOVERNORS OFFER

The Nurses' Alumna Association of Muhlenberg Hospital Training School at its regular monthly meeting, yesterday afternoon, voted to reject the proposition of the board of governors for the endowment of a bed in the institution for disabled nurses. The conditions set forth were that the association should furnish a room at an expense of $200 and that all members admitted to it would be treated at a charge of $2.50 per day, the hospital to have the use of the room at all other times. The alumna reached the conclusion that more acceptable arrangements could be made otherwise and declined the proposition. It was afterward decided to establish a mutual benefit fund for disabled nurses and this matter will be arranged for at the next regular meeting.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 36.

I BELIEVE in classified advertising. I believe that the classified columns of a good newspaper are the natural market-place for human wants.

Glance through the advertisements in the classified columns of the newspaper you are reading. Is there not something vitally interesting and human in the little announcements listed there?

Some one asked me the other day if I really believe what I preach in these Talks. I do. No man can even attempt to write convincingly unless he believes in his own printed word. I know the "pulling power" of Classified advertising, and no one can make me believe other than that it pays.

Proof? Why, yes,—in my own experience and in the experience of many of my friends and acquaintances I have seen the little, but mighty WANT AD "work out." My own entry into the newspaper business was effected some eight or ten years ago, through a WANT AD. A little announcement set in the middle of some white space in the Classified columns, attracted the attention of the Business Manager of a newspaper in my native city, and a position on that newspaper resulted.

I know of folks who have advertised in the Classified columns for cooks, for butlers, for maids, for stenographers, for positions, for help, for horses; for automobiles—for pretty nearly anything you can think of. And they got what they advertised for.

There are exceptions to every rule that was ever made, but I know, just as surely as I know that the carriage of this typewriter is humming along with every stroke of the keys, that, in the great majority of instances, the little WANT AD. is a power 'way out of proportion with its trivial cost.

WE OPEN OUR

500th STORE

THIS WEEK

In 1859 we opened our first store at 49 Vesey Street, New York City, and this week we are opening our 500th store in Woonsocket, R. I. To celebrate this event, showing the progress of our business, we have arranged this week a Complimentary Sale in which you are invited to participate. The values we are offering are more than liberal and many articles in the grocery line are being sold considerably less than you have been paying for them—500 STORES—QUALITY AND PRICE WILL TELL.

EXTRAORDINARY COFFEE SALE

For one week, from December 1st to December 6th, inclusive, we will sell our popular brands of Coffee at a lower price than they have ever been offered to the public before. In making these concessions in price our object is primarily to make new Coffee customers, for we think that if you will favor us with a trial purchase that we will be able to retain you as permanent Coffee customers. When you have been in the habit of paying 25c, 30c, 35c and 40c a pound for your Coffee, you will find values in our store for this week which you cannot afford to overlook. Remember that these exceptionally low prices that we have made are for one week only, and on December 8th our regular prices will prevail—IONA 25c, SULTANA 30c, AMBOSA 32c, and EL RYAD 35c. You should take advantage of this great offering.

PREVAILING FAD OF CRIME PLAYS.

"The Master Mind" and "Within the Law" Lead In Popularity.

Since "Within the Law" and "The Master Mind" established their history making runs, respectively at the Eltinge Theater and the Harris Theater, New York, playwrights have vied with each other in their efforts to present to theater goers plays where the central figures are criminals and where the principal situations have to do with crime or its detection. In some instances authors have gone even beyond the limit prescribed by conventionality—a polite term for decency—and introduced characters in their plays that were nothing short of revolting. This overzeal has recently resulted in the suspension of two dramatic offerings in New York and the temporary closing of two of its principal theaters.

While many interesting characters can be evolved by playwrights from people of the underworld they only interest through whatever characteristic they possess that, though vicious, compels admiration generally by its ingenuity of virility. The public have no sympathy or interest in stage characters that are simply evil and are quick to resent the introduction of simply degenerate types or characters that represent the unspeakable element of the underworld. It was the stage presentations of such types that led to the theater closings referred to above.

In "Within the Law," with a couple of exceptions, almost every character was likable, and the same may be said with even more emphasis of "The Master Mind." In the latter play its author, Daniel D. Carter, presents through most gripping lines and situations an interesting struggle between two master minds—the crook and the district attorney; each dominating individuality striving for the ascendency, and finishes with an astonishing climax, showing that the inocent victim of the crook, a young girl, who as a means of revenge upon the district attorney he has forced into a life of crime and succeeds in marrying to the attorney, proves to be the master mind of them all and conquers through love where the machinations of hate fail.

Scene between the district attorney and Lucene, alias Maggie Flint, in "The Master Mind," an intensely interesting play of politics and intrique, which will be presented at the Plainfield Theatre, Tomorrow Night.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Most notable, perhaps, of the forthcoming theatrical events announced for the near future is the engagement of Graham Moffat's 'Bunty Pulls the Strings," the three-act play of Scotch life and manners that swept London and New York off its feet and is still captivating the entire country. "Bunty" will come to the Plainfield theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening. The theatregoers have manifested keen interest in the coming of "Bunty" and a capacity audience undoubtedly will greet the famous play. "Bunty Pulls the Strings" began its career in London more than two years ago. Hearing of its tremendous success, the Messrs. Shubert and William A. Brady secured the American rights and, with the assistance of Graham Moffat, the author, gathered a company of the best Scotch players obtainable for the American production of the play. "Bunty" surprised even her producers, however, for when the Scotch players arrived in New York to present "Bunty" there was no advance heralding nor any theatrical announcements foretelling the success that was in store for the production. To those who are familiar with the ups and downs of theatrical speculations, this fact seems incredible, but it is the exception that proves the rule. The rule for success in the theatrical business is a skillful selection of plays, adapted to the mood of the public at the time of their presentation. There was no way of telling whether the playgoing public of New York was in a mood for "Bunty" for the simple reason that "Bunty" was so different from all other plays that had preceded it in the metropolis.

"RUBBY" ROBERT IN THE "MOVIES"

Fitzsimmons Will Appear in "A Fight for Life" With His Big Boy.

"Lanky Bob" Fitzsimmons yesterday signed a contract with a motion picture concern to play in a drama of pugilism and love written especially for him by Robert H. Davis, the former heavyweight champion's press agent in the heydey of his success in the roped arena years ago. "Bob" has been rehearsing his part on his farm in Donellen for some weeks past and the village gossips have been craning their necks for a glimpse of the speckled fellow taking the role of a thespian.

In the story of love and pugilism the fighter will meet his seventeen-year-old son, Bob, Jr., who is bigger than his father and built along the same lines as his parent, in the ring and with fatherly care will knock out the proud possessor of his world renowned name. Bob, Sr., will announce on the film that he is training his boy for a greater fighter than his father. The play is entitled "A Fight for Life."

Query—In walking down the main street of Plainfield I have noticed three clocks, which have evidently been placed on the thoroughfare for the use and benefit of the public. All three of these clocks tell a different tale as far as time is concerned all being a matter of five or six minutes out of the way. Why is this not inquired into by the city officials and why are those who have been allowed to place clocks in front of their places of business not compelled to regulate the timepieces properly?—P. E. T.

Answer—We have also noticed this feature on West Front street but will have to refer you to the City Council to get the information you desire. Put the matter up to the members of the Council at the next meeting.

WESLEY GIRLS AGAIN ATTACK AN OFFICIAL

Newark Basketball Referee Alleged to Have "Thrown" the Game to His Team.

Feminine basketball rules as they now stand are once more causing their annual dissensions and new arguments have already cropped out for the revision of the code in a way that will produce uniformity in high school, church and independent factions. Last season a team of Plainfield maidens went to Paterson to play the Wesley Methodist church quintet of that place and when the Queen City representatives succeeded in scoring a victory at the expense of the Silk City five a howl went up from the defeated faction, alleging certain infractions of the rules which had been overlooked by the referee according to the Paterson manager.

From certain conditions that have made themselves noticeable since the contest and victory of last year it is now the conseasus of opinion among those who watch the destinies of the Paterson girls that the management has the deplorable habit of charging inefficient refereeing following every defeat that is administered to the Silk City maidens. So rarely is a defeat encountered on the home floor that the maidens of that town are entirely unused to it and do not know how to receive the trimming.

Although a number of cohorts sided with the Silk City quintet following the defeat at the hands of the Plainfielders all sympathy vanished last night when a team from the High Street Presbyterian church, of Newark, hung up an 8 to 7 defeat over the Patersonians. Here is what Manager Williard G. Stanton, of the Paterson girls, has to say about the contest: "The referee in the second period was a Newark man and he called twenty-two fouls on the Wesley girls. In the second half the Newark official could not see an infraction committed by the team he managed."

LOCALS DID NOT ROLL.

The Knights of Columbus Bowling League match scheduled to be rolled on the Belleville alleys between the Watchung Council and the Belleville pinners last night was indefinitely postponed.

GOOD MATERIAL OUT FOR P. H. S. BASKETBALL FIVE

The first basketball practice of the season was held in the Plainfield High School gymnasium yesterday afternoon under the direction of Captain Andrew Hetfield, who put his squad of players through a stiff preliminary tryout. Considering the fact that many of the best performers were lost through graduation last June the candidates that turned out yesterday afternoon formed an encouraging nucleus around which a team will be formed.

The forward and guard positions are being sought by an array of excellent material and the only spot that is causing Hetfield the least anxiety is the centre position. Guy Snyder, a substitute on last year's five and an old standby of Hope Chapel, was tried out in the pivot berth yesterday and did exceedingly well considering his unfamiliarity with this position. Hetfield will play forward and to date this is the only spot filled on the quintet.

KEARNEY H. S. QUINTET COMING FOR REVENGE

When the North Plainfield and Kearny High School basketball teams meet on Saengerbund Hall court tomorrow afternoon, there will be a royal battle, the former team wanting to make it two victories this year, while the team from Newark is coming with a spirit of revenge for the defeat three weeks ago.

If Kearny brings the same five as played the first game basketball enthusiasts will see two of the most evenly matched High School teams in these parts play.

"RUS" BEATTY OUT WITH A POOR SQUAD

Columbia Captain May Not Be Able to Compete With Intercollegiates.

Twenty men reported to Coach Wefers for the first indoor track practice at Columbia yesterday. It was the poorest showing in years, and considering that only five of the veterans remain from last year the outlook does not appear overbright. McDonald, Brady, Duke, Olmstead and Captain Beatty, formerly of Leal School, form the veteran five, and Beatty has such a lame shoulder that he will not be able to compete before the intercollegiate championships. Wefers told the squad that seventy men were the least he could work with to any successful end.

To encourage a larger squad trips to Syracuse, Annapolis and Boston will be enjoyed by the men who make the team. It is the intention of Manager Griffen to enter individuals in the New York A. C. meet on February 11, the Hartford Naval Militia meet on February 22 and the Fordham University games. The Columbia University games will be held at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory. The date is pending, probably February 17.

ED KONETCHY ANXIOUS TO JOIN THE GIANTS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 2. Ed Konetchy, the big first baseman of the Cardinals, has thrown down his gauntlet to owners of the National League club in this city, it was learned yesterday. Konetchy demands a transfer to the New York Giants.

His ultimatum declares that unless he is turned over to McGraw he will jump to the Federal League. He threatens to take five of his associates with him in case he champions the cause of the "outlaws."

SEEK SENDER OF FALSE NOTE TO FOOTBALL STAR

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 2.—It has become known her that Nicholls, quarterback of the Naval Academy team, received a telegram just before the Army-Navy game in New York, Saturday, in which it was stated that his father was very ill and that he should start for home at once.

From certain things in the telegram, Nicholls did not believe that it was genuine and played throughout the game, when a reply to his telegram made it certain that his father was not even ill.

The Navy Academy authorities are investigating the incident, and it is hoped that the telegram was not intended for Midshipman Nicholls, but was delivered to him by mistake. Some believe that somebody who had bet on the Army took this method of trying to disconcert Nicholls, who was to handle the team. The telegram was dated Baltimore, while the famliy of Nicholls lives in Spantanburg, S. C.

PUGILISM WILL BE TAUGHT IN Y. M. C. A.

Jack Payne Will Instruct Boxing Pupils in the Arena Game.

The manly art of self-defense with all its tricks and inside points will be introduced into the routine of class work in the Y. M. C. A. tonight by Jack Payne, formerly a member of the local police force and one of the best known scrappers in this vicinity. Payne will instruct those who aspire to become experts in the pugilistic game in the science of boxing, the way to dispose of an antagonist in the most approved style.

Many Y. M. C. A. members have engaged in friendly fistic encounters in the association "gym" from time to time but there has never been a competent instructor to coach the would-be pugilists in the fine points of the sport. Plenty of big men will be on hand to serve as punching bags for the lightweights, featherweights and welterweights and Payne will personally supervise each jab administered by his pupils.

Aside from slugging and defensive work the former copper will introduce shadow boxing as a means of training and his pupils will be put through strenuous and instructive series of lessons in the boxing game. Payne has received pointers from many of the stars of the roped arena during his career as a gloved artist and is thoroughly competent to instruct the younger generation.

Payne will meet with his class for the first time in the association "gym" sometime this month and following the inaugural nights three classes a week will be conducted for those who desire to learn the scientific methods of delivering upper-cuts, kidney punches and rib-rattlers.

WHERE WAS THE REFEREE WHEN THIS HAPPENED?

Someone who watched the Holy Cross-Franklin football game on Cricket Field, Saturday afternoon, from the point of view of a critic submits the following communication for publication in these columns.

Sporting Editor:

In the game Saturday, which Holy Cross won from the Franklin A. A. by a score of 7 to 6 an incident occurred which was apparently overlooked by the officials. As Clarke was running down the field a player of the Franklins was closely following him and as the two neared the twenty-five yard line a Holy Cross player who was interferring for Clarke held the Franklin tackler by putting his both arms out and so impeding the progress of the Franklin runner so that Clarke was enabled to safely cross the line for a touchdown. Many people saw it but the officials evidently didn't. According to rule eight, Holy Cross was not entitled to the score.

Yours truly,
HOLY CROSS FOLLOWER.

SAILORS LICKED AGAIN.

The eleven North Dakota sailors who were trounced by the Holy Cross eleven here on Thanksgiving Day afternoon underwent a similar trimming in Paterson Saturday afternoon taking a count of 25 to 3 at the hands of the Diamond F. C. The sailors greatly outweighed the Silk City team but the Diamonds used their trick plays and speed to excellent advantage and walked off with the victory in easy fashion.

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

By FRANCES MARSHALL

Spanish Economy.

It is said that the dark-eyed beauties of Spain owe much of the clearness and fine texture of their complexions and the graceful symmetry of their figures to the large amount of olive oil that is included in the Spaniard's daily diet. This is not merely a wise saying or a guess of tourists, for dietary experts say that, taken internally, there is no cosmetic so beneficial as olive oil, and doctors prescribe it in many of the ills which flesh is heir to.

We Americans are greatly to be congratulated on the fact that we are yearly consuming a larger amount of olive oil and that there are more and more housewives who are now demanding—and able to distinguish—pure olive oil from cottonseed oil and other oils more or less adulterated.

The Best Way.

The best way to eat oil and the one usually adopted by the Spaniard is raw in salad. Even the poorest housewife in Spain knows how to make a good salad, knows almost instinctively just what proportions of vinegar and lemon juice, how much salt and pepper and what touch of garlic to use.

The first thing the Spanish salad maker makes sure of is that there is no water on the salad leaves or in the bowl in which it is mixed. She then pours a little oil on the salad leaves and turns them over and over in the bowl till they are covered with it. Then she adds vinegar—in the proportion of one spoonful of vinegar to two of oil—and then she mixes the salad leaves again. Then she adds salt, red pepper—black pepper seems to the Spanish housewife an intruder—and sometimes a touch of mustard. Usually before putting the salad leaves into the mixing bowl she rubs the dish with garlic or onion. A few tablespoonfuls of clear, flavorsome meat gravy are sometimes added to give the salad flavor.

So much for the plain salad. There are some delightful mixed salads concoted in Spain. Try this one:

You will need a cupful of diced chicken, cooked, a quarter of a cupful of chopped almonds, a green sweet pepper, a Spanish onion, a head of chickory, two tablespoonfuls of vinegar and twice as much olive oil, one banana, and, if possible, one or two cold boiled beets.

First put the chicken and the chopped nuts in the salad bowl. Then cut up the pepper and onion over the meat and nuts, and add the chickory. Make a dressing of the oil and vinegar, season with salt and cayenne pepper, and pour this over the chicken mixture. Serve with garnishings of sliced beets alternated with sliced bananas.

The olive oil that is made in Spain is, in its undiluted state, heavier than that of Italy, and it is sometimes considered too highly flavored for many palates. But whether Spanish or Italian the essentials are the same and the flavor is merely a matter of taste.

This is something that every Spanish woman knows about olive oil—that it deteriorates when exposed to the effect of sunlight. It is therefore better and less expensive to buy it in tins than in glass bottles, and it should always be kept in a dark or shady place. American housewives have a way of leaving olive oil standing in the oil cruet on the buffet for an indefinite time, exposed to the sun and varying temperatures. As a matter of fact, oil should be treated with as much consideration as butter, and it should never be allowed to remain in the cruet for days at a time. The oil cruet should be considered in the light of a serving dish, not as a storing receptacle.

Some Cookery Suggestions

NUT SALADS.

THE autumn nuts now available may be used alone or in combination to make many excellent foods for the household. As salads they are particularly palatable and useful.

The following recipes for nut salads have been found popular:

English walnut meats mixed with the chicken and celery of a chicken salad give a truffle flavor. The nut meats are boiled tender first in stock.

Two Nice Relishes.

Italian Salad. Put into a salad bowl one-half pint of pickled beets, one-half pint boiled chestnuts, two hard boiled eggs and one-half cupful of pickles, all finely cut. Add one half pint finely shredded cabbage. Mix well with mayonnaise made of the yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of mustard and a little red pepper; stir gradually into this three-quarters cupful salad oil; add a little white vinegar, one tablespoonful finely chopped onion, one tablespoonful tarragon vinegar, one-quarter teaspoonful white pepper and one cupful of whipped cream. Serve and garnish with shredded lettuce leaves, chopped beets and hard boiled eggs.

Nut and Celery Salad.—Take a bunch of celery, half a pound of stoned dates and half a pound of almost any kind of nuts except almonds. Chop these into small pieces, and when they have been well mixed together add the pulp of three grapefruit; arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and dress with mayonnaise.

Nuts In Gelatin.

Pecan Salad Mold.—Take four cucumbers, slice and cover with water. Add a slice of minced onion, salt, cayenne and a little lemon juice. Simmer all for five minutes, add a small tablespoonful of gelatin and cool. When it has cooled add a cupful of English walnuts and put all on the ice to harden. To serve the salad have white lettuce leaves, break the jellied nuts in small pieces and place a large portion on each nest of small leaves. Add a stiff mayonnaise and serve.

Chestnut Salad.—Shell a pint of large chestnuts. Reject always those that are shriveled. Put the nuts over the fire in water sufficient to cover them. For a pint of water add a half teaspoonful of salt. Boil gently until perfectly tender, but not broken. Drain and when cool place on ice. At serving time arrange on crisp lettuce leaves and pour over them a French dressing. Serve ice cold.

Stencil Designs Illustrating the Story of the "Three Bears."

Stenciling is so easy to do, so artistic, when well done, and so inexpensive a method of decorating cheap materials, that it is no longer a fad but an accepted style of decoration.

First transfer your design to the stencil board and cut it out with a sharp knife or a pair of scissors, if the holes are sufficiently large. When a stencil has been once cut it may be used any number of times to form a border or an all-over pattern, thus only one repeat of each design need be cut. Lay your material over a large blotter on a table and place the cut stencil in the desired position, then fasten it with thumb tacks so that the color will not run under the edges.

Use stiff bristle brushes for stenciling and a separate one for each color. Rub the brush almost dry before applying it to the fabric and rub the color well into the material so as to give the appearance of being woven into it.

The following colors may be used by one who understands the mixing of paints, otherwise it is best to buy the shades of oil paint you wish. Alazarin crimson, permanent blue, chrome yellow, burnt sienna, vermillion, black and white. The ordinary artist's oil colors mixed with gasoline or with a preparation of turpentine, 1 pint, acetic acid, 1 ounce, oil of wintergreen, 1 ounce, make a satisfactory color medium, and the article can be washed when soiled. Only enough of the medium should be used to dilute the paint to the consistency of cream.

These designs are particularly appropriate for use in a child's room and may be used as a stencil or applique. There are five designs in the pattern which may be used on a bed spread, table runner, sofa pillow, bureau scarf and curtain.

Pattern number 14475 will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for 15 cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

8008

What could make a more practical or pleasing holiday gift than a pretty dressing sacque accompanied by a chic boudoir cap?

8008 is a one-piece design very easily and quickly made.

Albatross or China silk may be used in a dainty, soft shade with trimming bands of allover lace or of attractive figured silk.

Allover lace, net or chiffon is effective for the cap which may be lined with chiffon or mousseline in the same shade as the jacket. A frill of the plaited net or chiffon finishing the edge makes the cap very becoming.

2¾ yards of 36 inch material is required to make this sacque in size 36 with 1¼ yards of allover lace for trimming sacque and cap.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes; 32 to 44 and the cap is included.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse, again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get this famous old recipe which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT

sent by the box—of twenty packages—a hundred sticks—a hundred hours of joy—is a gift they'll keep on enjoying long after other gifts are put aside. Nearly all dealers will gladly sell it at above price!

"The Beneficial Confection" is sure to please old and young. It's ideal for holidays because it's delicious aid to appetite and digestion.

CAUTION!

The great popularity of the clean, pure, healthful WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT is causing unscrupulous persons to wrap rank imitations that are not even real chewing gum so they resemble genuine WRIGLEY'S. The better class of stores will not try to fool you with these imitations. They will be offered to you principally by street fakirs, peddlers and the candy departments of some 5 and 10 cent stores. These rank imitations cost dealers one cent a package or even less and are sold to careless people for almost any price.

Be SURE it's WRIGLEY'S

We are inserting the above caution solely to protect our customers, who are continually writing us that they have been deceived by imitations which they purchased thinking they were WRIGLEY'S

VIEWS AND IDEAS OF MRS. MARTINE

Wife of United States Senator Says a Woman's Place is in the Home.

Washington, Dec. 2—An adaptable personality is one of the most desirable assets an individual can possess. Essential to a man who aspires to public life, it is also desirable for his wife.

Such a woman—and she considers it more of a compliment to be called a woman than a lady—is Mrs. James Edward Martine, of Plainfield, wife of the senior Senator from New Jersey. The situation which tested her powers of adaptability and served as an acknowledgment of her mettle presented itself just prior to her marriage. Hear her tell of it, and mark the naivette with which she handled a molehill of contention that might easily have been magnified into a mountain of dispute.

"I was taught," she said, "and long, too, before I had the power of understanding any such weighty subject, that the only profitable political opinion worth possessing was the Republican one. If the Republicans happened to be out of power, I was told not to be faint-hearted or vacillating, but to believe that it was only the crude quality of the Democrats temporarily triumphant over the fine quality of the Republicans. So early in life I grew opinionated about these questions and mimicked my elders, as young people frequently do, without having any real ideas in my own head on the subject.

"At the same time I managed to acquire and retain a bigoted attitude of mind regarding the 'inferior democrats' that was quite unwholesome. I was also brought up in the Episcopal church and became stanch in my adherence to its practices. I, therefore, found myself as a young lady with two firmly established predelictions.

"Then I met Mr. Martine. He was a Democrat and a Presbyterian; a Democrat who knew why he was one and a Presbyterian with a full-grown disdain of the ceremonies of the Episcopal church.

"After a while we were to be married. But how could we ever agree when our opinions were so radically different! I was puzzled. I decided that we would each have to make a concession to the other, so I said to him, 'If you'll be an Episcopalian, I'll be a Democrat.' That settled it. Each of us altered one of our views, but clung to the other; saved our self-respect and indulged in a little pleasurable capitulation, which was extremely satisfying. Of course, this is confidential—Mr. Martine must never know—it really was not a great sacrifice that I made, for my Republican ideas were, after all, considering my youth, but an empty bundle of platitudes."

Charities interest Mrs. Martine. Through them she helps others adapt themselves to circumstances. They are the means by which she feels she is contributing her mite to the public happiness.

"When we lived in Plainfield," she said, "I was a director of a branch of the Needlework Guild. That organization, you know, extends its membership to both England and America. It collects new garments from members and friends to distribute to hospitals and families once every year. I have always taken an active interest in the guild because it seems to me such a fine thing to give new, fresh articles of clothing to needy people instead of the castoffs, which neither inspire respect for themselves nor the donors. When we left Plainfield to come to Washington I resigned my directorship, but I still retain my membership and contribute my articles as heretofore.

"I became interested, on my arrival here, in a home for old ladies. Many of the Congressional women who called on me asked my co-operation in its support. I became deeply interested and only the other day I had opportunity to rejoice that I had.

"The back windows of my new apartment overlook a garden. I have frequently noticed lately quite a few old ladies sitting in this garden in the middle of the day, sewing and reading. As I watched them I thought how comfortable and happy they looked. I learned afterward that this garden was attached to the home in which I was interested. I had a nice little feeling of gratification that I had perhaps been instrumental in bringing their happiness about. These are all of the charities in which I am actively working at present. I am also a member of the Young Women's Christian Association. But in getting readjusted to the new season it is not always possible to do all that one would like."

Mrs. Martine has merry eyes. A frank expression and a smile always playing about her lips give the idea that she would make a very nice person with whom to be constantly associated. Then, she is a fine housekeeper, and it is always a pleasure to find a woman who can go into her kitchen and turn out a famous old-time pumpkin pie. The mention of her womanly qualities led to a discussion of the uppermost question in the public mind at present—woman suffrage. Mrs. Martine is not in favor of giving the ballot to women.

"In the first place," she declared, "women are not physically fit to participate in so intense a game as politics or government. Their judgment is not always clear. There are times when they are high strung and impetuous. These times would affect materially the decisions they would be called upon to make.

"It is said that suffrage only calls for a woman's attention once a year. Why, voting doesn't consist merely of dropping a ballot into a box! That blind following of another person's direction is what the men are trying to be educated away from. Intelligent voting demands close, continued application to a consideration of the trend of national affairs, all of the year and every day. Can a woman do that and attend to her other duties at the same time?

"There is a natural division of all of the work to be performed in the world. One part is given to the men; the other to the women. When the woman usurps the man's place it will neither make for betterment of conditions by stimulation of him nor through extraordinary clever management on her part. As I say, I don't think that women have the ability to grapple with the affairs of State, and the men who so capably are doing it now will lose the sense of responsibility which this new invasion will appropriate for itself.

"The man's consciousness of power through his protective and chivalrous feelings will die away. And what is to take its place? After he comes home from his day's work for rest and recreation, suppose the wife starts a wrangle of the affairs with which he has been absorbed all day. Will it be rest, will it be recreation for him?

"Women can say all they please about a man's desire for an intellectual wife. Of course, he does not want to feel that he has married an ignoramus; but the frivolity, piquancy and charm always associated with the feminine sex constitute its chief appeal. The fun which men poke and the sense of superiority that they feel are, indeed, the source of their confidence in themselves. A man likes a feminine woman for his wife and in every other capacity, too, I am sure. If God Almighty had intended all to be alike. He would have given us beards and muscle!

"My friends," she said, "tell me of all the splendid things women have achieved, and now, with the added responsibility of the franchise, many more important reforms can be brought about. I say that women have done welfare work—and wonderful work it has been—without the ballot. What more can they do with it?

"Then, also, I am asked if I do not resent the fact that an uneducated alien may come into this country and vote while I, an American citizen familiar with the traditions of the government, am barred. But here is my answer: If the franchise is given to these men, with woman suffrage it will also be given to their equally unenlightened wives. Of course, it is a tremendous subject. I have not worked it out very completely and only for my own satisfaction. But I, personally, will never vote, even if I can."—From the Newark Sunday Call.

MADAME ALDA'S RECITAL CHARMS

Famous Prima Donna Soprano Thrills Music Lovers at Plainfield Theatre.

GIVEN GREAT OVATION

Assisted by Gutia Casini, 'Cellist, and Frank La Forge, Accompanist, Songbird is Heard at Her Best—the Program.

Before a large and appreciative audience in the Plainfield theatre, last night, Mme. Frances Alda, the prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, added new laurels to the multitude already heaped upon her. Artistically and in every other way the concert was declared by many to have been the best that has ever been presented before a Plainfield audience, and the officers and members of the Musical Club, under whose auspices the concert was arranged, were enthusiastically congratulated on the success of the entertainment. Mme. Alda was assisted by Gutia Casini, the 'cellist, and Frank La Forge, accompanist. The soprano was given a great ovation.

It was in the lighter selections that Mme. Alda seemed to please her auditors most, and this was especially true with two songs which she chose among the many given as encores: "Barcarole," from the "Tales of Hoffman," and the always popular old Scotch song, "My Laddie." A number of her selections were written by Mr. La Forge, and his masterly work at the piano added much to the success of the program. He was also well received in his rendition of several solos, "Etude de Concert," by Boothe, being especially pleasing. Mr. Casini in addition to playing three selections in a masterly manner, added much to the success of Mme. Alda's singing of "Panis Angelicus," by Cesar Franck, and the "Prayer from Tosca," by Puccini, with his well executed obligato accompaniment.

The program was as follows:

1. Variations on a Rococo Theme, Tschaikowsky, Gutia Casini; 2, (a) Lungi dal caro bene, Secchi; (b) Nymphs and Shepherds, Purcell; (c) When the Roses Bloom, Reichardt. (d) Pastorale, Carey, Mme. Alda; 3, Rhapsodie, Dohnanyi, Frank La Forge; 4, (a) Panis Angelicus, Cesar Franck; (b) Prayer from Tosca, Puccini, Mme. Alda, with 'cello obligato by Gutia Casini; 5, Romance La Forge; Etude de Concert, Boothe, Frank La Forge; 6, (a) Tausend Sterne, Leo Blech; (a) Lauf der Welt, Grieg; (c) A des Oiseaux, Hue; (d) Gavotte from "Manon," Massenet, Mme. Alda; 7, (a) Serenade, La Forge; (b) Sherzo, Klengel, Gutia Casini; 8, (a) Like the Rosebud, La Forge; (b) Expectancy, La Forge; (c) Soft-footed Snow, Siguard Lie; (d) Storielle del Bosco Viennese, Strauss-La Forge, Mme. Alda.

BOOM FOR ZEREGA FOR CO. TAX BOARD

Ellis, Not in Race, Says He Supports Another Plainfielder for Job.

Although his friends have boomed him for appointment as a member of the Union County Board of Equalization of Taxes and this newspaper yesterday commented on his qualifications, LeRoy J. Ellis, of Park avenue, today said that he is not a candidate for the job. On the other hand Mr. Ellis recommends that John F. Zerega, a New York real estate man living at 447 West Seventh sereet, be appointed to fill the vacancy on the Board, caused by Calvin E. Brodhead's resignation.

"Mr. Zerega is not only a good citizen," said Mr. Ellis, "but he is unusually well qualified for the position. I do not know of anyone who could perform the duties of the office with more ability, and he would be sure to prove himself a satisfactory official, if Acting Governor Leon Taylor should appoint him."

Many persons have written to the executive in Mr. Zerega's behalf, and a petition has also been sent to Trenton, urging the Acting Governor to appoint a Plainfielder to the position. It has been generally understood that an Elizabeth man was to receive the next appointment on the Board, as Westfield now has two representatives, but Mr. Ellis declares that any such agreement should not be put into effect until Mr. Brodhead's term expires, and that until that time this city should be represented. This opinion is being backed by all the local Democrats, who assert that the county seat "plum seekers," should not take advantage of a resignation, to have a man from their city on the Board, and thus rob Plainfield of this advantage.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS PLAN MASS MEETING

They Also Arrange to Invade the Federal Capitol Tomorrow.

Plans for a mass meeting to be held early in January at which it is hoped to have as the principal speaker, Mrs. Grace Duffield Goodwin, were discussed at the meeting of the Plainfield Branch of the New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage held at the home of Mrs. Joan Constable Moore on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon.

There was also a discussion of plans for the trip of the local delegation to Washington, today, to attend the Congressional hearing which will be held tomorrow. Sixteen States with eighteen speakers will be represented to argue against woman suffrage. The Plainfield delegation will join the other delegations on a special train from New York, which left Elizabeth at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon. The antis are very hopeful of the succesful outcome of their protest against suffrage and propose to make a strong fight at tomorrow's hearing in Washington.

MISS JANET RICHARDS SPEAKS HERE TOMORROW

At the Hartridge Auditorium at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, Miss Janet E. Richards will give the third talk in her series on "Current Topics." At this moment, when all over the world, large affairs seem to be absorbing the attention of all nations, and movements of extraordinary interest to all thinking people are in their beginnings, it is with the greatest enthusiasm that one looks forward to an intelligent and illuminating discussion of these topics by a woman so well informed and so stimulating as Miss Richards. She comes every other week to Plainfield from the seat of the National Government in this country, her mind filled with the latest reports and the newest criticism of affairs the world over.

ADVISES YOUNG MEN ON LIFE PURPOSE

Rev. Dr. R. F. Y. Pierce Gives Prescription for One's Success.

Of special interest to young men was the illustrated discourse given before a large audience last night at the Temple Baptist church by Rev. Dr. Robert F. Y. Pierce. The subject of the talk was "Our Aims In Life," and it was replete with wise counsel and warnings against that which is detrimental to life, character and success.

Dr. Pierce said youth's primary aim should be "to be good," and second "to be good for something." He urged the weak to keep on struggling for supremacy and not to be overcome by the first failure and asserted that the strong and successful man should not look down upon his less fortunate brother, but should help and aid him in every way possible for the benefit of mankind at large. The speaker also told his audience to strive for higher ideals in life and said that universal following of this rule of life was the only thing that could elevate the civilization of the world.

Dr. Pierce was introduced by Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the pastor.

DEMOCRATS AGREE ON THE PIE CUTTING

Hudson County Men Get the Largest Slice in the Distribution.

Trenton, Dec. 3.—Remembering the warning of Governor-elect Fielder that he would veto any appropriations for legislative officers in excess of those provided in the new law passed last winter, the Democratic members of the Assembly in their caucus yesterday afternoon apportioned $26,500 worth of patronage, the exact amount named in the new statute. To this will be added the salaries of the Speaker's secretary and his assistant secretary, carrying the total of $27,450. These two latter salaries are also provided for in act.

Hudson county, with its twelve Assemblymen, got the largest slice of the patronage pie:" Somerset, in addition to the Speakership, $300; Union, $2,050.

Here is some of the "pap:" Union county, assistant journal clerk, $500; Middlesex county, assistant supervisor of bills, $600; Union county, assistant sergeant-at-arms, $500.

FROM PHILADELPHIA-- OF COURSE, ASLEEP

William Ware When Found in the Scott Home, Was "Under the Influence."

A gentleman from "slow town," otherwise known as Philadelphia, was not met at the door by a haughty butler, a smiling maid-servant or a welcoming guest when he visited the home of Mrs. Walter Scott, of 418 East Front street, very late last night—in fact he wasn't met at the door by anyone—he just walked in unescorted and unheralded.

William Ware, of 4,550 Baltimore avenue, Philadelphia, was the visitor, and do not mistake me, he was not a relative or old friend of the family at all. Whether he thought he was or not, he was unable to say when arrested, because he was slightly "under the influence."

Mrs. Scott had long retired for the night as had the other members of the family. She was awakened by a noise in the hallway, probably made by a pair of shoes falling down the stairway. She also heard a strange voice mutter something about "staying up with a sick friend," etc. Mrs. Scott listened attentively. She heard the owner of the strange voice enter a bedroom, and then, aside from a few hic-coughs, all was still.

At first too scared to move, Mrs. Scott finally stepped to the telephone in her room and called police headquarters. She said burglars were in her house and to send a squad of the "finest" on the run. On the run they came. Several patrolmen hid in the bushes about the Scott estate while two entered the front door which was ajar. Guided by a light in a bedroom, the two "coppers" entered and there, sitting asleep on a chair partly disrobed, was William Ware, who said he came from somewhere, but didn't know just where.

He was taken to police headquarters and a charge of being intoxicated and disorderly was made against him. It was learned that he had alighted from a train bound for Philadelphia, at the North avenue station. When approached by he policemen he protested vigorously against being taken "from his happy home," but was finally convinced that he was in the wrong house. Ware was well dressed and evidently is a man of means. He will be arraigned before City Judge DeMeza at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

A TIMELY WARNING.

Fire Chief T. O. Doane offers a timely suggestion, a warning to mothers at the approach of the holiday season, which advice if heeded may prevent possible accidents in case of fire. He advises mothers and others against taking baby carriages into the shops, suggesting to them to leave them on the sidewalk. Chief Doane has also served notice on all the shopkeepers to keep the aisles of their store clear of baby carriages, wagon, etc., during the rush holiday season.

TO BUILD A HOUSE.

Contractor Charles L. Drake, of West Fourth street, will break ground tomorrow for the erection of a fine house at East Third and Berckman streets, to be built for John Williams, of New York. The structure will be 26x46 feet in dimensions and will cost about $4,500.

DAUGHTERS OF SCOTIA.

The regular monthly meeting of the Craig-a-lea Lodge, auxiliary to Clan Mackenzie, will be held tonight in the Exempt Firemen's Hall, on Park avenue. The election of officers for the coming year and initiation will take place at that time.

MOTOR VEHICLES' VICTIMS CRITICAL

Mrs. William S. Campbell is Dying and Du Pont's Life is in Balance.

The authorities at Muhlenberg Hospital reported at noon today that the condition of Mrs. William Scott Campbell, of 310 Grant avenue, and Andrew DuPont, of Newark, victims of automobile and motorcycle accidents respectively, were both very serious. Both have been in a semi-conscious stupor since they were received at the institution Monday night and in either case death is apt to result. This is particularly so in the case of Du Pont, whose hurts are likely to prove fatal at any moment.

Mrs. Campbell, who was knocked down at Front and Liberty streets, Monday evening, by an automobile owned and driven by Alfred A. Keenan, of East Fifth street, was formerly Miss Grace Knight, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Knight, of Elmwood place. Her marriage to Mr. Campbell took place last August, since which time she has lived on Grant avenue. She received no broken bones in the accident, her injuries all being of an internal nature and concussion.

DuPont, whose home is at 47 Marshall street, Newark, was hurt Monday night, when a motorcycle he and his brother were riding tandem crashed into a fence at Rahway road and Woodland avenue. Both men were taken to the hospital where William, the brother, quickly recovered. Andrew was struck on the head when thrown from his seat and probably has concussion of the brain.

LAPSLEY NOMINATED FOR CLUB PRESIDENT

Democratic Organization Following Naming of Officers Talks of Appointment.

The Plainfield Democratic Club held its regular monthly meeting, last night, at which officers were nominated and routine business was transacted. After adjournment, a petition favoring Councilman P. J. Reville for the postmastership appointment was circulated. The matter was also discussed in an informal way. The officers nominated for election next month were as follows:

President, Howard G. Lapsley; vice president, First ward, Theodore A. Martin; Second ward, John C. Connolly; Third ward, John S. Zerega; Fourth ward, Charles P. Singer; secretary, James J. McCann; treasurer, Fred Endress; executive committee, Peter Flynn, James E. Prindle, Henry Rosenbaum, LeRoy J. Ellis, Percy H. Stewart and John T. Caulfield.

HE SEEKS TO IMPROVE YOUTHS OF PLAINFIELD

Commodore Longfellow, formerly of the United States Volunteer Life Saving Corps, addressed the local colored Boy Scouts in the auditorium of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. last night, and was enthusiastically received by a representative delegation of that organization in Plainfield. The commodore, who has just entered a new field of boys' work, has launched a campaign in this city to train the youth of the city to interest themselves in civic affairs, and the new movement as described by the speaker last night resembles a miniature juvenile city comprising the boys scouts, public schools, Y. M. C. A., and other departments of boys' work locally. The talk last night took the form of a preliminary announcement and Mr. Longfellow was assured of the hearty support of the colored scouts in his work.

HERE'S AN INVESTMENT.

Robert Murray, the local auctioneer, will sell two frame dwellings at 322 to 328 East Third street, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. The sale will be conducted on the premises, which are desirable for homes for the purchasers, having all improvements, or will make a good investment, each house having a monthly income rental of $50. One property has two carpenter shops in the rear. The combined frontage is 130 feet by 150 feet deep. The executors of the sites are Asa Randolph and William Shotwel.

IT WAS CIVIC NIGHT FOR THE TRADE BOARD

Some of the City Officials and Others Discuss Local Problems.

In response to a general invitation issued by the Plainfield Board of Trade to city officials and others interested in civic work, many attended a meeting of the Board held in Coward Hall last night. Thirty-five members of the Board heard the informal discussion.

Among the more important topics were the subjects of paving, taxation, educational system and street work. The manner in which the various city departments were being operated and suggestions for improvement were also talked of during the meeting.

Andrew J. Gavett, street commissioner and engineer, responded to the Board's invitation to be present at the informal meeting and although he stated that he had come to listen rather than to talk, he gave a number of valuable facts concerning the department of city work of which he is the leader. The street commissioner described the present condition of the city and contrasted it to other cities of a similar size in regard to paving and keeping the streets in condition.

J. Henry Crane compared the Plainfield public school system with that of other towns in the State and complimented the Board on its efforts to promote the civic work.

F. A. Dunham, formerly county engineer, urged the passing of some ordinance whereby a uniform system of paving could be worked out here. He described the work as it has been done in Westfield and suggested a similar improvement here. In Westfield the city has issued bonds for the laying of a uniform pavement and in this way the expense is not brought to bear on the citizen at one time. He illustrated the need for some improved style of street pavement in this city and urged the Board to take steps to launch a movement which would eventually bring about this feature.

Jacob Sachar claimed that the taxes of Plainfield were too high and some way or means should be devised immediately by which a lower tax rate could be produced. Mr. Sachar stated that the government of Plainfield is not what it should be but attributed this condition to the lack of interest in civic work on the part of the residents of Plainfield. Mr. Sachar advocated a city-wide campaign to awaken interest in the improvements and other work that is being carried, or proposed carried on, and suggested this means to bring about a better municipal government in this city.

President William Jeffery, of the Board of Trade, outlined the purpose of the organization of which he is the head and urged co-operation on the part of the city officials present to aid in producing a crystallization of civic work. He suggested frequent meetings of this nature as a means of arousing public sentiment.

Following the informal talk the members and guests enjoyed a social hour during which refreshments were served by a committee of members. The annual meeting of the Board of Trade will be held in January and the following were appointed to constitute a nominating committee to elect officers for the next term: A. S. Herr, Eugene M. Laing, and Samuel Rothberg.

SUCCESSFUL REHEARSAL.

The Washington School Dramatic Club held a most successful rehearsal last night, when considerable progress was made for the forthcoming entertainment. During a business session, a constitution and by-laws prepared by Warren Suydam, were adopted, so that the club now has a working basis.

In the arrest of Edward J. O'Connor, a former employe, the police believe they have the man who stole $500 from the United States Express Company office at the North Avenue station of the Jersey Central Railroad on November 1. Since the theft was reported police and detectives have been working on the case and when Mrs. Sinn, the head bookkeeper, made a startling statement, they sought for O'Connor, who had been a friend of hers.

According to the police, O'Connor entered the Express Company office on the night of November 1 and pointing a gun at Mrs. Sinn's head demanded that she hand him a packet containing the money shipped from the Grant Avenue to the North Avenue station in the care of the company. Under duress, she claims, the police state, the money was turned over to O'Connor and he disappeared.

Located in Atlantic City where it was reported he was living a free and easy life, Police Chief Kiely went after him yesterday only to find that he had returned to Plainfield. Detective Sergeant John J. Flynn and Roundsman Andrew Saffron were detailed on the case and about 11 o'clock they located O'Connor at a local hotel.

He remained silent when questioned, but accompanied the policemen to headquarters without protest.

When searched over $37 was found on his person, although it is said that he has not been working for over three months. At Atlantic City he was staying at the Continental Hotel and other places, and is said to have frequented the "white light places" with regularity. A week ago he was in Plainfield but no attempt was made to arrest him. He spoke to several friends and when asked how he was getting alone, said: "Oh, I am managing to get enough to eat and a place to sleep." O'Connor also had many time-tables in his pockets, several good cigars and a pack of cigarettes. His fingers trembled as he stood in his cell and talked to the authorities, but his voice was steady and he is taking his plight with unusual calm.

Mrs. Sinn, who was temporarily suspended following the disappearance of the money, is said to have left her boarding place at Lakewood, where she went directly following the alleged hold-up.

SOMERSET CO. NEGRO GOES TO HIS DEATH

"Let 'Er Go" Diamond, Who Killed a Prison Keeper, Tells Electrician.

Trenton, Dec. 3.—William Diamond, a negro of Somerset county, was electrocuted at the State prison last night for the murder of Deputy Eli B. Stetser, of the State prison. Stetser was killed in a shooting duel in the centre wing of the institution when Diamond made a futile attempt to escape. Attendants at the institution say that Diamond was perhaps the only man who has stood the ordeal of forfeiting his life in the chair here without breaking down.

Diamond assumed an air of independence as he walked from murderers' row to the chair. As he entered the death house he shouted. 'Good-by boys," to the five men who are awaiting execution. Diamond prayed before the electric current was turned on and interrupted his prayers by shouting to the electrician. "Let 'er go."

They are also arranging a Christmas tree and program to entertain 250 children. As this will entail considerable expense the public, as usual, is asked to contribute to the celebration. Contributions can be sent to Adjutant and Mrs. Wall, 157 East Second street.

SESAME CLUB MEETING.

The Sesame Club will meet tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock in the home of Mrs. Rapalje, 724 Carleton avenue.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 12

IT is not illegal to eat dirt and apparently not against the pure food laws to make dirty chewing gum.

Dirt in chewing gum is not an adulteration in the ordinary sense of the word. Manufacturers don't want it in there; they did not put it in. It is simply there because it is cheaper to leave it there than to erect refineries to take it out.

But people do not have to chew dirt unless they want to.

MO-JO Gum is the only gum advertised and sold as White and Clean. It is the only gum that could be, for it is the only gum that is.

Just ask for Clean White Gum; they cannot substitute, and you will get MO-JO Gum.

A revelation of what purity and daintiness will do for Chewing Gum.

Remarkable Growth of Postal Service And Its Early History

AT this time of the year the postal service of this country is kept very busy indeed, and the parcel post system recently inaugurated adds very considerably to the burden of work. Think of the thousands of Christmas presents which will arrive at their destinations in this way! Think again, too, of the thousands of Christmas cards which are beginning to augment the regular mails! The growth of our postal service certainly is unprecedented.

There is no branch of the general government or that of older countries which has grown more rapidly than our own postal service, over which Postmaster General Burleson has supervision, with an army of employees numbering thousands.

The present service was established soon after the constitution went into effect, and in its first year the number of postoffices was but seventy-five, and its mail route was less than 2,000 miles, over which the mails were carried by horse, stage and sailing packet. At present there are over 60,000 postoffices, the number having been reduced from nearly 70,000 within the past few years through the establishment of rural routes. The number of original postoffices in 1790 was increased by 1813 to over 2,750.

In 1775 the Continental congress established a postal system of its own, to the head of which Franklin was appointed, but soon after he was called on for diplomatic duties abroad. His son-in-law, Richard Bache, took his place.

Under the constitution congress had the power to establish postoffices and post roads. During the Continental government the receipts of all the postoffices did not exceed $35,000 and in 1789 $10,000 less. Sept. 12, 1789, congress passed an act for the temporary establishment of the postoffice and for the appointment of a postmaster general, with clerks and deputies.

Feb. 20, 1792, an act was passed establishing postoffices and roads within the United States and authorized contracts for not exceeding eight years for the establishment of a general postoffice under a postmaster general and assistant, provided for the punishment of those obstructing the mails and for the negligence of ferrymen and fixed the salary of the postmaster general at $2,000 per annum and his assistant at $1,000.

The postage on each letter for a distance not exceeding thirty miles was 6 cents and for any distance over 450 miles 25 cents. Punishment was prescribed for detaining, delaying or secreting letters by fine not exceeding $300 or imprisonment of not over six months, or if any letters containing a banknote, bill of exchange, etc., were taken the punishment was death, as was the case for robbing the mails of any carrier. Newspapers were to pay 1 cent for less than a hundred miles and 1½ cents if over, and for the detention, delay, embezzlement or destruction of any paper a fine of not over $50 was provided.

The number of postoffices had by this time increased to eighty-nine, the amount of postage from $37,000 to $46,000, but the increase in mail routes was only about twenty-five miles.

The service rapidly expanded, and in 1800 the number of postoffices was 903 and the post routes had increased to nearly 21,000 miles.

There were over 2,400 postoffices by 1810, and the post routes covered over 37,000 miles, but the amount of postage had decreased.

There were 2,754 postoffices 100 years ago, 1813, in the eighteen states and a number of historical characters were recognized by a number. Washington was the name given to thirteen of them. There were six Franklins, seven Waynes and Jeffersons. There were five Hamiltons, Harrisons, Jacksons, Madisons and Montgomeries and four Morrises.

A Way to Cut That Extra Heat

There are times in all houses when a little extra heat, for an hour or two, would be very desirable.

Many persons do not like to sleep in steam heated bedrooms, yet the chill of the morning air is none too comfortable in the morning.

Sometimes a little more heat would feel fine in the living room, or the sewing room, or the library or the bathroom.

You can secure just the extra heat you want by using a gas heater. They can be had at all kinds of prices, and with gas at 90 cents a thousand cubic feet, can be made to give good service at small cost.

RED CROSS SEALS.

Red Cross Seals for the Christmas season are on sale at various places about the city and it is expected that they will be disposed of rapidly for every one sold here, as we have said before, means just so much more for the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League's work. One of the chief activities of this body is to be found in the Fresh Air School for anemic children. But there are other lines of effort engaged in by the organization in stamping out the Great White Plague and funds are constantly needed for the expense is necessarily large. You will help provide for this aggressive campaign and at the same time give encouragement to those self-sacrificing citizens who have charge of the work by buying as many Red Cross stamps as you fee lthat you can afford.

PARTY SPOILS

It was a foolish piece of business for the Jefferson Democratic Club to make a threat in their telegram to Senator Martine and Congressman Tuttle endorsing a candidate for the postmastership. The membership of this body has a perfect right to endorse any aspirant and their wishes should be given due consideration. Fut when it comes to adding that "we intend to back up our endorsement on election day," they show that they care more for the spoils than they do for the principles.

"I do not desire any elaborate inauguration, I do not think the National Guard should be called out, or that there should be any other elaborate functions. A simple ceremony such as Governor Wilson had is good enough for me."—Governor-elect Fielder.

We'l said and coming from the source it does it has the ring of sincerity.

Says the New York World, "As the Monroe Doctrine was aimed at the Holy Alliance so the Wilson Doctrine is aimed at the professional revolutionist." The President's declaration as to our attitude towards Guerilla governments on the American continent, it is safe to predict, will be only second in importance to a Constitutional provision.

In the "count your many blessings" class, we might mention Muhlenberg Hospital. Some one of these days we hope to see the Y. M. C. A. and the Plainfield Anti-Tuberculosis League fare so well.

Awfully disappointing to find The Sun this morning not giving President Wilson a spanking. But you can "bet your boots" that Willie "Hoirst" isn't going to let the opportunity escape.

Be a "Spug." The Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving has a real mission to perform. It is supplying what may be stereotyped as "a long felt want."

The length of President Wilson's message is about the size of the opening paragraph of one of former President Roosevelt's.

Next Sunday will be Tuberculosis Day in the local churches. You should hear what is to be said on this vital problem.

The suffragists will probably say that the President is a hateful thing for not mentioning their cause in his annual message.

Progressives drop Teddy—Newspaper headline.

FIELDER'S INAUGURATION TAKES PLACE JANUARY 20

Trenton, Dec. 3.—The first step toward the inauguration of James F. Fielder, of Hudson county, as the forty-second Governor of New Jersey since the adoption of the State Constitution was taken yesterday afternoon when the caucusses of the Democratic members of the Senate and Assembly appointed the joint committee to arrange for and conduct the ceremony.

As the inauguration will take place on Tuesday, January 20, only one week after the organization of the Legislature, it would not do to let the plan go until the two Houses were formally underway for business, and on this account the majority caucusses took the usual course by naming the joint committee and empowering it to make the preliminary arrangements.

ROOSEVELT'S TRIP IS FULL OF PERILS

Will Risk His Life In Plunge Into South American Wilds.

UNKNOWN DANGERS AHEAD.

Interior Country of Brazil Inhabited by Savages and Is Almost Impenetrable Jungle—Expedition Undertaken In Interest of Science.

That the great inland trip through the center of South America that is soon to be undertaken by Colonel Roosevelt and his party, in the interest of science, will yield a richer harvest in increased knowledge by the world than his African journey, and that it is also of a more difficult and dangerous nature is the opinion advanced by Rt. Rev. Dr. Lucien Lee Kinsolving, bishop of Southern Brazil, at Rio Grande do Sul, capital of the southernmost of the United States of Brazil. Dr. Kinsolving visiting in Washington, in a conversation a few days ago, spoke of the vast territory to be traversed and touched upon some of the dangers of such a tremendous trip.

"It is hard to realize the length of such a journey and the vast variety of country to be passed through," said Bishop Kinsolving. "Nearly the whole length of the South American continent must be passed over, as you can readily realize if you look at the map in connection with the verbal outline of the trip."

Colonel Roosevelt and his party, which is to be a large one and which, owing to the absolutely wild state of the interior, must proceed almost entirely by waterways, is to start on or about Dec. 15 from Buenos Aires, in Argentina. He will be accompanied by representatives of the National Geographic society, by experienced white guides and by native guides and crews and many others, either hired for the occasion or anxious to go along in the interests of geography, zoology, botany and other sciences. They intend to proceed up the La Plata to its large branch, the Parana, and up that stream past Asuncion, the capital of Paraguay, into the wild back district of Brazil, a state named Matto Grosso, or, translated, "big woods" or "wild woods."

An Immense Wilderness.

"No one really knows much about this section," said Bishop Kinsolving. "It is a wilderness of thousands of square miles, filled with jungle you can hardly hack your way through and estimated to contain a million Indians.

"The party is to proceed as far as possible up the Parana waters and portage over to the nearest northward flowing tributary of the Amazon. Once arrived at that main stream, which will in all probability be a thousand or more miles from its mouth, they will then ascend one of its branches that flows south and repeat the portage over to the most available branch of the Orinoco. They will descend this stream and the main river and emerge at the northern end of South America on the Caribbean sea. That is, they will if all goes well with them."

"Do you think the chances are that all will not go well with them or that ex-President Roosevelt may lose his life?" the bishop was asked.

"I would hardly say that," replied he. "But it is a pretty big undertaking and one beset by dangers that are to a great extent unknown. No one really knows what is to be found there. Travel in that region is too infrequent to give any data for generalizations. One party might get through swimmingly and another easily might all die of disease or be killed by natives. The Indians are savages—not turbulent ones, perhaps, but savages none the less.

More Dangers Than In Africa.

"I have heard it said by people who should know that the African trip, both from a standpoint of danger and of severity, was simple compared to this one that he now contemplates. This may be an exaggeration, of course. But remember that this country has no trails or roads whatever. The waterways are the only roads, and to the waterways you must stick.

"The more that is learned of this interior country of Brazil the less safe and attractive it appears. That insect life abounds there is well attested. I have heard myself, from returned explorers, of the swarms of mosquitoes and other pests, and a country that abounds in insect life is not apt to be very pleasant or healthy. But I should say that on the whole the fact that so little is known of the region is the greatest danger."

Trenton, Dec. 3.—Vice-Chancellor Backes in the Court of Chancery yesterday refused to increase alimony paid to Mrs. Cecelia McEldowney by Robert McEldowney, son of a Pittsburgh millionaire banker.

McEldowney married the girl while he was a student at Princeton College, and she a resident of this city. Parental objections separated the couple and Mrs. McEldowney agreed to take one-third of her husband's monthly salary for her separate maintenance. The application yesterday was for an increase of the amount paid her.

FEDERAL TREASURY REPORT.

(By Telegraph to The Daily Press.)

Washington, Dec. 3.—The annual report of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo presented to Congress today views at length the various measures which were suggested and put into effect by his department during the year with a view to simplifying and improving the financial system of the United States. The announcement last spring of the Government's willingness to deposit five hundred millions in currency in National Banks gave instantaneous relief to anxiety and confidence was restored. None of the currency was applied for by the banks.

BIRDS AND BLOSSOMS OUT IN UNION JUST LIKE SPRING

Elizabeth, Dec. 3.—Although it is December, there is a rosebush near the city park in full bloom. In North avenue there is another. In Madison avenue, near East Jersey sereet, there is a grapevine in bud. Grass on lawns is green, and it looks more like spring than winter.

In the uptown section of the city many mosquitoes were killed.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Plainfield Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Plainfield citizen says:

Mrs. E. Dorflinger, 400 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble in my case was a dull, heavy pain in my back and head. This was followed by a tired, languid feeling and I knew that my kidneys were gradually giving out. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and getting a box at Randolph's drug store, I began using them. Before long I improved and I continued until I was cured. I hold just as high an opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills now as when I gave my former testimonial. The cure they made has been permanent."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

THOUGHT TRANSFERENCE ATTRIBUTED TO TEACHER.

Woman's Suspension Asked on Charge That Pupils Were Under Her Spell.

Believing that Miss Elizabeth Curtiss, teacher in the public school at Roseville, N. Y., had practiced thought transferrence upon her pupils for the purpose of establishing her own innocence, the school board of Staten Island recently recommended to the city superintendent of schools that she be suspended for one month and then transferred to another school.

This action explains to the bewildered pupils why for several days they saw in large, bold letters on the main blackboard in Miss Curtiss' room this sentence:

The parents of the Bogardus children preferred charges against Miss Curtiss the latter part of September, alleging that she had cut William's head with a ruler and slapped Evelyn's face so hard that her eye was discolored. Notice of the charges was served upon the teacher at once, and immediately there appeared on the blackboard the mysterious statement.

That legend stared the children in the face for several days. Every time they looked up they saw it. Soon they were singing it and whistling it. So when investigators of the board of education questioned the pupils all they could say was, "I did not see Miss Curtiss strike William and Evelyn Bogardus." Therefore the charges of the Bogardus parents were dropped.

But Mr. Bogardus persisted. He investigated, learned of the "handwriting on the wall" and then complained to the local board.

At the trial it was charged that Miss Curtiss had influenced the pupils' minds by the sentence on the blackboard.

RAILROAD WIRELESS NOW.

Convincing Experiments Promise a Revolution In Train Operation.

The conductor in charge of the Lackawanna limited, New York to Buffalo, became ill when his train was thirty miles east of Scranton, Pa., a few days ago. The train is the first to be equipped for wireless telegraph service. The conductor notified the wireless operator of his condition, and while the train was rushing fifty miles an hour and although mountains rose high between him and Scranton, the operator sent a message to the railroad superintendent at Scranton. When the train pulled into the station a relief conductor stepped aboard, ready to take charge.

Forty miles from Scranton the conductor saw that he would need another coach. A wireless message was sent ahead, and by the time the train reached Scranton the extra car was in waiting.

L. B. Foley, superintendent of telegraph, who was on the train in charge of the wireless testing, said:

"In my opinion the wireless will revolutionize railroading. The time is coming when the wireless telegraph on trains will make the safety and convenience of railroad traveling 100 per cent greater than it is today. And as a preventive of accidents I think the wireless will prove of the greatest value."

CARNEGIE YOUNG AT 78.

Earth Such a Heaven He Wants to Live as Long as He Can.

"I'm still a young man," said Andrew Carnegie on his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary. "I'm only seventy-eight years young. Old age and myself haven't become acquainted.

"This earth is such a heaven to me that I want to stay on as long as I can. If any of you youngsters can get an option on life I'll let you name your own price."

Then to display his mental nimbleness Mr. Carnegie discussed world topics.

"I do not know whether the Mexican situation can be peaceably settled or not," said the great peace advocate. "I know that destruction of property is unavoidable, as in any war, and there is certainly a possibility of war, much as I dislike to think of it."

PADEREWSKI

In a letter to the Aeolian Company, dated November 8, 1913, says:

"I cannot conceive of any reason why the Pianola should not be in every home. As a pianoforte, when the keyboard is used, it leaves nothing to be desired, while for acquiring a broad musical education, for the development of the understanding of good music which modern culture demands, it is undoubtedly the most perfect and really great medium.

There have appeared in recent years, a great many mechanical devices for piano-playing. I have heard several of them, and though not denying their certain qualities, I have to maintain my former opinion:—the Pianola is still the best, unsurpassable, supreme."

There should be

A Pianola

in your Home

This Christmas

PADEREWSKI, the world famous pianist, says—"the Pianola should be in every home"—in your home.

You need this most modern pianoforte for the culture that a knowledge of good music will bring. You need it for the new world of pleasure it will open to you and to every member of your household. You need it for the educational advantages it will give to your children.

So why not decide right now that it will be a Pianola this Christmas—that you will come to Aeolian Hall today, or tomorrow at the latest, and see and hear this wonderful instrument which Paderewski has recommended for your home.

And don't, by any chance, overlook Paderewski's concluding sentence—"the Pianola is still the best, unsurpassable, supreme." Remember that there are scores of player-pianos and be certain that you see the Pianola—the only instrument of its type that has received the endorsement of practically every great musician of the present decade

Player-pianos, so-called, are not Pianolas. There is but one Pianola, made exclusively by The Aeolian Company, and obtainable in the following models only:

The Steinway Pianola
The Steck Pianola The Wheelock Pianola
The Stuyvesant Pianola The Stroud Pianola
The famous Weber Pianola

Prices from $550. Convenient Terms.

IN ONE MINUTE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN---COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Stops Nasty Discharge, Clears Stuffed Head, Heals Inflamed Air Passages and You Breathe Freely.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 36.

I BELIEVE in classified advertising. I believe that the classified columns of a good newspaper are the natural market-place for human wants.

Glance through the advertisements in the classified columns of the newspaper you are reading. Is there not something vitally interesting and human in the little announcements listed there?

Some one asked me the other day if I really believe what I preach in these Talks. I do. No man can even attempt to write convincingly unless he believes in his own printed word. I know the "pulling power" of Classified advertising, and no one can make me believe other than that it pays.

Proof? Why, yes,—in my own experience and in the experience of many of my friends and acquaintances I have seen the little, but mighty WANT AD "work out." My own entry into the newspaper business was effected some eight or ten years ago, through a WANT AD. A little announcement set in the middle of some white space in the Classified columns, attracted the attention of the Business Manager of a newspaper in my native city, and a position on that newspaper resulted.

I know of folks who have advertised in the Classified columns for cooks, for butlers, for maids, for stenographers, for positions, for help, for horses, for automobiles—for pretty nearly anything you can think of. And they got what they advertised for.

There are exceptions to every rule that was ever made, but I know, just as surely as I know that the carriage of this typewriter is humming along with every stroke of the keys, that, in the great majority of instances, the little WANT AD. is a power 'way out of proportion with its trivial cost.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Economy Versus Frugality.

Did you ever stop to think what a wealth of luxuries and conveniences are showered upon the modern housewife? Did it ever occur to you that in even the simplest household today are to be found fittings and furnishings that women of a hundred years ago did not dream of? Some time when you are lamenting the scarcity or high wages of servants just reflect that in the most usual of modern homes are to be found conveniences that are equal to the work of at least one servant.

In our modern plumbing, in our water supply, in gas and electricity, in easy methods of obtaining hot water, in modern kitchen stoves, there is saving enough to constitute the time of one servant. And if added to these things we have vacuum cleaners, electric irons, bread mixers and washing machines, we are blessed with the equivalent of at least one servant more.

Then look at the luxury, the splendor, the richness of even ordinary house furnishings—carpets and rugs which, if not imported from the Orient, at least show colorings and design that were once seen only in kings' palaces. We have windows where our ancestors of a few centuries ago were glad to have glazed paper. Our tables are set with the finest china in the daintiest designs. To be sure, we may have bought it at the ten-cent store, but it would not necessarily be more dainty or well colored if it were the finest Sevres.

Look at our clothes, too. Rapid ocean transportation, the magic of modern manufacturing methods have made it possible for us to buy ready-made clothes so nearly like, in cut and texture, the clothes that the leaders of fashion are still wearing that it is really very discouraging nowadays to be leaders of fashion so close do the rest of us tread on their heels. The food we eat, too, is gathered from all quarters of the globe and brought lavishly to our back door. Dates from Arabia, packed and shipped with all the skill that modern industry knows for little more than a loaf of bread would cost, pineapples, oranges, coffee, tea, fresh greens all winter, the purest of white flour when our ancestors had to content themselves with heavy, black flour of uncertain quality—all these things are ours.

With all these things it almost seems as if frugality were an impossibility to the modern housewife—at least, frugality as our grandmothers understood the word. We would consider a woman ridiculous who would deny herself a daily cup of tea on the score of its expense, and yet less than two hundred years ago Benjamin Franklin warned the American housewives against the wasting expense of an occasional cup of tea. And the same Franklin tells us that for a long time his breakfast was "bread and milk (no tea)" and that he "eat out of a two-penny earthen porringer, with a pewter spoon." "But mark," he says, "how luxury will enter families and make a progress in spite of principle. Being called one morning to breakfast I found it in a china bowl with a spoon of silver. They had been bought for me without my knowledge by my wife, and had cost her the enormous sum of three and twenty shillings, for which she had no other excuse or apology to make but that she thought her husband deserved a silver spoon and china bowl as well as any of his neighbors."

Apparently the industrious Mrs. Franklin still went on eating out of earthenware with a pewter spoon and probably never had a moment of self pity for it.

Perhaps with all our modern luxury the old-fashioned spirit of frugality has disappeared. But if the signs of the time are true there is a new and better spirit of economy to guide American housewives through their lives of plenty.

Some Cookery Suggestions

GREEN PEA SOUPS.

DINNER MENU.
Cream of Pea Soup.
Fresh Salmon Steak.
Mashed Potatoes.
Head Lettuce With French Dressing.
Grape Juice. Charlotte Russe.
Coffee.

THESE popular and nutritious soups can be made with canned or dried peas when the fresh ones are no longer available. Suggestions for various pea soups are given here.

Cream of Pea Soup.—Take one-half cauful of peas, add half a cupful of water, salt, a slice of onion, pepper and a teaspoonful of sugar. Cook them ten minutes while you heat a quart of milk. Add the peas, thicken with butter and flour and pass through a sieve. Serve in hot cups. To each add four or five tiny squares of bread which you have browned in the oven. Do not let these stand in the soup, but put them in at the last moment.

A Combination Soup.

Pea and Tomato Soup.—Boil a pint of peas and one-half cauful of tomatoes in one quart of water with an onion. When the vegetables are soft add a scant teaspoonful of sugar and pepper and salt to taste. Rub through a colander and return to the fire. Rub together two tablespoonfuls of butter and one tablespoonful of flour and stir into the boiling soup to thicken it.

Split Pea Soup.—Soak a quart of split peas overnight in water. Pour off the water and rinse. Cover with three pints of fresh water and put on the fire with a spoonful each of salt and sugar and two cloves of garlic. If you have a ham bone or a chicken bone put it in. Let the soup simmer for several hours on the back of the stove. Then add one or two cupfuls of milk, a bit of butter, a dash of black pepper and serve.

With Bread Squares.

Savory Pea Soup.—Take a pint of dried green peas, scald in a solution of saleratus water, blanch them thoroughly and cook gently in two quarts of water until tender and soft. Pass them through a sieve. Chop two onions and fry in two tablespoonfuls of butter. Add six cloves and one bay leaf. Then stir all together. Put in a tablespoonful of salt and a cupful of canned tomatoes. Let the whole cook slowly for an hour, when, if it seems too thick, add a little boiling water and let it cook a little longer. Add a pinch of red pepper and a tablespoonful of butter. Just before serving put in a cupful of squares of bread which have been fried brown in butter until of a pretty golden hue. In the season fresh peas and fresh tomatoes may be used.

Appropriate Designs For Ecclesiastical Embroideries.

Church linens should be made of firm round-thread linen and should be embroidered in white mercerized cotton or linen. The corners of alter linens should be mitered and finished with a plain hem—never hemstitched. These designs are for use in ritualistic churches, but they may be adapted by omitting the letters, to any secular house.

The grape design is for the chalice veil and should be transferred to a piece of linen from 9 to 12 inches square. The embroidery is placed in the center, and is done in heavily padded solid work and outline and seed-stitches.

The sacramental cover measures from 30 to 36 inches, and the corporal from 20 to 24 inches and the same design may be employed for either, placed in the middle of one side. The portion of the design inside of the circle may be embroidered in out-work and the remainder of the design in solid work and seed-stitch or it may be developed entirely in needle-point lace stitches.

A design for the paten veil, although not illustrated here, is also included in pattern No. 14010. It is a square of linen like the chalice veil, with the design of wheat. One transfer of each design is included in the pattern.

Pattern 14009 contains a design for embroidering the cover for a pail which is a piece of cardboard about 7 inches square, covered on both sides with heavy linen. A separate embroidered top is made exactly the same size, having buttonholed loops across each corner which slip over the corners of the covered square.

The initials are done in solid work, heavily padded, and the leaf forms are outlined and filled in with seed-stitch.

Two transfers of this design are contained in the pattern.

Patterns No. 14009 and 14010 will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for 10 cents each.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

The National Woman Suffrage Convention In Washington.

The forty-fifth National Woman Suffrage Convention was formally opened in Washington on December 1. The response to the Washington greetings was made by Mrs. Jacobs, president of the Alabama Equal Suffrage Association. So well do her words express the animating motive of the Suffrage movement in America that they may well be quoted at some length.

Mrs. Jacobs was graduated from Ward Seminary in Tennessee, and spent two years in New York studying music. Music and her family, in which there are two little daughters, age twelve and six, were her chief interests till the Child Labor Convention, which met in Birmingham three years ago, convinced her that she was needed in the work of protecting the children of the State as she would protect her own children.

"I saw that the best and surest way to work against child labor was for women to get the vote and help to make the laws which should remedy the present terrible evils. Therefore, I became the ardent suffragist I am today," said Mrs. Jacobs.

Southern Women Want the Vote.

Responding to the addresses of welcome Mrs. Jacobs called herself "a living refutation of the charge that has been made in no less a place than the halls of Congress that the womanhood of the South does not want the suffrage.." "It is an indictment," she said, "of the Southern woman's intelligence which I resent. Nor is my position unique, original, or lonely—there are thousands of us.

"The women of Virginia, Louisianaa, Tennessee, Kentucky, Florida, North Carolina, Alabama—in fact, in all the Southern States—are stirring, are realizing the vote is the only honorable, dignified, and sure means of securing recognition of their aspirations and of their needs." Mrs. Jacobs continued:

"I would not have you infer, however, that the great National Association is composed only of Southerners; it knows no section, for it embraces not only the great white West and the whitening East, but the gray States of the North. In its ranks are women following the vision of their souls, from sweat-shops and drawing room, from factory and office, from school and home; women, who, with long hours and scant pay, are yet unwilling to stand still and let this great world movement pass them by—for they would see their daughters have the fighting chance denied them; women of leisure, whose souls burn to equalize some of the hideous unfairness of life; a vast army of women, awake to the spirit of the age in which we live, an age vibrant with social consciousness. These women would put a new significance into democracy, would interpret motherhood afresh. They are not bound together by social tie, economic interest, political affiliation or creed, yet they understand that coherence and oneness in nature and relations which make life sweet and sane.

No "Fraternity" For Women.

"It is a wonderful thing to have convictions so strong that you must stand up and be counted, you must go out and do battle for them. It is a privilege to be born, to live in such soul-stirring times; to understand that communion of interests, that mutual responsibility which the solidarity of the woman suffrage movement indicates. I recall hearing the eminent suffragist, Miss Mary Johnson, speak of the significance of the fact that no word in the English language has exactly the same meaning and use for women as the word 'fraternal' has for men, the inference being there has never been occasion to use it, or it would have been supplied.

"Today we need that word, and here in Washington, where they coin so many useful and necessary things—money, laws, and excuses (sometimes)—may we not coin it in fact as we have in spirit?

"For forty-five years advocates of woman suffrage have been coming to this the capital city; nine National Suffrage Conventions have been held here, this being the tenth. Each time we have met with a warmer welcome—for so runs the history of the suffrage movement. We have come in ever-increasing numbers—from the small handful of courageous pioneers until now this great throng is hospitably received. Even this has served to increase your cordiality. And while we are grateful for the spirit in which Washington entertains us, we know it will not be necessary for us to come back to you another forty-five years; we are ready and willing to do it, if need be."

Practical Fashion Hints

Diagonals, men's wear serge or corduroy take first place for the separate skirt intended for strictly tailored wear this winter. These materials make up most attractively in the simpler designs, two and three piece models, and are very quickly and easily made by the novice.

7994 is a two-piece skirt closing at the side. The back fullness may be arranged in gathers or dart tucks, as preferred, and the shaped belt may be used or omitted. It is a smart feature and gives the effect of a vest if worn with a cutaway coat. One of the new plaids or stripes could be used to advantage with this model for wear with a plain coat. A stitched tab on each hip is another effective touch. This skirt may be made in size 24 with 2⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 8 sizes; 22 to 36.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, taking the waist measure tightly, around the smallest part of the waist and hip measure loosely, around the widest part of the hips.

The Standard for Baking Powders the World Over is an Absolutely Pure, Cream of Tartar Baking Powder

CREAM OF TARTAR is the crystallized acid of grapes refined to absolute purity and ground to a creamy flour. It is declared by physicians the most wholesome of all fruit acids, and has been proved by long and universal experience the most efficient and satisfactory for baking purposes.

Highly refined products of the grape, properly combined with bicarbonate of soda and a little corn starch to absorb atmospheric moisture, are the sole ingredients of the ideal, high-class, standard baking powder.

Many acids have been tried during the last hundred years to find a substitute for the grape cream of tartar which would cost less. In recent years alum, which makes a baking powder at a cost of two cents a pound, has been used because of its trifling cost. Alum, however, has been disapproved by scientific chemists and physicians and is not employed by manufacturers of high-class powders.

Cream of tartar powders being healthful themselves, add to the healthfulness of the food.

MEXICAN REBEL LEADER AND ONE OF HIS TROPHIES OF WAR

That he will be eating his meals in the State Capitol of Chihuahua shortly was the declaration of Pancho Villa, rebel commander now holding Juarez, as his men entrained for the start on the southward campaign against the federal army, which they defeated near Juarez.

"We have captured enough federal ammunition and cannons to cripple the federals and put us in a position to win," declared the rebel leader. "There is no question about it. I can put seven field batteries of four guns each into operation against the federals, and this is sufficient to whip them in the field or batter down their fortifications if I have to fight them in the city of Chihuahua."

PERFECT SCORE ON ELKS' LEAGUE ALLEYS.

Orange, Dec. 3.—Otto Hencke, a Main street baker, dropped into the Llewellyn bowling alleys Monday night and in a practice game rolled a perfect score of 300; running through the frames without a miss. It is the first perfect score made in this vicinity in more than a year and the first on the Llewellyn alleys in two years. Hencke does not roll with any team but just bowls for his own recreation after his day's work. He has not a ball of his own, but found one at the alleys entirely to his liking.

"MAC" SAYS

Plainfield High School basketball candidates got into action this afternoon under the wing of Acting Captain Hetfield. Present prospects point to a light but speedy aggregation for the red and blue.

As a leader, Hetfield will undoubtedly make a big hit. He has everything necessary for the job, including a thorough schooling in the Ajax course. For three years the present High School leader has been a star performer on the Y. M. C. A. five and he will make things hustle for the local schoolboys' rivals this year.

Lengthy forwards skilled in the art of netting two point scores continue to be the nemesis of the borough High School maidens and yesterday afternoon's trouncing was only a repetition of the previous fights. Short guards and tall forwards form a discouraging competition when a player is on the shorter end of the deal.

A certain Holy Cross "follower" bobs up long enough to worry the management and then sinks into hibernation to await results which are forthcoming in abundance.

North Plainfield High School is due for another stiff struggle this afternoon, when the Kearny youngsters invade the confines of Canada. A couple of weeks ago the boroughites trimmed the Kearny boys by a margin of two points in an eleven minute overtime game.

Reports from Montclair along the basketball line do not appear to be as encouraging this season as they were last. G. L. Littman had everything his own way in copping the highest honors last season but the team is evidently experiencing an off season at the present time.

What has become of that Scotch Plains basketball enthusiasm that was so rife here a couple of weeks ago? Three teams were training for court battles at that time but a powerful microscope would be needed at the present time to single out the basketball bug.

Someone has now come to the fore with a plan for numbering basketball players. If court performers were numbered it might please the public and that is contrary to the ethics of organized sport.

It may seem somewhat surprising but it is nevertheless the truth that some men are actually fighting for the preservation of the City Baseball League at this period of the year when snow balls are more appropriate than spheriods of horsehide.

It is understood that a couple of the foremost magnates are considering a proposition of consolidating the City and Sunday-school Leagues for 1914. Protests are now in order.

Doesn't it seem strange to you why certain basketeers always put up a big kick when they are asked to perform on the Hope Chapel court in a contest with the Chapelites? When Manager Cottrell announced that P. H. S. would open the season on the West Fourth street court next Saturday night the howl set up by the red and blue performers could be heard at an estimated distance of 8,000,000 parasangs.

Not that it makes any difference but it would be a good idea for certain basketball managers in this city and the borough to get together and agree on the same score before they send in their tally cards to the newspapers.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the official length and width of a basketball court?—B. A. T.

Answer—The length should be seventy feet and the width fifty feet, but you will seldom find a court having the official dimensions. Most of our courts are laid out according to the amount of room available and the general tendency is to use all the space present.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Will a successor be appointed or elected to Calvin Brodhead in order to fill the present vacancy in the Plainfield Board of Education?—N. D. T.

Answer—The Mayor will appoint the new member of the Board, probably sometime before the next meeting, which will be held the first Monday in January.

Sporting Editor:

Query—After witnessing a game of basketball, part of which was played with collegiate rules, I am inclined to believe that there are few if any restrictions on the player in these rules. If there are any, will you kindly name them?—C. J. H.

Answer—Like all other codes, the collegiate rules have their restrictions. A player must not run with the ball, kick the ball, strike the ball with his fists, hold, block, trip, run into, charge or push an opponent, intentionally delay the game, leave the floor before time is called at the end of the period without the permission of the referee, pass the ball to another while making a free trial for goal, but must make an honest attempt to cage it, charge in and make bodily contact with a player who is in a scrimmage, interfere with the ball or basket while the ball is on the edge of the basket, or after starting the dribble touch the ball with both hand simultaneously, unless he passes it to another player or shoots for a goal. A dribble to be legal must be continuous.

Sporting Editor:

Query—When will the 1914 automobile licenses be issued in Plainfield? I have a 1913 license. Will it be necessary for me to apply personally for my renewal or may I send someone for it, as it is practically impossible for me to leave my business?—K. T.

Answer—The 1914 automobile license tags will be ready for distribution on December 16; drivers' licenses January 1. It is necessary to have the owner's signature on an application blank for a car license but a blank will be forwarded upon request to the applicant, which may be filled out and returned with the fee.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can you give me the names of any stamp collections in this city or borough?—B. J. T.

Answer—Will someone supply this information?

Sporting Editor:

Query—I am told that Alberts, who was scheduled to box Phil Cross in New York last night, is a resident of this State, is this so —B. S. O.

Answer—Alberts is a Union countyite and hails from Elizabeth. 'Nuf sed.

FAVORITES TREATED TO A BIG SURPRISE

N. P. H. S. Class Leaguers Made Things Lively on Saengerbund Hall Court.

Basketball enthusiasts were given a great surprise yesterday afternoon, when the Sophomore class team of the North Plainfield High School Basketball League defeated the Juniors in an uninteresting contest by the score of 45 to 17. Two weeks ago these two teams met in the first game of the class championship series and the Juniors won by such a large score that they at once became the favorites as champions. But the Sophomores played them completely off their feet and evened matters up in the race for honors.

When the first half started the third year men were confident of another easy victory but were greatly astonished when they found their opponents scoring at will. Before the Juniors scored at all their opponents had eleven points. Addison Newkirk started the scoring and made three field goals and one foul before his teammates started shooting.

Elmer French and Lester Chandler were the only two Juniors who were able to cage a basket in this half, while Captain Day took advantage of a free shot. The half ended 25 to 5.

In the second half the Juniors settled down and played defensive ball. However, their guards could not hold Warren Townley down and he did not stop scoring until he had tallied up ten field goals. Kirch, Townley's running mate, caged four goals, while Newkirk was superior at the foul line. Elmer French, playing guard for the Juniors, secured three baskets, while Edson Day made two. This is the second of the league games, each team having won one. The Freshmen, who were to have played the Juniors last Wednesday, will play that game this afternoon between the halves of the North Plainfield-Kearny game in Saengerbund Hall.

MANY FOULS MADE THE GOING ROUGH

North Plainfield High School Girls' Team Again Trounced by Rival Maidens.

MANY INFRACTIONS

Final Score 24 to 8—Boroughites Never in the Runnig for Victor's Spoils—Miss Spencer and Miss Burtis Even in Scoring Work.

The North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team was again trounced on the Saengerbund Hall court yesterday afternoon when the Westfield High School girls took home a 24 to 8 victory. The game was one-sided throughout and the visitors were superior in every part of the game.

During the first half the playing became rough and necessitated the calling of numerous fouls. For the first ten minutes of the half the home team did not score while Miss Pearsall dropped in two from the field. Her teammate then added to the scoring by getting a brace of field goals and a foul. Marjorie Burtis made the only field goal of this session for the local team, while Miss Spencer caged two fouls. Between them the two borough forwards missed about fifteen chances from the free mark during the game. The first half ended with the score standing 11 to 4 in favor of Westfield.

The second half was a repetition of the previous one and the big visiting guards kept the home teams' forwards to only one basket this being credited to "Lil" Spencer, Miss Pearsall then started to shoot and made four nice shots, two of which were of the sensational variety. Miss Edna Green was replaced by Bertha Keller to guard Miss Kjellmark, but she continued to make points until time was called.

The borough girls' teamwork was weak and the guards were too slow for their fast opponents who gave a fine exhibition of teamwork. Miss Douglas, at center, played the most consistent game for North Plainfield and she kept the ball in her territory a large part of the time by her excellent playing.

Miss Pearsall caged six field goals while her teammates made four. For North Plainfield the two forwards divided honors and each secured four points. This is the fourth defeat for the borough team which is tallied against a single victory.

EXPERT'S OPINION FOR MR. FOLLOWER

Royal T. Phillips Explains the Conditions Surrounding The Mysterious Score.

A "follower" of the Holy Cross football team who evidently was misinformed concerning the regulations of the pigskin game when he sent a communication to these columns concerning an "oversight of the referee" in the Holy Cross-Franklin game Saturday afternoon will be able to ascertain just what he wants from the following letter written by Royal T. Phillips, one of the best known authorties in this vicinity on the gridiron game. Mr. Phillips has refereed a number of the biggest scholastic matches in the State this year and is in a position to put the "follower" wise to the real truth of the matter in question. Here's what Mr. Phillips has to say:

"Referring to an article on the sporting page of your paper yesterday headed 'Where was the referee when this happened?' in which you publish, written by one who signed himself "Holy Cross Follower;" why did he not sign his name as I would like to inform this 'Side Line Referee' wehere he is in error. For one thing, illegal interference does not come under the duties of the referee, but of the umpire, and as the umpire in that game was an ex-Franklin player I think that Holy Cross would have been penalized if there had been a flagrant violation of the rules, especially as everyone knew who was anywhere near the running of the game, that the umpire was anxious to call fouls on Holy Cross as was shown by his trying to penalize Holy Cross to my certain knowledge on two separate occasions, on rules that have been obsolete for the last six years. Mr. 'Holy Cross Follower' ends by saying that according to rule eight Holy Cross was not entitled to the touchdown. As I have officiated in probably 100 games in the last seven or eight years and played in as many more previous to that time, and have always made a study of the rule book, I think I am qualified to state that rule eight has absolutely no bearing on this matter."

CLAY AGAIN THE WINNER OF LEAGUE BROAD JUMP

UNION COUNTY BOY AGAIN HIS NEMESIS

Johnny (Kid) Alberts, of Elizabeth, knocked out Phil Cross, of New York, in the sixth round of a scheduled ten-round bout at the Atlantic Garden A. C., last night. A hard right swing to the jaw, sending Cross down, so fast that his head struck a resounding blow against the ring floor, ended the battle just at a time when it seemed that Cross had fully recovered from the effects of two similar punches which floored him in the third round.

It was the first knockout Cross has suffered since he gained prominence in the ring, and it is a singular coincidence that the only other knockout registered against the east sider was by another Elizabeth boxer, Tony Bender.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

As very many attractions often leave an overwhelming impression, fine comments are heard, realizing that reporting these early comments. Later to larger prospective audiences must be accomplished through the medium of press work—and too often these reports the relative value of theatrical performances are misleading by the numerous changes of words, etc., by the company's press agent, the management of "The Master Mind" wishes the public to distinctly understand that all reports and criticisms of this greatest of all detective plays are reported and printed in exactly the same words and punctuation as written by the ablest critics in New York and the larger cities. This play will be seen at the Plainfield Theatre, tonight.

When "Bunty Pulls the Strings" was first produced, some one remarked: "After all, it takes a Scotchman to poke effective fun at a Scotchman." Whether this be true or not, the fact remains that it is more or less a general habit of Scotchmen to poke fun at one another. As for instance, members of the "Bunty" company tell many funny stories at the expense of their "Brither Scotc." Here is one which William Lennox, playing the part of Weelum Sprunt, tells. A certain aged Highlander was on his deathbed and was visited by a clergyman, who exhorted the Highlander to prepare himself for another world by means of a sincere repentence of whatever crimes he had committed on earth. The minister strongly urged the absolute necessity of the forgiveness of the Highlander's enemies. The bedridden Highlander shrugged his shoulders at this request but finally agreed to forgive every person who had injured him except one who had long been his mortal foe and of whom he hoped the parson would make an exception. The parson, however, was immovable and the Highlander at last said: "Aweel, sir, since there's nae help fer it, I maun forgi' him, but," turning to his two sons, "may it gang hard wi ye, Duncan and Rory, if ye forgie him." "Bunty Pulls the Strings" will be at the Plainfield Theatre, Saturday afternoon and evening.

—No one will contend that a woman who does not read the ads is as well prepared to buy wisely and economically as one who does.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The twelve new chairs that were ordered for the High School some time ago have arrived and have been placed on the rostrum.

Franklin Lowe has been appointed electrical manager for the senior entertainment.

The essays on "International Conciliation" were handed in Monday, and a large number were presented. Principal Earley will secure two other men to work with himself as judges and then declare the winner of the $5 gold prize.

Elva Lippincott, '15, who has been detained at her home for the past month owing to illness, is now thoroughly recovered and is able to attend school regularly.

Roy Love, who has been laid up for the past two weeks with an injured wrist, is recovering rapidly and expects to play basketball again by the first part of next week.

The knock committee for the senior class Christmas entertainment met Monday and discussed plans for giving out the knocks. Nothing definite was decided upon but the names of the juniors were taken and divided among the members of the committee and most of the knocks were made up.

Theodore Layton, '15, who has been out of school for a long time owing to trouble with his neck, is now recovering and expects to be back in school next week. "Ted" underwent three operations on his neck.

Miss Bernice Attner, instructor in Latin, returned to school yesterday and took charge of her classes.

The final rehearsals for the junior mock trial are being held in Saengerbund Hall this week. The public performance will be held next Friday.

The senior play committee has decided to give a one-act comedy at the Christmas entertainment. It is entitled, "A Case of Suspension." There is a cast of ten characters and this cast will be picked some time this week and rehearsals begun at once.

The senior class is planning to have a new feature in its Christmas entertainment this year. Heretofore it has always been the custom to give the class statistics at class day but since this event has been combined with commencement this interesting feature has been dropped. This year's class is going to revive that plan and it will be worked into the Chirstmas entertainment instead of class day.

The eighteenth pennant of the High School's collection was given today by Miss Myrtle Montague, head of the commercial department. The pennant represents Albany State Normal College and is made up in the college colors, purple and gold.

WATCHUNG COUNCIL TOOK TWO CONTESTS

Olive Branch Pinners Came Out Strong in the Third and Won Handily.

Winning the first two games of the series rolled with the Olive Branch pinners on the latter's alleys, last night, proved too great a strain for the Watchung Council Knights and the third game was handed to the rival clan by a score of 700 to 685. All three of the contests were closely fought and proved to be interesting pin matches.

While no one man approached the double century mark during the evening's series the bowling for the most part was consistent and the quintets were unusually evenly matched. Brochu was high man for the evening with a mark of 182 while Captain George Taylor did the best work for the Plainfielders with 178 to his credit.

FIREMEN PREVENT A FIRE DISASTER

About $5,000 Damage Caused by Fire Shortly Before Midnight Last Night.

ORIGIN YET UNKNOWN

In passing Warnock's bakery shop at North and Park avenues at 11:30 o'clock last night, Thomas Burke had his attention attracted by a reflection in the mirror of the store and upon investigation found that the rear portion of the shop was enveloped in flames. Burke pulled box No. 13 and when the fire department arrived on the scene Patrolman Kelley and V. W. Nash, Jr., had broken in the front door of the place and the flames were making rapid headway through the front portion of the store and also in James Lapert's barber shop next door.

When Chief Doane arrived the blaze had reached such threatening proportions that he sent in a second alarm, bringing the East End and West End departments to the scene and eight lines of hose were directed at the burning structure. So intense was the heat with which the firemen had to contend that they were repeatedly driven back and the large glass mirrors in the barber shop and in the bakery were cracked in a number of places.

The fire, which started in a partition under the stairs separating the Warnock and Lapert places, spread rapidly up the inner walls and along the beams of the second story. A line of hose directed from the rear and another from the top of the stairs probably saved the entire building from destruction. The stock of awnings in the shop of Green & Laggren on the second floor was considerably damaged by water but Chief Doane and his men managed to confine the flames almost exclusively to one side of the building in the second floor, the office of the Monarch Printing Company being untouched by fire or water.

The rear portion of the barber shop, an unoccupied room, was completely soaked by water and the side walls were burned considerably. Excellent work on the part of the firemen kept the blaze from reaching the third floor and the flames were confined entirely to the territory that was burning when the smoke-eaters arrived on the scene.

During the hour and a half the firemen were working on the blaze tons of water were thrown on the flames and stock in the baker shop and the chattels of the barber shop were treated to a thorough drenching. Many entertained the opinion that the oven used in baking was the cause of the blaze and wondered why the bakers on the night shift did not discover the fire before it reached such headway. But Mr. Warnock set aside these theories this morning when he stated that no men are employed by him to bake during the night and there was no one in any part of the store after 7 o'clock. The barber shop closed shortly after 8:30 o'clock and the proprietor says that everything was all right at that time.

The loss on the building will be about $3,000 and the damage to the contents will reach $1,600. All of the parties with the exception of Mr. Warnock are fully protected by insurance and he had part of his stock insured against loss. Mr. Warnock stated this morning that he will reopen his shop within the next week but Mr. Lapert's place will be closed for at least two weeks as the result of the fire. Green & Laggren will continue their work at once.

PLATE GLASS SAVED.

Heading for a large plate glass window on the office front of Lamar Van Syckel's real estate place of business in Park avenue, a runaway horse attached to a wagon belonging to Nathan Lewis, a Liberty street baker, was stopped on the sidewalk after it had narrowly escaped striking several women and children. Harold Olson caught the frightened animal. The horse was left untied in Park avenue and had become frightened by the noise of a passing automobile.

SAYS HE'S NOT GUILTY.

Elizabeth, Dec. 4—Joseph Green, of Plainfield, pleaded not guilty when arraigned this afternoon before Judge James Connolly on a charge of having entered the hardware store of A. M. Griffin. He was without counsel and the court assigned John R. Connolly, of this city, to defend him. Andrew Benford, Green's alleged accomplice, has not been apprehended.

EMPLOYERS AND EMPLOYES.

Dr. Gabriel Reid Maguire, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will preach next Sunday evening on "Employers and Employes."

GREAT BRICK WALL CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

Carriage and Auto Collide and a Woman is Slightly Injured.

A six-foot high brick wall enclosure surrounding the property on the southeasterly side of Seventh street at Central avenue was the indirect cause of an accident this morning that but for the presence of mind of two drivers, might have resulted fatally to the occupants of a carriage. Mrs. J. H. Green, of West Seventh street, was returning to her home in a carriage driven by Abner Handcuff, colored, and A. C. Wadley, of the firm of Wadley and Goodenough, was driving an automobile in a northerly direction on Central avenue, the two vehicles coming together at right angles.

Mr. Wadley's machine struck the light carriage with great force in the center porition turning it completely over throwing the occupants to the road. Mrs. Green was pinned under the carriage, and suffered from a number of scratches and a severe wrench of the right knee. The driver was thrown clear of the wreckage and sustained only a few slight bruises.

Both vehicles were traveling slowly at the time of the collision and both drivers made an effort to avoid striking the other. Mr. Wadley swerved his car in a way that broke the force of the impact and the wagon was struck a glancing blow by the half turned radiator of the automobile.

The carriage was damaged considerbaly and had to be towed to the Green home. Mrs. Green was taken to her home. Her injuries are slight.

RECREATION WORK DEPARTMENT HEADS

Sub-Committees Named, the Change Being Necessary by the Enlarged Work.

Plans for broadening the scope and making more efficient the various activities of the Public Recreation Committee were adopted at a meeting of the committee held at the Public Library, last night, and an announcement was made of an important meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, of East Seventh street, on Tuesday afternoon, at which there will be speakers of national reputation. This meeting will be held to further the interest of the recreation work in this city.

The various departments have assumed so much importance that the central committee thought it wise to appoint two members to act as heads of these activities. They will be "go-betweens" between the central committee and the club groups and being in close touch with the work will be able to present more intelligently the needs of the groups to the main committee.

The following were selected last night to act as heads of the departments: Dunbar Social Club, Mrs. A B. Jones and Mrs. W. H. P. Veysey, Stillman Alumni Association, William M. Sandford and Samuel Rothberg, folk dancing, Miss Edith Mellick and Mrs. Joseph Smith; Washington Social Club, Senior and Junior Municipal Orchestras, Mr. and Mrs. G. Stuart Simons; recreation work of night school, Mrs. Champlain L. Riley and Mrs. George O. Stevens. In addition Mrs. Champlain L. Riley, Herbert E. Parker and Mrs. Francis de Lacy Hyde were appointed a committee on "open forum," when mooted questions will be presented from time to time for general discussion.

Another new department will be known as "vocational," it being the purpose to co-operate between employer and employes and to assist those identified with the work in any way that will prove beneficial to both.

BACK TO SLEEP-TOWN.

William Ware, of Philadelphia, who while intoxicated Tuesday night, entered the home of Mrs. Walter Scott, on East Front street, and proceeded to go to sleep in one of the bedrooms, and was arrested, was released on a suspended sentence when arraigned yesterday afternoon before City Judge DeMeza on condition he return to the Quaker City.

MERCY FOR EMBEZZLER.

Hugh Breen, 18 years old, of 745 South Second street, who misappropriated funds of his employer, Herman Theis, a butcher, was placed on probation when arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza. Breen has promised to return the stolen money, which, it is said, amounts to $64.

ALLEGED ERROR MAY BE COSTLY

North Plainfield May Lose Its Claim to a Reduction for Tax Overpayment.

HEARING AGAIN DEC. 16

Bitter Battle Being Put up to Prevent Borough Being Allowed Rebate—How the Alleged Mistake Was Made.

Due to an alleged error on the part of either Major Carl Lentz, of Newark, or William J. Buttfield, in selecting the correct document on which to base the appeal being made by the Borough of North Plainfield to secure a reduction in 1913 tax assessments to reimburse taxpayers for alleged excess taxes paid in 1912, amounting to $912,003 in assessments, that municipality's chance of having its appeal granted by the State Board for the Equalization of Taxes is considered decidedly smaller.

A hearing was held yesterday at Somerville, at which the majority of the communities were represented. After considerable testimony, much of it damaging to the borough's interests, had been taken, the hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, December 16, when a meeting will take place in Trenton.

Former Judge Clarence Case, counsel for Warren township, bore the brunt of the battle being waged by the other municipalities of the county, against any reduction being granted.

The testimony taken yesterday bore out the fact that on November 2, 1912, the County Board of Taxation signed a resolution, agreeing to reduce the amount of the 1913 assessments $912,003, to make up for an over-assessment in 1912, which the Board is alleged to have acknowledged following an appeal made by the North Plainfield authorities. This was drawn up by Mr. Buttfield and signed by the members of the County Board and filed in its records and the petition for the reduction was based on this document. Another document, which can be termed a "judgment" was signed on November 30, 1912, and according to evidence taken, this document which was practically the same in text as the resolution adopted and signed by the Board on November 2, was kept in Mr. Buttfield's office in New York city, according to the statements made on the witness stand. At a previous hearing the State Board ruled that the borough's appeal should be based on the so-called judgment signed on Nov. 30, 1912, and Major Lentz, the borough's counsel, was allowed to change his petition to this effect.

Mr. Case and five other lawyers claim that a judgment, to be a real judgment, must be on public record and as the judgment on which the corrected borough's petition is based, was in Mr. Buttfield's New York office, which is not a place of public record, or was not part of the records of the County Board of Taxation, according to the testimony.

Although an affidavit signed by Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver swearing that he had sent by registered mail, proper notices of the appeal for a reduction in assessments, was placed in evidence, witnesses representing several municipalities testified that their respective towns had never received any such notice. W. de laL. Anderson, chairman of the North Plainfield Township Committee, said the authorities of that town had never been served with any notices of the appeal.

CRAIGALEA LODGE ELECTS OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

Officers for the coming year were elected at the regular monthly meeting of Craig-a-lea Lodge, Auxiliary to Clan Mackenzie, held in Firemen's Hall, last night.

Grand Chief Daughter Mrs. Charles Mitchell and Grand Deputy Mrs. William Kennedy made a few congratulatory remarks. These officers were elected: Past chief daughter, Mrs. Anna H. Doig; chief daughter, Mrs. Francis Anderson; sub-chief daughtef, Miss Jennie Laurie; chaplain, Mrs. Agnes Beattie; secretary, Mrs. Jessie Spalding; treasurer, Mrs. J. Petrie; financial secretary, Miss Margaret Laurie; conductor, Mrs. Agnes Hendry; inside guard, Miss Jean Sherman; outside guard, Miss Mary Manning; pianist, Miss Sarah Jaminson; trustees, Miss Agnes Miss Frances Anderson and Miss Mary Allan.

IN BOROUGH COURT.

Robert Fisher was fined $5 when arraigned this morning before Recorder Gano in the borough court on a charge of being intoxicated. He was arrested last night by Marshal Pope.

NOTHING WAS DONE AS TO JOINT SEWER

Tri-Municipal Commission Did Not Have a Quorum Present.

The joint sewage commission, representing Plainfield, North Plainfield and Dunellen, was to have held its first monthly meeting at the Common Council rooms, last night, but was unable to do so owing to the lack of a quorum, the rules requiring a majority of the entire commission. Chairman George S. Clay and Councilmen Leighton Calkins and Francis J. Blatz were present to represent Plainfield; Mayor Robert Clark, Jr., and Councilman Alex. Milne, Julius J. Stahl and L. B. Woolston were there from North Plainfield, while Mayor C. E. Richards and five of the six councilmen from Dunellen attended.

This was the time for the reports of two committees, one on a permanent place of meeting for the commission and one from the committee appointed to negotiate for the location of the sewage disposal beds. It was the opinion that neither committee was ready to report, especially the last one as that work naturally must proceed rather slowly.

The commission decided to hold meetings once a month and unless something special should develop to cause otherwise, the next meeting will be held Wednesday night, January 7.

SUSPECT TO GET ANOTHER HEARING

O'Connor, Accused by U. S. Express Co. of Stealing $500, Arraigned in Court.

MAKES NO STATEMENT

Mrs. Edna Senn, Who Claims He Had Hypnotic Influence Over Her, Gave Police Clue for Arrest—Was in Fear of Her Life.

Edward J. O'Connor, a former employe of the United States Express Company in this city, who was arrested Tuesday night, charged with taking $500, which had been intrusted to the company's agent at the Grant Avenue station for delivery and deposit at a local bank several weeks ago, was arraigned before City Judge W. G. DeMeza this morning for a hearing and was remanded to a cell at police headquarters for a further hearing tomorrow morning. As yet O'Connor has not engaged counsel. He has little or nothing to say and beyond making the statement that he can prove an alibi refuses to discuss the damaging story told the police by Mrs. Edna Senn, who was a trusted employe of the company at the local office.

Mrs. Senn's husband was arrested on a charge of larceny while in the employ of the company's office here, but he made good the shortage and escaping a jail sentence is now said to be living in Virginia. The police say that after Senn's departure, O'Connor became friendly with Mrs. Senn, and the woman asserts that he held a sort of hypnotic influence over her, which may have been due partially to a fear for her life. It was only after she had been put through the "third degree" by the police that she told her story to Police Chief Kiely.

Although knowing that through her silence the wrong party in the person of J. B. Reger, who was employed as a stenographer at the office, was suspected of taking the $500, Mrs. Senn kept her story a secret. It was on November 1 that the theft occurred and shortly afterward Mr. Reger was suspended "for negligence in violating the rules of the company."

Mrs. Senn was closely questioned about the matter, but she said nothing that would tend to remove the suspicion directed toward Mr. Reger. It is said that the latter was preparing to "make good" the $500 to escape prosecution and escape a possible jail sentence. He returned to his old position yesterday after an enforced absence from duty.

Mrs. Senn is said to be in Philadelphia and is being closely watched by the police. When wanted she will be arrested as a witness and brought to this city. According to her story, she was compelled to give up the $500 at the point of a revolver in the hands of O'Connor.

HIS DREAMS OF WEALTH ARE RUDELY SHATTERED

Convnced that it is no longer safe to deal in safes when a matter of $8 is concerned and particularly when one gets the short end of the deal, Max Levine, of 501 West Third street, today is vowing vengeance on the person who sold him a little antique safe deposit vault in which he held high hopes of discovering some of Captain Kidd's treasure. Levine, a junk dealer, called at the home of a woman in North Plainfield yesterday afternoon to examine a supposedly ancient safe that it was claimed had not been opened in thirty years.

Visions of silverware or possibly real gold stored in the vault whose mysterious contents had not been examined for over a quarter of a century flashed through the mind of the junk dealer and he offered the owner $8. Levine loaded the safe in his wagon and after getting it to his home collected weapons of many descriptions with which he hoped to open the iron case.

At 11 o'clock last night Levine had battered the safe with such telling effect that the door yielded and the contents fell out on the floor. Levine's hopes were treated to an unpleasant surprise when he beheld only a 1912 timetable stored away in the vault.

JENSEN WILL TRY AGAIN FOR LICENSE

Owner of the Mountain Inn Will Apply for Restoration of Permit on Dec. 16.

Charles J. Jensen, proprietor of the Mountain Inn at Somerset street and Greenbrook road, which has been conducted as a temperance resort for the past five years, has decided to make application for a liquor license at the next excise session in the Somerset County Court. The matter will come before Judge Beekman at Somerville on December 16, when arrangements will probably be made for a hearing later. The applicant is represented by Azariah M. Beekman, who has been selected speaker of the New Jersey Legislature.

The hotel property is owned by Mr. Jensen and is one of the largest structures of the kind in this section. The proprietor held a license for it from 1898 until 1907, when he leased the place to Benjamin Farbman and went abroad. While Mr. Jensen was away, the borough police conducted a sensational raid on the hotel in 1908 and a year later the Farbman license was revoked. Application for a renewal was made once since then but was refused by Judge Clarence Case.

While Mr. Jensen operated the saloon part of the hotel there were no complaints against him and his record has always offeet criticism. He is now circulating a petition for the renewal and already more than fifty neighboring property owners have signed it, believing a well conducted licensed place is needed in the community. From a geographical standpoint, the property is situated in the centre of the borough and convenient to teamsters and motorists.

DECIDE TO ENLARGE SUNDAY SCHOOL BLDG.

First Presbyterian Church Will Raise Fund by Voluntary Pledges.

The members attending the congregational meeting of the First Presbyterian church, last night, approved the plan to build a new and enlarged Sunday-school room on the rear of the church edifice, and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, the pastor, who presided at the meeting, was empowered to appoint a committee to carry out the wishes of the members, more particularly regarding pledges. Several pledges amounting to between $3,000 and $4,000 have already been made. It is the desire to raise between $15,000and $20,000 to cover the entire expense.

The present outside wall of the chapel building will undoubtedly be retained, making use of the present Sunday-school room. Sometime ago a committee comprising H. W. Herrman, Grove P. Hinman and F. O. Dunning were appointed to secure plans and these have been prepared, subject to change. The idea is to provide about twenty class rooms, and it is possible that a two story building may be erected.

The present membership of the Sunday-school is 250 and it is constantly growing, requiring more room in the near future. Everyone present last night favored the improvement, but it seemed to be the concensus of opinion that a sufficient sum should be realized through pledges or otherwise before the work is actually started. Dr. Herring urged upon his people the necessity of immediate action to meet the growing needs.

DR. PROBASCO ADDRESSES MOTHERS AND TEACHERS

Dr. Norman H. Probasco was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Bryant-Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association at the Bryant School, yesterday afternoon, and he described the "After Effects of Children's Diseases." He told in a general way the best methods of caring for those afflicted with the most common of children's diseases and also the manner of prevention.

Following Dr. Probasco's talk, Mrs. William Sandford gave a short account of the meeting of the State Congress of Mothers and impressed upon her listeners the work this organization is doing in the State. She also urged each person to do his or her Christmas shopping early and not add to the burden of the clerks, who are allowed by law to work over time during the holiday season.

LIQUOR CASE IN FEDERAL COURT

Driver for New York Concern Delivering Wet Goods Here Held in $1,000 Bail.

HEARING ON TUESDAY

Test of United States Law to Be Begun When Frederick Appears Before United States Commissioner at Newark.

On a warrant sworn out before United States Commissioner Richard Stockton, Charles Fredericks, a driver for a New York store, has been arrested and held in $1,000 bail for a hearing before the U. S. Commissioner at Newark on Tuesday morning, at 10 o' clock. The specific charge against him is that as the agent of the concern he delivered liquor to a customer in this city and that at the time of the delivery accepted the price for the goods.

This is claimed to be in direct violation of a Federal statute prohibiting one either as a carrier or agent representing the consignor in one State in delivering liquor and collecting the money therefore in another State. The proceeding is to be a test case to settle the principle involved as the Federal courts, it seems, has not passed on the matter as yet.

A peculiar feature of this case is that Fredericks is really an employe of a Newark concern, which it is alleged undertook to deliver the liquor for the New York concern.

Fredericks was arrested some days ago on a State warrant and at the hearing before Judge DeMeza decision was reversed.

The penalty for the violation of the Federal statute is $5,000 fine. Former Mayor G. W. V. Moy represented the complainant in the State court matter and also instituted the proceedings in the United States courts.

LOST HIS ELKS EMBLEM BUT SOON HAD IT AGAIN

After he had returned home from the scene of the fire at the Depew building, North and Park avenues, at an early hour this morning, John J. Cose noticed that his Elks emblem was missing from his watch chain. It was given to him by Plainfield Lodge on his retirement as exalted ruler and was valued at $100.

Cose hurried back to the Depew building and after a hour's search found the missing charm on the street beneath the railroad bridge.

OPERATION TO RELIEVE PRESSURE ON HIS BRAIN

In the hope of saving his life, which is now despaired of, Dr. Sharp, of New York, a brain specialist, performed an operation on Andrew Dupont, the motorcycle victim, at Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, in an effort to relieve the brain pressure caused by the fall from the machine, when the victim and his brother were riding along Park avenue, Tuesday morning.

Dupont's condition toway was reported to be practically the same. His chances for recovery are slight. William Dupont, a brother of the victim, has been at the hospital every day since the accident. The young men's home is on Marshall street, Newark, and they were out for a motorcycle ride when the accident occurred.

ANNIVERSARY MEETING OF THE MCALL AUXILIARY

Plans for the anniversary meeting were discussed at the monthly meeting of the Plainfield Auxiliary of the McAll Association at the Public Library this morning. It will probably be held at the Crescent Avenue church and will be public. Arrangements are being made to have Rev. George M. Barry, field secretary of the American McAll Association, give an illustrated lecture, showing the character of the work being carried on by the association.

Interesting reports of the general progress of the work were presented this morning and they were encouraging. After January 1 the meetings of the local auxiliary will be held at the Young Men's Christian Association, instead of the library.

Twenty tables were in play and a like number of silk umbrellas were given as souvenirs. Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Dusel were among the prize-winners. At night the local people enjoyed dinner at Churchill's and later attended Edwin Arden's play, "Today," at the Forty-eighth street theatre.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 13

THESE little MO-JO Gum talks are making history. They are writing two new words into Chewing Gum advertising.

"Clean" and "White"

You never saw them before in any advertisement of Chewing Gum.

Manufacturers have told you about the flavor, the package, every good quality they could think of—but they never told you their product was clean.

Why not? Isn't the cleanliness of an article you are to put in your mouth an important factor? Isn't white the color you associate with cleanliness.

MO-JO gum is the first gum to be made thoroughly clean through and through.

When you chew a MO-JO you have no lurking suspicion of unpleasant things.

Just try asking for a CLEAN WHITE Gum. Rather simple, isn't it? There can be no substitution, you will get "MO-JO" Gum.

HOW WE WHIPPED MEXICO IN '47; YEAR OF WAR BARREN OF RESULT

Lessons Learned Then Are of Value Now—Bold Move Ended Tedious Conflict.

Victory Came With Shift of Scene of Action, Making Capital Pivotal Point.

SIXTY years ago it cost the United States the lives of 25,000 men and $200,000,000 to defeat Mexico. It took two years of fighting to win back peace between the two nations.

Critics of the war department and of the administration took up the cry that the war's cost in blood and money was tremendously increased because of our unpreparedness. That the losses were not greater, says a writer in the New York Press, was due to the fact that the campaign was undertaken with the single view of subduing Mexico—of punishing her for objecting to our annexation of Texas and of forcing her to recognize our ownership of the territory.

The campaign was begun in northern Mexico only because we had troops there and because it was the natural place to begin it. When we saw peace never would come that way the scene of operations was shifted south, and the City of Mexico was taken.

Causes That Led Up to War.

President Andrew Jackson in a message to congress in 1837 had said that insults to Americans in Texas would more than justify war. At that time, however, he advocated mildness and toleration.

For some years before that the United States had been trying to acquire Texas by purchase. Texas then was a part of Mexico, but was even less under the control of the central government than are the northern states today. The population was made up largely of American settlers.

From 1829 to 1835 Andrew Jackson and John Quincy Adams made Mexico offers of from $1,000,000 to $15,000,000 for Texas, all in vain.

Then, on March 2, 1836, Texas declared her independence as a republic. The Mexican army under Santa Anna was defeated by the Texans under General Sam Houston, and the independence pretty well established. Mexico would not recognize it, but the American congress did.

Texas wanted to join the United States, but Jackson would not conclude a treaty of annexation. Mexico had said American annexation of Texas would mean war.

Nine years later it was learned that Mexico was preparing to recognize the independence of Texas on condition that she would not enter the United States.

In February, 1845, congress admitted Texas as a state. Texas claimed the Rio Grande as her southern and western boundary. Mexico claimed the territory to the Nueces river, about 150 miles north of the Rio Grande. Texas agreed to leave the settling of the boundary to the United States.

Invasion by Mexico.

To settle this boundary line General Zachary Taylor, in command of the American troops in the southwest, in July, 1845, was ordered to take his men into Texas and defend her ports. At the same time the American squadron under Captain Stockton was ordered into the gulf of Mexico.

Jan. 13, 1846, Taylor was ordered to take up positions opposite Matamoros, Mier and Laredo, Mexican towns, within 150 miles of the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Beginning the march on March 8, Taylor in ten days had fortified a position on the left bank at the mouth of the Rio Grande. In another ten days he was within cannon range of Matamoros.

The American and Mexican forces were facing across the river. General Arista, in command of the Mexicans, demanded that Taylor retire to the Nueces. Taylor refused, and the Mexicans crossed the Rio Grande.

On April 24 a party of sixty-three American scouts was ambushed by the Mexican forces, eleven killed or wounded and the rest captured.

May 13, 1846, congress declared that a state of war existed between the United States and Mexico and voted 50,000 men and $10,000,000.

These were the conditions.

Taylor had about 4,000 men at the mouth of the Rio Grande. American ships—what there were of them—were in the gulf of Mexico. We were confronted with the problem of raising an army of 50,000 or 100,000 men and raising it quickly—and getting it into Mexico.

General Winfield Scott, in command of the American army, took charge of the campaign from Washington. It was decided to send three distinct armies into Mexico. The army of the west was to march into New Mexico and take Santa Fe, the army of the center was to take Chihuahua, the capital of the state of that name, and carry on the fight in the northern provinces, and the third army, under General Taylor, was to be sent into central Mexico.

The difficulties of recruiting our forces and getting them into fighting shape made it impossible to undertake these three campaigns immediately and together. It was several months before they were well under way.

Meanwhile, three days after the first attack on American troops, Captain Walker, in command of a camp of Texas rangers at Point Isabel, on the gulf coast, a few miles north of the mouth of the Rio Grande, was attacked by the Mexicans. Several of his men were killed or wounded.

General Taylor at once left his camp opposite Matamoros, under Major Brown, and went to defend Point Isabel. He drove the Mexicans south and on May 8 engaged Arista's forces at Palo Alto, between Point Isabel and the Rio Grande.

Our Troops In Enemy's Country.

May 17, four days after war had been declared, Taylor crossed the Rio Grande, and the invasion of Mexico began. Two days later he took Matamoros.

These fights had been little ones, but they had been won over the odds that were fought against during the entire war. The Mexican forces were utterly routed and retreated in the direction of San Luis Potosi.

Taylor with 7,000 men advanced into the state of Nuevo Leon, and on Sept. 21 laid siege to Monterey, its capital, which he entered Sept. 24.

Saltillo, in Coahuila, was taken in November. Taylor sent Generals Patterson and Puttman on into Tamaulipas, and the next month they took its capital, Victoria.

Meanwhile, the American flag had been raised in California and New

HOW AMERICANS INVADED MEXICO.

Mexico, both then part of Mexico, and the army of the center had advanced into Mexico.

Washington believed that New Mexico and the northern Mexican states were in a condition bordering on revolt and were ready to declare their independence. All haste, therefore, was made as soon as war was declared to get the armies of the center and the west ready for the field.

The latter part of June the army of the west departed for Santa Fe, the plan being to take New Mexico by capturing its capital.

Aug. 18 General Kearny entered Santa Fe. The Mexican army, under General Armijo, had evacuated the place, and the American flag was raised without the firing of a gun.

Sept. 25 Kearny set out for California and the Pacific. He met a returning party, however, and was told that Captain Fremont was in possession.

Santa Anna Raises Army.

In July the army of the center, comprising 3,000 men, under General John E. Wool, had started down the Mississippi. In September it entered Mexican territory, planning to march direct to Chihuahua.

But the ignorance of the war department of Mexican topography was so great that they had not planned for the Sierra Gorda range of mountains, directly in the path of General Wool's march.

When Wool saw the peaks looming up 4,000 feet into the air ahead of him he decided not to cross them. He started south toward Saltillo.

On Oct. 29 Wool took Monclova and proceeded on to Saltillo. He abandoned the idea of attacking Chihuahua. In December he reached Saltillo and joined forces with General Taylor.

Tampico was taken by Commodore Perry's fleet and garrisoned by Taylor's troops.

Meanwhile Santa Anna, who was captured in 1836 by the Texan army under General Sam Houston, had been permitted to return to Mexico in the belief he would be friendly to American interests and help bring the war to a close.

He landed at Vera Cruz, became chief magistrate of Mexico and immediately began reorganizing the defenses. Leaving the government in the hands of Gomez Farias, the vice president, he gathered his troops together and set out to check the advance of General Taylor.

He met the American forces under Taylor at Buena Vista, just south of Saltillo, and one of the bloodiest battles of the war ensued. Santa Anna's forces numbered 20,000. Taylor had barely 4,500.

Finally, after 800 Americans had been killed or wounded and 2,000 Mexicans killed, Santa Anna was forced back. He returned to San Luis Potosi. From there he was called to the City of Mexico to check a growing insurrection against Gomez Farias.

Capital Now the Goal.

In the early part of 1847, nearly a year after the opening of the war, the campaign of the Rio Grande was practically at a close. The only advantage the United States had gained was the assurance that the territory east of the Rio Grande was lost forever to Mexico.

Finally it was determined to transport an army by sea to Vera Cruz and march directly against the City of Mexico. General Scott was directed to lead this army.

By March 22 Scott's investment of the positions about Vera Cruz was complete. The place had a population of 7,000 and was strongly fortified, but four days after the bombardment commenced the city and the Castle of San Juan de Ulloa, a harbor fortification, surrendered together. Scott took possession of Vera Cruz March 27.

Delayed at Vera Cruz waiting for supplies, it was late in April when the army started for the capital. On the way Scott took Jalapa and Puebla, halting at Puebla again for supplies and re-enforcements. Aug. 7 he set out on his eventful march to the capital.

Three Battles Won by Scott.

Aug. 19 Scott met the Mexican forces and defeated them overwhelmingly in three battles that really were part of one general engagement—Contreras, Churubusco and San Antonio.

Meanwhile the United States had been doing all possible to end the war by a diplomatic adjustment. An armistice was declared, to begin Aug. 23. The negotiations fell through, however, and the armistice ended Sept. 7. Scouting parties sent out that day by Scott discovered the army of Santa Anna was intrenched, with its right wing resting on the fortifications of Casa Mata and its left on those of Molino del Rey.

Sept. 8 the Mexican positions were stormed and carried. Scott's army was at the doors of the City of Mexico.

But before the capital could be entered Scott thought it necessary to take Chapultepec, a strongly fortified hill towering above the city and between it and the American army.

The Mexicans made a desperate, but unavailing defense.

The Americans pushed on fighting against desperate resistance until they were in the suburbs of the city outside the Belen gate.

A deputation asked General Scott for terms of capitulation. His terms were refused. Thereupon Scott ordered the divisions of Generals Worth and Quitman to enter the city.

Flag Over the Palace.

The American colors were raised over the National palace shortly after 7 o'clock in the morning of Sept. 14, 1847. By Sept. 16 our forces were completely in possession of the Mexican capital. Feb. 2, 1848, five months after the City of Mexico had fallen and a year and nine months after war had been declared, a treaty of peace was signed. It was ratified by the Mexican congress May 25. Before the end of June the American troops were out of Mexico.

The treaty recognized the Rio Grande as the southern and western boundary of Texas, and ceded California and New Mexico to the United States. In return the United States paid Mexico $15,000,000 cash and assumed $3,500,000 in claims of American citizens which the Mexican government had agreed to pay by the convention of 1840, but had later repudiated.

Polk was urged to annex all of Mexico. He refused to consider it.

Aliens' Postal Deposits the Biggest.

New York leads all other American cities in the use of the postal savings banks, according to the report of Postmaster Morgan transmitted to the department at Washington. It showed that 33,839 depositors in the city have to their credit in the local government savings institution a total of $3,092,099. Italian born residents lead immigrants from other countries by a wide margin, while the deposits of foreign born white persons lead those of Americans by 63 2-10 per cent.

PHILIPPINES' TRUSTEE ONLY.

One striking feature of the President's Message—or we should say Address—is his frank and praiseworthy utterances regarding our rights and duties in the Philippines. That vast territory, or possession if you choose call it, became ours by a treaty of peace with the King of Spain. But as the President says, it is not ours to do with as we will but ours simply and solely as a trustee for the advancement and ultimate independence of the country and its peoples.

This is not an imperialistic nation. We are not conquerors and land-grabbers. Our mission as a nation is a broader and greater one. We have our duties to perform beyond the seas just as we have at home and we should ever be guided by justice to all mankind. Our government is founded on the theory that all just government comes from the consent of the government. We cannot claim that for ourselves and deny it to others. We should not co so and the President declares for this nation that we will not do so.

As to our policy and purpose in the Philippines, Mr. Wilson says to the world: "We must hold steadily in view their ultimate independence and we must move towards the time of that independence as steadily as the way can be cleared and the foundations thoughtfully and permanently laid." And he concludes, after stating that the people of the islands have already been accorded a majority in both branches of the Legislature, "I hope and believe we are beginning to gain the confidence of the Filipino peoples." He could have gone further and said that by our course there we are gaining the confidence of all nations, which is particularly fortunate at this particular time when we are aiming to solve Mexico's troubles.

The New York Sun today again expresses itself as shocked over President Wilson's advocacy of the direct election of Presidents. Had the Sun followed his career as Governor, it would have anticipated this move on the President's part.

TO TEST DEFENSES OF PANAMA CANAL IN 1914

President Wilson May Attend Maneuvers of Fleet Next February.

An official test of effectiveness of the Panama canal fortifications will be made next February by the Atlantic fleet in the greatest naval war game in the history of the country. This announcement has just been officially made by Lieutenant Commander N. L. Jones, naval aid to the president, and Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels.

The maneuvers, which will last a week, may be witnessed by the president and the secretary of the navy. Mr. Wilson is being urged to make the journey, and it is understood that he is seriously considering accepting the invitation. The test will follow the maneuvers off Culebra island, which is being considered for an advance naval base. The entire fleet will steam from there to Cristobal, the Atlantic terminal of the canal, from which point the maneuvers will be directed.

Naval experts will determine definitely how near vessels can get to the canal by day or night without discovery. Observations will be made from the fire control towers, 128 feet above deck, and attempts to sketch the locks and fortifications will be made. From the fire control towers it is estimated that the range of vision is increased sixteen to eighteen miles.

Attempts to determine whether an invading fleet could get near enough to the canal to fire shells ashore will also be made. Tests to determine the value of the canal breakwater for a fleet anchorage will also form a part of the program.

At Culebra island, whose value as an advance base will be determined, marines will be landed first to take theoretical possession. They will plant mines and torpedoes and will set up emergency guns to hold it until the arrival of the fleet.

NEW INCOME TAX PRIMER.

Regulations Permitting Corporations to Use a Fiscal Year Basis.

The treasury department has issued a new set of income tax regulations. They relate entirely to the method of computing the net taxable incomes of corporations. Many corporations have complained that it would be a hardship for them in the matter of bookkeeping and in other ways to pay the income tax on the basis of their net income for the previous calendar year.

The treasury department has accordingly permitted any corporation to compute the tax on the net income received by it in its fiscal year. The ruling took the form of an order to all collectors of internal revenue, reading in part as follows:

Any corporation, joint stock company or association or any insurance company subject to the tax imposed by this act may at its option have the tax payable by it computed upon the basis of the net income received (accrued) from all sources during its fiscal year, provided that it shall designate the last day of the month selected as the month in which its fiscal year shall close as the day of the closing of its fiscal year and shall, not less than thirty days prior to the date upon which its annual return is to be filed, give notice in writing to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which its principal place of business is located of the day it has thus designated as the closing of such fiscal year.

If returns of such corporations as have properly established a fiscal year are due to be made before the new forms are available the collector will be authorized to grant an extension of time to such corporations, not exceeding thirty days, for the filing of such returns, by which time the new forms prescribed will be available for distribution.

Huerta at Close Range; Some Side Lights On His Characteristics

ANY one interested in studying Huerta at close range, writes a correspondent in Mexico City, may easily do so about 5 o'clock any afternoon at El Globo, a cafe in Avenida San Francisco, frequented by him in other times and which he still visits as informally as if he were in humble station. The cafe stands midway between the National palace and the head of the street. By courtesy it is called a tea room. It has an efficient bar attachment, which accounts for its popularity. The place is quiet and the lights always shaded to a degree grateful to Huerta's decrepit eyes. Occasionally he patronizes other cafes in the neighborhood, although El Globo remains his regular place. One of the cafes he never visits is around the corner in the Avenida Cinco de Mayo, where the Reyes-Mondragon plot against Madero was hatched last winter.

There is reason to suppose that Huerta anticipates a violent end. The other day, when the French minister called on him and was leaving by the door through which he had entered, Huerta halted him and pointed to another exit.

"When I left home to try my fortune," he said, "my mother, who was an Indian, said to me:

"'My son, we are very poor. I have no money to give you, but I can give you some good advice. Never go the same way twice.'

"And I never do. And so they never catch me."

There was probably truth in that remark. His cabinet meetings are never held twice in succession in the same place. The ministers are summoned at his whim to the palace, to his home, to one of their own residences or to a cafe for consultation. It is even said that he has never lain himself down to sleep twice running in the same place.

"What is the use in taking chances?" he once explained. "When I am awake

GENERAL VICTORIANO HUERTA.

CHAPULTEPEC CASTLE, OFFICIAL RESIDENCE OF MEXICAN EXECUTIVES.

I can take care of myself, but asleep it is different. I suppose some fellows who don't like me will get me some day, but I want them to do it when I am awake."

Huerta has rarely occupied Chapultepec castle, official residence of Mexican executives, since he became president. He says it is "too lonely on top of the rock" to suit him.

"Besides, it isn't proper for a man as bad as they say I am to venture so near heaven," he said. "I'd better stay down below, where I belong," he added sarcastically.

There is Indian blood in him, as there is in ex-President Porfirio Diaz, although it does not show so conspicuously in his features. He is more active and nervous than Diaz. Unlike Diaz, he has the advantage of training in the Chapultepec Military college. But, similar to Diaz, who gained his experience in war by actual experience on the field, Huerta is a good fighting man, because it was born in him to fight. It is instinct in him to take what he wants peaceably if he can, but by fighting if he must.

Huerta did good work for Diaz in Yaqui campaigns in Sonora. Although for some reason he fell from grace with Diaz, it was Huerta whom the old general summoned to safeguard him to Vera Cruz two years ago, when he fled before the triumphant Madero. Huerta fought well for Madero, too, but he was too bloodily ruthless to suit Madero, so after Huerta had vanquished Orozco in Chihuahua a year ago last spring Madero shelved him. That was a mistake on Madero's part.

Fighting is the only thing Huerta knows. His contempt for Madero fattened on every manifestation of mercy which Madero evidenced toward his enemies. His contempt for the United States is bred from virtually the same cause. He doesn't think Wilson is a fighting man, that he wants to fight or that he will fight, and consequently Huerta has a poor opinion of him and his government.

NATIONAL FIGHT AGAINST CANCER

Campaign of Education Under Way to Check Its Spread.

HOPE IN EARLY TREATMENT

Surgery the Only Present Safety In Combating Disease, Which Is Increasing, Although Claim Is Made For Radium as a Cure.

Death by cancer claims 75,000 people every year in the United States. The scourge is steadily increasing, says Graham R. Taylor in the Survey. But hope for its control is growing, for we are coming more widely to understand that the disease is curable if treated in early stages. This knowledge with reference to tuberculosis started the great campaign against the white plague. Similarly a nation wide fight against cancer is being organized by the recently formed American Society For the Control of Cancer.

In spite of premature enthusiasm over radium and the conscienceless statements of quacks the surgeon's knife is the only known cure. Prompt diagnosis and an immediate thorough operation offer a high probability of saving the patient's life, while delay and neglect mean certain and terrible death. To spread this simple gospel to every corner of the land the society is beginning an active campaign of publicity and education.

Only tuberculosis and pneumonia claim a greater number of victims annually than cancer. For the decade ending with 1911 the cancer death rate has increased from 65.8 per 100,000 of the population in 1901 to 83.9 in 1911.

A Destroyer of Homes.

From the social standpoint it is of peculiar interest to note that cancer is distinctly a disease of adult life. Deaths from cancer make up one-sixteenth of the mortality from all causes at the ages of forty-five and over. This means that cancer directs its terrific onslaught largely against mothers and fathers of families.

Cancer is not at first a general disease of the blood, and despair and surrender in face of the disease is not warranted. We now known that cancer is always at first a local disease which can often be completely removed by adequate surgery. The knife is the only known sure remedy, and the terrible scourge gives its victim only one chance. Delay means not simply danger, but inevitable death. And again the result of a delayed or incomplete operation is almost always fatal.

Radium is considered by enthusiasts to promise a curative agency of unmatched beneficence to mankind, but we must know much more than we do now of its effects before we can abate in the slightest the urgent emphasis on surgical treatment. We have not yet been able in this country to make an authoritive determination of its value. Few American surgeons have sufficient radium available to give a thorough trial, especially as it appears that extensive doses sometimes cure when smaller amounts have but little effect.

Only time will tell what percentage of cases can be cured with radium, and in the meantime the Society For the Control of Cancer warns the public that early surgical treatment affords the best chance for cure of cancer.

Methods to Be Employed.

To meet the need of a definite special agency to fight the battle of society against this disease the American Society For the Control of Cancer has been formed. Patterned somewhat after the National Association For the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, yet recognizing an entirely different problem and planning different methods, the organization aims to establish a clearing house of information on cancer and to become the channel through which authoritative statements will be made to the public.

One of the first objects will be to obtain the keeping of systematic and uniform records of cancer cases in hospitals and dispensaries to provide the basis for more detailed and positive deductions as to the value of surgical treatment in different manifestations and stages of the disease. When by this method and by the collection and study of statistics from all available sources new light is thrown on the cancer question the findings will be spread abroad through all available channels.

"RAILROADS ARE STARVING."

Seeking Higher Rates, Say Earnings Are Less Despite Increased Revenues.

While their revenues have increased earnings have been less, declare the forty-nine railroads east of the Mississippi, which use this argument in asking an increase of 5 per cent in freight rates. Testimony to this effect was given before the interstate commerce commission in Washington before that body adjourned to meet Dec. 10.

The burden of the evidence tendered is that while the roads generally are enjoying an increased business the returns from operations are continuously decreasing until, as General Traffic Manager Maxwell of the Wabash said: "The situation is becoming daily more serious. We are suffering from slow starvation."

When the commission meets on Dec. 10 shippers protesting against the higher rates will be represented by counsel.

HE WAS A GOOD SOLDIER.

And His Loss Was Deplored by Paul I., the Half Mad Czar.

In Waleszewski's life of Paul I., the half mad son of Catherine the Great, occurs the following anecdote illustrative of the workings of the disorganized mind. It seems that in a report on military affairs submitted to the Emperor Paul the final syllable kij of the Russian word for cornet or ensign was carried over from one page to another.

The emperor took it for a proper name, and, moved by a caprice, he gave orders that Ensign Kij should be promoted to the rank of lieutenant. He saw an expression of embarrassment and disappointment on the faces of the staff, who did not dare to explain his error; so the next day he promoted the lieutenant of the day before to the rank of captain and some days later to that of colonel, demanding that the officer should be presented to him at once. There was consternation everywhere. The offices were turned upside down in search of the imaginary Kij.

A subaltern of the name or something like it was found in one of the regiments quartered on the Don. He was sent for, but Paul grew impatient, and in the end he had to be told that Kij had been carried off suddenly by a stroke.

"That is a pity," observed the czar. "He was a good soldier."

THE NAME "ARTHUR."

It Has a Wider Significance Than Is Generally Supposed.

The New Life, the London organ of "the most ancient faith," gives its readers the following recondite notes on the name "Arthur."

"The name is not pronounced Arthu-r, but Ar-Tau-r.

"The "A" is added for pronouncing in an accentuated manner.

"The "R" should be by itself and is pronounced like "are."

"R" signifies the head, and the second part of the name is "Th" or "Tau" or "Tor."

"Artur or Arthor is a tetragrammaton and is shown as R-Th-O-R. It means the head of Thor or Tor—i. e., the head of the highest intelligence.

"The Tharus or Tharsus of the east is similar to the Taurs or Tories of Ireland and Scotland.

"They were the religious mendicants of the past who led the people rightly in the way of the most ancient faith. With the uprooting of the ancient idealism these mendicants gradually assumed a political mission because of their social power among the Celtic peoples.

"The word Tory associated with modern politics has come from this. The word Tory, therefore, has a similar meaning to Arthur and implies "the party or people of divine intelligence."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.—Adv.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT-AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 37.

SAYS "Agricultrual Advertising," referring to the axiom, "Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls," credited to John Wanamaker and published many times:

"Too many people enter Advertising for the first time with their feet braced to witness a miracle.

"There is no sudden, wild, spectacular onrush of business. And the disappointed experimenter curses Advertising and loads a shotgun for the next solicitor who calls.

"The business man who undertakes an important campaign of publicity should make a wise and carefully planned investment. It is an investment in public good will, not one that will take his breath away by its remarkable performances overnight, but one that will grow in influence and results, gradually, logically, until in good time it proves its lasting profit-earning power."

The man who is taking his first "plunge" into advertising's possibilities is the man who needs to realize the limitations of the power he has credited with magic.

Advertising isn't magic. It isn't a panacea for all the ills to which business is heir. It IS a force for upbuilding—a steady, strength-accumulating power which, rightly and persistently used, works silently and faithfully for the interests of the advertiser.

Of Interest to Women and the Home

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

Scotch Economy.

The greatest point of economy in the Scotch diet is to be found in the use of catmeal. It is said that the chief reason why Scotland has produced such a rugged, hardy race in spite of a rather barren soil and frequent poverty is because the Scotch housewives were wise in their use of oatmeal. The United States agricultural department stands behind the statement that of these five cereals, oats, wheat, barley, corn and rice, "oats contains perhaps the largest quantity of important nutrients with a fairly low proportion of crude fiber." Naming these cereals as they rank in real cheapness—that is, the amount of energy and nutrients obtainable for a give amount of money—oatmeal heads the list.

Still there are some physicians who tells us that the morning dish of oatmeal is far from commendable—that, in fact, it is sometimes responsible for indigestion. But this is because the American housewife too often serves oatmeal in a soggy, half-cooked condition and it is eaten only after it has been deluged with sugar and milk. The sugar acting on the heavy mass of cereal is what does the harm—not the oatmeal. Well-cooked, mealy oatmeal porridge, eaten with milk or cream and a very little sugar, or possibly a pinch of salt instead, is one of the most nourishing breakfast dishes.

Oatmeal Cakes.

The Scotch housewife uses oatmeal otherwise than in porridge. Sometimes she uses it in cakes made as follows: Put a teaspoonful of soda and a pinch of salt into two cupfuls of sour milk or buttermilk and into this mix oatmeal until the mixture is about as thick as baking powder biscuit dough. Bake the dough into cakes on a griddle, turning occasionally. The cakes should be thick. The cooking should take about three-quarters of an hour, so as to insure thorough cooking of the oats, so if the griddle is placed over a gas flame care must be taken to keep the heat low. These cakes can be eaten cold or hot, with butter, syrup or honey.

Here is a recipe for using oatmeal in soup: Skim the fat from two quarts of mutton broth and add half a pint of oatmeal, two onions chopped fine, salt, pepper and parsley. Cover and cook slowly for three hours. Strain and serve with slices of toast. This is a variety of the famous Crowdie, a dish which in a somewhat rougher form is a great favorite with hungry Scotchmen.

No list of Scotch concoctions with oatmeal would be complete without a rule for making Haggis—a dish in praise of which the poet Burns wrote one of his dialect poems. It calls for a sheep's tongue, and the liver, heart and pouch of a sheep—culinary dainties which are perhaps not easy for the American housewife to secure. In fact, it would hardly be a practictal dish for any one not living on a farm. But the idea of using oatmeal as stuffing for meat is a good one.

To make it, chop the liver, heart and a pound of bacon. We Americans would put them through a meat grinder, of course. Then add two chopped onions, red pepper, mixed herbs and salt. In the mean time have a pint of toasted oatmeal ready mixed with two eggs and the grated rind and juice of a lemon. Mix the chopped liver, etc., with the oatmeal mixture and stuff it all into a cleaned sheep's pouch. Sew it up and cook it in boiling water for three hours. In Scotland it is served with apple sauce.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CHRISTMAS ICED DESSERTS.

ONE of the choicest desserts for the Christmas dinner is an ice. Homemade ices are, of course, the nicest, and they should be simple, so that even small children may be given an ample portion.

If you care to buy fancy molds they may be served in all sorts of fascinating shapes.

An Iced Pudding.

Fruit Ice Cream.—Take the strained juice of three lemons and dissolve into it a quarter pound of sugar. Mix with it a wineglassful each of sherry and grape juice and a pint of cream. Stir this mixture well, turn into a freezer and freeze it. Mix with the cream a quarter pound of preserved fruits cut into small pieces, turn all into a mold, cover and pack in pounded ice and salt for an hour or so. It is then ready to serve.

Banana Ice Cream.—Mix in a saucepan a pint of water, three cupfuls of sugar and boil for twenty minutes. Add the pulp of half a dozen bananas and the well beaten yolks of three eggs. Stir for six minutes; then remove from the fire. Put into a bowl of cold water and beat well for ten minutes. When cold pass through a sieve and add a quart of cream. Place in a freezer and allow to remain till solid, when it is ready for serving.

Dainty Desserts.

Pineapple Sherbet.—Take a pineapple, either fresh or preserved; two quarts of water, the juice of four lemons, ice and sugar to taste. Cut the pineapple into slices and chop it coarsely. Pour over it the cold water, add the lemon juice, sweeten to taste and strain into a large jug. Just before serving add a few pieces of ice.

Maple Ice Cream.—Take four beaten eggs and a quart of heated maple sirup. Pour the sirup boiling hot over the beaten eggs, beating all the while. Return to the stove and cook until rather thick, stirring constantly. Freeze with two quarts of cream.

Coffee Parfait.—This is frozen without stirring and may be made without a freezer. Cook a cupful of clear strong coffee with three-quarters cupful of sugar until it will spin a thread. Pour over three well beaten egg yolks and beat till cold. Then add two cupfuls of whipped cream, pack in ice and salt and leave to freeze.

The Minister Talked to Him About It.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Man In The Moon and His Little Friends.

THE man in the moon was shining down very agreeably. Jack and Evelyn had pointed him out to daddy for about the hundredth time. Sometimes they thought he was frowning, sometimes they thought he looked sad, and sometimes they thought he was smiling. Daddy could never see any difference in his expression, though, of course, being the right kind of a daddy, he did not say so.

The man in the moon, as perhaps you may have heard, carries a bundle of sticks over his shoulder. If you think so please do not mention it to Jack and Evelyn should you meet them. They will look at you in surprise and pity your ignorance. They believe that the man in the moon carries a bag over his shoulder.

You see, one night as they were pointing out the man in the moon to daddy they asked him what the man had on his shoulder, and daddy replied:

"Why, a bag, of course. It was this way: The man in the moon lives all by himself. He is a lonely widower or old bachelor or something like that and has neither wife nor chicks to take care of him.

"The man in the moon has two companions. One of these is a tame rabbit and the other a dog. Sometimes you can make these out on the face of the moon when the man cannot be seen there.

"The little tame rabbit is very useful to the man in the moon. He does chores for him and sometimes runs errands. The little Japanese children say the tame rabbit grinds rice. They have believed this and talked about it for hundreds of years, so, of course, it must be so. This rice is no doubt to make rice cakes for the luncheon, dinner or tea of the man in the moon. There is, of course, plenty of green cheese for the man in the moon, but he gets tired of it. That is the reason he came down to get some cold plum porridge.

"The dog is not much use to the man in the moon. He is a hunting dog, and some say that the man and the dog and rabbit are all in the moon because the man was too fond of hunting rabbits. He even hunted them on Sunday, and when the minister or somebody talked to him about it the man wished he were in the moon or some place where he could hunt rabbits in peace. And now he is there and just hates rabbit hunting. If he were not good to the little tame rabbit now it would not be so fond of him.

"Oh, yes; about the bag? The moon man has nobody to carry the rice home for the little rabbit to grind for their rice cakes. The dog won't carry it home on his back, for it keeps him busy lolling over the edge of the moon barking back at the dogs on earth who bark up at him whenever they see the moon shining in the sky. So the man has to carry it himself."

"The Boy, His Needs and His Books."

A rare treat is in store for the ladies of Plainfield on Friday afternoon of this week when Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, of New York, formerly of Scotch Plains, will give an address on "The Boy, His Needs and His Books," under the auspices of the Plainfield Mothers' Association, at the home of Mrs. William M. Sandford, 312 East Seventh street, at 3:30 o'clock.

All women interested in the welfare of boys, whether members of the Mothers' Association or not, are cordially invited to hear Mr. Mathiews. He will be remembered for his interesting and illuminating lectures given two years ago in the Young Men's Christian Association on "The Moral and Religious Training of the Boy in the Home."

Mme. Montessori's Lecture.

The committee having in charge the visit of Dr. Maria Montessori, the great Italian teacher, announced last week that Mme. Montessori would speak at Carnegie Hall on the evening of December 8.

Arrangements are being made for delegations of persons interested in the Montessori Method and of teachers from various schools in New York and vicinity to attend.

Another New Association.

At the invitation of Louis DeWitt Deyo, supervising principal of the Roselle Park Public Schools, one hundred and fifty teachers and mothers met at the Roselle Park High School on Thursday, November 20. At this time the Roselle Park Parent-Teacher Association was organized with over one hundred charter members, and the officers were elected with enthusiasm. Mrs. Oscar Peck, of Chestnut street, was elected president. There are four school buildings in the borough but only one organization for the present, but it is hoped at an early date to work out the ideal plan—a separate association for each school.

A New Brunswick daily paper has asked the Parent-Teacher League, of New Brunswick, to edit a column similar to this one.

Holiday Suggestions.

May we repeat that often-used expression: "Please Shop Early." To do so means more convenient shopping for you and better service on the part of those with whom you deal.

Pre-holiday sales, which begin always on the Friday after Thanksgiving, are in full swing in a great many store and there are hundreds of opportunities for saving—and on desirable Christmas articles, too.

PLEASE DO SHOP EARLY!

MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL.

While the Muhlenberg Hospital at Plainfield is not in any sense a Westfield institution, with the opening of its new private room dormitory, maternity pavilion and pathological library, we have close at hand an institution up-to-date and equipped in every particular in the most approved way. In connection with the enlarged capacity and scope of this wonderful institution, four or five of our prominent physicians have been honored with a place on their advisory board, and have been invited to make use of the hospital for their operations and exceptional cases. This gives Westfield the use and privilege of an institution that she cannot hope to have for herself for many years to come, and with the advent of the automobile ambulance, and the fine roads leading from town to the hospital, this institution, for all intents and purposes, can be classed as one of Westfield's blessings. Westfield and her people have been noted for their spirit of generosity and fair play, and to take advantage of the privileges of such an institution without doing her share in its support, would be a strain upon our reputation and entirely unWestfield like in spirit. While Elizabeth has hospitals, which we believe have offered like privileges to our people, the Plainfield hospital is nearer and of more generous and up-to-date appointments. We feel fully warranted in suggesting that the interest and support of Westfield and her people should be given to the Plainfield institution in a most liberal manner.—Westfield Standard.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7999

No. 7999 is a one-piece design suitable for cloth, velveteen, or any of the soft clinging fabrics used for the gowns of to-day. The drop-shoulder which is one of the season's most approved features but which is often a bit too plain for certain figures is relieved by a tuck over either shoulder.

The dress closes in front under a wide lapped seam, there is another stitched seam down the back and a tuck extending part way down which gives just a hint of the popular peg-top.

There are trimming sections that may be used to fill in the scalloped front of blouse and skirt if desired. An effective suggestion for this frock is black velveteen with the trimming sections of dull gold metallic lace.

This dress requires for size 36 4½ yards of 36 inch material with ¾ yard of allover lace for trimming.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34 to 44.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Attractive and Inexpensive Gifts for Your Girl Friends.

Bags of every size and description prove useful and acceptable gifts for your girl friends at Christmas. Here are shown three entirely different styles of bags, all of which can be quickly, easily and inexpensively made.

Pattern number 14453 contains a design six and one-half by eight inches, which may be developed in solid embroidery or beads combined with braid, cord or chain-stitch on a bag of linen, silk, velvet or broadcloth. This design may also be used on a waist.

Pattern number 14422 contains the cutting pattern for a bag five and one-half by six and one-half inches and a design for another four by nine and three-fourths inches. These designs may be developed in heavily padded solid work of eyelets on silk, linen or Russian crash in white or in one or more colors. The flap of the ba should be transferred to a separate piece of material and sewed to the bag.

The design and the cutting pattern for a bag, nine and one-half by nine inches, are contained in the pattern number 14423. This conventional design may be worked in one or more colors on a bag of linen, Russian crash or pongee, and ribbon to match the embroidery should be run through the large eyelets at the top.

Stamp the design on the right side of the material, then take another piece the same size and, after stamping the scalloped top and eyelets, baste this, right side out, to the back of the first piece and buttonhole the two together.

These patterns will be supplied to readers for 10 cents each.

HERALDED RIVALS AN INFERIOR SET

Kearney High School Failed to Display Their Lauded Ability.

TROUNCED BY N. P. H. S.

Final Score 62 to 36—Dunning and Conroy Led the Winners' Attack—Visitors Swept Off Their Feet By Speedy Teamwork of Opponents.

Yesterday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, the North Plainfield High School basketball team added another victory to its string by defeating the strong quintet from Kearny H. S. The final score was 62 to 36.

In anticipation of a contest like the one that was played at Kearny three weeks ago, a large crowd of borough rooters thronged into the galleries, but were sorely disappointed when the home team rolled up an extra large score. As Saengerbund Hall has just the opposite kind of a court than the visitors are used to playing on they were completely lost and the slippery floor added to their troubles.

The local boys had twenty points to their credit before Taub, the visiting center, made the first score for his team. North Plainfield had the ball the greater part of the time and fast accurate passing together with excellent teamwork was responsible for the score. Ronald Conroy, the midget substitute forward who failed to score in the last game, came back yesterday and made five field goals in the first period.

Roberts, who was the mainstay of his team in the first game, was injured in the shoulder and played only one half. Abrams held him to one field goal. The first half ended with the score standing 46 to 10.

In the second half, Taub went to forward for Kearny and Parker played center. This seemed to strengthen the team and it played much better. In this half, Taub netted seven baskets and together with Parker's three closed the gap in the score considerablfy. "Ronnie" Conroy again made a quintet of baskets but it was only the boroughites' big lead that made the victory sure. In the last few minutes of play the visitors played some fine basketball and made four baskets in quick succession. In this half the Kearny boys made ten more points than their rivals.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is manual training taught in the Plainfield or North Plainfield public schools? Is there an evening class for manual training work in this city?—N. C.

Answer—Both the local and borough schools teach manual training for which a special instructor is engaged. There are no evening classes for the work you mention in this city.

Sporting Editor:

Query—In what year was the Charter Day celebration in Plainfield and who was the mayor of Plainfield at that time? What was the celebration held for?—L. F. T.

Answer—The Charter Day celebration was held in 1909 and Charles J. Fisk was mayor of this city at that time. It was held to celebrate the fortieth anniversary of the granting of Plainfield's charter.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Is there a factory for the manufacture of bronze articles in this city?—T. P. U.

Answer—Yes, several. Consult the advertising columns of this paper for information concerning their location.

Sporting Editor:

Query—I intend to go to Washington at Christmas time. Would it be wise for me to dress warmly or is the wather mild there at that time of the year?—H. W. O.

Answer—We cannot say how the weather will be in Washington at Christmas time, but if a fur coat would feel good here at that time it would probably not be a burden in the Capitol City.

Sporting Editor:

Query—What is the average speed of a racing motorcycle? Why is the seat taken off of racing machines and a cushion substituted?—K. R.

Answer—About twenty-seven seconds to the mile. The seat is eliminated in order to enable the driver to get as close as possible to the machine proper and thus cut off all unnecessary resistance against the wind.

With two victories out of three the Newark team, which met the Rahway quintet on the Newark alleys last night, succeeded in holding on to first place in the Elks' League. The competition was close and interesting, but the pinning was low. Newark started off in brilliant style, totaling 982, to which Howard Williams contributed 236 and Fred Clark 202. The visitors stopped at 756. In the second game there was a big form reversal, and the Rahway team, with the modest total of 817, won by six pins. JUNIOR BASKETEERS NOW AT THE HELM

Interclass League Contest of Yesterday Was an Interesting Affair.

The Junior team of the North Plainfield High School basketball league took the lead in the championship race yesterday afternoon, when the Freshman five was defeated by the score of 40 to 26 in Saengerbund Hall. This was the first league game for the "freshies" and they made it interesting for their opponents throughout.

In the first half the scoring was very close and at times the Freshmen were within one point of their rivals' score and through the excellent work of "Dan" Denny they finished the half only four points behind the Juniors. Edson Day, captain of the third year team, was as usual the mainstay and his accurate shooting kept his team in the lead. The Freshmen were superior at the foul line and Denny made four points in this half, although he missed many.

Day made a total of twenty-three points for the Juniors, while Denny led his team with four field goals and five fouls. This afternoon the Sophomores will meet the Freshmen in their first battle of the season.

HOLY CROSS TEAM TO CHANGE NAME

Manager Doyle Says He Will Yield to Request of Church Rector.

"WHAT'S IN A NAME?"

Financial Loss and Advertising Kept Local Eleven From Shifting to Another Year, Says Manager "Doc."

Claiming that the name "Holy Cross" is a misnomer, Rev. William S. McCoy, of the Holy Cross Episcopal church, has communicated with Manager "Doc" Doyle, of the Holy Cross football team, requesting the management of the local eleven to drop the name under which it is at present staging games. Since the reorganization of the senior Holy Cross team, which has nothing to do with the church and is in no way connected or affiliated with the ecclesiastical institution, a team of boys who attend the Holy Cross Sunday-school has been brought together by William Hittle and during the past season played the gridiron game as the Holy Cross team.

Despite the fact that the management of the senior eleven has endeavored in every way to eliminate any possibility of conflict between the church and athletic factions and even went so far at the beginning of the season as to request his publicity managers to drop the word "churchboys" in referring to the team, Dr. McCoy claims, and it is a well known fact, that certain people are misled by the term "Holy Cross." Frequently during the past season both of the Holy Cross teams have had games scheduled on the same date and at the same time in different parts of the city but in advertising the contests nothing was done to designate which team represented the church.

The mix-up came to a head last Saturday afternoon, when a Perth Amboy enthusiast who heralds the ability of the Dexter eleven about the surrounding country, announced through the columns of a Perth Amboy sport chronicle that the invincible Holy Cross team, which had been a close rival of the Dexters, had met its Waterloo in the shape of the Cranford Boys' Club eleven, when in reality it was the genuine churchboy aggregation that was defeated. In an effort to eliminate the confusion and give the churchboys the preference over an outside combination the rector communicated with the Holy Cross management and requested an immediate change to be made.

Manager Doyle, in an interview with a Daily Press reporter this afternoon, stated that he as manager has received no communication from the rector but the information had come to him indirectly through "Dick" Harrigan, a guard on the eleven, to whom the clergyman had addressed his request. Doyle claims that the name was merely taken by the team because of the fact that many of the players on this year's aggregation have been Holy Cross men for many years and have supported the red and white on athletic fields for sometime past. He further stated that he fully intended to comply with Mr. McCoy's request before another year and the only reason that he had not brought the change about this season was because of the big financial loss that would be entailed as a result. Doyle claims that Holy Cross emblems have been ordered and the games have been booked under the name of Holy Cross, so that a change at this time would upset everything connected with the working of the organization. "There remains but one game to be played on the schedule and after that the churchboys can have everything that goes with the name," says Doyle.

RECORD SQUAD OUT FOR P. H. S. BASKETBALL

Coach Patch Confronted With One of Largest Squads in History of School.

The Plainfield High School basketball team had its first practice yesterday afternoon in the High School gymnasium. One of the largest squads in the history of the school turned out and Coach Patch put them through a practice of catching the ball and shooting the basket. No definite idea could be had of the team that will lineup against Hope Chapel.

GRACE BOYS' TEAM STILL UNDEFEATED

Last Night's Encounter With Hope Chapel Overwhelmingly in Their Favor.

Junior basketball cagers of Grace Church are still traveling the road without a turn, having added another notable scalp to their already large collection and asserting their superiority over another rival of this and other years. The Hope Chapel boys are the latest acquisition and the Grace youngsters triumped over the Chapelites by a score of 35 to 29 in their scheduled encounter last night.

Superior passing and ability to cage the spheriod when given the opportunity hung up the verdict in favor of the blue and gray outfit and although the score was close at numerous intervals never did the Grace stock sink to the losers level. Clever field goal shooting on the part of Cottrell and Walls was conspicuous in the work of the respective factions.

FOOTBALL NOTES

"Big Bill" Edwards, the former Princeton star, picks the Harvard eleven intact as his All-American combination.

Not a touchdown was scored in the Harvard-Princeton, Yale-Princeton or the Harvard-Yale game this season. All the scoring was done via the goal route.

In the thirteen years Fielding H. Yost has coached the University of Michigan football squads, the Wolverines have played 105 regular games, winning all but ten of them.

Harry Robinson, of the Maryland Polytechnic, is credited with being the best schoolboy football player in Baltimore. He is a son of Wilbert Robinson, manager-elect of the Brooklyn Superbas.

Since the Harvard-Yale game, Charles Brickley, the Harvard star, has received all sorts of offers, at fancy salaries, including vaudeville engagements, playing semi-pro football, coaching football teams and "boosting" athletic goods. It looks Charley busy turning down those offers.

BASEBALL NOTES

A report from Indianapolis has it that Detroit will return Bobby Veach to the Indians next season.

Fred Lake will transfer his latest purchased New Bedford franchise of the New England League, to Fitchburg, Mass.

ARMY KICKING GOAL AFTER TOUCHDOWN

Completely upsetting all football "dope," the Army eleven defeated the Navy at the Polo Ground, New York, by the decisive score of 22 to 9, in the presence of President Wilson and a distinguished throng. The Army scored three touchdowns and one goal from placement to three placement goals for the Navy. The West Point team excelled th Middies generally and the victory was well earned.

Leading the International League catchers last season evidently didn't get Bill Bergen anything but the gate. Baltimore recently released the old Brooklyn backstop to Scranton.

A thousand dollars a point for a batting average is some price. But that is just what it cost Lee Dapper, of the Red Sox, last season. Harry was to get a bonus if he hit for .290 and the official figures show that he clouted for .289.

Great Bend, the Kansas League pennant winners, will have inscribed on their new pennant "Champion 1911-1912-1913." A muslin showing three championships in succession should be able to withstand a Kansas cyclone several times a week.

According to a ruling of the National Commission, Goat Anderson must pay $700 to the owners of the Wheeling Club for his part of an accommodation note. The former Pittsburgh outfielder refuses to settle and says he will jump to the Federal League.

BOXING CLASS STARTED.

Jack Payne opened his boxing class in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium last night and instructed a group of four pupils in the scientific points of the sport. The opening night's drill consisted of calisthenics, shadow boxing and footwork practice and all of the men present entered the new branch of work enthusiastically. The class will meet again tonight.

CHANGES IN RULES AS TO BASKETBALL

When the basketball officials and coaches meet at the Hotel Astor tomorrow afternoon for the annual interpretation meeting of the rules committee it will find that the changes in the rules this year are few in number and have been made mostly with a desire for clearness and definiteness. The committee, however, in making the changes, has sought to eliminate still further all unnecessary roughness. Two important changes in the rules have to do with the "jump ball." Speaking for the committee, Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, of Princeton, says:

"The 'jump ball' has always been the object of criticism and complaint because of the many fouls which have been committed in connection with this play, whether in the centre circle, or, as so often happens, near the side lines. The committee attacked the situation from two points of view: first, to lessen the number of opportunities for the play itself, and, second, to change the rule governing the play so as to make it more difficult to commit an intentional foul and easier for the official to detect it when it is made.

"Since a very large number of 'jump balls' occur on the side line, where, owing to the closeness of the spectators, it is often difficult for an official to decide who is entitled to the ball, the rule governing the possession of the ball out of bounds has been changed so that when the ball goes out of bounds it is awarded to an opponent of the player who was last touched by the ball before it crossed the line.

"The change in the rule will not only do away with the necessity of many 'jump balls,' but will practically eliminate the charging into the spectators and the chances of injury and delay in the game that so frequently follow. Furthermore, this change makes it possible for the official to make his decision more promptly and to avoid many of the delays that attended the administration of the old rule.

"The second change in the rule governing the 'jump ball' is to require the men jumping to place and to keep one hand behind the back at the waistline until the ball has been touched on the jump. This regulation will undoubtedly lessen the height to which the average player can jump. This is not a serious matter and not to be considered in view of the fact that the opportunities for holding, pushing and so on that have been so freely used in this play will be reduced to a minimum."

NO PRELIMINARY GAME.

Despit the fact that a report has been circulated to the effect that the Plainfield High School would appear in a preliminary bill at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night from an authoritative source it has been learned that no game has been booked and that there will be no preliminary arranged.

GAMES WANTED.

The Goodwill Arrows Basketball team, of Perth Amboy, a first class traveling five, would like to arrange games with teams averaging 135-140 pounds. A good attraction is assured any team that books the Goodwills. Address John Sullivan, 235 Brighton avenue, Perth Amboy, N. J.

CLASS LEAGUE STANDING.

Juniors	2	1	.666
Sophomores	1	1	.500
Freshmen		1	.000

TRENTON Y. M. C. A. NEXT.

TRUNKS OF ELEPHANTS.

They Serve Many Purposes and Take the Place of Hands.

Elephants are interesting because they have such varied feelings, such a wide range of intelligent appreciation. Doubtless this is in part due to the possession in the trunk of an organ the development of which has itself permitted development of brain power. Very great brain power could not have been developed as an accompaniment merely of hoofs; hands, however imperfect, were necessary or something else that would serve as a partial substitute for hands.

By watching a herd of elephants any one can speedily see the large range of uses to which the trunk is put and the large range of needs and emotions which it develops and satisfies. During courtship the bull and cow caress one another with their trunks. Elephants are very curious and the trunks are used to test every object which arouses their curiosity. The cow is constantly fondling and guiding the calf with her trunk. The trunk is used to gather every species of food and to draw water. It is used to spurt dust or water over the body. It is used to test rotten and dangerous ground. It is in constant use to try the wind so as to guard against the approach of any foe.

As one watches the great beasts the trunks continually appear in the air above them, encurling, twisting, feeling each breath of air. Now and then a great ear is flapped. Now and then the weight of the body is slightly shifted from one colossal leg to another. The huge beasts are rarely entirely motionless for any length of time. Nor are they long silent, for aside from subdued squeaks or growls and occasional shrill calls there are queer internal rumblings. Their eyes are very bad. Like the rhino, they can only see as a very nearsighted man sees. At a distance of eighty yards or so, when in my dull colored hunting clothes, I could walk slowly toward them or shift my position without fear of discovery.—Theodore Roosevelt in Scribner's Magazine.

PILGRIMS IN INDIA.

They Travel Packed In Trains Like Sardines In a Box.

Of course pilgrims in India usually travel third class, and the best of such accommodations makes no provision for comfort. Most of the carriages are divided into small cubicles, with long, narrow wooden benches running along the two sides. There is no convenience of any kind, and the travelers are packed into the compartment like so many sardines in a tin.

On festive occasions, when Hindus journey by the hundred thousand to the sacred spots, it is a sight worth traveling many miles to see a pilgrim train bound for some shrine on the Ganges. When it stops at a wayside station scores of intending passengers try to force their way into the already closely packed third class carriages by battering down the locked doors or even endeavoring to crawl through the windows over the heads and shoulders of the occupants. The police use their batons freely to drive the invaders away, but usually a few manage to evade the constables and secure a foothold on the train.

Sometimes the authorities are compelled to carry passengers in open trucks. They plant themselves in the bottom of these cars and remain there exposed to the inclemencies of the weather, for ten, twenty, thirty, forty hours at a stretch, one treading on the toes of the other—fretful babies crying, men and women grumbling—until the end of the journey is reached.—Wide World Magazine.

Education and Suicide.

The American Practitioner declares that suicide increases with education and civilization and adds: "It has been said that the spread of the alphabet is coincident with that of self murder. The savage rarely takes his own life. In Italy, Russia and Spain, where the standard of education is low, the fewest suicides on the continent of Europe occur, while in France and Germany, where the people are more sensitive and refined and where the standard of education is higher, the percentage is much increased."

How the End Will Come.

The professor of natural phenomena had acquired a gasoline car.

"The day is coming," he said to his class a few weeks later, "when the tire will sag and punctures pierce the inner tube and the casing blister—and then this old earth of ours will have a blowout that may strike the dog star from its kennel and hurl the dipper to kingdom come!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Impossible.

Exe—What ridiculous, impossible things these fashion plates are! Mrs Exe—I know they used to be, but today many of them are engraved from photographs. Exe—Well, this one can't be. Here are two women going in opposite directions, both with brand new gowns on and neither looking back at the other.—Boston Transcript.

Parental Effort.

"What are you working so hard for?"

"I want to provide for my boy's future," replied Farmer Corntossel. "I want to lay by enough wealth so that I can leave Josh this farm for a golf course."—Washington Star.

Education is all paint. It does not alter the nature of the wood that is under it. It only improves its appearance a little.—Stanhope.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back Hurts or Bladder Troubles You.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

MANY ATTENDED CHURCH WEDDING

Society Event of the Season in Somerville Last Night.

COUPLE WELL KNOWN

Miss Elizabeth Galpin the Bride of Washington Man—Couple Will Reside in the National Capitol.

Miss Elizabeth Galpin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Galpin, of Somerville, was married to Norman Buscher, of Seattle, Washington, last night at 8 o'clock in the Second Reformed church, of Somerville, by the Rev. C. L. Reed, of Plainfield, the bride's former pastor, in one of the most elaborate nuptial ceremonies of the year in that place. The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attended by her sister, Mrs. Martin Pierce, of Roselle, as matron of honor, and the following bridesmaids, Mrs. Judson Galpin, of Somerville, a sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. Bailey, of Newark; Mrs. Frank Brokaw, of Bound Brook, and Miss Anna Randolph, of Morristown. Augustus Thomas, of Somerville, a close friend of the couple, acted as best man at the wedding.

The bride was gowned in ivory white satin trimmed with real Duchess lace en train, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley. The matron of honor was dressed in white satin trimmed with Princess lace and carried a bouquet of lavender orchids. The bridesmaids were all gowned in white crepe de chine trimmed with canary satin girdles and draped with shadow lace and lavender chiffon. Each of the latter carried Shepherd's crooks decorated with large yellow bows.

The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion with palms and a profuse display of cut flowers and the wedding march, from Lohengrin, was played by Miss Laura Hoagland, of Somerville. Many friends of the couple, who are well known in Somerville, attended the affair and were guests at the reception which followed the church service. The bride is prominent in social work in Somerville, where she has made a host of acquaintances since her removal to that place from Plainfield and the groom is also well known there, having made frequent visits there.

A wedding breakfast and reception was given in the home of Mrs. Angeline Tunnison, the bride's grandmother, immediately after the ceremony and two hundred guests attended the affair from Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, New York and other places.

When the couple left the Tunnison home for their honeymoon trip they were given a rousing sendoff by the many guests who showered them with rice and confetti both at the house and at the station. Following a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Buscher will make their future home in Seattle, Washington, where the bridegroom now lives and is engaged in business.

NURSE SAVES THE LIFE OF THIS SMALL BOY

Augustus Johnson, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. David Johnson, of 231 Prescott place, probably owes his life today to the accidental discovery by Miss Wilhelmina Plummer, of the city's nursing bureau, that he was suffering from appendicitis.

Fred Burner, an agent for a local insurance company, while making his rounds, first had his attention called to the sick boy, and he summoned Miss Plummer, who is employed by the company. While she did not make a diagnosis, her experience enabled her to discover that the lad had appendicitis. A physician was summoned, the patient taken to the hospital and operated upon and he is now on the road to recovery.

INSTRUCTIVE TRAVELOGUE.

An interesting travelogue was given at "The Cedarcroft," on Park avenue, last night. Miss Dora Huse announced the names of the pictures, and Gresham Sharp operated the slides. There were about one hundred slides, covering Japan, Blarney Castle, Killarney, the Grand Canyon, Egypt and other places of interest. A novel "good night" slide concluded the entertainment. Edwin Bartine and Oliver Titus assisted in the entertainment.

MISSIONARY STUDY CLASS.

Missionary study classes will be held at Grace church this year, as usual. It is proposed to form such a class under the leadership of Mrs. Arthur S. Phelps. The class will meet in the parish house during January.

TICKET SALE BRISK FOR AMATEUR SHOW

But Many Choice Ones Yet to Be Had for Comedy Club Performance.

The sale of tickets for the performance to be given by the members of the Comedy Club of Plainfield for the benefit of the Park Club next Tuesday night has been brisk this week, but there are still a number of desirable seats, which can be procured by members of the Park Club, the Comedy Club, or friends of those in the cast from Steward Johnson at the club.

The two plays chosen, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," and "The Teeth of the Gift Horse," have been rehearsed nightly for the past two weeks under the direction of Coach Hart, and a finished performance is promised all who attend. In the "Bishop's Candlesticks" the leading part will be taken by Harry C. White, stage manager of the Comedy Club, whose finished performances in many past successes of the organization are well known to local people. Rosewell G. Rolston, another local amateur of unusual merit, will also have an important part in this play, and one which will show this versatile young man in a much different role from any he has ever before appeared in before a local audience. In the case are Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Miss Ray Pla de Villars and Donald A. McGee.

"The Teeth of the Gift Horse," a livley comedy, will be presented by a cast made up of the newer members of the club, who have hitherto not taken part in any of the productions, but those who have seen the rehearsals predict that several "finds" will be developed for the future plays of the club, especially among the young women in the cast. Mrs. Charles H. Lyman and Mrs. Henry C. White will have charge of the preparation of the stage, and the attractive settings which they have provided for past productions of the club assure the success of that part of the entertainment.

The cast of the "The Bishop's Candlesticks" is as follows: The bishop, Henry C. White; the convict, Rosewell G. Rolston; Persome, the bishop's sister, Mrs. F. E. DuBois, Marie, Miss Ray Pla de Villars; captain of Gendarmes, Donald A. McGee.

BORO JUNIORS WILL SOLVE CUP MYSTERY

Justice Will Be Meted Out to the Culprit in Saengerbund Hall Tonight.

The Junor Class of the North Plainfield High School will present its annual entertainment tonight in Saengerbund Hall. This year, instead of being a play it will take the form of a mock trial. The members of the cast have been practicing steadily for the past month under the direction of Miss Ray, and have their parts down in good style. The cast consists of thirty-one people, the largest that has ever been attempted by the Borough Hgh School.

The trial is about a cup that was stolen from the school and the culprit was afterwards caught. Elmer French acts as judge and Ralph Smalley is the counsel for the defense. Emzie Ryno takes the part of a suffragette and the women who serve on the jury make it hot for their husbands. The performance will start at 8 o'clock. After the show there will be dancing, with music furnished by Halbfoester's orchestra, of Elizabeth.

HOPE CHAPEL FAIR DOES GOOD BUSINESS

Patronage on Opening Night Gratifies the Christian Endeavorers.

Members and friends of Hope Chapel crowded that edifice last night as guests of the Christian Endeavor Society at a Christmas sale of fancy and useful articles the success of the first night of a two days' fair surpassed by far the anticipations of the Endeavorers who have been working to make the affair a success for weeks past. A spirit of gaiety prevailed and the guests were treated to a program of entertainment.

Fancy articles, the handicraft of the members of the society, found ready buyers. Eatables were also disposed of, the feminine members of the organization having provided sweets of every description for selling. Booths for the sale of candy, ice cream, cake and other articles were erected by a committee representing the organization and the decoration scheme introduced to make these booths attractive was a feature of the fair. The counters were draped in bright colored crepe paper and were presided over by a member of the Christian Endeavor Society.

The following were in charge of the various booths last night: Fancy articles, Miss Jessie Duncan; aprons, Miss Elizabeth Decker; dolls, John Heron; ice cream, Miss Alice Rimmer; cakes, Miss Mary Mortimer; candy, Miss Margaret Mortimer; Christmas cards, Miss Agnes Leighs.

BUTTFIELD'S COPY ONLY A DUPLICATE

He Did Not Have the Original Resolution as to Tax Reduction.

It was learned today that the report circulated to the effect that William J. Buttfield had kept the original document in his office and for that reason the resolution passed by the Somerset County Tax Board securing North Plainfield a reduction in 1913 tax assessments to reimburse the taxpayers for alleged excess taxes paid in 1912, amounting to $912,000, had not been entered on the minutes of the Somerset Board was incorrect. The resolution in question was advocated by VanDoren and Kenney, of the Board, and after being passed, a certified copy of it was signed by Scully, VanDoren and Kenney. This duplicate was handed to Mr. Buttfield for the borough's use.

When the Somerset Board meets on Tuesday, December 9, it is expected that the parties at interest will exonerate Mr. Buttfield from any blame in this connection.

O'CONNOR HELD FOR A FURTHER HEARING

Bail Fixed at $1,000 for Man Accused of Theft From Express Co.

Protesting that he is innocent, Edward J. O'Connor, represented by John P. Owens, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza this morning, charged with the larceny of $500, on November 1, from the local office of the United States Express Co. William J. Sykes, of Philadelphia, a member of the express company's staff of detectives, signed the complaint. Told of his right in the case, O'Connor said he was ready to stand examination but Police Chief Patrick J. Kiely, on behalf of the State, asked for an adjournment of the hearing for one week. Bail was fixed at $1,000 for the prisoner's appearance in court on Friday, December 12. It is thought improbable that he will secure this amount and in that event he will be taken to the county jail, at Elizabeth.

Many persons seem interested in the case, as the court room was filled to capacity with spectators. Before O'Connor was led back to his cell, a blond-haired woman, whose name was withheld, ran up to him and pleaded with him to tell her if he was guilty or innocent. His eyes filled with tears and his reply was not audible except to the interrogator who walked away as he made reply. The defendant has lost much of his stolid indifference and with his face unshaved he appeared haggard and care-worn.

SENIORS WILL GIVE A ONE-ACT FARCE

N. P. H. S. Class Thespians Plan for Annual Christmas Entertainment.

At a meeting of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School yesterday, final arrangements were made for the annual Christmas entertainment that will be given in Saengerbund Hall on Thursday, December 18. As usual, the members of the class will present a one-act farce which is entitled, "The Triumph of Pauline," with Lucile Ewart taking the part of "Pauline." Although short, the playlet is extremely witty and will be given under the direction of Miss Helen Ray, the High School English instructor.

In addition to this every member of the junior and senior class, together with the presidents of the two lower classes will receive their annual "knocks," which will be given in an original and novel way. There will be sixty-two members of the High School who will be "hit." After the entertainment there will be dancing until 1 o'clock.

The following are the members of the class who have been picked by the coach for the play and their respective parts: "John Winthrop," a rising young biologist, Ashley Barner; "Professor Theolophilus Gibway," a famous ethnologist, Atwood Giddings; "Pauline Winthrop," a butterfly of fashion, Lucile Ewart; "Rosalie Dumont," Pauline's school chum, Edith Dalley; "Mary" an Irish housemaid, Jennie Sears; "Bridget," the cook, Mary Martin.

The recently organized Jewish reform congregation, known as Temple Sholem, has engaged Rev. Samuel Schonbraun, of New York, as rabbi to serve for the coming year. He will be in charge of the services tonight and tomorrow morning to be held at the hall of the Young Men's Hebrew Association on Grove street.

Mr. Schonbraun is a young man, about 30 years of age and comes here recommended by Rabbi Foster, of Newark. A little later on he proposes to remove to this city. For the present he will come to Plainfield once a week.

MRS. GLENNEY'S DEATH IS SUDDEN

While Returning Home From a Lecture, Prominent Woman is Fatally Stricken.

HER FRIENDS MANY

Former Head of King's Daughters and of Needlework Guild and Active in Many Other Organizations—The Funeral Tomorrow.

Mrs. Eva L. Glenney, wife of Walter L. C. Glenney, of 520 Stelle avenue, died suddenly late yesterday afternoon, while returning home from the Hartridge Auditorium, where she attended the lecture of Miss Janet Richards. She was taken with a fainting spell and although several physicians were summoned at once Mrs. Glenney passed away before they arrived. Her death, which was due to heart trouble, was a great shock to a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Glenney was born in New York city, August 6, 1850, and her life was one of unusual activity. She was graduated in the class of 1868 at Packard's Collegiate Institute, of Brooklyn, being the valedictorian of her class. She was married in Brooklyn and removed to this city in 1891, and during the twenty-two years she lived here she was closely identified and prominent in all local charities. She will be greatly missed in all these charitable enterprises and especially among the poor of the city to which class she was a benefactor on numerous occasions. Her excellent counsel was frequently sought by those with whom she was associated.

Mrs. Glenney was former president of the City Union of The King's Daughters, president of the Plainfield Branch of the Needlework Guld of America, treasurer of the Woman's Auxiliary Board of Muhlenberg Hospital, a member and former president of the Benevolent Band of the King's Daughters, a member of the Monday Afternoon Club for many years, and a devout member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, where she was interested in all departments of work. When the King's Daughters first established the baby camp on the mountains, Mrs. Glenney was chairman of the committee in charge of that work and it was largely due to her efforts that it proved such a success.

There survives a husband, Walter L. C. Glenney, two sons, Walter Lester Glenney and William T. Glenney; three sisters, Mrs. Josiah Brown, of this city, Mrs. Theodore L. Jabine, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Miss Mary Gregg, of Seattle, Wash., and a brother, William T. Gregg, of Yonkers, N. Y.

The funeral will be held at the late home at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and the burial will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, on Sunday.

ARGUMENTS HEARING IN THE SUPREME COURT

Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen will sit at the Court House, Elizabeth, tomorrow morning, to hear motions and arguments in Supreme Court matters, at which time Sheriff Wright will present to him the lists of 300 and 500 names of county residents eligible for service on the January term panels of grand and petit juries. The list will be drawn under the Fielder act, which will remain in force until the validity of the chancellor-sheriff jury reform bill is determined by the Court of Errors and Appe als. Argument to to settle this point was begun this week.

RAHWAY COUNCIL WILL SIFT RUMORS OF BUILDING GRAFT

Rahway Dec. 5.—On requests from Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe and City Treasurer George L. Kirchgassner, the Common Council has ordered a thorough investigation of rumors that there were graft and other irregularities in the purchase of the site and the erection of the High School building. The Council will begin its inquiry Wednesday night, when the first hearing will be held.

Ever since the purchase of the High School site in 1909 stories have been current that there had been graft and that the then Board of Education had benefited by the transactions. The board at that time consisted of Mr. Kirchgassner, president; Moritz Hoenicke, Clarence P. Lamphear, Philip Hoffman and Wilbur B. Meachem.

The board bought the site for $5,400 and awarded the contract for the plans to J. Benjamin Beatty, of Elizabeth, Mr. Beatty's bid being $3,500. The building contract was awarded to the Barnes Building Company, of Elizabeth, for $66,000.

After the awarding of the contracts dissatisfaction and criticism became so strong that Mr. Hoenicke resigned from the commission. He was prevailed upon, however, to withdraw his resignation.

One of the rumors that will be investigated, it is understood, is that certain persons used their influence to obtain Mr. Beatty's appointment as architect. For this, the story had it, the architect paid $500. This Mr. Beatty has denied in a sworn statement.

The charges were revived during the recent campaign. Mr. Kirchgassner has asked for the investigation at this time, it is understood, because he and his friends think the stories have been brought to life again to defeat him in his candidacy for postmaster.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 14

SOME scarey people tell us that the effect of these MO-JO Gum talks will hurt the sale of chewing gum generally.

We do not agree with them, and the increasing demand for MO-JO Gum seems to indicate we are right.

We are old fashioned enough to believe that it never hurts a good article to tell the truth, and chewing gum is a good article if it is made right.

We do believe that anything that goes into peoples' mouths should be scrupulously clean.

We believe all chewing gum will be white and clean before long. We have proved it is perfectly possible to make it that way.

People are not stopping the chewing of gum; they are merely discriminating between a dainty confection and a "What is it." Take some MO-JOs home to the children, you want them to have the best, don't you?

FRESHIE QUINTET DUMPED ONCE MORE

Sophomore Basketeers Trimmed Rivals by a Count of 48 to 19.

The Sophomore basketball team of the North Plainfield High School Class League, defeated the Freshman team yesterday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall and again became tied with the Junior team in the race for highest honors. The final score was 48 to 19. The game was fast and exciting, being featured by many fouls.

In the second half both teams made changes. Denny was sent from forward to guard to watch Townley, while La Porte and Alfred Seidel replaced Adams and Dilts. The playing was considerably slower in this period with comparatively little scoring. Denny stuck to Townley at all times and at that the fast forward managed to ring three baskets. The second year men did little scoring, making sixteen points while the Freshies could only ring three baskets and two fouls for a total of eight.

This makes the second defeat for the Freshmen in two days and they still occupy the cellar in the league while the Sophomores move to a tie with the Juniors.

ROUTINE BUSINESS OF THE FREEHOLDERS

Minor Matters Are Transacted by the Union County Governing Body.

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—Samuel B. and Robert H. Illingworth agreed to turn over certain strips of land abutting Westfield and Mountain avenues, which they own, provided they will not be assessed for same and the property is improved within a year, according to a report made by the committee having the matter of widening these thoroughfares in charge, at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders yesterday. Condemnation proceedings have been in progress in connection with the improvement and the Illingworths had secured a rule to show cause why their title should be disputed from the Supreme Court.

Freeholders Doane, Hall and Hennessy were appointed a committee to examine bridges at Summer and Emerson avenues, Plainfield.

The County Engineer and county road committee were authorized to attend the convention of the American Road Builders' Association in Philadelphia next week.

A communication from the Warren Freeholders asking that the Board aid in having the widow's pension law amended was referred to the legislative committee. Freeholder Pierson questioned the regularity of a resolution calling for the payment of a balance due on the Union County Bar Association appropriation. As a result a formal claim will be submitted. M. Colucci, whose automobile was damaged on LaGrande avenue, Fanwood, agreed to a compromise settlement of $40, according to a committee report. The Board will meet December 18 to pay bills.

WILL 2ND REGIMENT BE DISBANDED SOON?

Efforts are now being made to organize a new command to replace Co. E, First battalion, Second Regiment, N. J. N. G., of Trenton, and upon its successful organization will depend the life of the regiment. The company must be formed by January 1 or the regiment will be disbanded. However, this would not mean the disbandment of the First battalion, for Cos. F., C. and I., of Elizabeth, and K, of this city, would be retained as a separate unit with headquarters in Elizabeth, and the battalion would continue to receive the support of the government. It is not intended to allow the regiment to be disbanded without putting up a stiff fight for its continuance.

SPEAKERS AT BANQUET.

Leonard E. Gavett, son of Street Commissioner Andrew Gavett, of West Fifth street, and Roland Leveridge, of Sherman avenue, were speakers at the banquet given by the State Department of Labor in Hildebretch's Hotel, Trenton, Wednesday night. Both young men are electrical engineers and attended the affair which was held especially for engineers and those closely affiliated with New Jersey labor.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL.

For the last twelve years, the Daily Press has been persistently advocating the inauguration here of a sanitary system for garbage and ashes collection and disposal either by the municipality itself or under public control. Annually for the same period of time our mayors as a rule have urged the improvement. During the terms of Charles J. Fisk it was made a major topic in yearly messages. Moreover, in the same space of time, the Board of Health at least once in a twelfth-month has recommended to the Common Council that the change be brought about.

Public affairs committee of the Common Council, time and again, have discussed the matter and the only result has been that the estimated cost has been considered too high. And there they have stopped. Without intending any reflection on these investigators, for we believe that their motives were of the best, it does seem that they have been derelict in not successfully solving the problem. Can it be that a systematic collection and disposal would be more expense than a haphazard, unsanitary and loose method as is the situation at present? We think not.

When the Common Council of 1914 is installed, we hope, and we believe all the people hope, that there will be some solution of this problem.

JEFFERY'S MISSION.

Says the Passaic Valley News: "The city of Plainfield, which is one of the most promising suburbs of Berkeley Heights, is to be congratulated upon the development of its splendid Muhlenberg Hospital. The institution is in all respects a credit to the city."

That's why William Jeffrey came over from Berkeley Heights and organized the Board of Trade. He plans to make that place's environs right up to date.

THINK IT OVER.

When doing your Christmas shopping don't speak roughly or rudely to the sales clerks for they are under a constant nervous tension and are worn out by the rush of business and moreover are entitled to the same respect and consideration that you expect to receive from them. And another thing, don't request that very small and light package be delivered when it puts you to no inconvenience to take them with you.

P. H. S. PLEASE NOTE.

It is announced that George W. Perkins will deliver the address at the Plainfield Business College commencement exercises and the thought occurs, as it has each succeeding June, why is it that the Plainfield High School cannot get men of his class to speak at their exercises?

It comes to notice that John Caulfield, chairman of the Plainfield Democratic Committee is a candidate for the job of assistant sergeant-at-arms in the House. Oh, of course, we agree with John—he should get the plum.

Chief Doane and his men justly deserve some commendation for their effective work at the Depew building blaze on Wednesday night, and they shall have it right here.

The West End Avenue sage says that President Wilson has joined the Spugs since the suffragists have petitioned him from "Votes for Women."

Year's cost per pupil in the public schools of the State was $32.80. That's a gild-edge investment for the future of New Jersey.

The contributing editor for tomorrow's issue will be Dr. H. C. Krebs, Somerset county's very capable superintendent of schools.

It cost more than $23,000,000 to run New Jersey's schools for the last fiscal year but nobody begrudges the expense.

At any rate we are learning something of Mexican geography.

EMERGENCY JURYMAN 'TRAVERS' CHALLENGED

Otherwise Known as Frank H. Smith He Could Not Sit at County Court Trial.

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—An odd situation developed in the Quarter Sessions Court yesterday morning, as the result of pre-holiday business demands on the members of the petit jury panel. So many of the jurors were excused by the court because of these demands that not enough jurors remained in court to impanel a jury to try an indictment against Joseph Green, charged with larceny.

Sheriff Wright had to call talesmen from among the spectators, for the fourth time since the term opened. Attorney John R. Connolly, representing the defendant, and Assistant Prosecutor Martin P. O'Connor, for the State, were seated at a table, preparing their data for the trial, and scanning the jurors as each was called.

Sheriff Wright had impressed several spectators for duty, and these were seated in the places made vacant by challenges to the regularly-drawn jurors. Another vacancy arose, and the sheriff confessed he did not know any other persons present in the room qualified to serve. Then his eye fell on a portly form in the second row of spectators and he called, "Mr. Frank Travers."

The portly form arose and took seat Number Ten in the jury box. The assistant prosecutor and Attorney Connolly failed to recognize the name of Mr. Travers, and glanced at him after he had been seated. One look was enough to make them doubt they had heard the name rightly. They both glanced quickly at their lists, and the sheriff repeated the name, "Mr. Frank Travers."

Then Mr. Connolly looked at Mr. O'Connor, and Mr. O'Connor returned the look, with a questioning expression. And then it became apparent that "Mr. Travers" was an alias gratuitously bestowed on the man of the portly form, by Sheriff Wright.

"If it please the court," Mr. O'Connor said, as he arose to his feet, "the gentleman, 'Mr. Travers' is well known to Mr. Connolly and myself and we have agreed to excuse him by consent." Mr. "Travers" was excused. The second look of the lawyers had penetrated the alias, and then recognized him as County Registrar Frank H. Smith.

The seat vacated by Mr. Smith, or Mr. "Travers," was filled by Michael Fretter, a spectator in court. William Davermos, as Juror No. 8, and Lafayette Cooper, as juror No. 4, also were called as talesmen from among the spectators.

WILSON'S POLICY NEAR VITAL TEST

May Take Decisive Step In Santo Domingo.

SUPERVISION IS PLANNED

Secretary Bryan Faces a Serious Problem In Latin-American Country. Minister Sullivan Has Guaranteed Fair Election to Warring Factions.

Washington, Dec. 5.—A serious problem presents itself to Secretary of State Bryan on the obligations that may be imposed on the United States by an attempt to give practical application to the demand of the Wilson administration for constitutional government in the Latin American country.

The course of action to be decided upon by the president and his secretary of state in the next few hours with reference to the situation in Santo Domingo is likely to commit this government to a policy of interference in the political affairs of the Caribbean countries to an extent that never before has been contemplated.

It is proposed by the state department to send into Santo Domingo a large number of officials familiar with the Latin-American countries for the purpose of "observing" the elections to be held there on Dec. 15. This procedure is now before President Wilson for his approval, and it is expected he will decide the matter within twenty-four hours. It is necessary, if anything is to be done, that a decision be reached promptly.

Action taken by James M. Sullivan, the New York lawyer who defended Jack Rose, the gambler, in the Becker trial, and who was selected by Mr. Bryan to supercede W. W. Russell, a veteran, as minister to Santo Domingo, practically compels the state department to do something of this sort in the coming elections. The plan put up to the president is thought by departing officials to be the best way out of the dilemma.

Minister Went Too Far.

The necessity for action of this character arises chiefly out of Minister Sullivan's assurances to the rival factions in last summer's revolution in Santo Domingo that if they would stop fighting the United States would attempt to guarantee a fair election this winter. While this assurance on the part of Minister Sullivan was merely the result of carrying the Wilson policy to its logical conclusion, it was going a little further than the administration really intended to go. Now, however, Secretary Bryan is confronted with the necessity of making good on the guarantee, which was a most potent factor in bringing to an end the fighting of last summer.

There is no doubt about the earnest desire of President Wilson and Mr Bryan to enforce genuine constitutionality in the Dominican elections, but there is a very considerable hesitancy over the practical problems involved in putting this desire into execution. The administration is embarrassed over the realization of what this action in Santo Domingo may mean in future relations with Mexico and other Caribbean countries subject to violent political upheavals.

CARS CRASH IN SUBWAY.

Passengers Are Hurled From Seats and a Score Are Injured.

New York, Dec. 5.—More than 1,000 persons were imprisoned for an hour, traffic to Brooklyn was tied up for an even longer time and scores of passengers were bruised and slightly cut by flying glass when two subway trains sideswiped each other 100 feet south of the Bowling Green station.

Half a dozen express trains from Brooklyn, bound for Manhattan, were halted, car to car, under the middle of the East river. More than 1,000 passengers in these trains, after clamoring for an hour to be set free from under the river, walked through the fifty or more stalled cars to the front of the first train and then braved the third rail to walk past the wrecked train to the Bowling Green station, from which they emerged to the street.

It was the worst accident which has ever occurred in the subway, yet only Charles Ellis, motorman of the Brooklyn train, was badly hurt, though many were badly battered by being thrown from their feet. Some were cut by broken glass from the windows.

MONKEY MIMICS START FIRE.

Imitate Lighting of Oil Stove and Nine of Them Perish.

Indianapolis, Dec. 5.—An attempt to imitate their caretaker's operation of an oil heating stove cost the lives of nine monkeys and resulted in the destruction of the shelter house at Riverside park. The monkeys had been lodged in the shelter house until their permanent winter quarters were ready.

In some manner they opened the door of their cage and began playing with the oil stove. The stove exploded, setting fire to the house. The monkeys were burned to death before they could be rescued. The loss is estimated at $28,000.

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST

Suffragette Leader. Arrested Again, In Prison Garb.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, is back in jail in London to serve out the balance of her sentence of three years' imprisonment unless a fresh hunger strike gives her temporary liberty again. The "army" of suffragettes who swore their leader should not be arrested on her arrival at Plymouth aboard the Majestic from New York was baffled in its attempt to prevent Mrs. Pankhurst from being taken from the liner by the police. The "soldiers" are scattered and indulging in threats of vengeance, while the people of Plymouth are enjoying a hearty laugh at the outcome. These are the main results of the return to England of Mrs. Pankhurst after what her followers call "her triumphant tour of the United States," during which she collected $10,000 for the suffrage cause.

Addresses were made by Professor Jacobi and Gerster, the latter having been a schoolmate of Dr. Mravlag in Vienna. They were born on the same day and came to the United States together.

COUNTY'S BATTLE AGAINST SKEETER

END BREEDING SPOTS

144 Barrels of Oil Used Between May 1 and October 1—25,00 Feet of New Ditching Was Cut—Other Methods Explained.

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—Claiming that through its efforts numerous breeding places for mosquitoes have been obliterated, the Mosquito Extermintion Commission of Union county in its second annual report just issued tells of the ways and work of the "pest" fighters. The report was made to the director of the New Jersey State experiment station and the Board of Freeholders of Union county.

Dealing with the question of inspection, the report says:

"To get the inspection work on as efficient a basis as possible the inspectors were divided into two classes, according to the kind of mosquito breeding places that they looked after. One man in each of the six districts of the county was placed in charge of the inspection of all breeding places found outside of houses and yards, places which might be roughly classified as natural breedng places, such as swamps, pools, stagnant brooks and open cellars, sewer catch basins and street gutters. It was the duty of this inspector to prevent mosquito breeding in all such places. He had entire charge of the oiling in his district, interviewed property-owners in regard to drainage and filling-in work, served all notices in his district for the abatement of breeding places and supervised the work of any laborers employed.

"The second class of inspectors was held responsible for preventing mosquito breeding in the other kind of breeding places, the artificial breeding places found in backyards and houses, comprising barrels, tubs, pails, cans, bottles, open cisterns, open cesspools, sewage drains, etc. Whenever nuisances of this class were found the persons responsible were notified to make them safe by doing away with the breeding place entirely, screening or covering tightly or oiling. In many cases this was done before the inspector left the premises."

In reference to the use of oil in combating the mosquito and salt marsh drainage the report says:

"Before the beginning of the mosquito breeding season oil was sent to Summit, Plainfield, Westfield, Rahway, Elizabeth, Roselle and about a dozen places on Elizabeth and Linden meadows, to stop breeding temporarily until more permanent measures could be taken. Oiling began about May 1 and continued until about October 1. One oil wagon was used continuously during the summer, covering Elizabeth, Union, Linden and Rahway, and men and wagons were hired as often as necessary in the other sections of the county. About 2,000 sewer catch basins in the cities, stagnant pools and ponds, gutters, open cellars, slow running streams, open manure pits, drains and all other places where mosquito larvae were found were oiled about every ten days.

"The cleaning of the old ditches of the Union county marsh was begun on March 16 and completed about May 20. All the large outfits of the marsh—Great ditch, Woodruff's creek and Oyster creek on Elizabeth meadow, and a number of the smallf tidal outlets of Linden meadow, together with all the small ten-inch ditching on the salt marsh, about 400,000 feet, were thoroughly cleaned of obstructions and the black mud deposit of the tides. This work, however, must be repeated every year or two, to be effective.

"In addition, about 25,000 feet of new ditching, mostly ten inches wide, was cut by the laborers employed by the commission. This was mostly in small parcels, helping to drain isolated pockets of marsh into the existing drainage scheme.

EVANGELISTS'S TOPIC "BEYOND THE GRAVE"

A. I. Ritchie Will Speak at Plainfield Theatre on Sunday Afternoon.

The International Bible Students' Association, with headquarters at Craven Terrace, London, is arranging to give a series of Bible lectures throughout the world. Several tours have been planned for evangelists in America, one of which has been scheduled for Evangelist A. I. Ritchie, of New York city, who will speak at the Lyric theatre, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the subject, "Beyond the Grave."

It is said that this series of lectures are especially strong, both in the logical arrangement of subjects and in the able corps of speakers. The first lecturer considers the question uppermost in the minds of most people, namely, what lies beyond the grave? Few claim to know. None has returned to impart the information. Nearly everyone holds a different view. All will be interested, no doubt, in Sunday's lecture and a large attendance of people is anticipated.

STATE DEATHS GAIN LITTLE OVER NOVEMBER LAST YEAR

Trenton, Dec. 5.—With a total of 2,941 deaths in New Jersey in November a slight increase over the same period last year is shown today in the report issued by the State Board of Health. The death rate was 1.06 per cent. a 1,000 last month and 1.04 per cent. in November, 1912.

There were 547 deaths among infants less than a year old; 189 deaths of children more than a year old and less than five, and 926 deaths of persons sixty years old or more. The mortality from typhoid fever shows a slight decline as compared with October, but still continues high, there having been forty deaths. There were 174 deaths from pneumonia and 264 from tuberculosis.

The Bureau of Contagious Diseases and Sanitary Inspectoon submitted a report of communicable diseases for October. Cases reported numbered 2,096, a total of 798 more than in the same month a year ago. This is attributed in large part to greater care by physicians in reporting.

HOW RED CROSS STAMPS ORIGINATED

Interesting Story of How the Little Seal Came to Be Used.

Nearly $1,500,000 has been raised by Red Cross Christmas seals in the last five years, and yet many people do not know how this charity stamp idea originated.

Some of your grandmothers first played "postoffice" with stickers similar to Red Cross seals 'way back in 1862, when they conceived the idea of selling stamps at fairs for the benefit of the relief funds for the soldiers' hospitals in Brooklyn, Boston and elsewhere. Nearly $1,000,000 was raised in this way before 1865. After the war, this method of raising money was discontinued in this country for a generation, although it found vogue in Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, France, Spain, Denmark, Norway, Russia, Sweden and other European countries. There are now thousands of different types of charity stamps used in all parts of the world, as many as forty being used in Austria for children's hospitals alone.

Stamps or seals were first used to get money for the anti-tuberculosis crusade in Norway and Sweden in 1904. To Jacob Riis, the well-known social worker of New York, and to Miss Emily J. Bissell, the energetic secretary of the Delaware Red Cross, jontly belongs the honor of originating our American Red Cross Christmas seal. In 1909, Mr. Riis' interest was aroused by the receipt of a Christmas tuberculosis stamp on a letter from Norway. He published an article about this queer-looking stamp in the "Outlook," and suggested some possible uses for it in this country. Miss Bissell at once saw an opportunity here and prepared a stamp, from the sale of which her society realized $3,000 for tuberculosis work. So impressed was she with this success that she induced the American Red Cross to take up the sale in 1908 on a national basis. With very little organization and with hardly any attempt at careful advertising, the sale that year brought in, nevertheless, over $135,000 for anti-tuberculosis work in various parts of the United States. In 1909, with more thorough organization, the sale was increased to $230,000; in 1910 to nearly $310,000; in 1911 to over $330,000, and over 40,000,000 seals, netting $400,000, were sold last year.

ELIZABETH SALOON MEN TALK OVER SUNDAY CLOSING NEED

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—Aroused by the spread of agitation against saloons in the downtown section of the city, 120 saloonkeepers, all with places of business in that section, met Wednesday afternoon in Pankuch's Hall, 424 Court street, and discussed informally ways and means by which their business could be conducted without arousing adverse criticism and consequent loss.

Two-thirds of all the saloon men in the section were present and the meeting was held in secret. No definite conclusions were reached, but it was decided to have another conference in a few days.

It was learned that the members were a unit as to ostracizing the dealer or dealers who hereafter insist on violating the Sunday law. Many stated that they obeyed the law, but suffered a financial loss thereby. They declared that all the saloonkeepers suffered for the shortcomings of a few, and that while saloons had increased in number in the 'Port section, the growth in population warranted a considerable increase. An effort will be made to have the German and English Liquor Dealers' associations back up the downtown men in their efforts to help eliminate the disorderly saloon and the place which keeps open on Sundays.

William Bochenek, who conducts a place at Third street and Park avenue, was chairmen of the meeting.

GREAT SKETCH AT PROCTOR'S.

Rose King-Joseph Crehan & Co., in a dramatic sketch entitled "The Cheat," are offering one of the best acts witnessed at Proctor's in a long time. The sketch has real merit and the cast is an especially strong one. The Gaiety Trio, comedians, are very funny and they sing well. The Whirling Erfords, a team of novelty gymnasts, perform marvelous feats of daring, being suspended from a revolving aerial rigging by their teeth. Hans Wagner, the clever boy violinist, gives a fine program of classical and popular numbers, while King and Kingman are cracker-jack comedy acrobats. The photo-plays are the best obtainable.

PIERCE—LEONARD.

Miss Claire Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Pierce, of Somerville, was married to Harold Latimer Leonard in the First Reformed church of that place last night by the Rev. William S. Cramner, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. F. M. Leonard, father of the bride.

LITTLE TALKS
BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 37.

SAYS "Agricultrual Advertising," referring to the axiom, "Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls," credited to John Wanamaker and published many times:

"Too many people enter Advertising for the first time with their feet braced to witness a miracle.

"There is no sudden, wild, spectacular onrush of business. And the disappointed experimenter curses Advertising and loads a shotgun for the next solicitor who calls.

"The business man who undertakes an important campaign of publicity should make a wise and carefully planned investment. It is an investment in public good will, not one that will take his breath away by its remarkable performances overnight, but one that will grow in influence and results, gradually, logically, until in good time it proves its lasting profit-earning power."

The man who is taking his first "plunge" into advertising's possibilities is the man who needs to realize the limitations of the power he has credited with magic.

Advertising isn't magic. It isn't a panacea for all the ills to which business is heir. It IS a force for upbuilding—a steady, strength-accumulating power which, rightly and persistently used, works silently and faithfully for the interests of the advertiser.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Rose Andrews and Ella Miller, members of the class of 1912, have sent a pennant of New Jersey State Normal School of Montclair.

Principal Earley has announced that there will be no more Friday morning speakers until after the Christmas holidays.

At a meeting of the senior class Wednesday afternoon it was decided that "A Case of Suspension," the playlet chosen for the Christmas entertainment, was too long and too hard to get up in a short time and so it was decided John Jason Trent's one-act farce entitled, "The Triumph of Pauline," would take its place. There are six characters. It was also decided to drop the matter of class statistics.

The weekly meeting of the teachers' basketry class was held at the home of Mr. Earley, Wednesday night, under the direction of Mr. Stillman. Those who were present are Mr. and Mrs. Albert Earley, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Stillman, Mrs. F. Clark and the Misses Margaret Spiedel, Agnes Boxold, Grace Winnie, Bertha Spencer, Maude Casselle, Helen Wescott and Elsie Debele.

A THOUGHTFUL COUPLE.

The firemen and police working at the double-alarm conflagration at North and Park avenues, Wednesday night, were regaled with hot coffee and sandwiches generously prepared and distributed by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Randolph, of West Front street. The beverage was especially acceptable as most of the men were drenched, the lines of hose being kept at work for nearly two hours.

WILSON POLICIES EXPLAINED BY HER

Miss Janet Richards Discusses Mexico and the Currency Problem.

President Wilson's message to Congress this week was the principal theme of Miss Janet Richards' lecture at the Hartridge Auditorium, yesterday afternoon, when she addressed a large gathering of women on current events. She brought with her the latest news from the Capitol and held the close attention of her hearers throughout.

Miss Richards remarked that for the first time in history the message was delivered at a joint session, and she described somewhat in detail many of the interesting scenes and incidents on that occasion. Quite in contrast to the usual message, the President's occupied just thirty minutes. They are usually of two hours' duration and fail to hold the members of Congress throughout.

Briefly outlining the message, Miss Richards referred to the President's plan to be at peace with all the world, that through his policy of restraint, a war had thus far been averted with Mexico. His seemed to be a "policy of watchful waiting," which has been discussed pro and con by the newspapers. While some of the newspapers criticise the President's policy, they do not so much criticise the Chief Executive, the speaker said.

Miss Richards then turned her attention to the revision of the currency, explaining some of the more important details, showing the basis of the country's system of currency and the proposed changes. She emphasized the importance of giving the farmer more help through loans, so that he can harvest and move his crops for the benefit of the country. Under previous plans the farmer would not get his money until delivery and Miss Richards said that the new plan proses to make it easier for him in this respect.

The speaker said that she was pleased to see the gospel of progressiveism being supported by the Democrats. She referred to the Presidential primary law as proposed, which would prevent a re-occurrence of the Baltimore convention which lasted nine days.

In conclusion Miss Richards spoke of the plan for government ownership of the Alaskan Railroads, which would tend to conserve and develope the resources and of the Philippines and Panama from a political standpoint.

MONMOUTH PROSECUTOR HAD FICTITIOUS NUMBER ON CAR

Trenton, Dec. 5—Prosecutor John S. Applegate, Jr., of Monmouth county, was apprehended in front of the State house by Motor Vehicle Inspector William N. Havens, of this city. He was taken before Commissioner Lippincott charged with using a fictitious number on his automobile.

Mr. Applegate explained that he recently purchased a new car upon which he had "inadvertently" used the same registration marker as that on his old car. He settled the difficulty by immediately taking out a new license. Mr. Applegate was in Trenton to appear before the Court of Errors and Appeals in a Red Bank divorce case; in which he was counsel. The offense with which he was charged under the motor vehicle law is punishable by a fine or imprisonment.

SECOND ANNUAL BALL.

Members of the Young Women's Hebrew Association are planning for their second annual ball which will be held in Debele's Hall, Christmas night, December 25, and present indications point to one of the most elaborate receptions ever held under the auspices of this organization. Dancing will be the principle feature of the evening's entertainment and the terpsichore music will be furnished by Suhr's orchestra.

Mrs. A. E. La-Porte, of the borough, has returned after spending several days at the home of her sister in Carthage, N. Y., who has been ill. She was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. John Van Patten.

STIFF SCHEDULE FOR BOROUGH MAIDENS

Miss Lillian Spencer Has Arranged a Strenuous Program for Her Charges.

Manager Lillian Spencer, of the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team has announced her schedule for the present season. The schedule is an extra large one and it will keep the girls going all the time from now on with two and three games a week. Besides the five games that have already been played Miss Spencer has nine other games booked and about a dozen pending.

Many new teams will appear on the borough court, such as Nutley, Woodbridge, Springfield, Scotch Plains and Dunellen. With twenty-five games in all the schedule is probably the stiffest the school team has had to face, as the usual number is from twelve to sixteen.

Nine of the remaining games will be played at home while there are eleven for the girls to play on strange courts.

The complete schedule follows:

Dec. 6—Cranford at North Plainfield.
*Dec. 10—Woodbridge at Woodbridge.
Dec. 12—Bernardsville at Bernardsvile.
*Dec. 19—Somerville at North Plainfield.
Dec. 23—Kearny at Kearny.
Jan. 3—Roselle Park at Roselle Park.
Jan. 8—Cranford at Cranford.
*Jan. 10—Nutley at Nutley.
Jan. 14—Reading Academy at N. Plainfield.
Jan. 23—P. H. S. at North Plainfield.
*Jan. 27—Union at Union.
*Feb. 3—Woodbridge at North Plainfield.
Feb. 6—Kearny at North Plainfield.
*Feb. 11—Somerville at Somerville.
*Feb. 17—New Brunswick at New Brunswick.
Feb. 21—Westfield at Westfield.
*Feb. 24—Springfield at N. Plainfield.
Feb. 27—P. H. S. at Plainfield.
March 11—Union at North Plainfield.
March 16—Springfield at Springfield.

Dates marked (*) are still uncertain. Games also pending with Hope Chapel, Scotch Plains and Dunellen teams.

TRENTON Y. M. C. A. TO PLAY LOCALS

Exciting Contest Anticipated on the Plainfield Court Tomorrow Night.

Basketball players sporting the colors of the State Capitol Y. M. C. A. will appear in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tomorrow night to engage in a tussel with the Plainfield players. This is the first time in a number of years that the Trenton association has been represented on a local court and the Plainfielders will have to travel the limit in order to preserve their unbroken chain of victories hung up during the present season.

The unbroken chain now numbers six but the hardest struggle of the season is anticipated tomorrow night when the Trentonians make their appearance. Owing to the disappointing exhibitions of the court game that have been put up preliminary teams in the associations during the past two Saturday nights, the preliminary program has been abolished and the big game will be the only attraction tomorrow night. The same team that represented Plainfield last week will do duty against the Capitol city crew and practice during the past week have put the team in excellent shape for a hard scrap.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Y. M. C. A.		TRENTON.
Moulton	Forward.	Day
McNamee	Forward.	Lavan
Gavett	Center.	Dolton
Brynairski	Guard.	Moran, Fox
Farmer	Guard.	Lutz

Referee—Lidgate.

Queries, Comment and Answers

Sporting Editor:

Query—A says that football is the leading college sport, while B claims that baseball is the headliner. Who is correct?—K. C.

Answer—Considering the reports of the collegiate treasurers for the football season just closed we would say that football is far in advance of baseball in the college world and consider it the major college sport. In some of the smaller colleges baseball is the most popular and the best paying proposition, but in the "big six" football takes the lead. Gate receipts always tell the tale of popularity in sportdom.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly give me a good running route of about five miles near Plainfield?—H. S. R.

Answer—Here's one for 4.6 miles which I think will suit your purpose. Start at the intersection of Watchung avenue and Front street, going north on Watchung avenue to Mountain avenue, then east to Terrill road, south on Terrill road to Front street and west on Front street to the starting point. This includes a trip over a smooth macadam roadbed and the going is good all the way.

Sporting Editor:

Query—A bets that there is a religion that does not eat any meat. B says that there is no religion like that. Who wins?—K. V. B.

Answer—The followers of the Hindoo religion in the East Indies do not eat meat because of religious scruples.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Can you tell me where Uncle Sam's home is? What is his address?—S. M. B.

Answer—"Uncle Sam" is only a proverbial name, a slang erm for referring to the entire government of the United States. Address him at the same place as you do Santa Claus and his mail will reach him O. K.

Sporting Editor:

Query—Kindly publish a list of the questions necessary to be answered at the Plainfield bureau before one can secure a marriage license?—F. B.

Answer—The questions are too numerous to publish in this column but if you really want to practice up on the list apply at the Board of Health office and you will be able to obtain any information you desire.

BIG REWARD IF FOOTBALL MANAGER WEDS WITHIN TIME LIMIT.

In appreciation of the work he has done as manager of the Holy Cross football team for the past two years and as a token of esteem on the part of his fellow clubmen, John Doyle, alias "Doc," was voted a rather novel reward for his efforts at a meeting of the organization held last night. Provided that the genial "Doc" takes out a marriage license before the time limit of two months expires he is to fall heir to the fabulous sum of $257.38, the balance remaining at the present on the credit side of the club's ledger.

The reports read by the treasurer show that the organization now enjoys a balance of this amount and although Doyle has not made any statement regarding the matter, it is understood that he will strive for the reward and the side issue that goes with it. It is the popularly conceded opinion of his clubmates that Doyle will have little trouble in carrying out the terms of the contract and the red and white supporters are quietly awaiting results that may be forthcoming.

RUBBER GAME WILL BE BANNER EVENT

Holy Cross and Franklin A. A. Will Engage in Final Scrap Here.

One of the largest crowds of football fans that ever witnessed a gridiron contest in this city is expected to turn out on Cricket Field tomorrow afternoon, when the Franklin A. A. and Holy Cross aggregations get together in the rubber match of their series. The initial contest of the series, the second of the season for Holy Cross, was won by the Newark team by a score of 6 to 0 and the locals evened up matters last Saturday afternoon by trimming the Franklins by a score of 7 to 6.

Both teams are keyed up to a breaking point for the contest and as it is the final one of the season for teach team and the most important for all concerned the enthusiasm will probably be the greatest ever seen at an athletic contest in this city or vicinity.

The elevens will lineup practically in the same order as they did last Saturday, and the third game promises to be a repetition of the two previous hard battles.

The teams will lineup as follows:

FRANKLIN A. A.		HOLY CROSS.
Barber	Left End.	Webster, Cumming
Graham	Left Tackle.	Ruttledge
Leslie	Left Guard.	Harrigan, Moor
Banks	Center.	Carty
M. Judge	Right Guard.	Smith

MARSH GIVES LITTLE THE "ONCE OVER" TIP

Holy Cross Boys' Club Manager Was "Laboring Under a Misapprehension."

The following communication has been received from Hervey Marsh in response to an article written by William Little, of the Holy Cross Boys' Club, regarding a football game played at Dunellen two weeks ago between the Holy Cross junior team and the Monarch A. C., of Dunellen:

Sporting Editor:

Last week this paper printed an article which was written by a member of the Holy Cross Boys' Club, stating an opinion on Malcolm Marsh' action in leaving the football team just before the game with Dunellen, and joining that team in the game against his own team. The article declared Marsh a traitor, and accusing him of giving away the signals, thereby helping Dunellen to win the game.

"The Daily Press" is always anxious to correct any statement printed by them when the facts in the case justify such action and we are herewith giving Marsh's statement.

In all the games Marsh has practised for and taken part in as a member of the Holy Cross Boys' Club, he has filled the position of fullback and when instructed on the day of the game against Dunellen, to play end because the regular player for that position wished to play in the backfield, became indignant at being shifted around after filling a position all season suited to him, and he refused to play.

As for his being a traitor, his refusing to play with Dunellen upon their request when they learned that he didn't intend to play end for his club team, is conclusive evidence that he had no intention of doing anything unfair towards his club. He did, however, play only during the last quarter for Dunellen, when it was necessary for them to fill in because of an injury to one of their players, but the final outcome of the game had been decided before his taking any part and furthermore, he states that he has never taken part in any conversation relating to the signals used by the Boys' Club, outside of the club itself.

HERVEY MARSH.

PLAINFIELD DROPPED ALL THREE TO RIVAL

Hoboken Elks Too Speedy on Their Home Drives for the Queen City Team.

Hoboken "Hello Bills" swept all before them on their home alleys last night at the expense of Captain Blatz' Plainfield pinners and the Queen City delegation failed to even get a whiff of the victorious breeze. While Plainfield was the victim in all of the trio of engagements, the local pin-knights made a close fight for winner's laurels in each of the matches but were nosed out by their rivals whose familiarity with the home chutes served them in good stead.

In the first game Plainfield finished seven pins in the rear with a mark of 897 which is ordinarily enough to trounce a rival; in the second encounter there was a battle royal for first place honors from start to finish but when the last frame had been tolled off the Hobokens led by a scant margin of four pins with a card of 848; and in the final engagement Plainfield took a big slump while the home bowlers flashed a big burst of speed and rolled off 944 with an advantage of 141 pins.

High score marks for the evening went to Earle who rang off 232 and 200 for the Hobokens and Eppel who split 218 in the initial game.

CENTER'S WORK DEFEATED COLUMBIA SINGLE HANDED

Ten points rung up by George Hummel, center on the Harvard team of the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department College League were enough to double cross the Columbia basketeers single handed on the association court yesterday afternoon in the scheduled league match and the Harvard tossers swept through with a 21 to 4 victory tucked beneath their belts. Adams and Giddes also did some good scoring work for the winners while Clay and Brower were the only point winners on the losing side.

VILLA MARCHING ON CHIHUAHUA

State Palace Decked to Receive Rebel General.

MEXICO CITY NEXT ADVANCE

Huerta Is Peeved at President Wilson's Message—Government Heaps Torrent of Abuse on Attitude of United State—Washington Quiet.

Ahumada, Mexico, Dec. 5.—Fifty-five hundred rebels, forming the nucleus of the army by which General Villa says he will march to Mexico City to overthrow Huerta dictatorship, were to enter Chihuahua city, the state capital, today.

A big reception is planned for the rebel general, and the buildings are decked in gay colors.

This was the word brought to Juarez in dispatches from General Villa himself. He reported that the damage to the railroad was not as great as he had expected and that his troops were proceeding rapidly. They left Montezuma, 115 miles below Juarez, Thursday morning. He declares that he will eat his Christmas dinner in Mexico City.

A track crew began reconstructing the line of the Mexican Northwestern railway. As soon as the work is finished it is believed that business will be resumed throughout northern Mexico.

The 2,000 or more refugees who left Chihuahua City when the federals evacuated the town last Sunday were expected to reach Presidio, Tex., late this afternoon. El Paso business men have sent quantities of food and clothing there.

It is reported that several of the refugees died of exposure on the way.

Message Good to Huerta.

Mexico City, Dec. 5.—Interpreting President Wilson's message to congress to mean that the United States is trying to goad General Huerta into rash action, foreigners here, as well as Mexicans, believe that war is coming between the two countries.

President Wilson's message has caused general adverse comment, aside from General Huerta's declaration that he had no intention of yielding even if the fighting in Mexico were continued for years. Foreigners generally say the message shows that Washington is unwilling to do anything to solve the situation and that President Wilson by applying the term usurper to Huerta is descending to matching epithets with the Mexican ruler and that calling names will surely lead to trouble.

Government newspapers have loosed a torrent of abuse against the president of the United States. His statements are characterized as "daring and malicious and false." In view of the vicious state of public feeling here President Wilson's language is deemed inept.

President Huerta is greatly incensed by the message, and it was reported today that he would take official action regarding it. He was overheard discussing the points of the message with Minister Lozano in a public restaurant. Both men were highly indignant.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The most interesting element in the international situation was the attitude of the Latin American diplomats toward President Wilson's official reference to Mexico in the congressional message. Many of these diplomats are friendly to General Huerta, believing that he is the champion of the Americans south of the Rio Grande, and they feel that President Wilson may have deliberately intended to goad Huerta into resentment that might go so far as handing passports to Charge d'Affaires O'Shaughnessy. On the pretext of wounded honor, say some of the South Americans, Mexico could be occupied by United States troops without protest by any other nation.

POISON ON MOTHER'S GRAVE.

Neighbor's Chickens Eat It—Son of Buried Woman Guilty.

Riverhead, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Walter King, a millinery designer, was found guilty before County Judge Vunk and a jury of putting arsenic in breadcrumbs on his mother's grave in the Good Ground cemetery.

It was proved that twenty-eight chickens belonging to John Lane, a farmer, living near the cemetery, ate the poison and died. Lane brought witnesses to court who testified that they had heard King say he would do away with the chickens, which he said were despoiling the grass on the grave.

Sentence will be imposed next week.

GIFT HORSE FOR THE COLONEL

Argentine Club Makes Handsome Present to Roosevelt.

Buenos Aires, Dec. 5.—Colonel Roosevelt, who arrived here from Bahia Blanca, visited the Club Hipicio Argentino, which held a tournament and presented one of its finest horses to the ex-president. With the animal went a native saddle and bridle mounted in silver.

Baroness Files Promise Suit.

St. Louis, Dec. 5.—Alleging that M. J. Hurley had failed to keep his promise to marry her, Baroness Ursula Barbara von Kalanowsky filed suit in the United States district court for $2,500,000.

NOTES FROM LABOR FIELD

A labor temple is to be built in Duluth.

Thirty-six States prohibit night work by children.

Forty-two States have fixed a maximum number of hours as a working week for children.

With a population only two-thirds as great as the United States, Germany has a million more labor union members.

Timothy Healy, international president of the Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, has been elected a coroner in New York city.

Great Britain and Ireland, having not much over half the population of the United States, have about 600,000 more union laborers.

The American Federation of Labor has voted to continue the observance of the fourth Sunday in May of each year as Labor Day.

An old age pension and disability fund will be started next year by the Brickmakers, Masons and Plasterers' International Union of America.

Ohio and Texas have been added to the twenty-four States and the Federal Government which have limited hours on public work to eight a day.

Berlin is considering a plan for a workingmen's insurance against unemployment, the cost of which is to be divided between the workingmen and the city.

According to a statement just issued by the American Association for Labor Legislation, the most important labor legislation enacted during the past year consists of the laws passed in Ohio, California, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and New York, extending the commission form of factory administration as adopted in Wisconsin two years ago.

On January 1 about 9,000 members of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners will become members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the latter organization will then assume practical control of virtually all branches of the carpenters' union trade in the United States, Canada and Mexico. The merger of the two organizations is a result of a referendum vote recently taken by the general membership of both unions.

MANY LOCAL MEMBERS.

Many local people are members of the recently organized club formed among the employes of the General Electric Co., in New York, which meets every Monday and Friday night. BREATHE FREELY! OPEN NOSTRILS AND STUFFED HEAD---END CATARRH Instant Relief When Nose and Head Are Clogged from a Cold—Stops Nasty Catarrhal Discharges—Dull Headache Vanishes.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

SOLDIERS' HOME NOW A HOSPITAL

Annual Report on Kearny Institution Filed.

ASK FOR APPROPRIATION

Urge Outside Help So as to Give Disabled Soldiers Proper Treatment. Number of Members Received During Fiscal Year Was 178, Totaling 737. Deficit of $10,000.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 5.—The annual report of the New Jersey Home For Disabled Soldiers at Kearny, was filed with Acting Governor Taylor. The report is the forty-eighth annual one submitted to the governor of the state.

The report renews a recommendation of last year for a supplemental appropriation of $10,000 to pay bills which remained unpaid for the fiscal year and which come in and must be paid out of the money received this year. A request for a special appropriation of $15,000 for needed repairs and improvements is also asked to complete the construction of buildings, the plans for which have been submitted to the state architect.

The report in part continues:

The growing age and infirmities of the old soldiers have made this institution practically a hospital. The men are unable to scrub floors, wash windows and wait on each other. Outside help should be substituted in most cases so that they may be properly taken care of. This has been done in the national homes. The hospital quarters must be enlarged and an internephysician employed. The pay roll will thereby be increased.

This can only be done if we have an increase in the yearly appropriation. We ask for $10,000 or about $20 annually for each member of the home, and with that increase the cost would still be much less than that in other homes.

The number of members in the home Oct. 31, 1912, was 559, and the number received during the fiscal year was 178, totaling 737. The loss during the year through deaths and other causes was 212, and on Oct. 31 this year there remained 525.

The total disbursements for the year were $102,736.01. The cost of maintenance per capita was $225.44.

DRUG JABBED INTO BRIDE.

Girl Latest Victim of Hypodermic Poisoning—Attacked In Theater.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 5.—Mrs. Marjorie Graff, twenty-two, a bride of two weeks, while in a box at the matinee in a theater in this city was stuck in the back of the hand with a hypodermic needle and collapsed into unconsciousness.

Armand Megaro, twenty-four, a South American, born of Spanish parents, is under arrest charged with the attack.

Young girls in theaters, moving picture shows and even in department stores, have been stabbed with these needles recently. White slavers are said to be using them in their hunt for victims.

YEGGMEN GET SMALL BOOTY.

Citizen Shoots at Robbers Without Effect—Escape From Posse.

Metuchen, N. J., Dec. 5.—Yeggmen broke into the postoffice at Matthawan, dynamited the safe and had a narrow escape from being captured by citizens.

George Shepherd, who lives next door to the postoffice, was awakened by an explosion that shook the house and broke the windows. Shepard grabbed a gun and fired four shots without effect. A posse was formed among the local citizens and police, but the robbers got away by taking a trolley car to Perth Amboy.

GIRL KILLED BY WAGON.

Newark Child Meets Death on Way Home From School.

Newark, N. J., Dec. 5.—Five-year-old Eleanor Strobel, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Strobel, Jr., of this city, was run over by a wagon loaded with flour and almost instantly killed while on her way home from school. The little girl is said to have been walking with several companions and that she ran out into the street without apparently seeing the wagon. A rear wheel struck her and passed over her body.

AROUND THE STATE.

Ransacking the Lackawanna railroad station at Wharton, thieves got $300 worth of goods in "C. O. D." packages.

The mild weather of the past few weeks is producing summer conditions. Spiraea was in bloom in Montclair. Many of the lawns are being cut, and the grass is as green as in June.

Two men were arrested for perjury in the courthouse in Newark. They are Walter E. More, a Newark druggist, and Joseph Golsong of West Orange. Both were released under bail.

Mrs. Jurgan T. Runge of Paterson has brought suit for $25,000 damages against the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad for the death of her husband, who was killed in a grade crossing accident on Sept. 27.

Ah Po, a Chinese cook on the oil ship Vancouver, docked at the piers of the Standard Oil company in Bayonne, led the police a merry chase when he escaped from the ship. He was finally captured by Policeman Lockley and sent back to the ship by Recorder Mara.

HOT ALTERCATION AT ALBANY GRAFT PROBE

Tilt Ensues When Hennessy Defies Osborne.

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 5.—John A. Hennessy, former Governor Sulzer's special investigator, started a disturbance in the investigation of the Carlisle charges before Commissioner James W. Osborne, which resulted in Osborne's threatening to ask Governor Glynn "to provide some part of the militia or the police to maintain order." Hennessy then took his seat, not, however, until the wrangle between himself, Commissioner Osborne and Henry A. Rubino, attorney for the Warner-Quinlan company, had lasted a quarter of an hour.

The disorder featured an otherwise long drawn out and tedious session. P. R. Quinlan, vice president of the companies, had occupied the stand and, moving picture a history of the commercial use of asphalt and of the controversies between the Barber Asphalt company, the so called "asphalt trust," and the independent asphalt producing concerns. He was on the stand when Hennessy spoke up.

Commissioner Osborne had just declared that he was not trying the charges against Carlisle, but was simply investigating them as an incident of his investigation of the highway department for report to the governor. Then Hennessy demanded what Osborne meant by his assertion that he was not trying Carlisle.

"I'm not going to sit here and tell you what I am going to do in this investigation," Osborne said.

"Well, I stand on my rights," shouted Hennessy.

Then Osborne threatened to put out of order and ordered him to be seated.

New Providence.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist church, to the number of twenty-five, met Wednesday at the home of its president, Mrs. Charles Ulrich, of Springfield avenue, and completed arrangements for the annual fair, which will be held in the church parlors Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy, of Arlington, returned home Wednesday after visiting Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy, of Springfield avenue.

The fair given by the young people of St. Mary's church, Stony Hill, New Providence township, last week, netted them more than $600.

Mrs. Edward B. Exner, of Mountain avenue, New Providence township, is ill at her home.

Mrs. W. A. Caralon and family, of Plainfield avenue, Berkeley Heights moved Wednesday to Brooklyn for the winter.

Announcement was received here Wednesday of the marriage of Mrs. Katherine C. Sayles to E. Frederick Bermingham. The ceremony was performed October 23 at the Broadway Tabernacle church, New York. Mrs. Sayles was the widow of Solomon S. Sayles, of Lon[illegible] Chatham township, and New York.

THE MOST IMPORTANT YEAR OF THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

"The period through which we are living, in its display of scientific accomplishment and clashing social forces is the most broadly significant and humanly spectacular in the forty-three years of the existence of The Century Magazine," says an editorial in The Century.

It is the avowed ambition of the magazine, says its publishers, to be as nearly as possible representative of the times in which we live. Believing that fiction is virtually the only effective means of approaching the minds of millions of intelligent persons, The Century will devote about half of each issue during the coming year to fiction. In a magazine of the size of The Century, this amount of space given to fiction leaves a great many pages which as usual will be devoted to art and poetry and to such papers as those on immigration by Professor Edward A. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, by W. Morgan Shuster, author of "The Strangling of Persia," on subjects of international interest, for example, "Have We a Foreign Policy?" and "Shall the Filipinos Have a Fourth of July?"

Characteristic of the "New Spirit of the Century" are the genuinely important papers: Theodore Roosevelt on "The Progressive party;" Edna Kenton on "The Militant Women—and Women," which gives the case for the feminists, and "The Modern Quest for a Religion," a serious and reverent study by Winston Churchill, author of "The Inside of the Cup," which will be a feature of the December Century.

In the February Century will begin a prophetic trilogy by H. G. Wells in which this modern prophet sees a possible and logical future that stirs the imagination. The February number will be a "Short Story Number" and will contain a special group of stories by authors who are either celebrated already or likely to become so.

Always a leader in the art field, The Century will continue to make a number of interesting experiments in various reproductive processes. With its corps of artist-engravers and its elaborate art department, The Century is able to get effects in full color and in "Century color-tone" that are impossible in less carefully printed and designed magazines.

In its comic department, "In Lighter Vein," The Century continues to prove that the best illustrators and the best writers are glad occasionally to turn to the lighter treatment of current topics.

WIDOWS' PENSIONS HELD UP.

Elizabeth, Dec. 5.—Because the widows' pension bureau is without funds with which to pursue its duties, widows' pensions in Union county are being held up. A small number of women have already been pensioned, and the Board of Freeholders has provided an appropriation, but Miss Frances Day, agent for the bureau, who has her headquarters in Jersey City, has been unable to visit the city to investigate the other applications. She wrote Freeholder J. Logan Fay to that effect. Anthony Sattler, overseer of the poor of this city, has nearly 100 applications alone, while there is a correspondingly large number from other sections of the county. Mrs. C. B. Alexander, of Hoboken, appeared in Trenton, Wednesday, to urge the passage of an appropriation.

MOTION PICTURES.

The following interesting films will be shown at the Y. M. C. A. motion picture entertainment tomorrow afternoon and evening: "Mother's Lazy Boy," "Bunny Blarneyed," "The Opening of a Bud," "The Pitcher Plant," "The Smallest Continent in the World."

A Christmas sale will be held tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the parish house of St. Stephen's church, Woodland and South avenues. A large variety of articles will be placed on sale and refreshments will be served.

—No one will contend that a woman who does not read the ads is as well prepared to buy wisely and economically as one who does.

Christmas Gifts for the Home

A gift that can be used every day and will last for years, is the gift that is appreciated the most.

An article of household use, received as a gift, is sure to be a constant reminder of the giver.

Since nearly everybody uses gas what would make a more welcome gift than a cabinet gas range, a handsome gas dome, an atractive reading lamp, a gas percolator, or a chafing dish? What would be more useful than a gas water heater or a gas iron?

We can install any of these appliances in time for Christmas. The cost is not high, the terms can be made easy and they are not expensive to operate.

TWO VIEWS OF SUPPLE CREAM MOIRÉ WRAP WITH NATURAL RED FOX

IT would seem as if all the famous Paris designers had agreed to make the evening wrap of 1913 the most noticeable and most elaborate garment in the entire wardrobe of the fashionably gowned woman. If it were not intended for protection it would serve its purpose in affording artistic beauty different from that which a dress alone can give, for the main idea with the supple fabrics now in vogue is that they shall be draped and hung rather than shaped and fitted.

Sumptuous indeed are the latest models received from the French capital. One is a voluminous mass of old gold brocaded velvet, long in the back, drawn close at the bottom, but simulating a cape effect over the shoulders. It has gold tassels depending from the middle back drapery and also from the folded corners below either elbow. The trimming on the neck is golden marten, now looked upon as one of the fur "gems."

Equally charming and costly in another way are mole, seal and ermine wraps with contrasted furs and chiffon. The characteristic style features of the garments as described and many more stood out in the sartorial display at the opening of the Metropolitan opera season, amid a blaze of jewels and a glow of color.

As a matter of fact, many of the most beautiful evening wraps are extremely simple in cut, depending for their effect upon the materials from which they are fashioned. Two such garments are pictured on this page. No. 7882, showing front and back views, is typical of the general style of evening wrap that tapers in at the bottom and is full through the middle part, with kimono sleeves. This model is made of cream color silk and wool moire which hangs gracefully. It is lined with Eco blue charmeuse, edged with a twisted gold cord and trimmed with a red fox skin for collar and cuffs. The irregular edge of the natural pelt gives the smart style touch with two fox tails hanging like ornamental tassels over the shoulders. The decorative fastening is an original motif carried out in gold cord, blue and red crystal beads.

Whether one goes out much or little in evening dress, some sort of appropriate wrap is essential, and quite possible to have at little cost. Pattern No. 7882 is wonderfully easy to make from wide material, for it has only a seam under each arm and one on the shoulder, running to the cuff. The filmiest brocaded chiffon cloth and crepe de Chine are practical for such a wrap by using an interlining of lamb's wool that is light and in nowise bulky.

Rose colored silk brocade is the material of which the wrap No. 7774 is developed and brought up to the minute in style with a square mole collar. It can be used for a carriage wrap, or, if copied in black or dark colors, it will be equally attractive for afternoon.

The most artistic evening gowns of this season reflect the new art ideas in combining queer colors. The dress on the left of this page is one such effect developed in white satin souple for the foundation, with an over drapery of cerise satin striped net, the stripes of which are placed at right angles to give the becoming lines. There is white lace in the bodice, laced with gold cord, and gold tassels weight the corners of the modish tunic. This model can be copied with pattern No. 7988, and will be one of the best for use in remodeling a dress of last season. It suggests also a becoming style for a stout figure. The price of each pattern illustrated is 15 cents.

Christmas Gift to Make For Fifty Cents.

BEADED or embroidered bandeaux are among the popular ornaments for the hair when dressed for evening nowadays. They may be quite as effective as real jeweled decorations and very dainty when made by hand. The band on the figure is of black velvet with pale pink opaque beads forming the leaves and a single rhinestone in the center of the motif. This is one of several designs borrowed from patterns which are equally good for embroidering. It is No. 14434, which comes in a six yard border strip three-eighths of an inch wide with four corners, any or all of which would be applicable for the decoration of a blouse. The two bandeaux at the foot of the page are of designs made from pattern No. 14607, respectively one and one and one-quarter inches wide. The finer pattern is worked in steel beads. The price of either pattern illustrated is 10 cents. From them one can make a pleasing Christmas gift for 50 cents, using any desired beads which come by the string or the dozen.

Practical Hints For the House and Larder

INSTEAD of painting the kitchen wall repeatedly to keep it spic and span try having white table oilcloth put on it as wall paper is hung. It will last for years, keep its color and may be washed with soap and water. Such a kitchen looks attractive and is sanitary, as to its walls. The plain oilcloth comes in four yard rolls forty-seven inches wide for 65 cents per roll.

Oil cruets or other bottles which have contained oil may be cleaned easily with washing soda and warm water. The soda, with the oil, makes a soft soap, which is easily washed away. Lumps of washing soda with a little water from the teakettle put into greasy pans in which meat or fish has been baked will make the cleaning process easy. The grease will not clog the sink drain.

Oil, tar or wagon grease spots on wash clothing should be carefully removed from clothing for the general wash before being sent to the tub. Lard will take out the black tar or grease as well as kerosene, which may not be at hand.

Nut Cookies.

Cream one cup each of butter and sugar and add two eggs, beaten one at a time. Gradually stir in two cups of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder, to which one-half cup of chopped hickory nut meats have been added. Cut the stiff dough with a cutter or mold into shapes and bake on buttered tins.

Apple and Chestnut Salad.

Boil one pint of French chestnuts until tender, and chop them with tart apples enough to make two cupfuls. Marinade with vinegar, and serve on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. One cupful of chopped celery gives a little different taste to this salad.

SLICED ham baked in the following manner will taste different and perhaps better than in the usual way of serving it. Rub each slice of ham with a mixture of one tablespoonful of dry mustard and one tablespoonful of sugar. Put the ham into a pan and moisten it with three tablespoonfuls of water and one of vinegar. Cover and cook fifteen minutes, basting occasionally.

Candle Care and Light.

Christmas-tide emphasizes the popular use of wax candles for household and table decoration. Despite the care they require they repay in cheerfulness. Candles chilled on the ice will burn brighter and last longer. The wax left on candlesticks and patent holders may be removed by placing them on a paper in the oven. The last traces of the candle grease can be rubbed off with tissue paper while the holder is hot. Boiling water will also remove the hardened tallow.

DEPARTMENT stores, specialty shops and even jewelers are showing a greater assortment of bags and reticules than previous holiday seasons have disclosed. There is no limit to the number which can be utilized in the fashionable wardrobe, for they are as varied as the gowns themselves and chosen to match or suit this and that costume.

Just now small silk or velvet opera bags with gorgeous mountings or with rich embroidery are carried to the opera or evening musicale. Two of the latest opera bags are illustrated herewith and have designs which may be reproduced by the skillful needlewoman with designs of pattern No. 14141. These are made of silk with embroidered sections mounted over pieces of pasteboard in the shapes shown. A combination of silver or gold thread embroidery with beads is even richer on a background of chiffon velvet. The peacock colorings are beautiful and easy to carry out with iridescent beads. Many such bags, too, are decorated with steel and silver threads on black velvet or satin.

Fine dull jet beads closely sewn together on black silk make very handsome mourning reticules, which are used a great deal in place of leather bags. In fact, the fancier are one's small accessories this winter the more correct they are from fashion's viewpoint.

Seen In the Shops.

Fitted leather bags five inches square and upwards in a variety of sizes are a novelty of this season for automobilists. They are equipped with nickel gilt or silver toilet articles and have also a small coin purse.

Beeswax for milady's work basket is sold in the form of fruits and flowers colored so like the natural kinds as to be easily mistaken for them. The pieces range from five cents to twenty five and make very appropriate table favors for holiday festivities. Cherries, plums, grapes, peaches, etc., are among the varieties.

Pairs of short fancy hatpins with fancy heads are the favored kind for the moment. Semi-precious stones such as jade, lapis lazuli and colored quartz, are fashionable, with imitation pearl and gun metal among the standbys. Jet pins are gaining favor, with a general revival of all sorts of jet necklaces and garnitures.

One of the newest styles for marking table linen is to place the letters of one's monogram in a diamond shape—that is, with the outside letters short and the middle one tall, so that the tops and bottoms suggest the diamond outline. Solid padded French embroidery in block capitals is a favorite idea.

With fur extremely modish wherever it can appear on dresses, blouses and wraps, separate collars that may be adjusted on the neck of any outer garment are being featured at the neck wear counters or in the fur departments of city shops. There are imitation mole, plain or bordered with white fur; real mole, seal and caracul. These sets start as low as $4, and for a handsome set of Scotch mole lined with satin one must pay about $20.

Things to Keep In the Larder.

It is rather discouraging to open a cook book and start to make a dish according to a recipe therein and then to find that the larder is guiltless of the various staples which are called for in the recipe. The gelatine box is empty—or lacking entirely. There isn't any nutmeg, and you wonder vaguely whether ginger or cinnamon would be the better substitute. There is no cheese in the house, and so you sprinkle some dish to be baked with bread crumbs instead.

There are plenty of larders lacking the dozen and one ingredients which most of the French recipes and many of other nationality call for. Some even lack the more ordinary staples at the crucial moment. But any housewife can keep her larder supplied with the ordinary staples—baking powder, sugar, flour, butter and eggs. Here are a few suggestions concerning the more unusual things for which most recipes call:

Always have well-filled spice boxes. Thyme, mace, cayenne pepper, white pepper, bay leaves, celery salt, summer savory, allspice, cloves, mustard, ginger, cinnamon, nutmeg—these, at least, should be kept on hand.

There should be bread and cracker crumbs of various sorts. Have fine crumbs of bread, browned in the oven in a little butter, in one glass jar. Then have coarser, unbuttered bread crumbs. The first kind are to put on the top of scalloped or baked dishes. The second kind are the sort to use in stuffing vegetables, or making puddings that call for crumbs. Cracker crumbs, too, should be at hand to dip croquettes in after they have been dipped in egg.

Grated cheese, too, should be kept on hand. Parmesan cheese, hard and dry, is undoubtedly the best sort, but any plain yellow cheese will answer the purpose. Cooked dishes of macaroni, spaghetti, noodles and vegetables often need a topping of grated cheese.

Gelatine should always be at hand. There should be confectioner's sugar for frosting. There should be two of three bottles of flavoring extract—vanilla, lemon and almond, perhaps, but vanilla anyway. There should be onions, of course, and canned tomatoes always. Cubes of beef extract, too, can be kept on hand to dissolve in water when stock is called for.

There should be garnishes of some sort. Try to have the sorts that do not deteriorate with keeping. Maraschino cherries, for instance, can be opened, partly used, and kept for weeks in a cool place if the bottle is corked again. Capers can be opened and used from time to time for months. A pot of parsley growing in a sunny window is an ever-present help. Macaroons, to grate and sprinkle over desserts of various sorts, can be kept in a glass jar.

Cooking is much pleasanter in a house where there is a larder well supplied with the various accessories of good cooking, and these accessories are not an extravagance. None of the things mentioned costs very much to begin with, and none of them lose flavor or quality in the keeping.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

No. 8032 is a quaint, long waisted little coat which would be most attractive made up in one of the light wooly fabrics now so popular and trimmed with a bright plaid or printed silk. Dull blue, green or brown are good colors for a coat of this description. If velvet and corduroy are favored, they are quite as appropriate as the wool materials. If the coat is intended for dressy wear a very narrow strip of a dark fur could be used to outline the collar and edge the cuffs. The inexpensive furs are more suitable for children than the high priced ones.

To copy this model in size 6 it requires 2⅛ yards of 36 inch or 2 yards of 42 inch material with 1 yard of plaid for trimming.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 2 to 10.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the chest and well up under the arms.

Some Cookery Suggestions

HOLIDAY FRUIT CAKES.

If the housewife makes her own fruit cake she should prepare it well in advance of Christmas, for it is better for being kept awhile.

It is suggested that the raisins used should be well washed, seeded and cut in two. All fruit should be dredged with flour before it is added to the cake. The fruit must be of the best. The fruit should never be dumped into the cake all at once, but added a little at a time.

Cake That Keeps Well

Christmas Fruit Cake.—Take one pound each of flour and sugar, one and one-eighth pounds butter, one-half pound candied citron, four pounds each of currants and raisins, stoned and chopped; six eggs, one tablespoonful each of mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, cloves and three gills of brandy. Beat sugar and butter to a cream, add eggs, well beaten, flour and spices, well sifted together, and last the fruit, well dredged in flour. This will make two cakes or one large one. You may bake in a low earthen crock lined with oiled paper. Wrap in oiled paper and keep in airtight box.

Light Fruit Cake.—Take one-half cupful each of butter, seeded raisins and milk, one cupful sugar, two cupfuls flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls baking powder, whites of four eggs, one-half cupful sliced citron, one-third cupful chopped blanched almonds and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Mix flour, baking powder and salt. Dredge fruit with flour, cream, butter and sugar; add beaten whites and beat hard; add flour and milk and beat again; stir in the prepared fruit. Line a loaf pan with paper and bake cake one and a half hours in moderate oven.

The Traditional Cake.

English Plum Cake.—Take a half pound each of butter and sugar and beat to a cream, then add four eggs whisked to a froth, a quarter of a nutmeg, grated, and one-half pound of self raising flour. Mix well together, then add one-half pound currants, one-quarter pound of raisins stoned and chopped and three ounces of well chopped candied peel. Mix all together and beat steadily for ten or twelve minutes, then fill a well greased baking tin with the batter. When the cake is in the tin, push in a few thick pieces of citron or candied peel and bake for two hours in a slow oven. Leave till cold before cutting it.

An Unusual and Attractive Design For Embroidering the Collar, Cuffs and Front of a Waist.

The new embroidered blouses of chiffon cloth, crepe de chine, voile and crepe voile are exceptionally pretty. They are very expensive to buy ready to wear, but the woman who can embroider can have any number of these dainty and attractive waists, for they are very simple and inexpensive to make.

This design, in number 14653, is quite unusual and consists of a collar and cuff set and four small sprays which may be arranged in any way desired. These may be used on a waist or on the ends of a sash, as illustrated on dress 7799, or the sprays may be used on a back-closing waist, dress or on a waistcoat, and the collar and cuffs on a coat. This design would be very effective developed in wool embroidery or twisted silk on a blouse or dress of crepe de chine, or a wool material.

Crepe de chine is especially practical for making separate blouses, as it washes as well as cotton, if you buy a good quality, and it is dressy enough to wear with the most elaborate suit. Then, too, it has the advantage of not being too thin and sheer.

The blouses of chiffon cloth and fine cotton net are also very smart this season and both of these materials are washable and come in several colors, so that you can have your blouse of a lighter shade of the color of your suit.

A number of bright colors should be used in embroidering this design, such as black, red, blue and green or orange, black, green and cerise or any other combination you may prefer. Work the design in unpadded solid work and outline or Wallachian stitch. The edges of the collar and cuffs should be slightly padded, to make a firm edge, and developed in buttonhole stitch in the predominating color or in the color of the dress or suit with which the set is to be worn.

Pattern number 14653 will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for 15 cents.

His Policeman Friend Looked at Teddy.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Happened To a Lost Teddy Bear.

DEAR me, how Jack's things did sometimes get lost! If it were not that he had a kind sister Evelyn to help find them Jack might have been in trouble sometimes.

"Well," said daddy as he heard how Jack had just lost his new blue tie and how Evelyn had found it behind the sofa, "it's wonderful where these lost things turn up.

"And that reminds me of a story of how Tommy Tompkins lost his brown Teddy bear."

"One day Tommy went out for a walk in the park with Hattie, his nursemaid. He carried Teddy in his arms, for Tommy said Teddy would like to have some fresh air too.

"When they reached the park Hattie sat down on one of the benches to talk with a friend, and Tommy took Teddy over to the fountain. Then he showed him to his friend, the policeman. The policeman said that animals were not allowed in the park, and he really ought to take the Teddy bear right off to the station house before he began eating folks up.

"Of course Tommy and the policeman both laughed at this, for it was meant only as a joke. The officer went away, smiling, while Tommy began to play with a little boy whom he knew.

"Tommy after awhile started home without thinking of the Teddy bear, who still sat straight and quiet on the bench where he had been left.

"By and by the big policeman came along. He saw the Teddy bear on the bench and stopped and stared.

"'It looks just like Master Tommy's bear, and I shall have to arrest him, after all,' he said, grinning. He picked up Teddy and carried him to the station house, where the other policemen made jokes about it.

"When Tommy got home his mother asked him what he had done with Teddy.

"Then Tommy began to cry. 'Poor Teddy lost!' he wailed. He could not remember where he had left Teddy, and no one in the family expected to see him again. But the next day Tommy went to the park again, and then his friend the policeman told him about having arrested a Teddy bear.

"'My Teddy, my Teddy!' cried Tommy, and hand in hand with his policeman friend he went to the station house, where the big sergeant took Teddy out of the cupboard and gave him to his little owner.

"'Watch out or you will be getting lost yourself, Master Tommy, and then I shall have to bring you to the station house!' warned his friend the good natured, big policeman."

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if You Feel Backachy or Have Bladder Trouble.

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve your bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder diseases.—Adv.

FUNNY SKETCH A GREAT SUCCESS

Heavy Sentence for Miss Lucy Douglas, Defendent in Mock Trial.

EACH PART ORIGINAL

Amateur Performers Made up Their Own Productions and the Accused When Adjudged Guilty is Given a Life Sentence.

An audience of four hundred persons witnessed the presentation of an original mock trial given by the members of the North Plainfield High School junior class in the auditorium of Saengerbund Hall, last night, and the efforts of the amateur performers both surprised and pleased their many friends and admirers. Little could be done to improve the production, which was compiled by those who took the various parts and in this way each separate part was made to fit the young actor who performed it in an admirable fashion. Under the tutorship of City Judge William G. DeMeza, the court rulers and dealers of justice attained a degree of perfection in handling the complicated case presented for trial and the justice meted out to the whimpering offender, was both unique and satisfying to those concerned in the case.

From start to finish the witnesses, who were sworn in to testify in the case, kept the audience in a continued uproar. As all of the characters, costumes and speeches were purely original the members of the cast drew out every possible expression which made the production more interesting.

When the curtain rose the stage was arranged in the form of a court of justice and the first action was to present the thief. The lawyers then read their cases and called in the witnesses. The most laughable one was Duclos VanMater, as an old deaf farmer, who found it hard to hear the questions asked and drew many laughs in the answers to the counsels. When Lester V. D. Chandler, the English dude, was called he drew a large hand from the audience and kept them splitting with laughter during his stay in the witness stand. Jubilee Rowley, as the third assistant janitress to "Dick," made a big hit with her chewing gum, feather duster and attempts of flirtation with Craig Kennedy, the young lawyer. Emma Ryno, the suffragette; Kathryn Giddings, a society belle, and Edson Day, a main line trolley conductor, also kept the audience in an uproar. Ralph Smalley, as the prosecutor, showed great professional ability and was assisted by Russell Lee. The counsels for the defence were Hoyt Tomkinson and Frank Fetherstone.

The entertainment was coached by Helen K. Ray, who was assisted by Nellie Merrill and City Judge William G. DeMeza. During the course of the evening Lester Chandler, president of the junior class, presented Miss Ray with a handsome silver manicure set in appreciation of her efforts. After the performance there was dancing until 1 o'clock, with music by Holbferster's orchestra, of Elizabeth.

The complete cast is as follows: "Get-rich-quick-Wallingford," Ralph Smalley; "Craig Kennedy," Russelle Lee; "James Franklin," Hoyt Tomkinson; "I. Ketcham," Frank Fetherstone; "Judge Rosalky," Elmer French; "Joshuah Ebenezer Frey," Duclos Van Mater; "Mike Mahoney," Edson Day; "Reginald Percival Montmerency," an English dude with monocle, Lester V. D. Chandler; "Josephus Levitsky," Richard Shroeder; "Sheriff Harburger," Theodore Layton; "Katrina Wilhelmina Van Pumpernickle," the thief, Lucy Douglass; "Hildegrade Gwendolyn Verde Vere," Kathryn Giddings; "Jane J. Perkins," Emma Ryno; "Mrs. Josiah Allen," Elsie Debele; "Rose Lucindy Watleigh," Jubilee "Rosa" Rowley; "Jeannette de More," Ann Hull; news reporters, Nora Meaney and Viola Hauser. The jury was composed of the following: Margaret Currin, Marion Doughty, Margaret Hogan, Lizzie Hummer, Elva Lippincott, Helen Meaney, Lena Mobus, Helen Schmidt, Roscoe Van Camp, Halbert Hutchinson, Wesley Hughes and Godfrey Diplock.

Any persons having contributions to make can send same to the union rooms.

DR. PERRY'S TALK ON "VANITY FAIR"

Thackery's Work Subject of Second Discourse on Literary Epochs.

William Makepeace Thackery's "Vanity Fair" was the subject chosen by Jrof. Bliss Perry, the Harvard lecturer. for the third of his series of talks in Plainfield, which was given yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The largest audience since the course started heard him. The next talk will be given next Friday night at Hartridge Auditoium on "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Thackery was born July 18, 1811, in Calcutta, and was sent home to England upon his father's death, being five years old at the time. He spent six years at Charter House school, and later two years at Cambridge, leaving without a degree to travel abroad. He met Goethe, at Weimar, thus early coming into a literary atmosphere. In 1835 he began his serious literary work as an illustrator, but without success, one of his failures being an effort to illustrate works of Dickens. He joined the staff of Punch, and in 1846, his "Book of Snobs" appeared and the next year "Vanity Fair," which made him famous and the fashion, was published, althought at first it seemed a failure, so few copies were sold. Thackery was a novelist of cynicism, and just about at this time there was a reaction against sentiment, which was inevitable. He was happily married, but in a few years his wife's mind gave way, which caused him great sorrow. In his writings he began with burlesque, then caricature, and then ended with novels such as "Henrietta."

Taking up "Vanity Fair," Prof. Perry said that it was a novel of satire, showing Thackery the greatest master of English prose in his day, or in modern times. The characters, the speaker said, are alive and true to life, and the comments on the characters add to the illusion. "Pendennis" was declared to be not so great as "Vanity Fair" but a truer novel, but the latter perhaps expressed Thackery's genius in its freest spontaneity. The two novels mentioned, with "Henry Esmond" and "The Newcomes" are the four novels to which Thackery owes his fellowship with the greatest figures of literature outside the realm of poetry, "Vanity Fair" of course being the best known and most popular of these.

BOOKS FOR BOYS MINISTER'S TOPIC

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews Talking to Mothers Advocates His Library.

GIVES SOME ADVICE

The Plainfield Mothers' Association Decides to Raise Annual Dues to Defray Expense of Schools' Penny Luncheons.

Rev. Franklin K. Mathiews, formerly of Scotch Plains, but now of New York, gave an interesting talk before the Plainfield Mothers' Association at the home of Mrs. William M. Sandford, of East Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, on the subject of "Books for Boys." In these days when there is so much poor literature in circulation for boys, Mr. Mathiews said, it was gratifying to know that in what is known as "Every Boy's Library" is to be found good wholesome reading, the kind that no mother need be afraid to allow her boys to read.

The minister called attention to the fact that there are now being pubished books in the disguise of dime novels, which are intended to give the impression that they are printed under the direction of the Boy Scout organization. He warned against allowing children to read such books, and he urged the importance of parents exercising the greatest care in the selection of reading for their children for it is at that age of life that first impressions are formed and oftentimes prove to be lasting.

During a business meeting held prior to the talk, the association voted to raise the dues from 25 cents to $1 a year, thereby enabling it to carry on more easily the work of providing penny lunches at the public schools and to assist in other children's activities which have been undertaken by the women. As only one woman voted against the increase in dues the association considered the voted practically unanimous.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF FLORIDA COUSIN

Mrs. E. L. Hand is the Hostess at Society Event in Scotch Plains.

An elaborate social event took place in Scotch Plains last night at Meyer's hall, when Mrs. E. L. Hand, of Park avenue, that place, gave a reception in honor of her cousin, Miss Charlotte Hand, of Sanford, Fla. Miss Hand has been visiting the hostess of last night's event for the past three months and is to return home tomorrow.

The hall was elaborately decorated with Yuletide trimmings of red and green. Guests were present from New York, Newark, Westfield, Fanwood, Dunellen and this city. Cards were played and dancing was enjoyed. Mrs. Hand gowned in dark purple charmeuse proved a delightful hostess. Miss Hand wore light blue satin, with a marquisette overdress trimmed with lace and pearls.

R. E. BINNING DIES FOLLOWING RETURN

Pioneer Electrical Engineer Succumbs After Coming From South America.

ONCE PROMINENT HERE

He Turned on First Street Lighting Electricity in Plainfield—Recently Held Responsible Position at Lima, Peru.

Robert E. Binning, for many years a prominent resident of this city and one of the best known electrical engineers in the country, died early this morning at the home of his sister-in-law, Miss Josie Martin, of 26 Chatham street, the borough, following a long illness. He was first stricken with an affection of the lungs at Lima, Peru, ten months ago, returning to Plainfield last October in the hope that a northern specialist might stay the progress of his ailment. He was in Muhlenberg Hospital for a short time and also in New York institutions but without avail continuing to steadily grow worse until the end came at 3:15 a. m. today.

Mr. Binning was a native of Moore Row Cumberlandshire England, where he was born in 1863. He came to this country when a young man, locating in Plainfield in 1880, taking up electrical work in New York city, a trade then in its infancy. He rapidly mastered all branches and when the Plainfield Electric Light Company erected its plant on Madison avenue in 1885, he was made the first engineer, turning on the first electric lights in the city. A few years later Mr. Binning resigned to superintend the construction of Western Union telegraph lines in the West and in 1894 was made superintendent of motive power of the Union Street Railway, New York.

He retained this position until seven years ago when he entered the employ of Grace & Co., the New York electrical contracting firm, and was sent by them to Lima, Peru, to build up the Lima Heat, Light and Power Company. This concern operates Lima's street railway system and lights the city.

The former Plainfielder almost doubled the capacity of the plant and had brought it to a high-water mark of efficiency when his illness began. He was treated by South American specialists until his health compelled him to resign his position and sail for home last September. His wife, who was formerly Miss Emma Martin, of the borough, undertook the journey with him alone and reached Plainfield after a trying ordeal, the Ellis Island officials detaining the invalid for several days in the misbelief that he was a victim of fever.

Mr. Binning was a thirty-second degree Mason and was prominent in New York Masonic circles. He was a member of Gavel Lodge, No. 703, F. and A. M.; Mecca Temple, Mystic Shrine; York Commandery, K. T.; New York Consistory, Scottish Rites, and Ivy Chapter, R. A. M., all of New York.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hiram Perrine, of Newark and formerly of this city, and Mrs. Ellen Lees, of England. A brother, James Binning, and a stepbrother, Walter Gibson, also in England. Andrew Muir, of Grant avenue, is a cousin and Miss Gertrude Gibson, of Jackson avenue, is a niece. The funeral will be held at his late home on Chatham street, Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of a New York delegation of Masons. Burial will be in the Samptown cemetery.

Mrs. Lees, one of the surviving sisters, sailed from England last Saturday in response to a cablegram conveying news of her brother's condition, and is due to arrive in New York tomorrow morning.

LARGEST REALTY DEAL IS MADE IN DUNELLEN

A real estate deal affecting Dunellen property was made yesterday when Willard N. Apgar engineered a sale whereby Frank T. Farrell, of the borough, became the owner of a property in North avenue consisting of five stores and the Free Public Library building, which he purchased from Winfried R. Hetfield. The site is known to Dunellenites as the Hetfield block, as the building was erected by Mr. Hetfield, who is an old resident. Included in the transaction is a lot in the rear of the borough hall, in Prospect avenue. The total consideration is said to be $25,000.

Winfried Hetfield lives at 171 North avenue and he was one of the first inhabitants of the borough to see the advantage of building business property in that section of the borough, which is in the centre of the commercial district of the municipality.

FRANK J. SHATTLE FOUND A RELATIVE

One of Same Name at Poughkeepsie and There Will Be a Reunion.

Entertaining the belief for many years that he was totally without kith or kin outside of his family, Frank J. Shattle, the well known former Democratic leader, was agreeably surprised a few days ago to learn that he has a genuine, all wool and a yard-wide second cousin, living no further away than Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Peculiarly enough, the newly-found relative bears the same name as his Plainfield kinsman, only he holds to a "c" between the "s and h" of his cognomen. This was the way the paternal family spelled their name in Germany, but on the way over a bungling customs house clerk dropped the letter from the local man's predecessors and it never got put back. Another coincidence about the discovery is, that the Vassar college town man conducts a cigar store, a business our Frank J. was in until a short time ago.

The manner in which the Plainfielder came to unearth his relative was quite odd and as follows: Mr. Shattle is now connected with the Bound Brook office of the Public Service electrical department, and in the course of his duties presented his card to a woman who has just moved in from Poughkeepsie.

"Why," she exclaimed, "isn't it funny, we have a man of that very same name in the town we just left? He lived just a few doors from us."

Mr. Shattle was naturally interested and securing an address, immediately wrote to Poughkeepsie. An answer came back by return mail and for several days Uncle Sam's employes were kept busy carrying greetings back and forth, clinching the relationship.

As yet the two men have not seen each other, but Mr. Shattle has ordered a big turkey for Christmas and cousin Frank, Mrs. cousin Frank and all the little cousin Franks are coming down to Plainfield to give this side of the affair the "once over."

The former Democratic standard bearer says that politics, the local postoffice situation and the Mexican question will be tabooed at the gathering and only family affairs will be discussed as Shattle and Schattle will have a mutual admiration party after the big feed.

FOREST AND VICTORSON AT PROCTOR'S NEXT WEEK

Minnie Victorson and Edgar Forrest, featuring the strong dramatic sketch, "The District Attorney's Wife," will play a special engagement at Proctor's theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Miss Victorson will be remembered as the star of "Under Southern Skies," Clyde Fitch's "The Straight Road;" "This Woman and That Man;" "The Squaw Man," and in vaudeville, "The School Teacher," and "The Girl Who Dropped In." Her sketch is based on a story of the same name which appeared in Ainslee's Magazine. The Boston Herald makes the following comment:

"Edgar Forrest and Minnie Victorson do some very clever acting in 'The District Attorney's Wife.' The plot is clever and is handled masterly. The gunman pays a surprise call on the pretty, loyal wife of the district attorney. Thrilling situations come fast, and the action is swift. Real novelties are introduced. The woman, cowering the gunman with a revolver, makes him hold out a glass in his hand. She fires—and the glass broken, falls to the floor. This is an especially good piece of stage work. There is also a 'crook-catching' chair that is novel."

"POP" FREEMAN WILL TALK TO BUSINESS MEN

"Pop" Freeman, the well-known advertising manager of The New York Globe, will be the principal speaker at the dollar dinner to be given by the Plainfield Business Men's Association at the Waldorf Hotel, Monday night.

NEW FIELD FOR DR. H. K. CARROLL

North Plainfielder Will Be Associate Secretary of Federal Council of Churches.

GOES TO WASHINGTON

McKinley's Commissioner to Porto Rico Will Keep in Touch With Congress as the Representative of the Protestant Denominations.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 6.—The Baltimore Sun and other Baltimore dailies announce the unanimous election of Dr. H. K. Carroll, of North Plainfield, as associate secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, with headquarters in Washington. The Sun says the new secretary "enters upon a field of great importance in inter-church work. In the preparation of measures that the Protestant churches of the nation in the future will urge Congress to enact for the betterment of national social and economic conditions, he will play an important part, and he will be expected to keep the organization in touch with the governmental policies of the country, particularly in respect to affairs affecting religious movements.

"Dr. Carroll is now secretary of the Ecumenical Methodist Commission and is a public writer on subjects relating to missionary work, foreign and domestic. That he is considered an authority as well on questions of political economy is proved by the circumstance that he was appointed by President McKinley in 1898 Commissioner to Porto Rico and charged with the responsibility of preparing a system of civil government for the island. His recommendations were adopted almost as a whole by Congress."

Dr. Carroll will soon select and furnish a central office in Washington and will be in that city almost continuously while Congress is in session. He was summoned for next week to co-operate in securing proper legislation for chaplains in the Navy, but was obliged to decline because of pressing engagements in New York.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ, of which Dr. Carroll has been a member for more than a year, includes Baptists, Congregationalists, Disciple of Christ, Friends, Lutherans, Methodists, Moravians, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Reformed, United Brethren and other denominations, thirty in all.

His election, which was unanimous, was by the Executive Committee which met in Baltimore. As an indication of the character of the committee it may be stated that among the members were bishops of six different denominations.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No 15

POPULARITY has made chewing gum dirty. Facts bear this out.

The first crude gum imported into this country was comparatively White and Clean. Chewing Gum caught the popular fancy. The demand grew by leaps and bounds.

There was no time to take care. Then crude gum had to be rushed to market and left to be cleaned afterwards. It began to arrive brown and dirty and still does.

The Crude Gum is all right, it's the dirt that is wrong. People have been content here-to-fore with brown and speckled Chewing Gum, no one told them anything different; it would have been bad business.

That time has passed—a Clean, White Chewing Gum has been made.

It is called MO-JO Gum—and it is the only Clean, White Gum on the market to-day, a revelation of what Purity will do for Chewing Gum. Chewing Gum is no longer the outcast. MO-JO Gum is the Queen of Bon Bons. Take home a package.

Again has a scheduled games between a Parish House basketball team and prospective opponents been cancelled. The girls' five was to journey to Newark on Monday night and play the strong Angora feminine quintet, but for some reason the contest has been put off. A game with this team was arranged once before by Instructor Batterson, but when the time for the game drew near, it was found out that the battle was scredule for the same night that the turkey supper and fair was held. Thus, a cancellation was made necessary. Many games have also fallen through on the boys' team schedule, for various reasons.

STYLE SR RELIABILITY

Words Are Handy Things at Debates and Chatauquas

Homer, after writing three or four volumes of The Illiad, admitted they were quite necessary to his trade—but

If we plunged knee deep into a maze of words in an attempt to describe the Rothberg Winter Clothes we could never convey to you the stunning impression they make upon our clothes-trained sensibilities.

In buying clothing, as in buying real or fancied estate, it is always best to ignore the printed and spoken word and demand tangible, touchable, traceable proof. Recognizing this, and admitting the futility of cold, mute type to do justice to the superiority of our garments for Winter Wear, we extend to you an invitation to pay our shop a "Show Me" visit.

Merely as a guide and a Reassurance, we quote a few prices—and they are reasonable to you and to us.

Suits and Overcoats $10, $12, $15, $18, $20 to $30

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, DECEMBER 6, 1913.

On Saturdays the editorial columns of the Daily Press are conducted by citizens who are free to express their own views. The contributing editor of today is Dr. H. C. Krebs, Superintendent of Schools in Somerset County.

MAKING HEADWAY.

The prophet said many years ago, "My people perish for lack of knowledge." That statement is just as true today as it was in olden times. If we had more knowledge we could combat disease with success, invest our money securely, do our work better, and improve conditions in every respect.

The particular phase that concerns this editorial, however, is in regard to the countless number of boys and girls who never make the most of their lives because of lack of simple information. This may seem startling, and yet it is a fact.

It is a trite observation that much of the finest brain and brawn in our country is found in obscure localities, where there are few facilities for education. Contact with nature, especially the overcoming of natural obstacles, gives to young men and women of such localities a power of initiative and achievement that is the basic elements of success in life.

And yet, for every one who comes into prominence from this source, dozens and scores never advance, simply because they do not know the way. They remain in obscurity, their splendid talents buried, because they do not know how to go about developing them.

It is often said that a person of ability will make a way for himself, opportunity or no opportunity. He will "find a way or make one." I do not believe this statement to be correct. He makes a way if he knows how. Ability does not necessarily bring with it a knowledge of ways and means. Gold does not always disclose itself.

The duty of all interested in boys and girls is to spread information in regard to ways and means of getting an education, or getting some other start in life. How many a person of middle age feels that if he had had such information when a boy it would have been of incalculable value to him, whereas at middle life he cannot avail himself of it.

To be more specific: There are many boys and girls of talent who are children of poor parents, but are deserving of a college education. They have an idea that a college course will cost at least two thousand dollars, and is therefore not for them. The idea of going to college never becomes fixed in their minds because it seems entirely impracticable. Yet nothing is more certain than that every year hundreds graduate from college who have no money and never had except what they earned themselves.

A young man well known in Plainfield lived in an obscure locality in another State, but not far from a normal school. He taught two years, and with the money saved he took a course at the normal. Then he taught several years more, saved $800, and went to college. When he graduated after four years he came out with $1,200. He had actually made money while taking his course. How? He tutored the first year or two, and then conducted a boarding hall for students. Of course, he also earned what he could during the summer.

Another young man who was a telegrapher desired to become a physician. He saved some money, then entered on his course, and by working at his key during each summer was able to maintain himself. He graduated in due course and is now a successful practising physician.

Another young man in rural Somerset county was apprenticed as a carpenter at fourteen. He studied during spare moments, passed the teachers' examination at eighteen, taught several years, studied law meanwhile, then entered a law office where he could make enough by clerical work to support himself, was admitted to the bar, and is now a judge of one of the higher courts in this State.

Another, who lived on a farm in the mountains in Somerset county, raised money by selling honey, and in various other ways. Without any other means of support he worked his way through Rutgers College, and on graduation was made a college professor in Kansas.

Examples like these could be multiplied to show that when once these young men saw the way, they passed steadily onward, and reached the goal.

What of young ladies? At once the life of Alice Freeman Palmer presents itself. By teaching and tutoring in addition to her college work she graduated from the University of Michigan and began her glorious career.

There are hospitals in which young women can earn their support until they complete a course of training and become graduate nurses. Evening courses in Y. W. C. A. classes and in business colleges are possible for young women. Female as well as male colleges maintain bureaus for helping students to earn money.

A young lady, who had three brothers, saw them all sent through college by her father, who declined to give her any money for an education, as he did not believe in educating girls. Thereupon she began the business of selling subscriptions for the Ladies' Home Journal and other magazines, went to college, and maintained herself by continuing this work. Thus she had the satisfaction of getting her education entirely through her own efforts; while her business experience was of much additional value in her work after graduation. Now she is head and shoulders above the brothers whom her father educated.

The several examples above given show what has been done. They point the way to others. Their lives are a call to the obscure to come forward and take the places to which their talents entitle them.

It is probable that as many students go through college on money advanced to them by relatives or friends as work their own way. Some earn what they can, and their friends supplement as may be necessary. In one family, as each girl graduated at college she turned in to assist the younger sisters and brothers until all had graduated.

Of course this method is not easy. It means effort, sacrifice, self-denial. But it brings out the man and the woman. It deepens the sympathies. It develops courage and perseverance. The course of training fits for great things. It makes life a good fight. There is a joy in the struggle. The reward is the satisfaction of achievement. The result is a life of extensive usefulness and service.

Let no young man or young woman say, "There is no way for me!" Of course, it may be yours to stay at home and illustrate in your life the domestic virtues. But if you have the talents that make education worth while, there is a way. Consult with your teachers, your pastor, or other people of education. They can show you a way toward the realization of your ambition. Then you must furnish the grit, and it is done.

DR. DEMAREST ON ONE'S OBLIGATION

President Demarest, of Rutgers College, Speaks to Warren Chapel Men.

DUTIES TO FELLOWMEN

College Head Tells What is Expected of Man of the Twentieth Century and What He Owes to Others.

Dr. W. H. S. Demerest, president of Rutgers College, addressed an interested audience of members and friends of the Men's Association of Warren chapel in the rooms of the edifice last night telling of man's place on this earth and of what is expected of him by the Almighty and by his fellow men.

"We begin in our earliest years the making of our manhood," said the speaker. "If we take a right view we are not selfish and we should think of the developing of other manhood besides our own. In seeking to help others we are solving the problems of our own life. Our manhood is the solving of world-wide problems and there is a wonder in the dignity of our manhood, the mastery tasks. There is a certain humility which goes to make up manhood as we are not all Gods and none of us are perfect.

"Many trivial troubles are brought to our minds because we are not grown up in the need of self manhood. Think of virility of manhood, a certain courage toward the world that is the beginning point in the overcoming of certain obstacles that present themself in every walk of life. We are not fit to be called men unless we are able to overcome difficulties and make the world our servant. You can serve God with mannon but you canot serve God and mannon.

"The man who takes the best in the world and makes a servant out of himself is serving God. True manhood is the man who recognizes not only his own liberty but the rights of others. The man who wants to do wrong and whips his conscience into doing good has perhaps the greatest manhood of all. Things called upon by the twentieth century manhood are character, efficiency, and service. Every man with God-given talents must give himself the service of his fellow men. There is a broad field and every man can find a place for himself somewhere. The church is the great institution of God and the instrumentality through which our manhood can work its achievements. If we are true men we are churchmen."

—There's not a dull, nor an unimportant ad in today's paper. There's not one that may safely be overlooked by any great number of the paper's readers.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.—Adv.

We Read This Very Graphic Sentence in a Book the Other Evening:
"He Goes to the Piano As If It Were An Altar"

And it expressed the feelings aroused within us when we sit down at

The SCHOMACHER PIANO

"As he sits down he changes somehow. His face, his figure, the whole man changes. It's a thing one can never forget. He doesn't know himself. He couldn't do it if he tried. He goes to the piano as if it were an altar."

You can understand this.

It is a pastel from life; the real life that pulsates underneath the veneer of our intensely practical age.

If you haven't experienced the feeling it expresses, is it not because you have not trained your hands to produce the music you would like to hear, or because perhaps and because—the piano in your home has not been built as an altar should be built?

The ANGELUS

—greatest of piano-players—removes the first impediment—lack of musical training; gives you the power of the finished pianist; makes you a master of music. It enables anyone to play any music that was ever written as correctly as one who has spent years in patient practice.

The second impediment can be removed only by the purchase of a good instrument built with infinite care and patience; one in which the woods are sound, strings properly tempered, felts of fine quality, key and hammer adjusted to produce the right harmonic quality, sounding board built and arched to give the right resonance.

If all pianos and player-pianos were built to produce and to continue to produce good music, there would be no need of warning people to exercise judgment in the selection of a piano or player-piano.

The first SCHOMACHER piano was built in 1836.

The building of Schomacher pianos has gone on continuously, in increasing numbers, with greater knowledge measuring up to a higher and higher standard, ever since.

There has been no resting on laurels won, no trading on a fine reputation.

The time is better today than it ever was.

The life of the tone is longer.

And the building of the ANGELUS in the Schomacher piano makes it possible for any man or woman to raise in the home, for everyone in the home, an altar of music, so that any woman may say of her husband, any mother of her son—

"As he sits down at the Schomacher-Angelus he changes somehow. It's a thing one can never forget. He doesn't know himself. He couldn't do it if he tried. He goes to the piano as if it were an altar."

39 styles of pianos, 19 of player-pianos, are here for Christmas choosing.

Prices, $220 to $1,650; payable in small monthly payments, if desired.

NOW is the time to make selections; delivery will be made when wished.

ONLY ROUTINE BEFORE THE BOROUGH COUNCIL

Minor Matters Take up the Time of North Plainfield's Fathers' Meeting.

Through Councilman Julius Stahl, William Wilson, of the borough, applied to the North Plainfield Council last night for a certificate to show that he is an exempt fireman. He served for over seven years in the volunteer fire department, previous to 1901, but he never secured exemption papers, although he receives the benefits of an exempt fireman. Mayor Iark requested that the secretary of the Exempt Firemen's Association be present at the next meeting of the Council on Monday, Dec. 22, with the data showing that Wilson had served the proper length of time, when the Council will recommend by resolution that the applicant be given his exempt papers.

The other business coming before the Conncil was largely routine. Overseer-of-the-Poor Fred Becker was granted an appropriation of $150 for his department and $100 was authorized to be spent for the auditing of the borough's accounts by an expert accountant. A communication from Herr's Business College inviting the Mayor and Council to attend the annual commencement exercises of the institution to be held Wednesday night, Dec. 17, at The Plainfield Theatre, was read, and it was decided that all those who wish to attend this event, should correspond with the school authorities, and as per the invitation, box seats will be reserved for them. Recorder Gano's report showed that during the month of November, seventeen arrests had been made and $23 in fines had been collected.

The Street Committee reported that its expenditures had been $655.90, the Police Department fixed its expenditures as $459.12. The latter amount includes the expense of repairing the roof and stairway of the poor house in the rear of the police station. The expenses of the fire and water departments as reported by that committee were $331.27 for the month of November. The clerk was authorized to borrow $2,500 by note to pay curren expenses. No bids were received for the lighting contract and the matter was deferred untill the next meeting.

Mayor Clark appointed a commission composed of Councilman Van Arsdale, W. G. Debele and Freeholder George Kirch, to make the assessments on the macadamizing of Watchung avenue, between Codington avenue and the upper bridge.

The following building permits were issued: Charles L. Force, addition to house at Regent street and Watchung avenue; Frank Krewson, house at Regent street and Watchung avenue; William Mowrey, barn in Jefferson avenue; James D. Hampden, addition to house, at 88 Manning avenue; Julius Stahl, addition to garage in Grandview avenue.

Jessie Keller & Co., will appear in an act known as "The Venus on Wheels." Miss Keller is regarded as one of the most perfectly formed women on the stage, and is assisted by Tommy Weir, America's sweet contra-tenor. The St. Julians, head-to-head balancers; Pearl and Irene Sans, "The Fashion Plate Girls," a novel singing act with special scenery, and George Smedley, the famous banjoist, completes the big bill.

GREEN GETS 3 MONTHS.

Elizabeth, Dec. 6.—Joseph Green, of Plainfield, convicted Friday in the Court of Quarter Sessions of breaking, entering and stealing in the store of A. M. Griffin & Co., was sentenced yesterday by Judge James C. Connolly to three months in the county jail. William Kettering, of Plainfield, pleaded not guilty to a serious charge.

NEW YORK AMUSEMENTS

One of the best plays now being exploited on Broadway is George M. Cohan's mystery farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which has unlocked the floodgates of fun at the Astor Theatre. One of the fundamental rules laid down to playwrights is the necessity of taking an audience into ones confidence. Mr. Cohan, who is a rule unto himself, violates this tradition more than once in his clever dramatization of Earl Derr Bigger's story, yet so cleverly is his play put together, so dextrous is his handling of his technique, that his bold departure from conventional lines is gloriously and hilariously vindicated.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" is shot with thrills and punctuated with laughter, and its success at the Astor presages a long stay at that playhouse.

Edgar Selwyn's very funny farce, "Nearly Married," continues to hold the hilarious attention of Gaiety Theatre audiences who follow the exciting experiences of the eloping married couple, and the vicissitudes that beset them in their efforts to dodge the vigilance of a meddlesome lawyer and a coterie of solicitous friends who sense a social upheaval in the extraordinary situation, which is ultimately straightened out, though not before the runaway pair have been chased in motor cars over the better part of three States. "Nearly Married" is good fun, accentuated by good acting at the hands of Bruce McRae, Jane Grey and their associate players.

Being the most centrally located vaudeville theatre in town, Proctor's Fifth Avenue, for the next few weeks will be the recognized headquarters of early Christmas shoppers, Spugs, baseball fans and six-day race fiends. A bill of cosmopolitan character has been secured with none other than dainty Lillian Lorraine as the headliner. Miss Lorraine will originate three songs destined to become popular and she also promises several stunning gowns. Rube Marquard and Blossom Seeley, just returned from a short jaunt on the road and will revive baseball memories with "The Suffragette Pitcher," while Maud Hall Macy and David Higgins will strike a serious note with that gripping underworld playlet, "The Gray of the Dawn." More baseball will be served when Charley Dooin and James McCool appear in "Baseball in Ireland," and Captain Anson delivers his Geo. M. Cohan monologue, while Clark and Verdi, Italian comics, and Van and Schenck, international favorites, will render good service in a good cause. A winning quartette of standard acts will be offered in the scheduling of Elida Morris, comedienne; Robins, humorous imitator of musical instruments; Carl Grees, lightning oil painter.

Laurette Taylor will play her 400th consecutive performance of title role in Oliver Morosco's production of J. Hartley Manners' tremendously successful comedy, "Peg O' My Heart," at the matinee today at the Cort Theatre. Since the play began its remarkable record-breaking run on Dec. 20, 1912, Miss Taylor has not failed to appear at every performance in her delightful character of Peg. At present business is greater than at any time during the height of the run last season, and there is no doubt the play will remain the attraction at Mr. Cort's beautiful playhouse in West 48th street well into the coming summer.

"The Marriage Game," John Cort's production of Anne Crawford Flexner's comedy, will enter upon the seventh week of its engagement at the Comedy Theatre on Monday night with the original cast, including Alexandra Carlisle, Orrin Johnson, Vivian Martin, Charles Tro-

"IN A BAD WAY."

Many a Plainfield Reader Will Feel Grateful For This Information.

If your back gives out;
Becomes lame, weak or aching;
If urinary troubles set in,
Perhaps your kidneys are "in a bad way."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys.

Local evidence proves their merit.

A. K. Mattis, 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I gave Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement five years ago after receiving a cure through their use and today I confirm all I then said in their favor. The cure has been permanent. I was troubled for years by a dull backache and pains in my head. I believe that it was due to a great measure to a bad fall I had. Nothing seemed to help me and when I read of the good work Doan's Kidney Pills were doing in similar cases, I got a supply at Randolph's drug store. They drove away the aches and pains and my experience gave proof of their merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.—Adv.

THE PLAINFIELD THEATRE

No Sunday performances are given of "Bunty Pulls the Strings," the wonderfully successful comedy, which is to be seen at The Plainfield Theatre, this afternoon and evening. The Scotch players who appear in "Bunty Pulls the Strings" have made an appeal to Messrs. Shubert and William A Brady, their managers, to give no Sunday performances because such playing conflicted with their religious training. This is the first time in the history of the stage that any company not including a star in a modern play has decided to give no performance on Sunday under any circumstances. Since two-thirds of "Bunty Pulls the Strings" deals with the doings in a small Scottish community in 1860, it is appropriate and fitting that the players appearing therein should in their own lives exemplify the sentiments they speak. The agreement that bars Sunday performances applies to rehearsals as well, thus satisfying the demands of the most Puritanical Covenanter.

4 O'CLOCK TEA ON TRAIN.

Four o'clock tea with the compliments of the railroad is the latest fad in travel luxury. It is being served by the Lehigh Valley Railroad as a drawing card for its Black Diamond Express between New York and Buffalo and has caused a good deal of comment of the kind that railroads like. Its most desirable quality is that it breaks the monotony of the afternoon, and, bromidic as it may sound, tea does cheer. The Lehigh Valley's tea probably cheers more than ordinary kinds because it does not cost anything. For there is no doubt but that things taste better when you don't have to pay for them.

IF BACKACHY OR KIDNEYS BOTHER

Eat Less Meat Also Take Glass of Salts Before Eating Breakfast.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.—Adv.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 37.

SAYS "Agricultrual Advertising," referring to the axiom, "Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls," credited to John Wanamaker and published many times:

"Too many people enter Advertising for the first time with their feet braced to witness a miracle.

"There is no sudden, wild, spectacular onrush of business. And the disappointed experimenter curses Advertising and loads a shotgun for the next solicitor who calls.

"The business man who undertakes an important campaign of publicity should make a wise and carefully planned investment. It is an investment in public good will, not one that will take his breath away by its remarkable performances overnight, but one that will grow in influence and results, gradually, logically, until in good time it proves its lasting profit-earning power."

The man who is taking his first "plunge" into advertising's possibilities is the man who needs to realize the limitations of the power he has credited with magic.

Advertising isn't magic. It isn't a panacea for all the ills to which business is heir. It IS a force for upbuilding—a steady, strength-accumulating power which, rightly and persistently used, works silently and faithfully for the interests of the advertiser.

Refurbishing Last Year's Doll.

In almost every household where there is a small daughter there is some last year's doll that needs refurbishing.

If the doll is broken, of course she can be repaired at some reliable dolls' hospital. Separate heads can be bought in the toy stores to put on decapitated dolls and these can be adjusted at home, often.

New Clothes.

Usually the trouble with old dolls can be remedied if they are given a new wardrobe. Sometimes, of course, they need new wigs, and these are easily adjusted. But the new wardrobe is the most usual gift to the old dolls.

One of the big pattern companies, with Christmas in view, no doubt, has recently issued a new set of dolls patterns. One pattern is for a bath robe, which can be made from a little blanket cloth, some displaying rabbits or kittens or chickens, perhaps. Another pattern shows a dress in the latest cut and style. Other patterns can be bought for cutting all the doll's wardrobe.

Doll patterns are sold according to the height of the dolls for which the patterns are used. A perfect doll figure is not so unusual as a perfect human figure, but occasionally a doll is found which the patterns do not fit. It is best to cut the pattern first in cheap white muslin, baste it up, sew it on, make any corrections necessary, and then correct the paper pattern from the ripped cotton one.

Easy Patterns.

The kimono sleeve is a boon in dolldom. Sleeves always are the hardest part of a doll's dress, if they are put in separately. But when sleeves and body are cut in one the difficulty disappears. So if you are making clothes for the doll without a pattern, be sure to cut the dresses with sleeves in one with the rest.

If you have many dolls to dress—for a charity Christmas tree, for instance—there is no more easier and attractive way to do it than this: Cut circles of pretty, flowered cotton goods, with a diameter that measures twice the distance from the dolls neck to the floor. Cut a circle for the neck, and a slash down for a back closing. Cut two other circles for the armholes. Turn a hem all around the bottom to make the dress the proper length. Then put a little frill of lace about the neck and a frill of wider lace or of the material about the armholes. A slash, or a strip of beading through which ribbon is run, about the waist, finishes this simple but effective dress.

Sometimes last year's doll needs little more than laundering. Her small clothes can be most easily ironed with a toy flatiron, which might be purchased as a part of this year's gifts. If an old doll is freshly dressed in newly washed clothes, she might be made more attractive by the addition of some new piece of apparel. A little flannel or eiderdown cape, with hood attached, can be easily made. A muff and cap of velvet is attractive. A small silk handbag, containing a tiny fan bought from a Japanese dealer at the rate of two fans for five cents might be her gift.

Some Cookery Suggestions

ENDIVE SALADS.

THE endive supplies one of the most satisfactory salad greens, though in many households it is not used as much as it might be.

Endive Salad.—Wash and cut fine one-half head fresh endive, let lay in cold water one-half hour. Drain and pour over it French dressing made as follows:

With French Dressing.

Mix one teaspoonful salt, one-quarter teaspoonful white pepper, dash of paprika and one tablespoonful vinegar together, add two tablespoonfuls olive oil slowly, beating all the time.

Endive and Tomato Salad.—Separate the endive like celery stalks; lay in ice water half an hour and wipe dry. Peel some small tomatoes and cut into sections like oranges. Put the endive on a cold dish with a little lettuce beneath it and arrange the tomatoes at the sides. Cover with French dressing.

Novel Combinations.

Endive and Potato Salad.—Cut boiled potatoes in dice while warm and dress them with a little oil and flavored vinegar, a few drops of anchovy essence and a dash of cayenne, with a very little salt. Put them in a cold place for awhile. Place a head of endive in a plate or bowl, then put a row of chopped beet root between it and the potatoes. Sprinkle over the latter a small onion finely chopped and some parsley and thyme.

Endive and Grapefruit Salad.—Take grapefruit cut in halves and remove the pulp with a spoon, being careful not to break the carpels more than necessary. Mix with French dressing. Arrange in a bowl with a border of endive. Garnish with small green lettuce leaves. If desired the endive may be cut in pieces and mixed with the grapefruit.

A German Viand.

German Endive Salad.—Take a head of endive, two tablespoonfuls each of vinegar and finely cut bacon or ham fat, a teaspoonful of onion juice, a half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Take the outer or green part of the endive salad and cut into half inch pieces, put into cold water about an hour. Put the bacon into a frying pan, cook very slowly and add the onion juice. When the bacon has cooked add the vinegar, salt and pepper and two tablespoonfuls of water. Boil three minutes. Drain the endive, add the vinegar, mix well and serve.

Such Wonderfully Big Apples to Nibble At.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Christmas With The Chipmunks And Squirrels.

"DON'T the little squirrels have any Chistmas?" asked Evelyn as daddy walked into the room, ready to tell his story.

"Oh, yes, indeed!" replied daddy.

"Do tell us about it, then!" said Jack. And daddy began:

"Well, you know all the autumn the squirrels are preparing for Christmas. They gather in all the nuts they can and hide them in the trunks of trees, and they steal a great many apples to put away, too, for the Christmas feast.

"When Christmas day comes all the little chipmunks and squirrels meet near the largest tree, which they pick out for the occasion. Then there is a wild scramble up the tree for the branches, where the chipmunks and squirrels perch themselves, and finally the feast begins.

"After they have finished their scrumptious Christmas dinner they play 'tag,' 'hide and seek' and many other games, which make the branches wave around as they jump from one tree to the other. Prizes are offered by the older squirrels for the sports and games which are played. The prizes are usually extraordinarily big nuts or very red apples. Sometimes, too, kind children just before Christmas put nuts in the tree where the squirrels can find them. That makes the squirrels very happy.

"One Christmas they decided they would have a skating party, for they adore sliding across the smooth ice. They had all kinds of races. It had not been cold enough weather to freeze the ice very thick, and when a race was started between Father Squirrel and old Billy Chipmunk, Billy in trying to show off got too near the thin ice, and in he went.

"The squirrels were much pleased about it, for they really didn't care especially for the chipmunks, but Mother Chipmunk and little chipmunks jumped around and squeaked and pulled their ears in such distress that Father Squirrel turned around and told Billy Chipmunk to catch hold of his tail. So he saved him, but poor old Billy was almost frozen, and they built a little fire on the shore. There he toasted his feet and slowly felt better as he began to thaw out a little. Oh, how good the warmth of the fire did feel to him after the awful cold of the icy water, and he held his half frozen bushy tail before the fire, too, as he was very proud of his tail and wanted to be sure that it would regain its former splendor. Old Billy inwardly vowed that he never again would try to show off on the ice, as his lesson was a severe one, and he did so hate to appear foolish.

"After a little while they put him in one of their sleighs and took him back to the big tree where they had their Christmas dinner, and all ended merrily."

ANTI-SUFFRAGE

Conducted by Plainfield Branch New Jersey Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage.

"An encouraging sign of the times is the organization at Buffalo of a Catholic Women's League which proposes to counteract the radical tendencies of the feminist movement, including the demand for the ballot. The league was organized at the annual convention of the German Roman Catholic Central Verein, and branches will be formed in all parts of the country. Mrs. Joseph Frey, the honorary president of the league, in explaining the purposes of the new organization, very truthfully says: 'The feminist movement is being promoted by women whose views are decidedly pagan. If their demands were to be realized, the Christian family would cease to exist and woman's condition would lapse into pagan ism.'"

From the current issue of "The Remonstrance," published by the Massachusetts Association Opposed to the Further Exetension of Suffrage to Women.

Since the Roman Catholic Church as a body has made no official announcement regarding Equal Suffrage, every such move on the part of associations and individuals belonging to it is deeply gratifying.

Interviews thus far with individual priests and prelates, among them some of undoubtedly prominence have resulted in opinions entirely in accordance with those of the Antis.

After suffrage was granted to women in California in 1911, Archbishop Reardon, of San Francisco, addressed to the women of his church an open letter, through the columns of his paper, The Monitor.

In it he pointed out, that since this new responsibility had been put upon each woman of the State—with or without her will—it was the duty of every good conscientious woman to vote, as it was entirely certain that others less scrupulous would surely do so.

He then urged all to give careful, thoughtful consideration to each issue and each candidate, and according to her best judgment cast her ballot for purity, social order, charity, temperance and the home.

This was misconstrued in some quarters, as a declaration in favor of the enfranchisement of women in California.

As a matter of fact it was no more than the frequently declared principles of the strongest Antis; that in Suffrage States, it is the duty of every thinking woman to vote, whether opposed to the obligation to do so, or not.

The following extracts from a letter of Cardinal Gibbons, read at a mass meeting in Baltimore, last spring, speak plainly the personal opinions of that eminent man.

"Equal rights do not imply that both sexes should engage promiscuously in the same pursuits, but rather that each sex should discharge those duties which are adapted to its physical constitution and are sanctioned by the canons of society.

"When I deprecate female suffrage I am pleading for the dignity of women. I am contending for her honor. I am striving to perpetuate those peerless prerogatives inherent in sex, those charges and graces which exalt womankind and make her the ornament and the coveted companion of man.

"We must remember that though woman does not personally vote, she exercises the right of suffrage by proxy. So powerful is the influence which a sensible matron exerts over her husband and sons they will rarely fail to follow her counsel, which comes from inspired rather than labored reasoning.

"The Christian religion has exalted woman to her present sphere. She is no longer the slave of man or the toy of his caprice, but the equal, the peer of man. She is the queen of the domestic kingdom, and her proper sphere is in the home. She is justly honored everywhere by reason of her sex.

"Now if she were to enter political life, it is much to be feared that her dignity would be impaired, if, not jeopardized. As soon as women seek to enter politics, they may expect to be soiled by its dust, and the grace and charm inherent in women would be seriously impaired by her rude contact and contention with men in political life.

"Woman, as wife and mother, will have ample occasion to engage all her time and faculties. The wife who absents herself from her home habitually, inevitably neglects her children and causes her husband to suffer because of her absence.

"The country has enough voters. Although women may now exercise suffrage, the finest among them are voting by proxy. Their power is incalculable. We cannot exaggerate the influence of a good woman on the men of her circle.

"We read that Themistocles was on one occasion approached by his son, who asked a considerable favor. 'I cannot grant what you ask,' said the great general, 'you must go to your mother. It is true that Greece rules the world, that Athens rules Greece, that I rule Athens, but, my son, your mother rules me.'

"Since it is beyond dispute that the most representative women are getting what they want indirectly, I believe that society cannot afford to risk the safety of the family and the destruction of the home. What would be the value of our national life of votes obtained by the rag-time tactics that disgrace the name of womanhood?"

Bishop McFaul, of Trenton, is another prominent prelate whose expressions of disapproval of Woman Suffrage are unqualified.

Among priests and laymen of the Catholic church there is almost universal opposition to woman entering the arena of politics.

Through its powerful, unwavering opposition to, and warfare upon Socialism, the Roman Catholic church is fighting a large section of the suffrage party. This, because every Socialist—like every Morman—is a Suffragist. Understand that is not asserting that every Suffragist is a Socialist.

A woman who declares, "I gave without remuneration over a year of my life, working for Suffrage," states: "In the beginning I declared that Suffrage was not only unsatisfactory but disastrous. Several times already I have mentioned socialism in connection with this subject. The gravest, most awful thing that the home, the church, the nation must confront in giving the ballot to women is socialism. Woman Suffrage is one of the most clever suggestions of modern socialism. It is the Socialist's most important tenet. Round it and through it they work all the clever schemes of their most cruel propaganda. It is the principle that they rely on mostly for success. Over and over again I have heard them tell it. To begin with, the Socialist tells us that socialism is evolution and bound to come. They merely make the assertion. They are clever enough to know that all a lot of people need these days is suggestion."

And again, "for over half a century modern Socialists have been working insidiously, holding their councils, and changing their tactics from time to time. They recognized the impulsiveness of woman and bank on this attribute. They have planked their platform with measures that appear to have the good of humanity for their aim. Go to their meetings and you will learn that the humanitarian measures are used as a means to an end—a bait to attract the woman. Alexander Irvine, a prominent Socialist speaker, said, 'If we Socialists only sit still long enough, the fool woman's clubs will bring us all we ask.'"

And, "women of the Socialist party are always on deck, but the majority of the other vote require urging."

She also declares, "right here permit me to say that I have come across the country to speak to you without the knowledge or sanction of any club or any individual. No one sends me; no one organization pays my way. I have come because I feel I was in a measure instrumental in bringing Suffrage in California, and I want to tell you that if I had it to do over again I would work twice as hard, if that were possible, against it."

Socialists and Suffragists openly avow alliance now though formerly the latter were not eager to do so.

I repeat that in its fight against Socialism the Church is fighting a large section of Suffragists, and add that in telling its women to vote for "charity, social order, temperance, purity and home" it again makes a hard thrust at the propaganda of the Suffragists because:

1st. They urge the use of the following pledge on all their sympathizers: "Until women are enfranchised, efforts to ameliorate social conditions can be at best but crippled. Therefore, I have decided to give such time and money as I can spare to those causes only that will bring about the political freedom of women."

2nd. Because they strike at the very foundation of social order, when preaching that "accepting support from her husband constitutes a woman a bond-woman" and urges upon every woman, "individual maintenance, independent of any man."

3rd. Because in the Suffrage States they refuse their votes to Prohibition, declaring themselves "unwilling to waste them on a losing cause."

4th. Because their whole work is carried on with an appalling display of vice to mixed audiences, old and young of bold sexes.

5th. Because in all their preaching there is no work they treat with such derision as "home" except mother."

IN THE SPORTING SPOTLIGHT

"MAC" SAYS

Have you joined the "Spugs?" Before you do contribute your share to "Doc" Doyle for the renaming of the Holy Cross football team.

Football, like baseball, shifts to the sporting pages when the ground freezes up. The opening gridiron match of the hot stove league is being waged between combatants by the name of Marsh and Little. Just a little marshy, that's all.

Despite the fact baseball is generally conceded to be America's national pastime, reports turned in by the treasurer of the Yale University athletic association do not indicate that those connected with Eli football during the past season will die of starvation during the summer months. They are evidently developing Johnny McGraws and Connie Macks in collegiate football nowadays.

What does football do for the college students? asks a fair correspondent. It thoroughly fits him for the hospital but aside from that the benefits are unknown to us.

Here's to "Doc" Doyle, may his troubles be few and his life full of shekels and sunshine. The genial Holy Cross manager has the irksome task of getting married within sixty days on his hands or he will lose an opportunity to increase his bank account by $257.38, which his clubmates have wiled to him upon that condition.

Even Plainfield football magnates will be able to keep the wolf from the door with the earnings of the past two months.

Wanted—A wife. Apply to "Doc" Doyle.

Jack Payne is instructing a quintet of young "boxers" in the art of hitting the other fellow without getting him mad. Howdyamean, Jack?

Some have entertained the suspicion that Payne is conditioning a bunch of huskies to aid Wilson in spanking Huerta.

This habit a number of promising young athletes of Plainfield and North Plainfield have acquired during the past couple of weeks of being visible on public thoroughfares in the wee small hours of the morning when the figures on the clock's face are beginning to wax into number of a respectable size has got to stop or certain organizations will be ruined. Don't let us catch you roaming the city streets again. Have curfew or we will inform the coach, Old Top.

Laing, a new member of the Plainfield Elks' bowling team, says there are several things worse than being a pin-knight. But the only thing we can think of that eclipses being a Mexican is to be a bowler who topples over 103 wooden images in one game.

We might find a football eleven by the name of "Crotty Horse" claiming the State championship in the name of our fair city next season if certain plans materialize. What's in a name, again we demand of you?

That "Holy Cross Follower" is evidently convinced. Experience is the best teacher and silence is generally taken as an admission.

Let's hope those two teams scheduled to peform at Scotch Plains tonight will put in their appearance. At least two teams in six ought to have courage enough to tackle the 'Plainers.

A delegation from the town where they "manufacture our laws" is scheduled to play in the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium tonight against the Plainfield basketball players. Trenton is noted for the calibre of basketball performers it turns out and the local court men will have to travel the limit in order to keep in the running tonight.

TRENTON Y. M. C. A. BASKETBALL TEAM WILL PLAY HERE TONIGHT

A quintet of huskies from the State Capitol will invade the Queen City tonight to represent the Trenton Y. M. C. A. in a court battle with the Plainfield Association five, this being the first meeting of these two old time rivals in five years. It is a singular coincidence that not a single player in the local lineup has ever represented Plainfield in a match with the Trentonians, most of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. players have been too young to think of tackling players of this calibre when the last contest was played with the Capitol City crew. In the days when George L. Listman piloted the destinies of the Plainfield team the Trenton five was always one of the feature attractions on the season's program of games and whenever the Capitol City quintet came to Plainfield the contest became a matter of intense interest to the court fans.

Despite the fact that it has been announced that the Plainfielders will have the same lineup to start the game as defeated New York University and played in the contest of last Saturday night, a well founded rumor has been unearthed which indicates that "Cutey" Glover, the big guard of the local team, will be back in the game following a two weeks' layoff necessitated by an operation. There will be no preliminary bill tonight, this feature having been eliminated because of the lack of interest awakened in these contests.

The teams will lineup as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	TRENTON.
Moulton	Day
Forward.
McNamee	Lavan
Forward.
Gavett	Dolton
Center.
Brynairski	Moran, Fox
Guard.
Farmer	Lutz
Guard.

Referee—Lidgate.

FIRST P. H. S. GAME.

In the Hope Chapel "gym" tonight the basketball candidates for the Plainfield High School quintet will be given their first practice against an opposing team, the Hope Chapel five furnishing the necessary opposition on this occasion. A large squad of candidates has been selected to appear on the Hope court by Coach Ralph Patch and a good contest will probably be the result.

GAMES AT SCOTCH PLAINS.

Two contests are programmed for the Scotch Plains Parish House court tonight, the first team lining up against the North Plainfield High School aggregation and the second squad playing the Westfield Cubs.

ALUMNI LINEUP FOR P. H. S. GIRLS' TEAM

Old Stars Will Return to Battle Against Undergraduate Quintet.

Following their annual custom the graduate basketball players of the Plainfield High School and the undergraduate team will meet in their yearly clash on the Plainfield High School court next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The Alumni aggregation is an unusually strong one this year and the schoolgirls will have to play some excellent basketball in order to come out on top.

Included in the graduate lineup are Miss Jessie Stewart, formerly a captain in P. H. S., and Miss Ruth Douglas, Miss Helen Brynairski, Miss Elsie Rodenbaugh, Miss Marion Wean and Miss Alice Mehl, of last year's quintet.

The teams will lineup as follows:

NEW ALLEYS OPENED WITH TWO VICTORIES

Plainfield Pin-knights Managed to Take Rubber Game by Margin of Three Pins.

Bowling their first league series on the newly installed alleys in their new home here last night, the Plainfield representatives in the Elks' Bowling League hung up two creditable wins at the expense of the New Brunswick aggregation, their guests at the inaugural ceremonies. Good pinning featured the evening's work and both teams voted the alleys a quartet of the best in the league circuit.

The entire series was an unusually interesting one and the cohorts of both teams were treated to some excellen pinning during the three games rolled. New Brunswick started off with a big splash and before the locals woke up had accumulated 881 pins which was enough to trim the Queen Cityites by a margin of forty-two pins. Plainfield came into its own in the second encounter and evened up matters by hanging up a taly card of 933 and the visitors finished forty-seven pins to the bad. With a lead of seven pins over their visiting rivals for the evening the Plainfielders opened the third contest determined to trim the visitors in the initial program on the new alleys and after much see-sawing during which some excellent pinning was shown, managed to take the game by a trio of pins, the score recorded being 904 to 901.

Captain Blatz was the shining light for Plainfield spilling over 209 of the wooden images in the second game while Kiely knocked down 208 in the same game. Greenwald was high man for New Brunswick with 207 and Burton came in for second laurels with 203. In the initial game Chauncey Stout was the victim of an unshakable jix which was responsible for the exceedingly low score he turned in. The mark of 132 was established following six splits in ten frames, a condition that seldom confronts the pin-knight.

The scores:

NEW BRUNSWICK.
Greenwald	162	207	181
Harkins	169	175	153

FIREPROOF GARAGE.

A permit for a cement hollow brick building was granted to S. H. Schwartz, of 1126 West Front street, by the building inspector, so that he could erect a garage on the rear of the property occupied by his residence. The building will have a frontage of 16 feet and will be 18 feet deep. The construction will be of such material that the building will be absolutely fire-proof. The floor will be of concrete, the walls of cement bricks and the roof will be covered with an asbestos mat roofing. The erection of the building will cost the owner about $1,250.

CAPTAIN HENRY CLAUSS TOOK BIG DROP IN ELKS' LEAGUE AVERAGES

Many changes took place during the past week in the individual averages of the Elks' League pinners and some notable spills have been recorded that have boosted some and lowered others in the high average race. Henry Clauss, the Elizabeth captain, who has been the leader of the herd for several weeks, took a big drop during the week, sinking to sixth place with a mark of 184.16 against his record of 192.12 last week. Delehanty, who is still several games shy of the average mark, has bowled 193.2 in nine contests and once more holds down the top rung with Corydon, of Jersey City, second, and Starr, of New York, third.

Charley Starr, of the Gothem five, jumped from eighth to third place, and Corydon came up from fourth division. Captain Blatz still leads the Queen City wood-splitters with a mark of 180 in eighteenth place having risen from twenty-second during the week. Kiely is the runner-up for Plainfield with Campbell third and Nash fourth.

In the team standing Jersey City is pressing Newark hard for first place honors and Paterson has been relegated to the third berth. Plainfield has come up to eighth position from a stand in the ninth hole and Orange is still playing the role of cellar digger.

NEWS OF INTEREST IN THE PLAINFIELD BUILDING WORLD

HANDSOME NEW BUSINESS HOUSE

Smalley-VanArsdale Building to Be Most Modern of Kind In The City.

ALL TILE BUTCHER SHOP

Store with Attractive Finish and Bachelor Apartments Will Also Be in Building—Outside Construction Unique Locally.

The work on the $21,000 Smalley and Van Arsdale building, being erected at the corner of East Fifth street and Park avenue, is being pushed by the contractors so that the building will be completed and ready for occupancy by April 1, 1914.

When completed the building will be one of the best and most modern business properties in Plainfield. The outside facing of the first story will be of Serpentine Green stone, which has been received from Chester, Penn., while the facings of the five foot door leading into the corner store, which when completed will be occupied by William L. Smalley's meat market will be of green vitrolite tile. The two upper stories which will be divided into bachelor apartments, each of two rooms and bath will be built with a facing of Greendale red brick, which are made at Greendale, Ohio, while the window frames and other trimmings will be of Serpentine green stone.

Smalley's store is being built and equipped so that it will be the most sanitary meat market in the city. There will be no wood on any of the equipment. The floors will be made of re-inforced concrete, built after the Burchartz system and will be laid out to represent tile. The lower portion or wainscoating of the walls will be of white vitrolite tile, while the upper portion will be faced with white enameled brick. Hooks, usually so noticeable in butcher shops, will be omitted in the equipping of the store as Mr. Smalley says that they are not sanitary. The office, meat blocks and counter will be of vitrolite tile. When completed a hose can be turned into the store and it can be flooded or washed without danger to any of the equipment.

Van Arsdale's store will have the plain business store finish throughout consisting of plastered walls, hardwood floors and chestnut trimmings. Entrance to the apartments over the Van Arsdale store will be from Park avenue, while to those above the corner store will be on East Fifth street.

There will be three apartments on each floor of each building and the most modern methods of building are being used in making them tenantable. The walls of each apartment will be artistically decorated and will be set off to best advantage by hardwood floors and trimmings of chestnut. The bathrooms will be equipped with tiled floors, enameled baths, and pedestal basins, while the walls will be covered with Sanitas. It is expected that these apartments will be completed and ready for occupancy by April 1.

All the tile used on the building is being furnished by the Natco Tile Co., through their Plainfield agents, Boice, Runyon & Co. Alex. Milne, of North Plainfield, has the contract for the carpenter work; Townley Brothers, of Grandview avenue, are doing the mason work; William Krausse is to install the plumbing and steam heating system; Henry Apgar is in charge of the electrical work and Luthman and Hansen will do the painting and paperhanging. Charles Smith, of Grove street, is the architect.

The building will have a frontage of 60 feet and a depth of 65 feet.

BUILDING BOWLING ALLEY.

Benjamin J. Kline, of 926 West Front street, has been granted a permit and is having built a hollow cement brick building 15 feet wide and 90 feet deep at the rear of his home which, when completed, will be used as a bowling alley. The floor of the building is being made of concrete, which, when thoroughly dried out, will be covered with an alley furnished by the Brunswick-Balke Collender Company. It is estimated that the work will cost $1,500.

W. H. Clum, of Park avenue, drew the plans for the building and the erection of it is being supervised by Morris Robinowitz, of Hillcrest avenue, a mason and builder.

$1,400 REPAIR SHOP.

A permit has been issued by the building inspector for the erection of a two story brick building in the rear of 127 West Second street. It is to have a frontage of 26 feet and is to be 30 feet deep. When completed the building will be occupied by John Mehl & Company as a repair shop. The building will cost about $1,400. Joseph Brandt of Rock avenue, has the masonry contract and Herman Hansen, of Wallace place, will do the carpenter work.

PERMITS AMOUNT TO $94,000

November Building Applications Show Brisk Business in City.

SECOND WARD LEADS

Fine Business Property and Residences Under Way in City, With Much Activity in Smaller Work—Some Permits Issued.

Building summary for the month of November, 1913:

	New Buildings.	Alterations.	Totals.
1st Ward	$ 5,850	$1,100	$ 6,950
2nd Ward	78,580	.....	78,580
3rd Ward	150	5,500	5,650
4th Ward	2,750	.....	2,750
	$87,330	$6,600	$93,930

Although the warm weather of the past month has made commercial business dull in town, the builders have not felt the pressing need of business. During the month of November twenty-two permits were granted by the Building Inspector, T. O. Doane, chief of the local fire department. Of this number seven permits were for the erection of frame buildings, six permits for alterations to buildings, three permits for erection of brick and terra cotta buildings, two permits for garages, two permits for shops, one permit for a bowling alley building and one permit for the placing of a tank for storage of volatile liquids.

The money to be invested in this business, as a result of the contracts, will be about $94,000.

The report of the Second Ward shows that the majority of the new buildings have been or are being erected in that section of the city. In the Third Ward, property owners have practically nothing in the way of improvements planned.

Considering the scarcity of currency at the present time the building activity in Plainfield probably outranks any town of its size in the State.

Permits have been granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane, to the following persons for alterations to buildings owned by them:

Fred Endress, for a front extension to house at 410 and 412 Lee place, extension to be 7x7x16. Joseph Brandt, of Rock avenue, has been awarded the mason work and Fred Schuck, of East Front street, is doing the carpenter work.

V. W. Nash, for extension to front and both sides of house on premises at 510 West Third street, the improvements to cost about $3,000. The building will be occupied as stores and two-family dwelling when completed. C. L. Force is the architect, and Nathan Eskovitch will do the carpenter work.

Peter Parella, extension to two-story building at 813 North avenue. Work to cost about $800. Mattio Bony, of East Fifth street, will do the mason work, while Charles Bicknell, of Pine street, has been awarded the carpenter work.

N. Gershenson, for extension to front of building at 518 West Third street, to be occupied when completed as store and two-family dwelling. W. H. Clum, of Park avenue, has prepared the plans. Joseph Brandt, of West Fourth street, will do the masonry, while Cohen and Israelsky have the carpentering contract.

A. F. Streuli, for extension to the side of the house at 1035 Hillside avenue, which will cost about $1,500. Evarts Tracey, of Hillside avenue, is the architect; William H. Pangborn's Son, of Chatham street, the mason, and Michael Rimmer, of Essex street, the carpenter.

Louis Gotte, for alterations to house at 308 Hill street. The owner will do the mason work and James Radin, of Scotch Plains, is to do the carpenter work.

ANOTHER HANDSOME HOUSE ON WATCHUNG AVENUE

Mrs. H. E. Hazen, of Franklin place, is having a two and a half story frame dwelling erected on her property at the corner of Watchung avenue and Franklin place, which, it is estimated, will cost $12,000. The building will have its frontage on Watchung avenue and the measurements for that side will be about 54 feet. It will have a depth of 42 feet six inches. When completed the house will be occupied by its owner.

A. L. C. Marsh, of Putnam avenue, a member of the firm of Marsh & Gette, architects of New York, has drawn the plans. William Pangborn's Sons are to do the masonry work and Wyman & Haberle will do the carpentering. The house will be fitted with all the latest improvements and will be wired for electric lights.

Proper exploitation of the building and allied interests in Plainfield has been neglected so long that there are thousands of residents of this city who do not realize how rapidly business and residential buildings are increasing. The Daily Press, in keeping with its "Do It For Plainfield" slogan believes that there is no better way of showing to the outside world how rapidly Plainfield and immediately surrounding towns are growing than through systematic and careful presentation each week of a thorough review of what is going on in the building world.

How many people are there in the city of Plainfield who realize that during the month of November alone building permits for but a few thousand dollars short of $100,000 were applied for and work commenced on the many of the buildings in question? How many people in Plainfield realize that probably a quarter of a million of dollars worth of work is now under way in this city? Facts and figures sometimes awaken people suddenly and although frequently there is heard the cry that Plainfield is not going forward as fast as it should, the Daily Press believes that on this one page it presents evidence that the town is moving along just as fast as any other city of the same size in the country.

The Plainfield development page is here to stay. One of the Daily Press staff will give his time solely to the purpose of learning all he can about the growth of the city along this line. The Daily Press wants every bit of building news that it can get, and wants to emphasize the fact the fact that the rule will be at all times to give full credit to every architect, builder and contractor who may have anything to do with work which may be mentioned. Pictures of new properties will be printed whenever they can be procured. Suggestions for the page which will make it more valuable will be welcomed, and we urge the hearty co-operation of every contractor and builder in the city of Plainfield.

Roth & Company Will Soon Occupy Handsome New Building

ROTH & CO.'S FINE NEW MEAT MARKET.

Owing to a change in the ground floor plans of the store at 134 East Front street, part of the new Roth building, now in the course of erection, work has been delayed and it is thought likely that part of it will not be completed as soon as was first contemplated. Although work has been delayed on the store at No. 134 work has progressed rapidly in the store at No. 132, which will be occupied by Roth & Company as a butcher shop and grocery, and on the upper story of the building. The work of placing the sheet metal ceiling in the store to be occupied by Roth's was done today and will receive a first coat of paint Monday. The change that has been made in the original plans is for an entrance to the second floor to be made from Front street as well as from the rear of the building. This change has necessitated erecting a hollow tile wall from the ground floor to the ceiling and the building of a stairway with all the finishings necessary.

Work on the placing of the copper cornices at the top and front of the building will be completed by Tuesday night and the work of putting in the large panes of plate glass will then begin.

The building will be two stories high. The ground floor will be divided into two stories. The upper floor will remain as one large room for the time being. The facing between the windows of the first floor will be of highly polished slabs of granite, which have been received from Canada, while the facings of the second floor will be of white lime stone, artistically carved. Between the top of the windows of the first floor and the bottom of the windows of the second story copper sheeting will be placed. Both stores on the ground floor will have ceiling of pressed metal and floors of re-inforced concrete covered with a wood flooring of white maple. The walls of the store to be occupied as a butcher shop have all been lined with white enameled bricks while the other store will have white plastered walls. Tile entrances will be laid at the front of both stores. There will be three toilets installed in the building, two on the first floor and one on the upper floor.

William C. Smith, of North Plainfield, has the contract, as general contractor and has sub-let the contracts for the different kinds of work to the following: Carpenter work, M. B. Culver & Son, of North Plainfield; Borman Brothers, the plumbing work; Patrick E. Neylon, the copper cornice and sheet metal ceiling work, and the painting to Case & Harsell. All these contractors are residents of Plainfield or North Plainfield. The mason work was done by the general contractor. The electric wiring contract was awarded to a Newark firm. Worth, of Newark, was the architect of the building.

J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company furnished all the lumber and millwork used in the construction of the building and Boice, Runyon & Company supplied the mason materials.

It is expected, if no other complications set in, that the store for Roth & Company will be in readiness for occupancy so that the Christmas rush of this firm can be handled in these spacious quarters and not in the cramped room that they are now occupying for business.

NEW HOME FOR MRS. SUTTON UNDER WAY ON LENOX AVE.

Mrs. Lydia Sutton is having a two-story frame dwelling erected on her property at 1209 Lenox avenue to cost about $3,000. The plans of the building show a twenty-four foot front and a depth of thirty-eight feet. The exterior walls will be half clap board painted a light color, and half shingles. A parlor, reception hall, dining room, kitchen and large airy pantry will compose the first floor, and three bed rooms and a bath room will be on the second floor. The top floor will be used as an attic and store room. The interior decorations will be mostly white set off with chestnut trimmings and hard wood floors. All improvements will be installed in the house.

The bath room will be fitted with white enamel bath tub and white porcelain pedestal basin. The building will be heated by a hot air system.

George H. Fisher, Jr., is the architect of the building; George L. Felmley has charge of the carpenter work; Watson Payne, of South Plainfield, is the mason; William Henry will do the painting, and Harry Taub will install the plumbing and heating system. All the material and mill work used on the building is being supplied by J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company. It is expected that the house will be ready for occupying about April 1, 1914.

MINOR CONSTRUCTIONS

A frame building permit has been issued to Mrs. Alice H. Sanford for the erection of a 12x16 foot garage at the rear of her property at 201 Leland avenue. The cost of this building will be about $50.

The Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company, of 175 North avenue, will have a two story brick building, 30 feet x 18 feet erected on their property on North avenue, between Leland avenue and Terrill road. The building, which will cost about $1,400, when completed will be used by the company as a storage place for some of the surplus equipment that is necessary around their pumping station. W. C. Smith, of Watchung avenue, North Plainfield, besides making the drawing for the proposed building, will also have charge of the mason and carpentering work.

Cormick Caulfield, of 329 East Third street, was granted a permit Monday for the election of an 18x26 feet two story hollow cement brick building on the rear of his premises to be used when completed as a stable. Caulfield will do the mason work himself and Herman Overland will have charge of the carpentering end of the job. The building will cost about $500.

Plans have been drawn by local architects for a bungalow for Charles E. Loizeaux, to be erected on Dixie Lane, and for a store for Ercole Brancati, to be built on Terrill road.

Van Zandt & Doeringer will place a gasoline storage tank for the Zeek Baking Company at their South avenue plant. The cost of installing the tank has been estimated at $30.

The shed will have a frontage of 139 feet and will be 15 feet deep. When completed it will be used as a storage for their wagons and other coal yard equipment. The building will be in the shape of an L, 32 feet of it will be on the West Second street side of the property and the other 107 feet will be along Central avenue. The total cost is estimated at $1,500. The name of the contractor was not filed with the application.

'INSIDE THE CUP' VIEWED BY CLERIC

Winston Churchill's Novel on Modern Church Only Misleads the Ignorant.

SAYS REV. DR. ZELIE

Author Has Simply Been Walking About Zion—Gives Him Credit for Being Sincere—Discusses Churchill's Biography.

"The Inside of the Cup," a novel by Winston Churchill, which book has secured for itself a greater degree of attention than has been accorded any other book for years, was discussed by the Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday morning, in an instructive and profoundly interesting discourse. Dr. Zelie gave an exhaustive explanation of the thoughts presented by the author and a brief review of the book, which he illustrated with thoughts on religious principles. Dr. Zelie took his text from Psalm 48:12-13: "Walk about Zion, and go round about her; tells the towers thereof. Mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces; that ye may tell it to the generation following."

Dr. Zelie said in part:

"The titles of books are always an important item in the make-up and success of a book. This is not the first time that a phrase out of the Bible has been found the most successful way of attracting the world's attention to the contents of a book. It is interesting to know that the book which has most interested the largest number of people the past two seasons should deal with a subject in which we have been hearing for years that they could not be interested, namely, the church.

"What Mr. Churchill has done in 'The Inside of the Cup,' is a very old thing. He has just simply been walking around Zion. There is no doubt about the motive with which Mr. Churchill has taken his walk around Zion. It is wholly sincere. He wishes to do something for the Christian church, and to give us his idea of what it is that is causing men's disappointment in it. There is here none of the general tirade against organized religion which has been the prevailing characteristic of such books as this. You do not get from the pages of this book the mordant cynicism which has left so many similar books altogether ineffective. The things which stir the author's indignation are things which ought to stir anybody's indignation. His theme is really 'the money changers in the temple.'

"To those who know little about the church, the book can only give a false impression. The church which he describes is no fair specimen of the church as it actually exists. The church at large is a very humble affair compared with the rich and showy church of the novel.

"Now, in another writing Mr. Churchill has given a more accurate account of one of the things that is the matter. It is an account of himself. He tells us that he had in his life, a long period of indifference, until these mysterious thought currents (which ran through the Bible) began to act upon me. I began to read. I tried to put myself in the place of the ancient Jew of the Roman slave and freeman; and then and not until then, did I see something of the revelation the words and life, and resurrection of Christ must have been for such a man. Not only as one would say, in the influence of his life and teachings upon men, but in a truer, more positive and vital way. Christianity is unaccountable otherwise, and stops dismayed at that terrible cry on the cross, 'My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?' I remember that article when it appeared and how refreshing it seemed for one to acknowledge that he had stepped out of the circle of distrust into that of openness and sympathy.

"The most refreshing thing in Mr. Churchill's book is to see how one and another drop out of a life which brings no satisfaction. One suspects that the author is feeling his own way back to a place in the Christian company.

"With many the book will be just one more subject of pleasant discussion. With some it will be just one more indictment of the church. Others it will cause, like its author, to go over the ground again and inquire whether the trouble may not have been with themselves. To the Christian who has always kept his faith burning and has never ceased from activity it will be carrying coals to New Castle."

Dr. Zelie said that he thought Mr. Churchill had been considering the places of the Christian church to undue extent.

COUNTY BOARD HAD MISSING JUDGMENT

Document of Value to North Plainfield Found in Possession of Tax Board.

After a report had been circulated that W. J. Buttfield had in his possession the original judgment of the Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes allowing North Plainfield borough a rebate in 1912 for over-assessments to be deducted in 1913, the document has been found in the possession of the Board. When the valuable bit of evidence could not be located by the Board at the times of the hearings with the State Board of municipalities of Somerset county, all sorts of excuses were made and the rumor was spread that Mr. Buttfield had the paper at his office. Hoagland testified that he had made a diligent search and could not find the paper. As a matter of fact, it transpired that what Buttfield had was a certified copy.

The finding of the original copy occured on Saturday. A request was made by North Plainfield that Thomas Winsor, the secretary in 1912, be allowed to search the Board's files and at first Carl Hoagland, the present secretary, declined, but when A. E. Kenney, a member of the Board, gave his consent, Winsor was permitteh to do so. In the 1912 file case he located not only the original judgment, but other papers including North Plainfield's appeal and the service of that notice on the proper persons as sworn to and filed by Borough Clerk Charles M. Dolliver with the attestation of his stenographer as to mailing the notices.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. GLENNEY

Many Attended the Obsequies at Beloved Woman's Late Home.

Funeral services for Mrs. Walter L. C. Glenney were held at the late home, 520 Stelle avenue, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, being in charge of Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Glenney was an active member for many years. He read appropriate Scripture selections and offered prayer in which he referred impressively to the life and character of the departed and of her many good works.

During the service William N. Runyon sang two selections, "For All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest," and Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar."

There was a very large attendance of relatives and friends at the service, including representatives of the various societies of which Mrs. Glenney was a member, the King's Daughters, Needlework Guild, Woman's Auxiliary of Muhlenberg Hospital and the Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters, of which she was the president. They all sent beautiful floral tributes.

The interment took place in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn, yesterday morning, only the immediate members of the family being present.

DUNELLEN POLICE CAN'T FIND THESE BURGLARS

Marshal Davenport, of Dunellen, has been unable to find any clue to the identity of the miscreants who Thursday night broke into the offices of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Co., in North avenue, where Recorder Campbell, is the bookkeeper.

As far as can be ascertained, nothing of value was taken, although many papers and records were strewn about the office and mixed up.

Albert Schorlen, no home, was arraigned before Recorder Campbell, last night, and was fined $5 for being intoxicated and disorderly the day previously.

FUNERAL OF ALBERT CRANE.

The funeral of Albert Crane was held at his late residence, 138 Grove street, the borough, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, pastor of the First M. E. church, of which Mr. Crane was a member for many years, officiated. The burial was in Hillside cemetery, the pall-bearers were four nephews living at New Providence.

MRS. GROLLMISCH'S FUNERAL.

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha Grollmisch, who did at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Emma Callahan, 448 West 45th street, New York, will be held at the place this afternoon at 1 o'clock, and the interment will take place in Hillside cemetery, this city, at 4 o'clock.

FINAL REHEARSAL FOR PERFORMANCE

Plainfield Comedy Club Cast to Put on Finishing Touches Tonight.

OUTLINE OF THE PLAYS

"The Bishop's Candlesticks" and "The Teeth of the Gift Horse" Should Draw Crowded Houses—Proceeds for the Park Club.

Plainfield Comedy Club members will put the finishing touches on the two plays, which are to be given tomorrow night at the Park Club, at the dress rehearsal which will be held tonight, and Henry D. White, stage manager of the club, and Coach Hart both feel confident that a performance will be given fully in keeping with the successes which this well-known local dramatic organization has presented in the past. Two short plays have been selected, as has been told, and these will be followed by dancing, the proceeds of the evening being for the benefit of the Park Club.

"The Bishop's Candlesticks," with which the program will open, is a one act play based on an incident in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," telling the story of a big hearted priest who has parted with everything of value he owns except a pair of silver candlesticks. A starving convict breaks into his cottage, is surprised by the bishop, who after hearing his pitiful story gives him sustenance, being rewarded by having the crook make off with the candlesticks. He is captured by gendarmes, and brought back to the bishop's house, where the latter, in order to free the prisoner, declares that he gave the candlesticks to the culprit. Henry C. White will play the bishop; Roseweil G. Rolston, the convict; Mrs. F. E. DuBois, the bishop's sister; Miss Ray Pla de Villars, a maid, and Donald A. McGee, the captain of Gendarmes.

"The Teeth of the Gift Horse" is a modern comedy, and describes the difficulties of a young couple whose favoriate aunt visits them unexpectedly, just a few days after the wife has sent a pair of vases to a rummage sale, which the aunt painted for them as a wedding gift. A friend of the wife starts out to try to get them back, but the aunt arrives with the vases still missing. Complications arise which make the aunt suspect that something is wrong, and before the vases are finally returned there are a number of ridiculous situations, but everything turns out all right in the end. Charles P. Titsworth and Miss Helen Joy will take the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Butler, Mrs. Edward Suffern plays the aunt, Miss Margaret Townsend is cast for Katie, an Irish maid, and Miss Frederika Mead and Leslie R. Fort appear as Anne Fisher and Devlin Blake, friends of the Butlers.

There are still a few seats available for the play, and these can be secured by members of the Park Club, the Comedy Club, or their friends from Steward Henry Johnson, at the Park Club.

IT WAS THE 1912 BOARD AND NOT PRESENT ONE

In its issue of last Tuesday, the Daily Press contained a report of a Common Council meeting the night before, in which it was stated that a committee of the Council, which had been appointed to investigate alleged irregularities in the Board of Health, had been discharged without making any report. In justice to the present members of the Board the Daily Press wishes to call attention to the fact that the body which it was suggested might need investigation was the Board of Health of 1912, and not that of the current year, which is very efficiently performing its duties.

"THE INFERNO."

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will give the first part of his lecture on the Soul of Dante's Divine Comedy, "The Inferno," in Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, Thursday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, under the auspices of the "Current Events" of the Ladies' Aid Society. The second part will be given January 8 and the third part on February 12.

JUNIORS TO GATHER.

State Councilor Muta, together with other State officers and representatives of various councils, will attend a gathering to be held in the rooms of Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., Thursday night, December 18, at which time there will be class initiation.

45TH ANNIVERSARY OF LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Appropriate Addresses Mark Event in Local Evangelical Churches.

Several evangelical churches in this city observed the forty-sixth anniversary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. at services yesterday and in each instance the work of the local organization was lauded by some speaker.

The celebration was begun in the Seventh-day Baptist church Saturday when Alfred P. Estes, assistant State secretary, delivered a short talk on the Y. M. C. A. and its various branches of work.

In the local churches yesterday the following made addresses: C. H. Potter, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Orange, spoke in the First M. E. church; Charles A. Coburn, State secretary, spoke at the First Presbyterian church; M. L. Beebe, general secretary of Y. M. C. A. in Montclair, addressed the members of the Congregational church at the services held in the Seventh-day Baptist church. At the Park Avenue Baptist church Rev. Gabriel Reid Maguire, the pastor, gave a talk.

MRS. HANNAH HARDY DIES OF APOPLEXY

Passes Away in Her Eighty-fifth Year—Funeral Services Wednesday.

Mrs. Hannah H. Hardy, aged 84 years, wife of the late Henry V. Parsell, died yesterday afternoon at her home, 230 East Seventh street, following a stroke of apoplexy. She was born at Concord, Pa., where she spent her girlhood days. She then went to Wilmington, Del., where she lived with her mother and aunt for several years. From there she removed to New York, where she married Mr. Parsell in 1854.

Removing to Plainfield in 1905, she continued to live here up to the time of her death. She was a member of the Religious Society of Friends for many years, but upon going to New York she became a member of the Madison Square Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst is the pastor. During her residence here she was greatly interested in Marconnier Reformed church, frequently attending services there. Her brother, Norris Peters, was the founder of the well-known Lithographic Press in Washington in 1871, continuing with that concern until his death in 1889. One son, Henry V. A. Parsell, survives.

The funeral will be held at the late home, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. J. Tucker Lansdale will officiate and the burial will be in Greenwood cemetery at the convenience of the family.

Following an elaborate wedding reception the couple left on an extended honeymoon. On their return they will reside at 837 Hancock street, Brooklyn.

IN MEMORY OF DEPARTED ELKS

Solemn Service Held by the Plainfield Lodge With G. M. Hulbert as Orator.

MUSIC IS INSPIRING

Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Neilson Chaplain—H. Fellows Townsend Musical Director—Exalted Ruler Frank H. Smith Presides.

In common with Elkdom throughout the length and breadth of the land, Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., paid a tribute to the memory of departed members last night at its annual lodge of sorrow. The service was held in the Plainfield theatre where, in the presence of an audience which occupied every available seat, the secretary called the roll of those who answered only in spirit but live in the golden recollection of the reverential gathering. Impressive as the service has always been in the past, it was even more so this year, fulfilling in every respect the mandate of the great organization which seeks to withstand the erasure of time.

Exalted Ruler Frank H. Smith was in charge of the ceremonies, while the officers of the lodge occupied their respective stations on the stage, which was elaborately decorated with palms and plants.

The memorial address was delivered by G. Murray Hulbert, a prominent metropolitan lawyer and past exalted ruler of New York Lodge No. 1. The musical portion of the program was of an exceptionally high character, each member being a decided treat in itself. A symphony orchestra provided the instrumental selections while the following artists gave quartet and solo numbers: Mary Kissem DeMoss, soprano; Elizabeth Sherman Clark, contralto; George Tamlyn, tenor, and Ashley Ropps, baritone. Mrs. W. D. Longnecker was at the piano. The musical program was under the direction of Townsend H. Fellows. Rev. Dr. William H. Neilson, of this city, was the chaplain.

Following was the order of exercises: Prelude, orchestra; quartet, "Onward Christian Soldiers," Schnecker; hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee;" opening ceremonies; soprano solo, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," Oetting; Opening ode; invocation; duet (tenor and baritone), "Crucifix," Fauer; memorial address; interlude, orchestra; quartet, "Souls of the Righteous," Noble; closing ceremonies; contralto solo, "God Shall Wipe Away All Tears," Harker; hymn, "Abide With Me;" benediction; doxology; postlude, orchestra.

Mr. Hulbert's address was simple in character, devoid of oratorical flights and along lines unusual at memorial services. He stated at the beginning that he preferred to give a history of Elkdom, its aims and its practices, rather than an effusive dessertation on ecclesiastical themes. In this connection, he detailed the inception of the great order of Elks by fifteen professional and semi-profession theatrical men in New York in 1867, only one of whom is now alive. A Puritanical Sunday law prohibited them from enjoying their only day of recreation as they wished and the banding together was to promote harmless amusement. A year later the membership had greatly increased and the plans assumed a more serious character. Year after year the work went on and today the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks has an enrollment of 500,000 members.

Mr. Hulbert then outlined the principles of Elkdom, charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity, leading up to the annual observance of remembering the dead. He paid a tribute to the silent host, interpolating quotations from Longfellow's "Vacant Chair," and Gray's "Elegy," conveying to the non-members of the order the beautiful sentiment which sets aside the first Sunday in December as a memorial day for the Elks. When he concluded there were many of his hearers who had new and lasting impressions of the great amount of good that can arise from a small beginning.

The members of the order who have passed away and whose names were included in the silent roll call were as follows:

Daniel Detweiler, April 8, 1906; Herbert S. Taylor, April 16, 1906; Robert L. Thomae, July 21, 1906; Olin L. Jenkins, November 13, 1906; Herbert B. Brooks, January 8, 1907; Charles C. Burnet, February 23, 1907; Maze Edwards, July 4, 1909; Joseph W. Reinhart, January 27, 1911; William W. Winn, December 29, 1911; Alexander H. Small, January 9, 1912; John A. Lawrence January 11, 1912; Herbert L. Overbaugh, May 17, 1912; Elmer E. Runyon, October 16, 1912.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 27 degrees; 11 a. m., 28 degrees; 1 p. m., 29 degrees.

RUNYON IS ORATOR AT ELKS' SERVICES

Plainfielder Delivers Memorial Orations at Newark and Orange Lodges Exercises.

Former City Judge William N. Runyon was the orator at two Elks memorial services, yesterday, being the speaker at the service in the afternoon held under the auspices of the Orange Lodge of Elks at Orange, and again last night at the service held in the Orpheum theatre, Newark, under the auspices of Newark Lodge of Elks. Both services were largely attended, and at each, Mr. Runyon's remarks were well received. At the service in Newark, he spoke on the creed of the order on death, "There is no death; what seems so is transition."

In his memorial address at Orange, Mr. Runyon argued that death was not the tragic condition pictured in sorrow and grief by those left behind, but a transition to a higher and more beautiful existence. He pictured in his argument the growth of childhood, the passing to maturity of the little ones of yesterday, and declared the loving parent would not change the order of nature, yet the piquant and delightful infancy of children passed on to greater and more useful creation of happiness and the infant was lost in the transition to age. He argued that if death had the terrors and awe we on this side of the portals of the valley of the shadows pictured, the faith and hope of a Merciful Almighty were indeed in vain.

LITTLE ONES HONOR A BELOVED PRIEST

Father Bogan, on 55th Birthday, Guest of Immaculate Conception Society.

Members of the Immaculate Conception Society of St. Mary's church rendered a program in the auditorium of St. Mary's Parochial School, Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. B. M. Bogan as guest of honor, the occasion being the celebration of his fifty-fifth birthday anniversary which occurs today.

Miss Mary Maher, eight years old, who possesses a remarkable voice for one of her years, rendered a solo, and it was followed by a gymnastic drill with Indian clubs in which a group of twenty girls participated. Twelve of the members of the organization had been coached in a Japanese song and drill by the sisters and they presented this feature in a fine fashion, the following taking part: the Misses Virginia Buckley, Catherine Schafer, Catherine McCue, Lorreta MacCauley, Helen McCarthy, Mary Fitzgerald, Elizabeth Hagen, Madeline McGuire, Margaret McGuire, Marie Whelan, Margaret Disken and Cecelia Fee.

Immediately following the program of entertainment presented by the juvenile entertainers the priest was presented with a large basket of fruit, the gift of his youthful admirers and he responded with a few well chosen congratulatory remarks. The token was given in behalf of the society by two girls, Julia Kane and Catherine Schafer, both under five years of age. Refreshments were served and dancing was enjoyed informally following the speech-making.

RECEPTION IN HONOR OF COUPLE ENGAGED

Mr. and Mrs. B. Cohen, parents of Miss Lillian Cohen, whose engagement to Jacob Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Abrams, of Grove street, this city, was recently announced, were hosts at their home in Brooklyn last night at an informal reception given in honor of the couple. Mrs. W. S. Campbell, Bride of Three Months, Hurt Week Ago, Dies in Hospital.

KEENAN SURRENDERS

Man Who in Car Ran Her Down Goes to Court Immediately After Her Demise and is Released in Bail—Exonerated From Blame.

Dying Saturday afternoon at Muhlenberg Hospital, from the result of injuries sustained Monday, Dec. 1, when she was struck by an automobile owned and driven by Alfred A. Keenan, a butcher, of 440 East Fifth street, Wrs. William Scott Campbell, of 310 Grant avenue, succumbed exactly three months from the date of her marriage. Taken to the hospital in an unconscious condition after the accident, it was several days before the physicians were able to restore here to her senses. Although rallying slightly on Friday, when the attending physicians said there was a fighting chance to save her life, the victim sank steadily Saturday and death occurred about 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. Keenan, who surrendered at police headquarters folowing the fatality and was released by City Judge DeMoza on his own recognizance for appearance following the result of Mrs. Scott's injuries, went to Elizabeth Saturday upon learning of the victim's demise and was arraigned before Judge Connolly, on a charge of manslaughter. He was released on furnishing $1,500 bonds. Reed & Hetfield are counsel, Mr. Hetfield accompanying him to Elizabeth.

It is thought that following a formal examination Mr. Keenan will be exonerated by the courts of all blame for the unfortunate accident, which eye-witnesses claim was unavoidable. Three women, passing at the time, saw the affair and helped place Mrs. Scott into Keenan's automobile for the purpose of rushing her to Dr. C. B. Lufburrow's office. The police say they gave testimony when interviewed, exonerating Keenan from any blame declaring that he was driving unusually slow, when Mrs. Scott stepped from behind a wagon directly in the path of the auto. The left-hand front wheel passed over her body.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Lufburrow bore the fact that death had been caused by concussion of the brain and internal injuries.

Mrs. Campbell was the daughter of Mrs. Sarah Knight, of Elmwood place, where she was married on Saturday, Sept. 6. Besides her mother and husband, she is survived by four brothers, Frank, John, George and Richard Knight, and three sisters.

Funeral services will be held at her mother's home, tomorrow afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Charles E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will officiate. Interment will be made in Hillside cemetery.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 16

CHILDREN should be encouraged to use Chewing Gum in moderation, because it is good for them.

Your Dentist and Doctor will confirm this.

But mothers should be careful to see that the Chewing Gum their children use is clean. If it is Clean, it will be White.

If it is muddy in color and you can see black specks in it when you hold it up to the light, it is NOT Clean.

There is one Chewing Gum white inside and out, colorless and spotless, clean through and through.

This is MO-JO Gum. We do the refining. We do not shirk the expense on the account of dividends.

The name MO-JO is easy to say—a child can lisp it; yet that name means more to your child's health than any Chewing Gum name ever written.

Think of your children. Think for them. They do not know. You do. It is simple to ask for Clean, Pure White Gum—there is no substitute. You will get MO-JO Gum.

Ex-President Zelaya Of Nicaragua A Remarkable Person

THE recent arrest in New York city of General Jose Santos Zelaya, the former president of Nicaragua, has brought that remarkable personality into the limelight again. It will be remembered that Zelaya, four years ago, was held responsible for the deaths of two Americans, Cannon and Groce, who were executed by his orders. Two weeks later, Dec. 1, 1909, Secretary of State Knox handed the Nicaraguan charge in Washington his passports and announced that Zelaya was personally responsible for the murder of the two men. In December the same year Zelaya, on the arrival of a naval expedition in Nicaragua, abandoned the presidency and escaped on a Mexican gunboat, which had been sent to his rescue by Porfirio Diaz, the president of Mexico. Zelaya went to Europe from Mexico and remained there until his arrival in New York recently.

Nicaragua at present is peaceful and slowly recovering from the deep financial abyss in which it was thrown by the three years of revolution which ended less than eighteen months ago. The United States wishes to see the present peace continued, and President Wilson and Secretary Bryan will do everything in their power to promote the present peace and prosperity.

It is generally conceded that the return of Zelaya to Nicaragua, except as a prisoner, would seriously menace the peace of that country, and therefore every precaution has been taken to prevent this. It would take a volume to tell of his life and history in Central America. He was regarded as the greatest of all disturbers of Latin American peace.

Zelaya's predominating character is his courage. He is absolutely fearless, and so he is both hated and feared in Central America. For long his one ambition was to unite the five republics under one government, with himself, of cougse, at its head. He may still indulge in this dream. Various were his schemes in the past to accomplish this end, fomenting revolutions and interfering in the political affairs of the various countries.

He is an unerring reader of men, cynical to the last degree and in treating with individual or faction is influenced largely by the unsentimental, harsh precepts laid down in Machiavelli's "The Prince," which he holds in high esteem.

He has held just as inflexibly to some of his promises as he has irresponsibly broken others. With charming elegance of speech he can discourse on ethics and the humanities so that preconceived notions of the man are entirely dissipated.

He loves poetry, painting and flowers and in his youth could sing troubadour songs in a way to quicken the heart beats of the girl who listened.

He has a taste for books. Those bearing on the life of Napoleon have interested him most, along with general history and political economy. But withal he gets the most real satisfaction out of a stirring romance with a strong love element, after the style of Stanley Weyman's creations. He is a master of verbal fence, but when it serves his purpose best becomes brutally blunt.

Acutely alert mentally, he can often see all sides of a proposition before it is fully put to him. And the unremitting stress of years of plotting, intrigue and peril seems to have put a keener edge on his mentality. "Zelaya," says a man who has had intimate dealings with him, "is as keen as a steel trap and about twice as quick."

Shortly after his arrest in New York city Zelaya issued the following statement:

"Now as to these charges that have been made against me. They are nothing more nor less than a political plot. Matters in my former country are in a state of unrest, and Adolfo Diaz has been afraid that I would return and that the people of Nicaragua would install me in his place.

"He thinks it safer to have me brought back in irons than to have me go to Nicaragua of my own accord. As a matter of fact, he did not need to worry, for I have surrendered practically all my interests in Nicaragua. My home is in Barcelona, Spain, where my wife is at present, and following my visit to New York it was my intention to return to my home. I had no intention of going to Nicaragua until after affairs in that country had settled down.

"I am not interested in Central American politics, and my visit to New York was purely on a personal business matter. I am confident that I can show that this whole thing is a political scheme."

LUMBER AND MASONS' MATERIALS.

Plainfield, N. J., October 15, 1913

New York Telephone Company,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:--I thought you might be interested to know of the importance of the telephone to us in our business.

Formerly, when an out of town contractor, who was bidding on a job, wished to get a figure on some lumber, he did it by letter, taking at least two days from the time the letter was written before he got our answer quoting the price. Now the contractor calls us direct by telephone, secures a quotation immediately, and without delay. The telephone is one of the most important factors in our business, saving, as it does, so many out of town trips.

Yours very truly,
J. D. LOIZEAUX LUMBER COMPANY,
C. E. Loizeaux, Secretary.

IF you will work your telephone hard and let it take you on quick little business trips in and out of town, you can save travel, time and expense and devote more time to other result-producing work at your desk.

Oftentimes a few words by telephone means a saving of a day or two, and in nearly every case your telephone trip will be as satisfactory and as productive of results as a trip in person would be.

Why not save the out-of-town trips — travel by telephone.

About ½ Price and Less; Most Magnificent Collection.

We believe this to be, without a doubt, the greatest opportunity ever presented to secure beautiful new fancy linen pieces exactly right for Christmas gifts at wonderful savings.

About 500 or more pieces; the sample line of a famous New York importer with whom we do a tremendous regular business. The assortment embraces about everything desirable in lace effect and embroidered linen pieces, exquisite conceptions in fine high-class pieces of plain linen centres.

Assorted styles with insertions, medallion and lace edges of cluny, filet, antique, Florentine and Byzentine laces, also an immense collection of rich hand embroidered effects with solid and eyelet patterns, in Madeira, azure, appenzel and Spanish embroidery, all in hand scalloped edges.

Splendid variety of sizes in centrepieces, macrame towels, scarfs, lunch cloths, tray cloths, doilies. ANOTHER FEATURE.

Suiting the action to the slogan "Do It For Plainfield," the Daily Press inaugurated another feature with Saturday's issue when it devoted one page to live news and comment on Plainfield real estate. Sales and rentals and proposed improvements as well as those underway were reported and particular attention was given to a description of building now in the course of construction.

Our aim is to keep the people fully informed of the progress in the upbuilding of this community and by the people we mean not only those in our own model city but others outside who may thus be attracted to Plainfield and be induced to make this place their home. We want to let them know what a fine town this is and why they should locate here.

Real estate brokers, contractors, builders and all engaged in land and its development including the erection and equipping of buildings are invited to send to us items of local interest. This will tend to make the department all the more valuable. The feature will appear on each succeeding Saturday. Look for it.

We are compelled to omit today—and shall hereafter until the Washington authorities change their representative in Newark—the weekly weather reports of Professor William Wiener, head of the Central High School of this city, on account of their inaccuracy.—Newark Sunday Call.

Nothing like that here. The Daily Press publishes the weather reports daily and they are reliable for the Government has a responsible and painstaking official in the person of John J. Neagle.

Two excellent plays will be produced tomorrow night at the Plainfield theatre by the Plainfield Comedy Club which for years has enjoyed a local reputation for superior amateur effort and the performance will be up to its usual standard.

Funny, isn't it how that missing tax judgment of value to North Plainfield was so suddenly found among the files of the Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes.

The Somerset County Board for the Equalization of Taxes may be marked "Exhibit No. 1," among the reasons to be found for abolishing such a body.

It is not believed that the wound will prove serious.

THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL.

"I'll serve the 30 days," said Morris Landrigan in the City Court this morning after Judge DeMeza had pronounced him guilty of beating his wife and had imposed a sentence of $10 fine or 30 days in the county jail in Elizabeth. The prisoner lives at 152 North avenue, and according to the testimony of his wife, who made the complaint, he came home Saturday night intoxicated and abused her.

MAY ABANDON GIRLS' HOME.

The board of managers of the State Home for Girls in Trenton met Saturday to consider the proposition of abandoning the present institution and acquiring 250 acres of land in the country and conducting an institution on the cottage plan. Miss Caroline Dye applied for the position of superintendent of the home, but nothing was done in the matter.

HELD A BANQUET.

The Workingmen's Circle, Branch 84, of this city, held a banquet in Knights of Pythias Hall, last night, celebrating the ninth anniversary of the local organization. At present the circle has a membership of one hundred and fifty. Following the banquet an able address was made by William Davidorf, of New York city.

A XMAS SALE.

The Christmas sale held Saturday afternoon in the Parish House of St. Stephen's church, Woodland and South avenues, proved highly successfully many articles appropriate for Yuletide gifts being sold. Refreshments were served between the hours of 3 and 5 o'clock and several talented musicians rendered a pleasing program.

TO OPEN TOWER OF LONDON DUNGEONS TO THE PUBLIC

Visitors Soon to Be Allowed Where Kings Were Murdered.

With nearly a thousand years of graven history around them, the authorities at the Tower of London are not disposed to make important changes quickly. The Pall Mall Gazette states, however, that within the next few months the dungeons of the White Tower and the Bloody Tower, two intensely interesting historical parts of the tower, will be thrown open to the public for the first time.

The dungeons lie deep beneath the White Tower, eerie, gloomy, mysterious. In the wall dividing two of them is a narrow, black cagelike recess, in which Guy Fawkes was immured between the periods of torture on the rack. All around are instruments of torture—rack and thumbscrew, temple bands and searing irons—now hanging rusty and forgotten, the grim relics of bygone ages.

Only a few yards away a small, tomblike recess marks the place where, according to the well established tradition, Sir Walter Raleigh spent ten years of his life, and, as if by the irony of fate, almost overlooking the spot stands an equestrian model of Queen Elizabeth, displaying the gorgeous state robes in which she went to St. Paul's to celebrate the triumph of her fleet over the Armada.

The Bloody Tower is situated nearly opposite Traitors' Gate, and entrance to the inner ward is gained by passing underneath. This tower dates from the reigns of Edward III. and Richard II. and was called by its present name as early as 1597, being popularly believed to be the scene of the murder of Edward V. and his brother, the Duke of York, as well as Henry VI.

The grooves for working the massive portcullis, which was raised by chains and a windlass, are still to be seen, and the chains and windlass are preserved in an upper floor.

TELLS OF ARTIFICIAL LIFE.

Dr. Loeb Explains Process of Developing Larvae.

Methods by which he has artificially originated animal life in the scientific laboratory were described by Dr. Jacques Loeb of the Rockefeller Institute For Medical Research in an address on "Recent Experiments In Artificial Parthenogenesis" before the Sigma Xi society of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Loeb, who has developed normal living creatures through the action of chemical and physical agencies, discussed the experiments made since the first announcement of his success in developing the eggs of sea urchins by artificial means. He emphasized his recent assertion that parthenogenetic animals would exist in large numbers were it not that the raising of the larvae is a long and tedious process.

Dr. Loeb declared that the statements reflecting on the success of the scientific production of animals from fertilized eggs were partly the result of ignorance of the literature on the subject.

MISBEHAVIOR OF PUPILS FROM WARREN TOWNSHIP

The alleged misbehavior of some of the pupils who travel between Warrenville and the North Plainfield High School in a stage, was considered at a meeting of the Warren Township Committee on Saturday night. The trouble has been going on for some time and was recently aggravated by the writing of anonymous letters complaining about one of the boys. The matter was submitted to County Superintendent of Schools H. C. Krebs, who advised the guilty one to conduct himself properly or be suspended from school.

COHEN GOT EXCITED.

According to the police, when Harry Cohen, of 661 West Fourth street, is confronted by a creditor who demands money, he rages and wails in loud tones and yells excitedly for the police. Such was the case Saturday night when Axel Lundstrum endeavored to collect $85 which he asserts Cohen owes him. The latter called for the police and Cohen was responsible for Lundstrum's arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct. A similar charge was preferred against Cohen and he received a suspended sentence of $10 fine. The charge against Lundstrum was dismissed.

2 JUDGMENT DAYS SAYS EVANGELIST

A. I. Ritchie, of New York, Speaks Before Large Audience.

Evangelist A. I. Ritchie, of New York, addressed a large audience at the Lyric Theatre, yesterday afternoon, on the subject, "Beyond the Grace," and the speaker held the close attention of all throughout his discourse. Mr. Ritchie was formally introduced by former Mayor G. W. V. Moy, who commended the plan of the International Bible Study Association in holding such services.

The lecture covered much of the Scriptures from Genesis to Revelation, and the speaker was very strong in his contention that there is an opportunity for purgation from sin beyond the grave, declaring that the Scriptures as a whole support this thought.

"Every knee shall bow and every tongue confess that He is God," said the speaker, and since this has not yet taken place, its fulfillment must be future; beyond the grave many knees will bow which have never bowed before.

"According to the language in which it was first written," said the evangelist, "now is the day of salvation, now is the accepted time, implying that there is another day of salvation, and another acceptable time." It was also declared that there are two judgment days, corresponding to two days of salvation. He showed that while the judgment of the saints, those who are really Christians, is now in progress and has been for 1,800 years, the judgment of the world must wait till the church's judgment is completed. The world's judgment day, as the Apostle Peter shows, is to be 1,000 years long, said the speaker. This will be ample time in which to resurrect all mankind and give them an opportunity to learn of Christ and attain unto eternal life, or reject Him and pass into eternal death, "the second death."

It was further pointed out that the subject of the resurrection is sometimes misunderstood; that there are in fact two resurrections. "The revised version better translates it," said Mr. Ritchie, "unto the resurrection of judgment, showing that the church will in the first resurrection be immediately rewarded with full, perfect life, while the world will through a process of judgments be gradually lifted up out of their degradation, gradually resurrected to the plane of perfect human life once held by father Adam. Since Christ has given Himself 'a ransom for all, to be testified in due time,' it must of necessity follow that all will 'come unto the knowledge of the Truth.'"

ORCHESTRA TO BE HEARD AT RECREATION LECTURE

On every pleasing feature in connection with the lecture tomorrow before the members of the Recreation Committee and other interested citizens will be the musical selections played by the Junior Municipal Orchestra. Their performance will be in no sense an exhibition but they have been invited to do their share in giving pleasure to others because they are themselves, young exponents of what the whole recreation movement means to America.

Miss A. A. Melvin, supervisor of Public Recreation Work, said today:

"Our country was founded on the principle of political democracy but it has been left to the different countries of Europe to foster democracy in the fields of art. All Italy can sing. Germany as a nation is known for its musicians, in France all the for its musicians. Any native of Sweden can dance in graceful measure. In France all the world's a stage. But America, too, is now beginning to democratize these arts which create a spirit of joyousness, and recreation workers all over the and are pointing out the way.

"In order that any art may be truly democratic, however, there must be an appreciative audience as well as enthusiastic performers. In this regard a special word may be said with reference to the Junior and Senior Municipal Orchestras of Plainfield. The members of these two organizations are glad to come together for mutual enjoyment as they play together but their pleasure would be greater still if they had the encouragement of many more attentive listeners. Let Plainfield show that it has caught the spirit of this new democracy. Let those who cannot produce the music themselves form large and appreciative audiences of music lovers at the regular weekly meetings of the orchestras. The Senior Orchestra meets on Mondays at the Washington School.

NEW YORK CITY DURING HOLIDAYS

"Do Your Xmas Shopping Early" Signs Conspicuously Displayed.

New York, Dec. 8—"Do Your Christmas Shopping Early," reads the inscription on posters and cards which have been widely displayed throughout the city for some time. No man or woman living in New York or coming to this city on a visit could fail to see these signs. They were everywhere and perhaps that is the reason that this year the Christmas shopping has indeed begun earlier than in former years. The S. P. U. G., as the Society for the Prevention of Unnecessary Gifts is called has been quite active for some time, but if the propaganda of the society has been at all effective, it could have been so only within an extremely limited circle, probably only among a certain clique of unmarried men and women of the most selfish and egostistical brand who never had a kind thought for the kiddies.

Evidently the merchants have had no apprehension that the agitation carried on by the S. P. U. G. would seriously interfere with Christmas business. Even tariff tinkering, I. W. W. and other labor evils and the prospect of new financial legislation by Congress could not frighten the dealers in Christmas goods and, with a reckless disregard of the high cost of living, they stocked up their shops to overflowing with the most tempting wares for the Yuletide ever seen in this old town.

It seems reasonable to assume that the retail merchants are the best judges of the financial condition of the people. They come constantly in contact with the people, know what and how much the latter are buying and, having thus their hand on the financial pulse of the buyers at all times, they must naturally be the best judges of the purchasing ability of the people with whom they deal. If this is granted, the attitude of the merchants, as expressed by their holiday displays would indicate that in their judgment there is money enough in the city to justify the merchants to offer to the public what they do.

Money may be somewhat close, but the merchants know that the tightness is only temporary and that it will have no material effect upon this year's Christmas trade. The quantity as well as the quality of the goods displayed in the various shops is fully up to the standard of the last few years and if there has been any change in the character of the goods displayed, it will not be apparent to the casual observer. Careful investigators may, perhaps, notice, that the display of the most expensive toys and other holiday goods is perhaps a trifle more limited than a year ago and that medium-priced toys and useful gifts show a greater predominance than in former that may be, the difference is not material.

Currents events and achievements in the world's work are always to some extent reflected n the toys of children of the period. The war on the Balkan peninsula and the internal troubles in Mexico have left their imprint in the realm of toys, as they have influenced the realm of women's fashion. A warlike spirit is clearly reflected in the toys, especially in those for boys, and military equipments on a miniature scale form a prominent feature this year. The latest achievements in several branches of science are also shown in the form of racing automobiles, submarine boats, hydro-aeroplanes, "wireless" outfits, toy telephones and other toys of a mechanical or scientific nature.

The character of the toys for girls has also been influenced by some of the current events. Never before has there been so large a display of dolls in bridal finery as this year and it is quite likely that the recent White House wedding had something to do with this phenomenon.

The Panama Canal and its approaching completion are responsible for many toys and games which may be classed among this year's novelties. There are many models of the canal some quite elaborate, with their locks and ships ready to pass through. There are also numerous games in which the Panama Canal figures in some way.

Although a great many of the tops, especially of the simpler kinds, are made in this country the bulk of the better class of toys of every description are imported from Germany and France. Russia, Sweden and Japan, particularly the latter, have also entered the toy market in this country with more or less success and some of the Japanese toys are remarkable in their originality and beauty as well as for their low selling price. Russia supplies principally wooden toys for very small children and Sweden dolls for the girls and cutlery for the boys.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 38.

HAVE you read the Want Ads. in today's paper? If you haven't, you've missed some mighty interesting reading.

Turn to the Classified Columns, and you will fin dan array of human wants that will surprise you.

The WANT AD. columns form a mirror in which are reflected the little, everyday desires of people of all stations in life.

The WANT AD. columns are the natural market place for human wants. Here buyer and seller meet—here are the heart stories of men and women seeking employment—here are the business announcments of mrchants who cannot as yet afford to be big display advertisers, but who will be some day—here are little stories of men looking for and holding out business opportunities.

From the woman who wants a servant to the man who seeks an investment opportunity for thousands of dollars—from the merchant desirious of securing competent employes to the man who has a second-hand automobile to dispose of—from the anxious loser of some prized article to the eye specialist, or the tailor, or the furniture dealer, or the teacher of dancing, or the hair-dresser, or the milliner, or the real estate agent, on the hunt for buyers of their respective services—such, dear reader, is something of the scope of Classified advertising.

Keep an eye on the WANT ADS! They are all very human messages, indeed.

Good Put-Up Lunches.

Put-up lunches are a burden on the shoulders of many women. The occasional picnic lunch in the summer is easy enough to plan, although it may sometimes be difficult to prepare. But it occurs rather infrequently and the appetites of those who eat it are keyed to the top notch. The put-up lunch that must be eaten day after day is a different matter. It must be varied, tempting and nourishing. Moreover, it must be easy to carry.

There are so many bottles that keep liquids hot or cool as the case may be, and they come in so many prices, that anybody can possess one. At present there is a school-lunch box—or any sort of lunch box, for that matter—that costs a dollar. It is neatly covered in an imitation of leather, is light and strong. There is a big compartment for the lunch and in a little partition at one end a bottle holding a cupful for hot or cold liquids.

The possession of such a bottle makes the put-up lunch much easier to prepare. Here are suggestions for put-up lunches with and without a bottle for hot or cold liquids.

Hot Liquids.

The school child's luncheon must be nourishing and it must be satisfying. A lunch of bread and milk is nourishing but it does not satisfy a craving for flavor, for sweets, that most other children have. So their lunches must have variety. If they are monotonous the child will crave and doubtless eat candy and cakes bought at the shops so conveniently placed near schools.

Here are five lunches, suggestive of a week's menu, for a child up to ten or twelve, who possess a bottle for hot liquids.

First day, vegetable soup, brown bread and butter sandwiches, sponge cake and some dates. Second day, egg sandwiches, hot cocoa, an orange and some molasses candy. Third day, warm milk flavored with nutmeg or salt, unsweetened, crisp wafers or crackers, a slice of cold chicken and a couple of plain drop cakes. Fourth day, hot cocoa, a hard boiled egg—boiled thirty minutes to be digestible, the yolk mashed and flavored with salt and pepper and butter—white bread and butter sandwiches, a raw apple and some maple sugar. Fifth day, clear mutton broth, brown bread sandwiches, rice pudding, baked in a paper case or at least carried in one, and two or three figs.

For the older school child or for the young woman or man who for some reason or other carries a lunch to work, the meal must be somewhat more elaborate and, in the case of boys, larger, than those already given. Here are a week's menus, suitable for a school teacher or other young woman who works or for a young man.

First day, hot cocoa or tea—which should be poured from the grounds into the bottle after it has stood for two or three minutes—cold mutton sandwiches, a celery heart, chocolate cake or oranges. Second day, vegetable soup, lettuce sandwiches, deviled eggs, a tart and an apple. Third day, dried pea soup, brown bread and butter sandwiches, olives, potato salad neatly arranged in a lettuce leaf and wrapped in waxed paper, an orange and lady fingers. Fourth day, tea or cocoa, cold chicken sandwiches, a mould of tomato jelly with a little mayonnaise in a paper case, nuts and raisins. Fifth day, hot consomme, olive and egg sandwiches, slice of cold chicken, fruit and candy. For the young girl or boy in High School these menus can be simplified by using cocoa always instead of tea.

Cold Lunches.

The school child's lunch can be like those outlined even if it is cold, excepting that cold milk must be substituted for the warm beverage. In the case of the lunches for older persons, if there is no possibility of hot liquids with the lunch, there must be more sandwiches or salad or whatever the mainstay of the lunch may be, or else cold milk, tea or cocoa.

Some Cookery Suggestions

CHRISTMAS CANDIES.

THE simplest candies are best for the children. If neatly packed in attractive boxes they will be just as welcome as the most expensive bonbons sold in the shops. Candy boxes of any desired size may be purchased. In packing the candy use oiled paper and bristol board to separate the layers of candy.

What the Children Like.

Molasses Candy.—Take two cupfuls of molasses, two cupfuls of brown sugar, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-half cupful of water, one-fourth cupful of vinegar. When boiled pull until light.

Chocolate Almonds.—Blanch the almonds by putting them for a few minutes in hot water and rubbing off the skins. Melt some chocolate, take up each almond separately with a long pin, dip in the chocolate and lay on a buttered paper to cool.

Butterscotch.—Take three cupfuls of white sugar, half a cupful each of water and vinegar, one tablespoonful of butter and eight drops of extract of lemon. Boil without stirring till it will snap and break. Just before taking from the fire add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda. Pour into buttered tins and mark into inch squares when cold.

Delicious Sweets.

Chocolate Peppermints.—Take three cupfuls of granulated sugar, one cupful of hot water and one teaspoonful of cream of tartar, put into a saucepan and boil till it hairs. Remove from fire and add five drops of oil of peppermint, beat hard till it begins to get cool, then drop by spoonfuls on glazed paper. When cool dip into four ounces of melted chocolate and put back on glazed paper to harden.

Nougat.—Boil one pound of granulated sugar and one cupful of hot water slowly till the water has evaporated and the sirup begins to turn yellow. Do not stir while boiling. Take half a pound of blanched and dried almonds, put them in a cool oven or leave the door open and when they begin to turn yellow, they are ready to add to the candy when it reaches the same point. Pour the candy on a buttered pan half an inch thick and mark it in squares before it cools.

Pretty, Attractive and Useful Gifts for Christmas.

No matter how small the gift is, if it shows that time and thought has been spent upon it by the giver, it becomes of more value than something which has been bought at the last minute.

Here are a number of inexpensive and useful gifts which can be quickly made at the eleventh hour and yet will be appreciated by the recipients, for nothing is so highly valued as a piece of hand embroidery.

Pattern number 14652 contains a design for 2 round candle-shades each 4½ inches deep, five different designs for napkin rings, each 7½ inches long and 2¼ inches wide, top and bottom, covers for a pin-cushion, each 7 inches in diameter, a picture frame, 9 inches by 6¼ inches and 4 wreaths of roses each 3¾.

The candle-shades and picture-frame designs should each be stamped on round thread linen and embroidered in solid work and eyelets with white mercerized cotton or linen thread. The shades should be sewed together with invisible stitches then tacked to a frame of stiff paper.

The napkin-rings should be embroidered in solid work and eyelets in white on heavy white linen, and fastened with a button and buttonhole so that they may be laid flat when laundered. These are particularly suitable for use in a summer bungalow or for house parties.

The pin-cushion covers should be made of handkerchief linen embroidered in solid work and eyelets. A pin-cushion, 5¼ inches in diameter, should be placed between the two covers and a ribbon should be run through the eyelets to hold them together.

The wreaths may be used on boudoir-caps, towels, pin-cushion covers or bags and should be developed in solid work, outline and seed-stitch in white or colors.

This pattern will be supplied to readers for fifteen cents.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

Coat making at home does not possess the difficulties of some seasons ago, when to attempt one at home was to court failure owing to the numerous paddings and stiffenings required to produce a smart effect. Quite the opposite is modish this season. Everything must be soft and clinging. For thinner materials an interlining of lamb's wool is the only thing necessary aside from the regular lining.

7352 is a design that is well suited to the reversable materials, plaids and double faced fabrics. An economical and attractive fad this season is to finish both sides equally well and turn the coat according to the costume worn. For instance, one of the new reversable materials (ranging in price from $2 to $8 a yard) is a soft tan on one side and white on the other. Made after a design like the coat shown here, the seams are strapped and stitched on both sides, tan strips on the white and white on the tan. When worn with the tan side out the collar and wide turned back cuffs are white and vice versa.

To make this coat in size 36 it requires 4½ yards of 42 inch material, with ¾ yard of satin or velvet for the collar and cuffs.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes; 32 to 42.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and inclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Daily Christmas Hint

Odd Little Last Minute Offerings

There is always a friend or two who at the last minute have not been supplied with a Christmas offering. This person does not occupy a prominent place on one's list. Still something must be provided in the shape of a present.

For a woman the little needlecase illustrated will be just the thing you can make for the hurry up gift. As you see, it is a sunbonnet affair. The hood section is separated in the middle of the front, and on the inside are leaves of white flannel for the needles. The bonnet pictured is of yellow satin dotted with black, and the puffed crown and hood are of yellow silk.

CHRISTMAS GIFT.

Two Scarves Make a Fascinating Dressing Sack.

THE LATEST IN NEGLIGEES.

What to give your girl chum? That's the question agitating the minds of many of us just now. Stop worrying and decide upon a dainty little dressing sack made like the model pictured.

It is fashioned from two chiffon scarfs. One of pale yellow flowered in terra cotta tones is thrown over the shoulders to make a graceful drapery; the other of plain yellow chiffon forms a kimono bodice and two short peplum tunics.

Tunic Design For the Short Woman.

The tunic is the thing this season, but when one thinks of the awful possibilities of this drapery one shudders for the woman who never knows what to wear on her own initiative. Ten chances to one this woman will insist upon her couturiere incorporating a tunic into her "best frock."

The short mondaine will tell you she has been warned not to wear a tunic, for it will cut her in thirds. Still, there is a phase of this fashionable effect which she can wear. It is made in two long points at the sides, which nearly touch the hem of the dress. This tunic is not only becoming, but will add inches to her appearance.

AN ATTRACTIVE SILK FROCK.

The tunic frock in the cut, however, is designed for the tall, thin girl and is of plain and brocaded silk, combined throughout the model in an artistic fashion. The bodice and lower part of the tunic are of the brocade, while the sleeves, lower skirt and gathered drapery are of the plain fabric.

WISE WORDS FOR WOMEN.

The Boy Was Crying.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—The Letter to Santa Claus and The Answer.

"I SAW such a poor little boy today," began daddy to Jack and Evelyn. "He was looking in a shop window where there were loads of toys, and as he looked great, huge tears dropped from his eyes and trickled down his face.

"Then he was shoved out of the way by some cruel rich children who had never known what it was to want anything that they didn't at once get. The rich children called him 'beggar boy,' at which he burst into sobs.

"I spoke to him and asked him where he lived, and for a moment he couldn't speak, but between sobs he began to tell me of his life. He was very ragged and quite dirty.

"He told me his daddy had died in the summer and that a few months afterward his mother had married a horrid, cruel man who hated him and who called him 'little nuisance.' The stepfather didn't like to work, and as soon as he had used up his wife's savings he told the little boy he would have to beg or steal his food, for he wouldn't be bothered with him.

"The little boy said that he had always had a happy home, a good warm fire, plenty to eat when he came home from school, and he simply would not beg or steal. One night he came home, of course bringing nothing. His stepfather saw he could neither make him beg nor steal and so forced him to leave the house. His mother was so afraid of his stepfather that she did not say a word. Now, he had been away from home for two weeks. He spent his nights with a little school friend, but he could not stay there much longer, as the boy's parents were so poor they could hardly keep their own children. He dreaded the cold, but what he felt more than anything was that Santa Claus did not know where he was and that he would have no Christmas."

"Let's write Santa a letter right away," said Evelyn, "and tell him about the little boy. What's his name, daddy?"

"His name is Harry Armstrong, and tell Santa to bring his presents here, for I've told him he can run errands for us and stay here for awhile."

So Evelyn wrote: "Dear Santa—A poor little boy named Harry Armstrong is afraid he'll have no Christmas. So please, dear Santa, send him a warm suit, an overcoat, a sled, some skates and lots of candy. Your loving Evelyn."

Jack and Evelyn had just gone to bed when daddy walked into their room with a note and a stamp of soot on it. Evelyn hurriedly opened it and read aloud: "Dear Evelyn—I won't forget about Harry Armstrong on Christmas, and you were very dear to think of some one else who wanted a Christmas. Your friend, Santa Claus."

"Hurrah!" shouted Jack and Evelyn together.

Playing Professional Rules, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Five Trimmed Trenton.

SPECTACULAR CONTEST

Speedy Team Work and Excellent Shooting a Feature of Game With State Capital Contingent on the Queen City Y. M. C. A. Court.

Displaying a complete reversal of form following the discouraging exhibition of last week against the Somerville team, the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. basketball contingent came into its own again Saturday night and walloped the Trenton Y. M. C. A. representatives by a score of 48 to 11. Displaying none of their heralded versatility against the speed exhibited by the local players, the visitors were never in the running for winner's laurels and the game resolved itself into a battle in which the Trentonians played defensively and the locals offensively.

Coming here as exponents of the professional basketball code of rules, the visitors insisted on the usage of these restrictions and after much deliberation the Plainfielders agreed to play "pro" rules during the entire contest. Despite the fact that the Capital City crew was familiar with this code and the locals knew little or nothing of the new regulations when they took the floor, the Queen City performers soon caught up with the visitors who were playing their own game and from the middle of the second half until the final score was hung up, the rival quintet was never in the running.

The allowance of dribbing and many modifications in the "pro" rules injected speed into the game and after once familiarizing themselves with the new restrictions the home players swept their rivals completely off their feet. Superior field goal shooting and clock like working of the Association team's signals were brilliant features of the Plainfielders' play and they outdid their opponents in every department of the court game.

For the local team Moulton and Gavett were leaders on the offense while Brynairski, Glover and Farmer all contributed their share on the defense. Glover returned to the game after an absence of two weeks and considerably strengthened the guarding department with his consistent work during the first half. Moulton was plainly the victim of a shooting "jinx" Saturday night and although he made many brilliant throws to the net a majority of them launched on the ring and rolled off. Lutz was the most consistent performer for the visitors and Fox was also conspicuous because of his good all-around playing.

"MAC" SAYS

Still you can't always tell, there have been football referees with as many as three or four friends and a few politicians that were really almost honest.

In behalf of baseball, golf, tennis, hockey or almost any other sporting page ingredient with the exception of white hopeing, wrestling and footballing, we move that the referee stunt be abolished. These exclusive three are the only ones in which the referee has a lookin.

That field on the other side of the "pond" Saturday afternoon resembled a miniature battlefield with the hundreds of spectators playing the role of Mexicans and one Phillip supporting the Huerta cause.

White hopeing has nothing on this business of staging football championship battles. No less than four of the title clashes were announced to be decided in the little village of Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon.

Baseball has nothing on its sister sport, football, as a waterloo for referees and a mint for magnates.

Haven't had the pleasure of writing that "obituary" for "Doc" Doyle yet. You're not going to let those 200 simoleans slip through your fingers, are you "Doc?"

Many an athlete would welcome the opportunity thrown in Doyle's path but many more would have to be guaranteed the shekels beforehand in order to take out the license tag.

North Plainfield High School is a long way from Plainfield High but I wonder why those basketball stars insist on making the gap still wider. Hope Chapel via Front street to Scotch Plains.

The cast of characters that supported P. H. S. was short and sweet. Those small sized samples put up a good game for the school team, however, and will probably be heard from again before the season is over.

Once more a player of the old Ajax school comes to the fore. As captain of the Plainfield High School team, Hetfield was some team.

Manager Dillon, of the Franklins, appears to be a loop-the-loop artist. At least the typewritten missles that are being passed around savor of this fact.

We used to aver that as a political boss, "Doc" Doyle would be some winner.

Although "Doc" is like Captain Ketchum, of the Yale team, inasmuch as he claims football is not for the newspapers, he is very different from the Eli manager in his publicity efforts. Doyle sees to it that his newspapers get the details of the game in cartoon form and we have yet to see two accounts of a Yale battle that coincide.

Once more that battle for the city basketball championship has been brought before us. Hope Chapel will visit the Y. M. C. A. court for the first game Christmas Day afternoon.

BELLEVILLE Y. M. C. A. NEXT.

Belleville Y. M. C.A., of Newark, will be the opponents of the local Association's team on the Plainfield court Saturday night. Farmer, who has been substituting at guard during Glover's absence, will be unable to play next Saturday but Glover has sufficiently recovered to warrant his playing a full game in his old position.

Hope and P. H. S. Forwards Had a Battle All Their Own on Chapel Court.

SOME FINE SHOOTING

Chapelites Add Another Victory at the Expense of Plainfield High School in Latter's First Game of the Season—Score 50 to 22.

Scoring eighteen out of the twenty-two points credited to the Plainfield High School basketball team in a game with Hope Chapel on the latter's court, Saturday night, Andrew Hetfield, acting-captain of the schoolboy aggregation, was defeated by the chapelites by a final count of 50 to 22. Playing like whirlwinds and making sensational shots from all angles of the floor, the Hope team completely squelched its red and blue rivals and never did the schoolboys have a look-in during the evening of battling.

Hetfield and Johnny Heron supplied the entertainment for one of the largest crowds that ever packed the chapel "gym" and the efforts of both of these stars were the subject for repeated rounds of rattling applause. Both teams had their respective bands of cohorts and the spectators were quick to single out and recognize any brilliant play or point-winning move pulled off by the players taking part in the engagement. ontrary to expectations, Plainfield High School used but a half dozen players and all of these men showed up remarkably well considering the fact that they have played together only in two practices. Each aggregation displayed a repertoire of signal plays that proved to be the real thing in gallery amusement and despite the fact that the schoolboys were compelled to rely on their leader for the necessary two points in nearly every case, they pulled off some rare feats along the passing line. Hunter, a new man in the chapel lineup, put up a neat article of basketball, holding his opponent to a solitary field goal and caging a brace himself just by way of variation.

At the end of the first half the score showed that P. H. S. had scored but nine tallies against the church team's thirty-three and although apparently doomed to defeat the red and blue fighters opened the second half with a rush and far outdid their efforts of the opening stanza. In the last half the students came within four points of their rival's mark and rolled up nearly twice their accumulation of the opening half.

LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS FAIL TO GAIN RECOGNIZANCE AS ALL-COUNTY STARS

William Peacock the Only Queen City Warrior to Be Mentioned in the All Star Selections for 1913—Records of the Teams Playing in and Near Plainfield—Mason, of Bound Brook, Second Choice for Fullback—Westfield and Rahway Has Many Stars Playing the Pigskin Game.

Plainfield schoolboys figured rather meagerly in the ratings of football experts at the close of the present gridiron season and the only Plainfield H. S. pigskin warrior to gain the slightest recognition is William Peacock, captain and halfback on the red and blue aggregation. Peacock was chosen as second string man on the All-Union County eleven: Marsh, of Westfield, and Arthur Armstrong, of Rahway, being granted preference over the Queen City star.

In the Union Count All-Star cast Rahway High School's warriors figure prominently and this team was easily the leader of the county teams during the season just closed, with Roselle running a good second. Battin, Westfield and Plainfield follow along in the order named for county honors, Pingry being far below the average set by other elevens. This district had a wealth of fine players and in selecting an all-star outfit it is possible to name only a small part. In the All-County eleven at ends are the redoubtable Brooks, of Rahway; Randall, of Westfield, and E. Durand, of Rahway. The best tackles were VanCleef, of Roselle, and R. Mantlo of Rahway. At guard were Durst, of Rahway, and Salm, of Battin. Ward, of Rahway, and Poole, of Westfield were the leading centres. E. Armstrong, of Rahway, was the ideal quarterback, with Cherry, of Westfield, running a good second. In the backfield the laurel winners are Marsh, of Westfield; A. Armstrong and Rossel, of Rahway; Peacock, of Plainfield; Priff, of Battin, and Benedict and Davies, of Roselle. Of this banner cast Brooks, Randall, E. Durand, VanCleef, R. Mantlo, Durst Ward, Poole, E. Armstrong, Cherry, Marsh, A. Armstrong, Rossel, Benedict and Davies played against Plainfield High School and exhibited rare football skill on local and home gridirons.

In the Central New Jersey district comprised of New Brunswick, Trenton, Phillipsburg, Bound Brook, Somerville and Bordentown, Trenton was easily the champion. Of the brilliants of this division, Mason, of Bound Brook, was second choice for the fullback position, being surpassed by a small margin by Rayan, of Trenton State Schools.

BASEBALL MEN IN HARMONY.

New York, Dec. 9.—Magnates of the National League gathering here today for their annual meeting ventured the prediction that no friction would develop during the meeting and that everything would be harmonious. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and will be preceded by the customary meeting of the board of director's. The chief item of business will be formal election of Governor Tener, of Pennsylvania, to succeed Thomas J. Lynch as president of the league. Various matters left over since the close of last season will be cleaned up and there probably will be more or less discussion concerning some proposed changes in the scoring rules. A number of the managers will attend the meeting along with the club owners and some trades in players may result from their coming together, but of late years it has become customary to leave the trading go over until the spring meeting of the league.

field girls put up a splendid game and fought for winner's laurels until the final whistle sounded.

Although hanging on to the minus end of the tally card from the outset, the Queen City players exhibited their skill in executing teamwork and at times completely bewildered their rivals, whose familiarity with the Bloomfield court helped them considerably at all stages. The home quintet played a remarkable guarding game and seldom were the Plainfielders allowed to attempt a field goal shot. Two field goals and a penalty throw comprised their card for the afternoon, while the Bloomfield maidens hung up a half dozen field goals, all of which came from pretty angles and were excellent attempts.

The teams appeared to be evenly matched and on a court with which they were more familiar the Queen City girls would have probably put up a far better article of the court game. At the end of the first half the score stood 9 to 2, a solitary field goal being the visitors' contribution in this period. In the second half the Bloomfield girls were held to a third as many tallies as they rung up in the initial period and the Plainfielders tallied the same number of scores as their rivals in this half.

Scotch Plains Parish House Five Succumbed to Speedy Pace.

VAN MATER THE LEADER

Final Score 35 to 28—Tally Stood at a Tie During Most of the Contest—Abrams' Absence Felt By Boroughites.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team went to Scotch Plains last Saturday night and defeated the Parish House five by the score of 35 to 28. The game was fast and exciting and during the first half the score was tie most of the time. The borough team was somewhat crippled without Abrams, but Newkirk played well at guard.

The first half started off fast and neither team scored during the first five minutes of play. North Plainfield obtained a five-point lead early in the game with a basket and foul from Van Mater and a basket made by Conroy. Almost every foul that the local boys committed was counted against them in the score as Captain Dallas knew the baskets and dropped all but two in. With three minutes to play in this half the score was 14 to 14 and it was then that the visiting team made a spurt that practically won the game. In the remaining time they caged four field goals and one foul while they held their opponents scoreless making the score 23 to 14. In this half each member of the home team made one basket while Van Mater led the boroughites with three.

The game was slower in the second half and numerous fouls were called on both teams. About the middle of this period the home team came within four points of tying the score but then the visitors drew away and were seven points to the good when the final whistle blew. "Duke" Van Mater scored twenty-one of his team's points while Dallas and Ricketts were the chief point-getters for Scotch Plains. A return game will be played in Saengerbund Hall in the near future.

PLENTY OF ACTION IN HUNT CLUB'S LONG RUN

The run of the Watchung Hounds on Saturday took a large field of riders through the most picturesque part of Union county. From the time the hounds were cast in on the Murray farm, Terrill road, near Fanwood, until the finish on the Robert A. Nicholas farm at Mt. Pleasant, a distance of about eighteen miles, there was plenty of action.

After the hounds were checked for the first time at Goodman's Crossing on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, and taken up again and cast in on the other side of the railroad tracks, they ran in the direction of the Colonia Country Club, at Rahway. In this line there was continuous stiff fencing which was responsible for Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Marjorie Dana and R. H. Towner coming to grief. Fortunately they escaped with nothing more than a shaking up and continued.

The final line was over an open, erappy country, during which many automobile parties followed on the roadways and lanes even though a good part of the chase could not be seen therefrom. The following were in the field:

R. C. Finch, M. F. H., L. B. Smith, Frde Alpers, H. A. Bourne, Miss Gertrude Noe, Col. C. E. S. Bellows, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Marjorie Dana, R. H. Towner, H. L. Finch, Brown Rolston, J. J. O'Donohue, S. D. French, Beverley Brown and Huntsman Harrison.

FIRST CITY CHAMPIONSHIP GAME IN THE Y. M. C. A. CHRISTMAS DAY AFTERNOON.

After considerable dickering and numerous conferences, Manager George Leighs, of the Hope Chapel basketball team, and the Y. M. C. A. manager got together yesterday afternoon and finally agreed on definite details under which the opening game for the basketball championship of this city and borough will be fought Christmas Day afternoon.

Both managers were desirous of booking the first game of the three-cornered series on his own court and both were reluctant to yield a point in the issue. A suggestion was made yesterday, however, to flip a coin in order to settle the matter and to this both parties agreed. A neutral party tossed the coin and Manager Leighs called the wrong, turn thereby givng the choice to the Y. M. C. A. leader.

The game will be played in the afternoon of Christmas Day at 3:30 o'clock. Frank Rimmer, of Hope Chapel, will be the referee and Eugene Lidgate, of the Y. M. C. A., will umpire the initial match. This latter arrangement is in accordance with the A. A. U. rules which give the visiting manager the right to appoint the referee five days before the match. Both of the officials are competent men and the teams are fortunate in securing their services.

THIRTY-FOUR CYCLISTS IN LONG GRIND ON BIG GARDEN SAUCER

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

One minute after the hour that separates night and morning, Arthur Zimmerman, recognized as the peer of pedal artists two decades ago, pulled the trigged that smokefully sent seventeen cyclists grinding at a dizzy speed around the huge wooden saucer in Madison Square Garden. This grinding will continue for six days and six nights and next Saturday night at 10 o'clock those who remain in the race will divide a purse that amounts to $5,000. Shortly before midnight the crowd packed the upper and also the second gallery and a few scattered in the center of the bowl to await the ultimate decision 142 hours in the future.

When the pistol cracked the riders made one grand rush for the boarded track and all appeared in the best of physical condition for the nerve shattering test that they will undergo during the week to come. The men making up the seventeen teams are all equally divided into sprinters and pluggers and the twenty-first annual affair promises to upset many old established records and the bike fans are looking forward to one of the greatest races in the history of the sport.

There were fully 10,000 followers of the sport in the old historic arena and many of the faces there at the opening of the grind last night will be regular occupants of seats, morning, afternoon and night, every day this week. People dressed in evening costumes as though they were attending a theatre function or some grand ball rather than a bike race were present at the track and lent an air of gaiety to the occasion.

Thirty-four riders, "trained to the minute," circled the track to "warm up" before the starter's signal was given and as each rider passed the band he was greeted by the rendition of his national air. Many and varied were the color schemes around the huge circle and the riders' costumes added much to the brilliant spectacle.

Records will doubtlessly fall by the wayside this week as the track is the fastest one on which a race has ever been run in this country. The pedalists have to travel at a speedy clip in order to keep from rolling off the bevel and an amateur who attempted to perform with one of the entrant's steeds just before the race opened last night went spinning down the smooth boards to the edge of the track before his progress was impeded by an obstacle in his path.

Hardly had the top-line spinning been inaugurated than one rider drew a puncture and within five minutes after the start one of the teams had changed riders. Frequent spills of a minor nature were recorded all through the early hours of the morning and Peter Drobach proved to be the most consistent performer during the opening rounds. Three teams are listed at the Garden as favorites to finish well up in the prize-money but the dope is apt to be upset once more as it has already been so frequently this year in athletic contests and Dame Fortune is likely to take any of the riders out of the race and obliterate any chances that a team may have.

The effort to gain the coveted lap, something that is tried in every six-day race, was early taken up and many of the seventeen pedal pushers made it a business to attempt to get the jump that may mean victory. Eddie Root was the first to try this feat but after a lap or two he was quickly overhauled and pulled back into the family circle once more. Then Pankenbusch, the Teuton, went out in earnest and after some exciting pedaling was brought to accounts by none other than our own Bobby Walthour.

A collision occurred this morning on the Madison avenue turn while Keefe, of Cleveland, was riding rapidly around the track in the lead, Applehaus and Walthour collided and went sprawling down the embankment. Carmen, who was close behind, struck both of the riders and went down in the heap. Carmen was picked up unconscious and carried to his quarters. Dr. Cox, the physician of the race, worked over him and after a few minutes Carmen was able to sit up. He had hurt his arm. It was announced he would be able to continue in the race.

EXCLUSIVE STORIES AND DETAILS OF THE SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE.

For full accounts of happenings in the six-day bicycle race which opened in Madison Square Garden at 12 o'clock this morning read the sporting pages of the Daily Press. A correct account of each day's events will be given each afternoon by a sporting writer who will represent this paper in the Garden each night of the race.

"Inside" information regarding the riders, training camps and program of events will also be given each day and the details will be first hand and absolutely reliable. When the race was sent under way last night the Daily Press reporter occupied a seat in the press box at the historic garden and will be a fixture on the edge of the wooden bowl until the prizes are awarded next Saturday night.

N. P. H. S. GIRLS TRIM OPPONENTS

Cranford High School Maidens Outscored by Boroughites Saturday Afternoon.

GAME ALWAYS CLOSE

Final Score 19 to 8—Miss Burtis Again the Star for Winners—Miss Spencer and Miss Douglas Also In the Limelight.

The North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team won its second game of the season Saturday afternoon when the Cranford team went down to defeat in Saengerbund Hall by the score of 19 to 8. The local team appeared to be in poor condition and the visiting guards showed them up by all around playing and spoiled many shots although they committed many fouls.

The local players showed the result of a two day's lay-off and could score only when under the goal. Miss Spencer made her only goal of the game in the first few minutes of play and then Cranford evened matters up with a field goal. Miss Burtis, although erratic at times, did the scoring for the boroughites but in the first half she could get only five points. The visiting forwards made four fouls and the home team was awarded one point making the score 8 to 6 at the end of the first half.

It was in the second half that Miss Burtis began to play and despite her big guard made three pretty shots. As usual, the local team could not shoot fouls and lost fully a dozen points in this way. For Cranford, Miss Lewis was the only one to score in this period and she made a beautiful shot that seemed almost impossible. Lucy Douglass, playing center, again came into the limelight by making a long clean basket from the center of the floor. This is the second shot of this kind that she has made this year.

FAIL TO DECIDE FOOTBALL TITLE

Holy Cross and Franklins Fought to a 6 to 6 Tie on Cricket Field.

TOUCHDOWN RULED OUT

Newark Eleven Made a Six Point Score in the Fourth Quarter But Referee Phillips Didn't See Fit to Allow the Score to Stand.

Although it had been heralded about the city and county as the rubber game of the series between the Holy Cross and Franklin A. A. football elevens, the contest on Cricket Field Saturday afternoon turned out unsatisfactorily to all concerned and as a result the teams will have to replay the contest which ended in a 6 to 6 tie. The visitors came within an ace of capturing the bacon and many unbiased spectators still concede them the rightful holders of the title, if there is any, attached to the winning of the third battle.

Pushing a seemingly legitimate touchdown across the line in the final quarter the visitors were treated to a harsh bump when Referee Phillips ruled the six points out, claiming that the ball carrier stepped over the chalk mark when he was sprinting the lone yard that separated his team from victory. Phillips claimed that he saw the man step on the white-wash stripe but even a microscopic examination of the terra firma in the south west corner of the field where the play in question was made would fail to reveal any white mark. Lowering clouds dimmed the visions of every individual on the playing field and the lines that had been trampled on by hundreds of rabid enthusiasts were entirely indiscernable.

However, the referee sustained his point despite the angry protests of not a few rooters, many of whom were Holy Cross cohorts and as a result we will be treated to some more football next Saturday afternoon amid wintry blasts and with snow promised as a side issue on the program.

Holy Cross scored early in the first quarter when the Franklins fumbled on their 10-yard line and a Holy Cross man fell on the ball. On the next play Coyle carried the ball over the line for the first six points of the game. From this point on Holy Cross was completely outplayed by the visiting aggregation and several times it looked as though the Newarkers would sew up the game with a touchdown. The Franklins secured their score in the second quarter on straight rushes down the field, the backfield going through for big gains on every try. Kiefer went through guard for a touchdown when the Franklins were on the local's two yard line. Stager played a brilliant game for the visitors in the back field, his runs netting his team big gains. Smith and Wilson played best for Holy Cross. The lineup and summary:

FRANKLIN.		HOLY CROSS.
Graham	Left Guard.	Mair
Coburn, Yule	Left Tackle.	Smith

Leslie, T. Judge	Right Guard.	Harrigan

Touchdowns—Coyle, Kiefer. Referee—Phillips, Holy Cross. Umpire—K. Kifer, Princeton. Timers—Howe and Monk. Time of quarters—15 minutes.

FRANKLIN A. A. WILL PLAY HERE AGAIN NEXT SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Despite the fact that he issued a signed statement saying that his team would positively not appear here again next Saturday afternoon with the same football officials doing duty, Manager Dilly, of the Franklin A. A., thought better of the argument this morning and wired the sporting editor of this paper to withhold the statement he made here Saturday night. In that announcement he declared that he would not bring his team to Plainfield again unless Jimmy Alverson, of Newark, did the refereeing and that he was very much dissatisfied with the rulings of last Saturday afternoon.

Manager Doyle, in an interview this morning stated that the Franklins would be on hand here again next week to play the Holy Cross outfit and as far as is known, no changes in the officials have been agreed on by the managers.

ONE SANTA CLAUS FOR ALL IS PLAN

Men's Bible Clubs and Classes to Provide Gifts for Poor Children

APPOINT COMMITTEES

Succeeds "Good Fellow" Idea Inaugurated by the Daily Press—Expect to Provide for Seven Hundred Youngsters.

As a means of increasing the usefulness of the organizations, representatives of the Federation of Men's Church Clubs and the Federation of Men's Bible Classes met at the Y. M. C. A., last night, and after deciding to have what will be known as a "Community Santa Claus" for the distribution of gifts and good cheer at Christmas time, effected an organization for carrying out the proposed plans. This will succeed the "Good Fellow" idea which was carried on so successfully by The Plainfield Daily Press, co-operating with the Charity Organization Society.

By the new plan all of the members of the two organizations as well as the churches of the city and borough will practically be held responsible for its success. It is hoped to provide a happy Christmas for about 700 poor children. The gifts will be distributed on Christmas morning chiefly in automobiles. Bonnie Burn Sanitorium will be included in the scheme, where about eighty peopl will be remembered.

As under the "Good Fellow" plan the Charity Organization, through Miss Mabelle Phillips, will supply the names of children and others who are to receive a visit from "Santa Claus." In this way it is hoped to prevent any duplication in the way of gifts.

Executive committee, Richard A. Claybrook, chairman; Samuel T. Carter, vice-president; Dr. William H. Murray, secretary; Charles A. Rice, treasurer; Arthur M. Harris, Mrs. William B. Tyler, Miss Mabelle Phillips, Mrs. D. B. Tyler, W. H. P. Veysey, Miss Mabel Pierson, Frank J. Hubbard.

Bonnie Burn Committee: Mrs. William H. Murray, chairman; Dr. Frank T. Clawson, C. T. Elliott, Miss Mabelle Phillips; publicity committee, S. T. Carter, Jr., chairman; Leslie R. Fort and Charles H. Frost; purchasing committee, Miss Ethel Millar, chairman; Miss Mabelle Phillips, secretary; Mrs. William H. Murray, Mrs. William S. Tyler, F. E. Smith; committee on contributions, W. T. Schmittmann, chairman; H. S. Munger, James McClymont, Seymour Perkins, Howard McWilliams, A. B. Cole, Charles O. Wheeler, Dr. H. C. Corbusier, Samuel Bingaman, R. R. Pentecost and Charles R. Banks.

TROLLEYMEN TO HOLD BALL TOMORROW NIGHT

Arrangements have been completed by the Dunellen Social and Athletic Club of the Public Service Corporation for its annual reception and ball tomorrow night in Sebring's Auditorium.

The committee in charge of the event consists of Harry J. Eick, general chairman; M. J. Nevins, Samuel Neill, Robert Partain, William G. Huenke, George Luhr, Frank Keenan, Harry S. Goldstein, Herbert J. Smith, John Vroom, George Mundy, John DeVine and Thomas Dorgan. The officers of the club are Herbert J. Smith, president; Robert Partain, vice president; Harry J. Eick, recording secretary; William G. Huenke, financial secretary, and George H. Luhr, treasurer.

EDITOR HUGHES GAVE TALK ON JOURNALISM

Remarks Incident to North Plainfield Twp. Improvement Society Session.

The reported action of the North Plainfield Council to have Codington avenue macadamized was endorsed at the meeting of the North Plainfield Township Improvement Society, last night, and it was voted to recommend to the County Committee that the macadamizing be continued from Johnston's Drive to the borough line. The committee on taxation reported progress.

After the business of the evening, George T. Hughes, city editor of the New York Globe, gave an interesting informal talk on "Journalism," in which he explained the "newspaper game" from the "inside," emphasizing the importance of the relationship of a newspaper to State and municipal affairs, telling of the wide influence extended by a newspaper. At the conclusion of the meeting the women's auxiliary served refreshments.

William de laR. Anderson, who represented the township at a meeting of the County Tax Board, for the purpose of securing a rebate on taxes paid by both North Plainfield and Warren townships, stated that he had been requested to prepare a list of the properties concerned and a total amount of North Plainfield's claims.

It was reported that C. C. Wheeler and George Schmidt, Jr., intended making an application for a kennel license, and Mr. Anderson suggested that the breed of dogs to be kept be investigated before action was taken and this was agreed upon. Mr. Anderson introduced a resolution recommending the abolishment of the present system in the county as well as the Tax Board, and this will be considered at a future meeting.

PARCEL POST PLANS MEAN IMPROVEMENT

New parcel post rates will go into effect on January 1. By the new rates a limit of fifty pounds weight will be received and sent within the first and second zones. The weight that will be received for all other zones will be increased to twenty pounds and the cost of sending will be greatly reduced. Up to the present time no schedule has been issued.

Considerable trouble is caused the clerks in the local postoffice by persons mailing insured or C. O. D. parcel post packages. On all parcels of this sort it is necessary to have a tag filled out in duplicate. The patron must fill out one part of the tag with the name of the person who is to receive the package and sign his own name to that which he must fill out as a duplicate. The name of the sender must appear on the reverse of both the original and duplicate slips.

To relieve the congestion at the stamp window at the local office during the Christmas rush for parcel past service, Postmaster Bird is having a stand erected on the Madison avenue side of the lobby for parcel post business. Several extra clerks will be stationed there.

WOULD ENLARGE BORO'S LIMITS

Somerville Plans to Extend its Territory Particularly to the East.

LEGISLATION NEEDED

An Expert Reports That Water is Excellent for Drinking Purposes —Some Other Matters Considered by the Council.

Preliminary steps were taken at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council of Somerville held last night for the purpose of extending the borough limits. This matter has been before the Council several times within the past few years, particularly in regard to extending the limits on the east side. Councilman Snyder, whose term of office expires with the new year, brought the matter up and advocated the appointment of a committee to consider the plan at once, as the time seemed ripe for such a movement, particularly since considerable building operations are under way between Somerville and Bound Brook. Assemblyman Beekman, who is also the borough attorney, advised the Council that if action is contemplated this winter, steps should be taken at once to learn the attitude of the people living in the district which it is proposed to annex to the borough. It was the sense of the members present that the new lines of the borough should extend east from the present line along the Central Railroad of New Jersey to either the Chimney Rock or Finderne road, from thence north to the road at the foot of the first mountain, and thence along this road to the present western boundary lines of the borough.

In order that this matter may come before the Legislature at the session this winter, Mayor Steele appointed Councilmen Richards, Wright and Bellis as a committee to take this matter up.

Reports from the borough expert in the matter of analysis of the water as furnished the borough by the Somerville Water Company, indicated that the water was excellent for drinking purposes, and as the year had expired under which the expert was engaged to test the water, it was voted to dispense with any further tests of the water for the present. The tests had been made weekly under the supervision of Nicholas S. Hill, Jr., of New York city, and during the year just past the water company had installed an additional filter, which accounted in a great measure for the quality of the water as supplied by the Somerville Water Company, which had met the borough more than half way in providing good, wholesome drinking water. This was due, in a great measure, to the activities of Councilman Snyder, and it is to be regretted that the borough is to lose his valuable services with the closing of the current year.

The bills for the month amounted to over $5,000. The final meeting of the Council will be held on Monday evening, December 29.

HOW SHE SOLVED A HELP PROBLEM

Mrs. F. A. Pattison Installed Mechanical Equipment She Says in Lecture.

OFFERS SOME ADVICE

Household Labor-saving Devices Topic of Address Before Section of the Monday Afternoon Club.

"Household Equipment, Utensils and Labor Saving Devices," was the subject chosen yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Frank A. Pattison, of Colonia, for an address delivered before the members of the Monday Afternoon Club, and others, at the Hartridge Auditorium. Mrs. Pattison has gained more than passing notice because of the many unique things she has introduced into her household, in solution of the maid problem. She proved to be an interesting speaker and held the close attention of her audience.

In the course of her remarks, Mrs. Pattison said that if everyone had the latest mechanical labor saving devices, it would surely create the greatest havoc. Many people are not suited to either care for or run them, and this is especially true with the average servants procurable nowadays. She told of her own experiences, and how after trying in vain to get competent maids, she had finally given it up as a hopeless task, and adopted the machinery method. Her first purchase was a family motor, which she nick-named "James the Great," and which could be moved about the house and attached to any kind of a device that she might wish to use.

Then, in order, the mechanical equipment of the household was added to with a vacuum cleaner and fireless cooker, which were thoroughly investigated before making a final decision as to the make to purchase. After finding that these were great labor savers, the list of mechanical helps was gradually increased, until she had established in her home, what she termed an "experiment station," and during the time it was continued nearly every imaginable mechanical device for saving labor in the home was tried. This has since been given up.

During her remarks Mrs. Pattison explained what makes of machines she considered the best at the time she was trying them, but said that new and improved ones were being offered to the public every day, and that probably there were now equally good machines on the market of other makes. At the close of the remarks a number of questions were asked by those in the audience.

CHILDREN'S HOME WANTS CHRISTMAS GIFTS EARLY

Following the custom of many years the Children's Home Association will have a big Christmas tree for the children at the home on Watchung avenue, in North Plainfield. The presents and toys for this tree are, to a large extent, sent to the home by people interested in its work, and those in charge of the arrangements are urging this year that all who have anything for the home will send them there at the earliest possible moment. It has been found in past years, when the gifts have been received the day before Christmas, at a late hour, it has been very confusing, and hard to get them properly arranged. Therefore, those planning to send anything to the home are urged to do so several days before Christmas.

FREEMAN TALKS ON ADVERTISING

Expert Gives Advice to Merchants at Business Men's Association Dinner.

IT'S AN INVESTMENT

He Urges Use of Local Newspapers —Saunders as Toastmaster Denounces Advertisment Graft Schemes.

William L. Saunders, acting as toastmaster at the dinner of the newly-formed Business Men's Association, was last night accorded an limited applause and praise when he declared that more than ninety per cent. of the various advertising plans which the merchants are asked to go into are "pure blackmail and an infernal outrage, a pure and simple graft proposition," and that the merchants were doing exactly right by organizing an association to prevent a continuation of the practice which has become so prevalent here recently. This he said during the course of his opening remarks, prior to introducing F. G. Thomas, president of the Somerville Merchants' Association. What Mr. Saunders had to say and the elucidating address of William C. Freeman, better known as "Pop," the advertising manager of the New York Globe, formed the features of the evening.

The dinner was held at the Waldorf Hotel, and over one hundred business and professional men of the city were present, "Mine Host" Windham serving the repast in his usual excellent style. The other speakers aside from those mentioned were Mr. Byers, president of the Bound Brook Association, and A. E. Force, head of the local organization, who urged all present to join the association.

Following Mr. Saunders' opening remarks, which were interspersed with a number of humorous stories, including some gibes at those present, Messrs. Thomas and Byer told of the effective work the Merchants' Associations were doing in their home towns to eliminate graft, establish an efficient credit system, and relieve the merchants generally from the many demands which are made upon them.

"Pop" Freeman said in starting that he had been asked to come to Plainfield to talk about advertising, probably because that was the only thing he could talk on. He told how he went into the field from a position as a country school teacher, in a town not far from Plainfield, and had been thirty-five years learning about the business.

The principal address was by William C. Freeman, advertising manager of the New York Globe, and said in part:

"Advertisers should not misrepresent the value the articles they offer for sale and a newspaper should refuse to take any advertisement in which the value of the article advertised is misrepresented. I am one of an organization of ten thousand men who are engaged in putting a stop to fake advertisements. The merchant should take the public into his confidence, should have it understood that he expects to make a fair profit on the articles he sells and that he intends to give an honest value for whatever price is paid.

"The local merchants should patronize their home newspapers and should remember that the owner of a newspaper is entitled to receive as fair a return on the money invested in his business as the merchant is to receive from his own enterprise. If you will patronize your own newspapers properly, the publishers will not have to accept the advertisements of metropolitan stores. I know and everyone else in the advertisement business knows that you can buy goods in this town just as cheap as you can buy them in New York and the quality will be just as good.

"Merchants have a habit of considering advertising an expense, but on the contrary it is a business investment. I know of several New York stores that used to advertise spasmodically, but a few years ago they inaugurated a campaign of advertising with the result that sales were increased and the selling cost was reduced from 20 to 25 per cent. No merchant should be afraid to let anybody know where his business is located and what he has to sell."

Among the other speakers of the evening were William Jeffery, president of the Board of Trade; A. E. Force, president of the association, and C. M. Byer, of Bound Brook. The committee arranging the affair comprised Kenneth Stuart, Allan F. Davis, Jacob A. Fass and Samuel Rothberg.

ENGAGE ASSISTANT COUNSEL.

Judge Isaac P. Runyon, of the Somerset county district court, has been engaged as assistant counsel to Major Carl Lentz, of Newark, to look after the interests of the borough in its fight to have the tax assessment reduced, which matter is now before the Somerset County Tax Board.

MO-JO Bite Chewing Gum

Talk No. 17

WE had to make sure of our facts before we began writing these MO-JO Gum talks.

We consulted chemists far and near. We corresponded with Pure Food authorities. We examined every kind of Chewing Gum we ever heard of.

Every examination disclosed dirt in greater or less quantities.

To satisfy ourselves that the crude gum in its pure state is white, we went to the original source of supply in the tropics and studied it at first hand.

All our investigations confirmed the fact that Pure Chewing Gum should be White—so we made MO-JO Gum—A revelation in Daintiness, Purity, Sweetness. Treat yourself—ask for MO-JO Gum.

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-know authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.—Adv.

LOYALTY OF CHURCH TO LOCAL Y. M. C. A.

Theme of State Secretary Coburn, Who Urges a Larger Building Here.

One of the most interesting addresses delivered in connection with the observance of the forty-sixth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday last was given by State Secretary Charles A. Coburn.

Speaking at the First Presbyterian church, Mr. Coburn paid high tribute to the splendid loyalty of the churches of Plainfield to the local Association. He said: "The Y. M. C. A. recognizes the authority and motherhood of the church. Friends, have you ever stopped to analyze this thing? The Association is as much the legitimate child of the church as the Sunday-school, the Young People's Society and the missionary organizations. Because the son resides under another roof he is no less devoted."

Mr. Coburn spoke of the remarkable growth of the Y. M. C. A., how it has more than doubled along all lines during the past seven years. How its property holdings in this country have increased during this period from $35,000,000 to $80,000,000.

Because of the large number of business men in the audience the speaker took up the question of "costs." He said, "We spend twice as much on crime and criminal institutions as upon all educational and betterment work apart from reformatories. We are still unscientific enough to prefer the ambulance to the fence that would have prevented the accident, the rescue propaganda to constructive and preventive work." He showed how the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. represents an investment of about $100 for each member, while a college equipment represents an investment of some $2,000 per student and that the annual expense for each member alone is about $10.00 while with the college it is from $200 to $300 each above receipts from students. He said, "Plainfield can do far better work if you will enlarge its equipment and increase your annual appropriations. Plainfield reports 2,966 members for the past five years representing 67 occupations and 13 nationalities. The Plainfield Association's annual budget is about the same as the gross business of one of your saloons, while it serves six times as many boys and men. It asks in voluntary gifts for $4,500 a year while Montclair asks for $7,500 and Orange for $10,000."

Mr. Coburn showed how the modern association building is the hub from which radiates a many-sided work, reaching out to the whole community. He told a story of a little child out at night in the dark and shadows of a large Western city, who, when she came abreast of the five-story Y. M. C. A. with its lights streaming from every window, jumped in glee lisping this exclamation, "Oh, mama, is dat Dod's office?" Mr. Coburn pointed out that the church is God's home or dwelling place while the Y. M. C. A. is in a very real sense His great office.

He also spoke of Mr. Scott's work throughout the State and at Camp Wawayanda which has directly and through the local associations led thousands to accept Christ as their ideal and Saviour. He mentioned the splendid leadership of the local association in Secretaries Parker, Bingeman and Director Ostlin, urging an even larger co-operation on the part of the church.

ODD FELLOWS ELECT OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

The annual election of Court Union, No. 3271, I. O. F., was held last night, at which time the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Court deputy, C. S. Hayes; court physician, Dr. M. L. Clawson; chief ranger, George E. Volk; vice chief ranger, Dr. M. L. Clawson; recording secretary, H. H. Pennoyer; financial secretary, John M. Lewis, treasurer, H. L. Black; orator, A. C. Hunting; organist, L. N. Leland; trustees, G. H. Aldrich and A. M. Vanderbeek; finance committee, A. C. Hunting and G. H. Aldrich; apothecary, L. Z. Weiss.

An amendment to the by-laws was adopted, changing the meeting nights from the second and fourth Mondays to the second and fourth Saturdays. This change was made owing to the opportunities that the court have had to rent the rooms on Monday nights. During the past month the court has received eight applications which it is planning to initiate the first of the year. The report of the treasurer shows the court to be in splendid shape financially.

HOW TO ADVERTISE.

Some good advice was given the local merchants by William C. Freeman at the dinner of the Plainfield Business Men's Association last night. Mr. Freeman is advertising manager of the New York Globe and is one of the best in the business. What he had to say, therefore, was listened to with marked attention and undoubtedly it will have some effect.

One of the strong points emphasized by him was that advertising is in no sense an expense. On the contrary, it is an investment and should be so recognized by the merchants. Another was that advertising to be effective should be continuous and not occasional. Still another was that the very best medium by which to reach the people is the local daily newspapers and he advised their constant use.

Mr. Freeman explained how to advertise in order to bring results laying particular stress on honesty in publicity. The merchant, he declared, should take the people into his confidence. He should stick to facts and never misrepresent quality or value. He condemned the practice of some tradesmen in advertising an article for sale at half its value, showing the absurdity of it and declaring that the advertiser himself is the only one deceived in such cases.

His sound talk should prove of profit to the merchants and it is to be hoped that the Business Men's Association will arrange for more meetings of this kind in the near future when other experts in advertising may be heard.

SEND THEM TO JAIL.

The Chicago beef packers and the cold storage men were roundly denounced by Congressman McKellar, of Tennessee, in the House yesterday for keeping up the prices of food products. His remarks were occasioned by his introduction of a bill limiting cold storage periods and providing heavy penalties for agreements fixing the prices of food articles.

Mr. McKellar might find a surer way of forcing down to reasonable terms the cost of food products by lending his efforts to have the laws now on the Federal statute books enforced. A new law, such as his, is unnecessary. The need is for the carrying out of the ones already had. And the proper enforcement means not merely a heavy fine, which in the end the defendant will get back from the consumers, but a jail sentence. Put some of these rascals behind the bars and there will be less of this, the worst form of monopoly.

SIMPLY GRAFT.

Probably his estimate was rather high, but when former Mayor William L. Saunders told the local merchants last night that ninety per cent. of advertising schemes are graft pure and simple he said something that every business man knows and yet few are courageous enough to stamp out. All sorts of methods are used to force the tradesmen to give up their hard-earned money in return for something that does them absolutely no good whatever. The commonest plan is for a woman customer, who otherwise could not be induced to do a dishonorable act, to personally ask for the advertisement and the merchant, fearing that if he does not consent he will lose trade, is forced to respond. This game of grafting on business men should be stopped and the sooner the better.

The Chronicle, that newsy, bright and well conducted weekly published in Bound Brook, appears in enlarged form. Editor Mason installed improved mechanical equipment for this purpose and explains that the increasing volume of advertising is responsible for the improvement.

The Somerset County Tax Board is trying to deny North Plainfield a just claim for a reduction in tax money. But what can North Plainfield expect? For years she has been the main support of Somerset county and has not gotten much in return.

Dr. William L. Saunders, former mayor of North Plainfield, who is the executive head of one of the largest manufacturing plants in the East, will be the contributing editor for Saturday's issue.

Carranza answers that he will not parley with Huerta. Porfirio Diaz decides that he will abandon his plan to return to Mexico. Probably both have been thinking of how Huerta put Madero out of the way.

"Inside the Cup" is like a "tempest in the tea pot."

THE FORUM.

DEMOCRAT FOR BIRD.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

I am sure that I reflect the views of most of our citizens when I utter a protest against any change of postmasters. It is absurd to turn out an experienced man and put in a novice merely because Mr. Wilson is a Democrat. An administrative office like this ought to be independent of politics. I hold no brief for the present incumbent—I do not know him even by sight. Very likely he came in—so his opponents say—as a political derelict out for a job. That statement is true of most of our public officials. But he has served a good many years, has learned the duties of his office, and runs the office to the satisfaction of the public. There is no more reason for turning him out for political reasons than for turning out the General Passenger Agent of a railroad. The question is not between the present postmaster and any of the new candidates. The question concerns the citizens of Plainfield who now have, so far as I know, an experienced, honest and efficient postmaster. They ought not to be subjected to inconvenience and loss by turning him out and putting in a new man, untried and inexperienced, who will have to start at the bottom and learn his work at our expense.

Editors, Plainfield Daily Press:

Allow me to correct a mistake made in tonight's issue of your paper in reference to membership in "The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America."

You state that Episcopalians are included in the membership of that body. This is not a fact. The House of Deputies at the recent general convention of the Episcopal Church passed a resolution for such affiliation, but it was vetoed by the House of Bishops, obviously because the Episcopal Church does not believe in the doctrine of the Churches but in the doctrine of the Church.

Sincerely yours,
CORTLAND H. MALLERY.
Plainfield, N. J., Dec. 6, 1913.

THANK YOU!

The Plainfield Daily Press on Nov. 14 issued a forty-eight page paper, of which thirty-two were devoted to a comprehensive account of the industrial, social and religious activities of that city. "Do It For Plainfield" was the slogan that met practical expression in that issue, which was replete with facts and figures about the city and bore striking evidence of the enterprising character of Plainfield's citizens. The special number was printed on extra fine paper and embellished with illustrations and half-tones of a high artistic quality. Leslie R. Fort, son of ex-Governor Fort, is the progressive business manager of the Press, to whom much credit is due for the success of this achievement.—Editor and Publisher.

WHY UNCLE SAM WANTS A BILLION

Estimated Cost of Government Household For Year.

HOW MONEY IS TO BE SPENT

Figures Submitted to Congress Exceed the Last Appropriations by $22,864,067, but Their Total Is $39,255,066 Below the Estimates of Past Fiscal Year.

U. S. 1915 BILLS TO REACH TOTAL OF $1,108,681,771.

Legislative establishment, $7,533,331.
Executive establishment, $30,809,268.
Judicial establishment, $1,242,110.
Department of agriculture, $19,061,332.
Foreign intercourse, $4,447,042.
Military establishment, $105,937,544.
Naval establishment, $139,831,963.
Indian affairs, $10,208,865.
Pensions, $169,150,000.
Public works, $97,917,592.
Miscellaneous, $84,393,213.
Permanent annual appropriations, $131,196,407.
Postoffice department, including parcel post, $306,953,117.

Congress will have to appropriate just $1,108,681,771 to operate the government of the United States during the fiscal year 1915, according to the estimates prepared by each department and sent to the house by Secretary McAdoo of the treasury.

The estimates are $22,864,067 in excess of the appropriations for the last fiscal year, but their total falls $39,255,066 below the estimates for that year.

For the preservation and completion of vessels already in commission or authorized, the navy department wants $8,250,000; for the hulls and machinery of the two battleships and eight torpedo boat destroyers, which Secretary Daniels wishes to build in the fiscal year 1914-15, $7,800,000, and for armor and armament of vessels authorized $10,091,000. The sum of $300,000 is wanted for naval defense mines and appliances. To extend the naval gun factory in Washington $400,000 is asked.

Army Demands.

Many increases are sought for the army. Of these a large number are explained in the estimates by the statement that the army itself is larger than it has been heretofore. One of the principal military items is $300,000 for military aeronautics.

The estimates for the organized militia are larger by many millions than in previous years.

For armament in fortifications the estimate is $5,806,800, an increase of more than $3,000,000 over last year.

Although the Panama canal probably will be in operation long before the close of the fiscal year of 1915, the war department estimates that $26,326,985 must be appropriated for the canal that year, which is about $5,000,000 more than the current appropriation.

Pay For Special Attorneys.

One of the most interesting items in the long list of estimates is that of $475,500 for salaries and expenses of special attorneys, examiners and agents of the bureau of corporations, an increase of $300,000 over last year. In a note accompanying the request for this additional sum congress is told:

"This increase is due entirely to the plan projected for additional work to be done by the bureau of corporations."

The department of commerce asks for $100,000 to be used in investigating the cost of production of articles dutiable in the United States in leading countries where they are produced.

The census bureau wants $925,000 for collecting statistics, of which $566,400 is for a census of manufacturers. For an investigation of problems in connection with public utilities to determine the quality and cost of service required in the regulation of utilities the bureau asks $100,000.

Secretary McAdoo estimates that he will need $1,500,000 to collect the income tax.

Department of Agriculture.

The department of agriculture asks for $400,000 to use in eradicating the cattle tick, an increase of $75,000, and declares several southern states are manifesting an interest in cattle raising owing to the uncertainty of the cotton crop and high price of cattle.

This department lines itself up with the department of justice and congress in the effort to delve into the operations of the cold storage dealers. It asks $50,000 to investigate the preparation for market, the storing, freezing and other operations incidental to the transportation of poultry and eggs; $15,000 to look into similar operations in fish; $25,000 for an oyster investigation and $20,000 for a biological investigation of food and drug products, with $654,300 for the enforcement of the pure food and drugs act.

The state department evidences its determination to house American representatives abroad in buildings furnished by the government in asking $150,000 for the purchase of a site and the construction of an embassy building in Mexico City, $140,000 for the purchase of a site and construction of a building for the legation at Berne, Switzerland, and $150,000 for the construction of an embassy in Tokyo.

PROCTOR'S GREAT SHOW.

"The District Attorney's Wife," a sensational political sketch of New York city life, which is being presented at Proctor's theatre, this week, received great applause, last night. Victorson & Forrest, who present the sketch, are unusually clever, and the dictaphone and new patent trap chair add greatly to the interest of the act. George Smedley, banjoist, is the best artist in that line seen here in many moons. He has a wonderful act. The St. Juliens are clever acrobats and head balancers. Jessie Keller, the "Venus on Wheels," makes a big hit, and her partner, Tommy Weir, has a beautiful contratenor voice. Sans & Sans, "The Fashion Plate Girls," offer a pretty costumed act and they can sing, too.

College Boys as Soldiers. Instruction Is to Be Continued

Summer Camps For Collegians and What They Mean.

In Case of War Students Would Become Officers.

IF the United States should be compelled to go to war tomorrow it would be necessary to put into the field an army of 600,000 men. This would mean evolving 17,000 officers from—nothing.

These are the words used by Major General Wood in summarizing the military unpreparedness of our country. As chief of staff of the army it is his duty to devise as many ways as possible to meet this situation. His conversion of the army to the short enlistment idea is an example of one method he has used to give more and better potential soldiers.

The short enlistment plan in time promises to provide the United States with the rank and file of a large emergency army. To officer this possible army was another problem, and to solve this General Wood has hit upon a plan of special preparation that promises complete success.

"Civil war experience teaches us," says General Wood, "that it is to the young men in college to whom we must turn for material for the officers of a volunteer army. Starting with this premise, we sought the scheme that would best give the college man the groundwork instruction necessary to make him an effective volunteer officer. We hit upon the plan of student camps."

In order to further carry on this idea General Wood has recently issued a bulletin giving the program for the organization next summer of student camps like those held last summer at Gettysburg, Pa., and at Monterey, Cal., under the supervision of officers appointed by the war department.

The war department is considering sites for the camps next summer with an eye to the healthfulness of the surroundings and facilities for social intercourse, bathing, swimming and other recreations. One site has been determined on at Burlington, Vt. In his bulletin General Wood calls attention to the value of these student camps in increasing the business efficiency of the students who participate through habits of discipline, obedience, self control, order, command and the study of organization and administration as applied to first class modern armies.

© by American Press Association.

MAJOR GENERAL LEONARD WOOD, CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE U. S. ARMY.

The camps, he says, are an invaluable national asset in providing means of increasing the present inadequate personnel of the trained military reserves of the country from a class of educated men from which, in case of national emergency, a large part of the volunteer officers must be drawn.

Only university or college students and students in the graduating class at high schools or preparatory schools, or recent university graduates, or men who have received a satisfactory certificate of attendance at a previous student camp from the war department are eligible for enrollment at the camps. They must be citizens of the United States or must have announced their intention to become citizens.

The camps will continue five weeks from early in July to the middle of August at a cost of $17.50 a man for board and from $5 to $10 for uniform and clothing. The government will furnish tents, cots, blankets, infantry equipment and hospital and medical care. Troops of the regular army will be in attendance to co-operate in instructing the students and selected officers will lecture on tactics, with field demonstrations.

That the war department might put its plan to the test two camps for the training of a selected number of college men were established last summer, one at Monterey on the Pacific coast and the other at Gettysburg, Pa. A description of the routine of this latter one will disclose the plan by which it is hoped that some of the youth of our nation shall get a working knowledge of warfare.

The camp was built strictly on the regular army pattern. The soldier students were formed into an infantry company, 160 strong, and for six weeks they lived through every detail of army life. Of course this company was officered by regulars, experts in their art.

The student soldiers who gathered on the site of the civil war struggle came from sixty-three different colleges and universities. They represented seats of learning from the Atlantic coast states and from as far west as Chicago. Harvard and Yale sent a complement of fifteen men each, Princeton seven, Cornell twelve and the smaller institutions in a like proportion. And never did a drill sergeant look over a finer bunch of recruits.

Or perhaps these men can be more appropriately compared to an incoming class at West Point, although in age and experience they surpassed the "plebes." Their average age was nineteen, which was the age of the first volunteers that came to the country's standards in 1861. As "rookies" they overflowed with enthusiasm and intelligence.

A CAMP OF COLLEGE BOYS.

Four hours was the prescribed duration of the daily course of instruction, with optional work that would occupy another equal period. So keen were the men in their efforts to gain an insight into military methods that almost all volunteered for the additional period. In fact, it was found necessary to curb some too ardent neophytes in the art of war that they might not go stale in the game.

The instruction included short exercises in close order drill, extended order and the field exercises, such as the formation of advance and rear guards, posting and relieving outposts and conducting combat patrols.

Of the 140 men who completed the test 120 qualified as marksmen. The remarkable side of this is not alone the high scores made, but likewise the fact that not more than half the men had ever shot before. In recognition of their skill the National Rifle association issued to each man who qualified the coveted medal of the marksman. This is potent proof that despite changed conditions the youth of the country can still catch the knack of shooting with proper preliminary work under good instructors.

AT RIFLE PRACTICE A REMARKABLE SHOWING WAS MADE.

Of course these first established camps can be looked upon only in the light of an experiment, but so successful have they proved that the war department will provide instruction for 5,000 students next year. Already the applications are being filed. A source of special gratification to the army officers who believe in the plan was the unanimous approval it received from the presidents of the leading universities and colleges throughout the country. All of those consulted or heard from on the subject—and this includes a majority of the leading institutions—promised their aid in forwarding the success of the camps.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

Elmer French, who was business manager for the junior mock trial, has announced that the profits from this entertainment amounted to $60. This money will go for the support of the class pension fund.

Clara Smith, a member of last year's graduating class, has returned to school to take a post-graduate course. Miss Smith intends to enter Oberlin College next year and found that she needed a few more subjects for admission to the higher institution.

The first practice of the senior play was held yesterday afternoon, under the direction of Miss Ray. The sketch is entitled, "The Triumph of Pauline" and will be presented at the Christmas entertainment. The cast has been changed slightly, Lucile Ewart finding it necessary to drop her part. The committee has decided to put Edith Dailey in the leading part of "Pauline" and Anna Warnock has consented to take the part of Rosalie Dumont.

Whitehouse.

The Crescent Gun Club, of Whitehouse Station, will hold its annual target tournament and bull shoot January 1. This will be the eighta event of its kind. There will be a triple team race between the Whitehouse, Elizabeth and Pattenburg clubs. About 35 turkeys will be shot for. FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Hair that loses its color and lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.—Adv.

DRY-FARMING TOPIC OF JERSEY DELEGATE

Collins Reports to Acting-Governor on a Congress Held at Tulsa, Okla.

Trenton, Dec. 9.—Acting Governor Taylor yesterday received a report from E. R. Collins, of Westfield, State delegate to the eighth annual session of the international dry-farming congress, held at Tulsa, Okla., October 27 to 31. Mr. Collins was appointed to represent New Jersey by former Acting Governor James F. Fielder. Twenty-two foreign nations had delegates duly accredited to the congress and thirty-seven States of the Union were represented on the floor. The next session of the congress will be held at Wichita, Kan., the last week in October, 1914.

In his report to the governor, Mr. Collins says:

"Dry-farming was born of necessity of conditions. With untold fertility beneath their feet, the pioneers in the arid regions saw failure year after year. Failure was the rule, success the exception. It was evolve some system of conserving moisture in the soil or quit. Gradually what is known as dry-farming came into practice. The amount that it has contributed to the world's food supply is beyond computation and thousands of acres of otherwise useless land has been added to the productive area. It has saved the arid regions."

Speaking of dry-farming in New Jersey, Mr. Collins says:

"There is no question but that some of the dry-farming methods if adopted in New Jersey would result in profit to the farmers. There is no part of the State where the precipitation each year is not sufficient to supply a full crop. Summer fallowing for the conservation of moisture is not necessary in any part of the State. * * *

"If in that part of the State where the summer droughts are most frequent the soil was carefully and systematically prepared for the conservation of moisture and after-planting, the crop continually cultivated with a couple of inches of earth, loose at all times to break up capillary attraction, raising the moisture to the surface to evaporate, results of dry-farming in the arid regions teaches that there never need be a crop failure in our area.

"Stir the soil deep and from a reservoir for the storage of moisture between the bottom of the furrow and the surface, make a good bed, and then when the dry 'spell' comes on prevent the formation of a crust and the stored moisture will carry the crop along.

"There are thousands of areas of unproductive lands in this State that could be farmed to far greater profit than the semi-arid lands of the Middle West if one-half the attention was given to the conservation of moisture that they are compelled to give in order to survive. The soil of our 'pines' area is susceptible to dry-farming methods, and could in the same time required to break up and prepare the much-vaunted 'virgin soil' for a crop be put in condition to yield as much, and more, per acre of any crop, wheat not excepted, as any soil in the wheat belt."

The Housewife's Daily Economy Calendar

FRANCES MARSHALL

The Housewife's Office.

Every housewife ought to have an office. That is a strange-sounding statement. But it is true. The office need be no bigger than a corner of a table top or a few pigeon holes in a desk. But it should be devoted to the housewife's business of keeping house.

Every housewife knows what endless trouble can be caused by the mislaying of the receipt for the coal bill or the butcher's bill. And every housewife knows how troublesome it is to look for her account book or her recipe book or her check book or for a dozen other things when she is busy. The housewife's office, no matter how small it is, should be a safe hiding place for all these accessories to housekeeping.

If the housewife has a small sitting room of her own she can turn a corner of that into an office. A small table, a shelf or a desk can all be advantageously used. If there is no better place for her "office," it can be housed in a desk in the kitchen or pantry.

In the Office.

In the office there must be plenty of paper and pencils and pen and ink and penknives—the paraphernalia of keeping accounts and making memoranda.

There should be an account book of some sort, if the housewife keeps accounts. In the office-desk all price books and price lists should be neatly stored. There the time tables should be stored. There recipe books should be neatly arranged.

In the office desk there should be string and wrapping paper, labels of all sorts, stamps and paper fasteners and elastic bands. If the housewife has any books on household matters, these should be neatly housed in the office—if it is a desk, on the top, in a row.

If there is a special room for the office, it should contain a table or desk for writing, some drawers for storing things—either in the desk or in a separate chest—some shelves for books, a comfortable chair for the desk and, if possible, a telephone extension. It would hardly be wise to have the one telephone in the house in such a room, for one object of having such a room is that the housewife may be undisturbed there during the time she is planning out the management and work of her house. And the common telephone is usually the centre of a good deal of noise and commotion.

From her office, be it large or small, the housewife should direct her house just as a business man directs his work from his office. She can do it with greater economy and less waste of time and strength with an office than without one, and will soon find that whatever expense is incurred in fitting out her office will be more than made up for in increased efficiency as a business manager on her own part.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The popular shoulder yokes which appear on most of the new blouses aid materially in bringing about the broad shouldered effect that is so fashionable this season.

In 7636 the yoke extends along the back and forms the low shoulders into which the sleeves are slightly fulled.

If crepe de Chine, cotton crepe or any of the softer materials are used corded seams are effective where the body of the blouse joins the yoke and the sleeve the armhole. A thick cotton cord is used for this purpose, being covered with a bias strip of the material and stitched in with the seam.

With this design a flat rolled or a standing collar may be used.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 34 to 42.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Some Cookery Suggestions

SERVING CRANBERRIES.

CRANBERRIES are a useful fruit at the Christmas season. Not only may they be threaded on long strings like popcorn and used for the adornment of the Christmas tree, but they are essential in the making of one of the most important Yuletide viands, the sauce to go with the turkey.

Sauce For the Turkey.

Whole Cranberry Sauce.—Take a quart of cranberries, pick them over and drain them. Then put them into a preserving kettle with just enough cold water to show among them. Allow a pint of sugar and when the berries boil up all over put one-fourth of the sugar in by sprinkling it over the top without stirring. Let it boil again and add sugar until all is used. Boil slowly and do not stir the berries. After the last boiling turn them out and set aside to cool.

Cranberry and Banana Sauce.—Prepare a sauce of one pint of cranberries, one cupful of sugar and enough water to make the right thickness. When thoroughly cooked and while hot fill a dish with alternate layers of thin slices of bananas and the sauce. This requires two bananas.

A Piquant Jelly.

Jellied Cranberries.—Take a quart of cranberries and stew them until they are soft. Then add a pint of sugar and let them cook until the juice thickens. Take a fancy mold, dip it in cold water and fill it with the cranberries. When cold they will be firm and may be turned out on a dish.

Spiced Cranberries.—These are especially nice with the turkey or, in fact, with any poultry or game. Put a quart of washed cranberries in a saucepan with a half cupful of cold water. Tie up the spices in a little cheesecloth bag. These should include a dozen each of cloves and allspice, some blades of mace and two sticks of cinnamon broken up. Tie up the bag and put it in the saucepan with the water and cranberries and let them stew until the fruit is broken. Then take out the bag and strain the berries through a colander. Pour in two cupfuls of sugar, stir over the fire until the sugar is dissolved. Then remove from the fire and put away to get cold for use.

A Delectable Pudding.

Cranberry Pudding.—Take three cupfuls of flour and a half teaspoonful of salt, sift them together. Mix with them a small cupful of sour cream, a cupful of molasses, two well beaten eggs and half a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a little boiling water. Have a cupful and a half of halved cranberries, dredge them with flour and mix them with the batter. Pour into a greased mold and steam for two hours. Serve with a hard sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Santa Claus Christmas Party In Eskimo Land.

"Merry Christmas to all," said Santa.

"You know," said daddy, "Santa Claus never lets any place where there are children escape him, and his last visit is always up north before he goes home. Last Christmas all the little Eskimos had hung up their thick woolen stockings, and they had found a huge Christmas tree, which was to await Santa.

"On Christmas eve a terrible blizzard blew up. Even the dogs shivered with the biting cold wind. The great fear of the little Eskimos was that Santa and his reindeer would not be able to make the trip. Of course his reindeer were very strong and quick, and Santa could always encourage them on the difficult journeys with kind words and lumps of sugar.

"But this storm was the worst that the children ever had seen, and they kept saying among themselves: 'Oh, do you think he will come? He always has, but this is such a terrible storm.'

"In the meantime Santa Claus was saying: 'Get up here, my gray beauty! Move on, Silver Horn! We mustn't disappoint the little Eskimos!' But the storm raged furiously, and Santa Claus was almost blinded by the snow.

"It was Christmas morning, and still Santa hadn't come. The little Eskimos had been too excited to sleep.

"Finally one of the daddy Eskimos said: 'I'm afraid something must have happened to Santa Claus. Let's get some of the dogs and sleds.' So a number of the bigger boys and some of the men began to get ready. They bundled up so much that all you could see was their eyes. The storm had let up, but the snowdrifts were like mountains. They had just started when a tinkling of bells was heard, and what should they see but eight beautiful reindeer and old Santa Claus dressed in a red suit with great big furs. On his back was a huge bag which was almost overflowing, so full was it.

"'Merry Christmas, Santa Claus!' shrieked all the little Eskimos.

"'Merry Christmas to you all!' said Santa, and the reindeer shook their heads and tinkled their bells, which was their way of saying 'Merry Christmas.'

"Poor Santa's mustache and eyebrows were frozen, and his face was very, very red from the cold. But, oh, it was so jolly for them to actually have Santa with them!

"As soon as he had warmed his hands and had seen to the feeding of his reindeer and patted them for their bravery he undid his pack. And such a Christmas as they all did have!

"'You know,' said Santa, 'I'm glad there was such a storm, for this is my very first Christmas party.'" the American Good Roads Congress. Delegates appointed by the governors of nearly all the States and by the mayors of many cities, representatives of numerous commercial and improvement organizations and highway engineers and contractors from all parts of the country were included in the attendance.

GAYNOR MEMORIAL.

New York, Dec. 9.—The memory of the late Mayor Gaynor, of this city, is to be honored tomorrow in a manner that is without precedent in the history of the metropolis. By a unanimous vote of the representatives of the various steamship lines and other maritime interests it has been decided that a percentage of the day's receipts of all vessels in New York Harbor shall be contributed to the fund for the Gaynor memorial. The action was taken in recognition of the work done by the late mayor in behalf of harbor improvements.

Daily Christmas Hint

Present For the Woman Who Does the Mending

"Button, button—who's got a button?" will not be the cry if a bag like the one illustrated is given to the member of the family who does the household mending. Nothing more important in the way of materials is needed than a quarter of a yard of denim and some bright colored cretonne. The denim is used for the outside of the oblong strip, and on the inside are compartments for scissors and spools of thread. In the center is a bag of the cretonne for holding the buttons. The entire bag is bound with ribbon, and the handles are of heavy cord wrapped with the ribbon.

A yard of lawn or dimity makes a pretty remnant bag. Cut a strip eighteen inches wide and sew into shape. Sew lace about the edges and work a buttonhole at each side for the ribbon to run through, make a casing and run inch wide satin ribbon in, leaving enough to make a bow at each side. This bag is especially useful to a young mother for holding scraps of white trimming she accumulates for baby's use.

Needles of all sizes used in sewing on buttons should accompany the bag. Many of the ordinary needles are too thick to slip conveniently through the tiny eyes of small buttons. A paper of needles tested to make sure they are the proper sizes will be appreciated. So, too, will threads especially stout, but not too coarse for the needles. As a rule, linen thread is the best for this purpose.

ADVERTISING STRUCTURE BLOWS DOWN, KILLING ONE

New Brunswick, Dec. 9.—Just after they had returned to work at the plant of the Ringwalt Linoleum works yesterday afternoon, a heavy gale of wind blew down the falsework above the roof of the new two-story building just erected and it crashed through the roof and second floor, killing "Tony" Carman and breaking Stephen Arkies' arm and leg. The falsework was used for advertising signs.

GOOD ROADS CONGRESS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 9.—The First Regiment Armory, spacious though it is, was scarcely able to accommodate the immense throng of delegates assembled there today at the opening of the annual meeting of Stencil Designs That Offer Delightful Possibilities.

There are any number of inexpensive materials that can be used when stenciled for draperies and covers for pillows, tables, couches and boxes. Crafts canvas, Russian crash, Egyptian cloth, scrim, velour linen and pongee and any loosely woven fabric will take stenciling well.

Pattern number 14123 contains six stencil designs: The pineapple border, illustrated here, is 11½ inches high and the basket is 7½ inches high. This pattern also includes a rose border, 3½ inches wide, two pinecone borders, 2 and 12 inches wide and a conventional border, 3 inches wide.

Pillow covers, table runners, couch covers, curtains, portiers and screens may all be stenciled with the designs in this pattern in one or more colors.

As the colorings in your draperies are usually rather conspicuous, often giving the entire color scheme to the room, care should be taken to select tones, both in the materials and paints, which will harmonize with each other and with the other furnishings.

Artists' oil paints mixed with gasoline or a preparation of turpentine, 1 pint, acetic acid 1 ounce, oil of wintergreen 1 ounce, make a satisfactory medium, and the article can be washed when soiled. The paint should be diluted to the consistency of cream, and care should be taken to have a dry blotter under the part upon which you are working, also to rub the brush almost dry before applying it to the fabric.

This pattern will be supplied to Daily Press readers for fifteen cents.

The Freshman class basketball team of the North Plainfield High School was defeated on the Y. M. C. A. court yesterday afternoon by the Leal School second team. The final score was 38 to 16. RITCHIE-MURPHY BOUT.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 9.—It is a long time since the sporting public of San Francisco has displayed such a lively interest in a boxing contest as is manifested in the bout to take place at Coffroth's arena tomorrow night between Willie Ritchie, the lightweight champion, and Harlem Tommy Murphy, who is admittedly one of the worthiest fighters who could be selected to contend for the title. Both fighters have hosts of admirers here and their meeting is expected to attract a record-breaking crowd to the ringside. The two fighters concluded their work of training today and each appears to be in excellent trim for the battle. The articles call for a twenty-round contest, the fighters to make 135 pounds an hour before the gong calls them into the ring.

Miss Clare Smith, captain of the North Plainfield High School girls' basketball team of last year, has returned to the borough school to take a post-graduate course and the members of this year's quintet are endeavoring to get her to return to the court game. Although Miss Smith has stated that she will not play basketball again the manager of the schoolgirl outfit holds high hopes of regaining the guard and in the event of her return the team will be materially strengthened.

Jack Dillon is considering an offer to go to Paris and swap punches with Georges Carpentier. Jack should have little trouble in disposing of the French champion.

Eddie McGoorty, Ray Bronson and Young Saylor are on their way to Australia, where each is already booked up for several ring battles soon after the first of the year.

If Sam Langford boxes in Paris next month it will be in a bout with Joe Jeannette and not Jack Johnson. It seems the Paris promoters have passed up the proposed Johnson-Langford bout.

Promoter Tom Andrews, of Milwaukee, is trying to arrange a 10-round bout between Gunboat Smith and George Rodel, the Boer heavyweight. Rodel recently defeated Jess Willard in Milwaukee.

WATCHUNG KNIGHTS TOOK THE SERIES

Two Out of Three Games Went to Local's Credit in Montclair.

Rolling in Montclair last night the Watchung Council pinners representing this city in the Knights of Columbus League took the first and third of the contests bowled with the Montclair Knights. Although none of the scores were noticeably high the Plainfielders rolled consistently and to this fact must be attributed their victory in the series.

Good work on the part of Howe gave the Queen City quintet the decision in the first game and with the aid of Shannon he succeeded in repeating the trick in the rubber game. The second contest went to Montclair when Healy turned in a count of 185, the high score mark for the evening. The remarkably low count of 84 was turned in by Meagher, of the home five, in the final game and this tally card was responsible for the Montclair aggregation's defeat.

That offer of $50,000 to Eddie Collins to sign a three-year contract in the Federal League shows that the Feds have a pretty nifty press agent.

Coach Danny Coogan, of the Cornell varsity baseball team, has signed to coach the baseball candidates at Georgetown University next spring.

Walter Johnson, the star Washington twirler accepted 103 chances while playing in 51 games during the past season with a fielding average of 1.000.

Manager Bill Phillips, of the Indianapolis Federal League team, claims he has signed Bill McKechnie and Rivington Bisland, former Pittsburgh Pirates.

"Shag" Shaughnessy, manager of the Ottawa team in the Canadian League, has coached the McGill University football team in the winning of two Canadian intercollegiate football championships.

Among those who are mentioned for the vacant managerial berth at Cincinnati are Jake Stahl, the former Red Sox pilot; Fielder Jones, president of the Northwestern League and former manager of the White Sox, and Bill Sweeney, the classy second-sacker of the Boston Braves.

MORAN OUT OF SIX-DAY RACE; GRENDA TEAMS WITH CLARKE

Trio of Riders Fined $25 Apiece for Poor Pick-ups—Spicey Notes Picked up by Daily Press Writer at the Big Arena Last Night and Early This Morning—Dizzy Whirlgig Around Big Wooden Saucer Continues to Attract Hundreds of Bike "Bugs."

(By Staff Correspondent).

Intermittent sprinting and many spills featured the first twenty-four hours of the six-day bicycle grind at Madison Square Garden with the riders constantly hovering around the record marks and after one team had auspicuously launched the spurt that proved a lap-gainer the teams all settled down to the steady hum drum on the boarded track and the bugs were given little cause for action. All day yesterday spurt followed spurt and the sprinters replaced plodders soon after one man or another called a sprint and during the intermission between the bursts of speed the riders circled the track in single file resembling a long string of brilliant colors.

The teams were broken up during the first day of the contest, John Bedell being forced to retire late last night because of stomach trouble, and Ernie Pye falling out somewhat earlier when his pedal pushers went back on him. The riders at one time were over two miles ahead of the record but during the latter part of the afternoon slowed up and fell back to a par once more, and then slipped two miles behind the record.

Once more the big Garden has become a rendezvous for the "rough neck" element that annually visits these one-week spins and one of their most popular forms of amusement has already made itself prominent. The pests who long for some form of entertainment between the sprints and spills roll up newspapers and hurl them at the unsuspecting seat-holders in the lower tier. The rowdies occupy an advantageous position for this sort of amusement in the upper haven of gods and the newspapers gather considerable speed by the time they reach those for whom they are intended. The police, of course, attempt to bring the offender to accounts in each case but by the time the copper arrives on the scene the guilty party has dozed off into another nap. This annual grind brings forth the most cosmopolitan delegation of fans of any sporting event in the world and the fan of every degree, type and nationality saves up his coppers for the yearly six days of pedal shoving.

Everyone is anxiously awaiting a spill and when a rider turns a somersault on the board track and lands in a limp heap he is accorded an ovation similar to the one thrown at Frank Baker when he slammed the horsehide over the fence for a home-run and won a world series games for Connie MacGillicuddy. The sleepers in the long tiers of seats were too numerous to count and at times the mysterious noises issuing from various portions of the arena rivaled the brass band. This concert is particularly noticeable between the hours of 2 and 4 o'clock in the morning when Old Morpheus, the king of the snoozers, gets in his most damaging work.

Clans continued to gather in the racing house last night and the crowd was equally as large as that of the opening night. Those who awaited the opening of the huge doors Sunday in many cases, were still in the Garden this morning and in some instances these "bugs" will remain in their places until the final curtain drops, with the exception of the few short hours each day in which the Garden is "cleared out" by the management.

Scribes who occupy seats in the press box for the genuine purpose of grinding out the editor's friend, copy, have been pestered to death during the opening hours of the race by numerous "drones" who make it their business to hinder the industrious ones as much as possible as a means of bringing forth some amusement to while the hours away. Although there are only a few of the working sphere present the management opened a pleasing innovation last night when the box on the Fourth avenue side was enlarged and now each of the pencil-pushers has a small space all to himself.

The "theatre" crowds that visited the Garden Sunday night were not visible in their gayly colored opera robes last night or this morning and the spots of color had given place to sport coats and other more appropriate attire for an athletic event of this nature. Hundreds of women, seeking for adventure, throng the Garden at all hours of the day and night and appear as interested in the big grind as do their manly escorts.

There is much difference in the relative sizes of the riders, particularly Mitten, Thomas and Hensen, who are referred to by the press box scribes as the midgets of the race. All three are doing remarkably well, however, and are all the object of much admiration particularly from the fair sex.

In an effort to increase his one lap lead over his many rivals at 9 o'clock this morning, "Jimmy" Moran, of the Moran-Grenda team, fell twice in a sprint and was carried from the big bowl unconscious. Grenda was given four hours to find a partner and upon Hehir's announcement of his poor condition, Jackie Clarke teamed up with Grenda and this pair resumed the race shortly after 11 o'clock as a team a lap behind the others. In a terrific sprint in which the whole outfit engaged shortly after 8 o'clock, Keefe and Kopsky lost another lap but none of the others gained or lost anything except a lot of useful strength. Moran, Grenda and Hill were fined $25 each for bad "pick-ups."

SWEDISH COLLEGIANS TO PLAY BOROUGHITES

N. P. H. S. Quintet Will Line up for First Time Against Upsala.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team will play the five from Upsala College tomorrow night in Saengerbund Hall. This school has never before appeared on a borough schedule in any kind of athletics and this first meeting is sure to be an interesting one.

This team is noted for its weight, as all of the players are "huskies." The local team went through a good practice yesterday and will now lay off until the game.

INDEPENDENT SHOOTING CLUB HOLDS ELECTION

That the Independent Shooting Club is in a flourishing condition and the membership far exceeds the number on the roster in previous years was shown last night at the annual meeting when the reports from the various outstanding committees were submitted for approval. Tentative arrangements were made for a shoot to be held on New Year's Day at the Maple avenue grounds. Suitable prizes have been donated for the event and a large percentage of the members are expected to take part.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: Captain, Henry Haurand; lieutenant, Edward Sebring; corresponding secretary, B. F. Leonard; financial secretary, M. D. Dilts; treasurer, C. W. Leonard, and trustees, C. W. Kransee and Louis M. Van Dyke.

NEWS OF THE SPORTING WORLD

Murphy Winning Driver---McFarland's Paltry $85,000.

NOT A FRIEND OF INCOME TAX

Indignation at Yale Over English Stroke—Tommy Murphy Leads Grand Circuit Winners—Maisel Best Run Getter In International.

The reports that Packey McFarland had amassed a fortune of a quarter of a million dollars from his work in the ring have galloped the stockyards Irishman right where he lives. There's no truth in them. All he's got in the world is a paltry $85,000. That's what Packey himself said recently.

The agitation over the requirements of the income tax law probably is what caused Packey to issue a blistering statement concerning his finances.

The world's cleverest boxer admits he has a lot of his wealth tied up in People's Gas stock and another bundle invested in certain brewery interests. Besides, he owns a couple of houses, one in which he lives with his parents and another the rental of which is presented to his mother. Also Packey has a motorcar.

"This stuff in the papers about me getting $6,000 or $7,000 for boxing is enough to give me the jimjams," protested McFarland. "It ain't so. Why, when I boxed Tommy Murphy in New York I got only $1,600. That ain't $6,000 or $7,000 a match, is it? I only wish it was. I never would box again if I got that much dough every time I pulled on a glove.

"There's some sense to the talk that I'm going to quite this business within a year, and it will be no Bat Nelson retirement either. I'll stay quit."

The Chicago ring marvel said he wasn't bothering his curly head about boxing, as he was having too much enjoyment prowling around in his motorcar. But he allowed if some of the Wisconsin promoters thought they could produce enough coin and a suitable opponent as an "attraction" he'd give the propositio. considerable attention.

Indignation over the continued use of the complicated English stroke by the Yale crew continues at white heat To this is added a new note in the complaint that older men should do the coaching. William Averill Harriman, son of the late railroad magnate, Edward Henry Harriman, is well liked, but his youth, it is argued, prevents his having the forceful personality necessary to hammer questionable material into a piece of shell clockwork. With their defeat by Princeton, added to successive Harvard humiliations, the graduates and undergraduates alike assume a sorrowful aspect whenever rowing is mentioned.

Just at present all the first rate coaches in the country are engaged, and Yale will be forced to worry along as best she can for ten months. Captain Denegre will not be able to hire the kind of man he wants.

So the English system will receive several more tryouts, including what will probably be its last, on the Thames in June. But even those who have continued to counsel patience have stilled their conservative talk and are willing to concede the hopelessness of using any English methods.

With the returns reported from the various cities promoting race meetings this year on the grand circuit, the official figures show that the distinction of having been the largest money winning driver of the season is held by Tommy Murphy of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. His winnings for the season totaled $73,885. In 1912 Murphy topped the list, winning $61,734, and in 1911 was also high man with $86,035.

Walter Cox was second highest winner in 1913 with $64,695 against his winnings in 1912, which were $54,131. William Andrews, who this year campaigned Tenara, finished fourth and Alexander McDonald fifth. Joseph Serrill, who was in charge of the Coxe stables, ranks eighth with a total of $12,455, and N. Grady, who showed Senator McNichol's horses from Pennsylvania, is thirteenth with $8,305.

Fritz Maisel, the diminutive third baseman of the Yankees who came from Baltimore, was the star run getter and base stealer in the International league last season, according to the official averages sent out by President Barrow. Maisel in 111 games scored 119 runs, which was 20 more than his nearest competitor, George Simmons of Rochester, tallied. Simmons also played in 39 more games than Maisel Maisel stole 44 bases, while Gilhooley, who also joined the Yankees late last season, was second with 36 steals. Gilhooley batted harder than Maisel in the International league, hitting .328 to Maisel's .283. Gilhooley was the second best batsman in the league.

The real leader of the league was George Simmons, who used to play with the Yankees. He played in 150 games and had a batting average of .339, making 185 hits during the season. Hub Northern of Toronto and Newark, the former Brooklyn player, was second to Paddock of Rochester in home runs. Northern had 7 and Paddock 8.

NEW CAPTAIN OF PRINCETON ELEVEN

H. R. BALLIN, PRINCETON

Harold Ray Ballin, Princeton's star right tackle on the 1913 football team was unanimously chosen captain of next year's eleven. Ballin and Hammond were the only nominees.

Ballin is a junior and lives in New York. He is only nineteen years old and is one of the youngest captains Princeton ever had. He played tackle on his freshman eleven two years ago and won his letter in football last season. Before coming to Princeton he starred on the Louisville "Prep" eleven.

The Unwise Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas, and all through the house
One creature was stirring, and that was a mouse.
The stockings that hung by the chimney with care
He'd nibbled the toes of them, pair after pair.
He ate all the candy, six candy canes, too.
Not a morsel was left when that mouse had got through.
The moral of which—if you know what a sight is
A mouse that has perished of acute gastritis—
That Christmas itself may be called into question
If carried so far it creates indigestion.

SAYS INDIAN DISTRUST OF AMERICA IS VANISHING.

Changing Attitude Shown In Pleased Acceptance of the American Flag.

The Rodman Wanamaker expedition of citizenship to the North American Indian has made a journey nearly equal to the circumference of the globe, occupying more than six months of time. Three thousand miles were traveled by stage over mountains and deserts. One hundred and eighty-nine tribes have raised the American flag, joining the thirty-two chiefs who took part with President Taft in opening the ground for the national Indian memorial at Fort Wadsworth New York harbor, on Washington's birthday last.

The expedition has obtained the signatures and thumb marks of this array of red men, every tribe in the United States being represented, and will be able to furnish the government and the nation with a comprehensive survey of all the tribes both as recorded by the camera and by the pen. The last western reservation has been visited, with the consciousness, says Joseph K. Dixon, leader of the expedition, that the flag has made a new era for the Indian and has changed the destiny of a whole race of people.

One of the five great races of the world because of this expedition faces a new morning. The influence of the flag has united the white man and the red man in a common purpose, common aims, common aspirations. A great chief said: "Since the flag has come to us our road now leads straight toward the new morning."

SHE'S A SAVING MAYOR.

Economical Miss Munson Is Also Police Head and City Attorney.

Even a little place like Warrenton, Ore., with only a few hundred people, has its civic problems, and a woman mayor is credited with solving some of them. Her name is Miss Clara C. Munson.

Warrenton formerly employed a city attorney and a policeman. As mayor, backed up by the council, Miss Munson was given a free hand, so she dispensed with the services of both these officials. She is now mayor, city attorney and chief of police. The money saved by dispensing with the services of a city attorney and police officer is going into improvements, rebuilding old sidewalks and putting in new ones.

Mayor Munson even gets free legal advice. This is furnished by the mayor of a neighboring town. The wide publicity given Miss Munson as the only western woman mayor resulted in her receiving eight or ten proposals of marriage from men scattered from Alaska to the mining camps of the southwest.

Mayor Munson is not very much interested in woman suffrage.

Topics touching practically every important phase of the work were discussed at the annual dinner and meeting of the Bible school of Trinity Reformed church, held in the lecture room last night. At the same time officers were elected for the coming year and committees were appointed. The dinner was prepared and served by the Loyal Band, Class 24, of which Henry P. Seader is the teacher. Superintendent F. E. Smith presided and was also toastmaster.

Following the dinner, the nominating committee made its report and these officers were chosen unanimously:

Sheppard was appointed precentor, with Philip Vroom as assistant. Miss May Randolph was re-appointed pianist, with Miss Jeannette Neal as assistant. Henry P. Seader was again selected as head of the temperance committee.

Then followed reports from the delegates to the State Sunday-school Convention held at Asbury Park in November. Those reporting were Miss Mabel Wilson and Miss Winifred Rapalje, both giving interesting facts concerning Sunday-school work. The reports covered the work in general and teacher-training department. Mrs. Julius Williams also attended the convention and she made a few remarks showing the relation of the home department to the Sunday-school.

Edgar F. Sheppard, assistant superintendent, was the first speaker and his remarks were pertinent to the topic, "The teacher and home department visitor's privilege of aiding in the development of Christian character by promoting Bible study." Rev. J. Y. Broek, the pastor, spoke on "The Teachers' Opportunity for Evangelistic Work." Superintendent Smith in his remarks covered all of the departments of the school.

COTILLION IN HONOR OF 'SWEET SIXTEEN'

Entertainment Given by Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Newell for Their Daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Newell, of West Seventh street, gave a delightful cotillion at their home, last night, for their daughter, Miss Helen Newell, who observed her sixteenth birthday anniversary, yesterday. There were about fifty guests, mostly High School friends of Miss Newell, and an attractive feature was that they all came in old-fashioned costumes. Miss Katherine Endress was voted to have the most unique gown for the young women and received a torquoise ring, that being the birthstone of Miss Newell, and Charles Todd, of Dunellen, who was voted to have the best costume for the young men, received a torquoise stick pin.

The home was elaborately decorated for the occasion with Southern smilax and flowers, while holly, carnations and other things appropriate to the Christmas season were distributed as favors among the guests. Music for dancing was furnished by Frank Putnam's orchestra.

REMINISCENT CLUB WAS ENTERTAINED

Charles L. Ryder, Jr., Host at a Smoker, Receives a Gift.

In acknowledgement of the many well wishes received from his fellow members in the Reminiscent Club, Charles L. Ryder, Jr., who joined the ranks of the benedicts several weeks ago, acted as host for the organization, last night. By the addition of several friends, the gathering numbered thirty in all assembling in the club headquarters on West Fourth street. The affair was in the nature of an informal smoker, but proved to be one of the pleasantest functions the hark-back coterie has yet participated in.

After cigars had been passed, a program of vocal and instrumental music, stories and addresses was enjoyed until midnight. Among those speaking were Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Rev. Frederic L. Green, Councilmen-elect John H. Cose and Charles C. Graves and Captain George Mehl. A double quartet composed of George Leland, William Jaeger, Fred Zweifel, Thomas M. Muir, George Andrew Zeisz, Jacob Schlick, John H. Cose and Barton K. Davis, gave several highly appreciated numbers, and Ray Randolph operated a Victrola, while refreshments were being enjoyed.

Mr. Davis, who acted as chairman, presented Mr. Ryder with a handsome cut glass nappie as a gift from the club. The recipient was greatly surprised but responded in a neatly worded address of thanks.

Mr. Ryder was assisted in arranging and conducting the affair by a committee composed of Barton K. Davis, Thomas M. Muir and Ray Randolph.

HEAR ADDRESSES ON RECREATION

Movement's Leaders Tell of Benefits of Organized Play Under Public Direction.

HUMAN CONSERVATION

Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, Lee F. Hanmer and Walter B. Dickinson Give Instructive Talks at Mrs. Myers' Home.

An enthusiastic audience of more than one hundred people, including among others members of the Public Recreation Committee, the Playground Committee and local educators, gathered at the home of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers on East Seventh street, yesterday afternoon, to hear addresses on "The Recreation Problem and the National Life." The meeting was arranged by Mrs. Francis deLacy Hyde, vice chairman of the Public Recreation Committee.

The speakers were Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, probation officer of Hoboken; Lee F. Hanmer, director of the Department of Recreation of the Russell Sage Foundation and Walter B. Dickinson, assistant secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. All enjoyed the music furnished by the youthful members of the Junior Municipal Orchestra just before the addresses were begun.

The speakers, who are nation leaders in the work, commented favorably, recognizing that cultivation in music as one of the delightful features of the recreation work in Plainfield.

Mrs. Alexander said that probation officers and others who care for those who, for one reason or other, are "unhinged" physically, mentally or morally, and so claim the attention of various corrective agencies, welcome the nation-wide growth of the play and recreation movement. "Organized play, for young and old, is the best means of human conservation and prevention," said Mrs. Alexander. "Boys and young men who get into trouble are brought into the courts generally are led wrong at first by following impulses, which are natural in themselves, though misguided. These characteristics in boyhood are love of adventure, love of leadership and love of acquisition, and all three may be properly directed and developed on the playground and in the recreation centre.

"What is true of boys is also true of girls. They have an inborn love for pure fun and the recreation centre, with proper surroundings, gives the girl opportunities of wholesome enjoyment."

Mr. Hanmer confined his talk to a discussion of the possible activities in a school building used for recreation purposes and cited as a concrete instance the work and play in an evening school centre in Boston, where Miss Mary P. Follett has perfected plans, in co-operation with the local school board. Besides the kind of work generally provided by teachers of night schools, such lessons as in rope-making, stenography, domestic science and sewing and mechanical drawing, he mentioned especially the clubs which combine work and play, in athletics, dramatics, debates, folk-dancing and social entertainments, under the direction of trained recreation leaders.

In conclusion, Mr. Hanmer said with decision, "Young people need something more than passive amusement after their day's work is done. Active participation, a combination of work and pleasure, club and team spirit, these should be the watchwords of the recreation centre."

Mr. Dickinson directed attention to the fact that wholesome play and recreation provides an outlet for expression to the normal child and man. The abnormal and sub-normal may be cared for by public or private funds because of the humanitarian appeal but "thoughtful plans for recreation is distinctly and decidedly the city's job." It goes with the normal, individual, educational and moral training. The play movement is the most hopeful side of the new education. In providing the individual with opportunities of self-expression, active recreation brings to the fore his hidden potentialities. The moral training of the youth should not come purely by precept. Such training for conduct is one-sided. The boy or girl at the recreation centre learns the standards of athletics, team and club life, by actually living them. This is much better than learning merely and solely from memory what others have thought and done."

WILL DISTRIBUTE PROBABLY $160,000

Huge Christmas Savings Fund to Be Divided Among 7,000 Members.

On Monday of next week and every day thereafter until the close of business on Saturday, The Plainfield Trust Company will distribute to the seven thousand members of the Christmas Savings Clubs checks representing the entire amount paid into the club during the year to which, in the case of those who have kept up their payments regularly, interest will be added. This will mean, of course, that the Trust Company will be taxed to its capacity in order to accommodate the large crowds which of necessity will flock to its building but much time and thought have been spent by the officers of the company on systematizing the work so that there may be no confusion and so that those who call for their checks shall be waited on quickly. Great care has also been exercised to prevent the bank's regular customers from suffering any inconvenience because of the unusually large crowds to be handled and enough extra clerical help has been engaged to insure prompt service in all departments. During the week the company expects to pay out over $160,000 and the releasing of such a large sum of money at the Christmas season will be a distinct benefit to Plainfield, as well as a means of providing Christmas cheer for many to whom the gift problem has become a burden. The remarkable success of the Christmas Club plan is due not only to its unique character but also to its adaptability to practical objects such as the payment of mortgage interest, insurance premiums, taxes, etc. W. R. Townsend, tax collector, is quoted as saying that the club last year had a very marked effect upon the prompt payment of taxes and that he has no hesitation in endorsing the plan.

A further object of the club is to afford an opportunity to those who have never seen their way clear to open permanent savings accounts to do so and a large number of Christmas Club savers will undoubtedly turn their checks back into 4% interest accounts in the company's special department.

It has always been the Plainfield Trust Company's policy to co-operate with the local merchants but nothing that it has ever done has been so rich in results as the Christmas Club and for that reason, if for no other, the popularity of the 1914 club which will open December 29, is assured.

PARENT-TEACHER ASS'N OF HIGH SCHOOL MEETING

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Plainfield High School will meet in the high school tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at which time there will be reports of the State Congress. At 8 o'clock the parents and teachers will hold a conference and immediately following this Principal Lindsey Best will give a short talk in the library, which will be followed by an informal discussion. Invitations have been sent only to those who are members of the organization, but all interested in the work are invited to be present.

THE TEMPERATURE.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 29 degrees; 11 a. m. 38 degrees; 1 p. m., 41 degrees.

COMEDY PLAYERS SCORED SUCCESS

Amateur Thespians Appear in Two Highly Creditable Performances.

APPLAUSE WAS LIBERAL

"The Bishop's Candlesticks" and "The Teeth of the Gift Horse" Pleased Large Audience at the Park Club.

The Comedy Club of Plainfield scored another triumph last night when it presented two admirable plays, "The Bishop's Candlesticks," and "The Teeth of the Gift Horse," before a large and appreciative audience at the Park Club. This well-known dramatic organization perhaps has given more pretentious productions in the past, but the excellent choice of last night met the hearty approval of the audience as indicated in the hearty applause during and following each play.

"The Bishop's Candlesticks," a one-act play, based on an incident in Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables," opened the program. It tells the story of a big hearted priest who has parted with everything of value he owns save a pair of candlesticks which he prizes almost above everything because they were given to him by his mother.

A starving convict breaks into his cottage, is surprised by the bishop, who after hearing his pitiful story gives him sustenance, and as a reward for his goodness, the convict escapes taking with him the candlesticks. He is captured by gendarmes and brought back, and again the bishop shows his big heart by defending the convict and securing his release and then tells him that he may have the candlesticks. Overwhelmed with kindness the convict finally breaks down and before he departs begs the bishop's blessing.

Henry Crofut White, as the "Bishop," gave a fine interpretation of the role. His kindly manner, breathing a blessing in his every move radiated the little cottage, and even the constant criticism of his sister, "Persome," which part was well taken by Mrs. Francis E. DuBois, did not disturb him in the least. The dialogue between the Bishop and Roswell G. Rolston, who took the part of the convict, was a fine bit of acting, showing the bitter rebellion of the convict soul against religion, while a love that treasures a sainted mother's gift proved the means of reconciling it to God. The artistic work of these two members of the staff was praiseworthy to a degree.

Miss Resia Pla de Villars as "Marie," the maid, also gave an excellent interpretation of her part as the half-frightened girl being admonished by her mistress for not doing this or doing that. Donald A. McGee as sergeant of gendarmes and Charles P. Titsworth as a gendarme, came in for their share of applause.

Turning from the sober side of life, "The Teeth of the Gift Horse," the second play, gave an abundance of genuine comedy, which kept the audience convulsed with laughter throughout. This was a modern comedy, describing the difficulties of a young couple whose favorite aunt visits them unexpectedly just after the wife has sent a pair of vases to a rummage sale, which the aunt painted as a wedding gift.

A friend of the wife starts in search of the vases, but in the meantime the aunt arrives with them still missing. The aunt suspects something is wrong and ridiculous situations follow in rapid succession, but in the end the aunt is led to believe that her vases are prized above everything else, and in return she presents the couple with a hand-painted clock to match the vases, at the same time adding that as she expects to remain all winter she will paint something for each one, which suggestion is received with exclamations of joy.

The cast for this play was made up of the newer members of the club and they were strong rivals for the honors of the evening. Charles P. Titsworth, as Richard Butler, and Miss Helen Joy, as Florence Butler, his wife, were perfectly natural in their parts, and their acting left nothing to be desired. Miss Joy was especially clever as the wife, while Mrs. Edward C. Suffern as Marietta Williams, the aunt, was just a charming "old lady," whom everyone fell in love with from the time she made her first appearance.

Miss Fredericka Mead as Anne Fisher and Leslie R. Fort as Devlin Blake, friends of the Butlers, added to the merriment of the occasion. They both scored in their respective parts by their natural and unreserved manner, while Miss Margaret Townsend, as Katie, the maid, was typical in portraying the role.

At the conclusion of the plays friends of the women members of the cast showered them with flowers. After a short intermission, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour, music being furnished by Muller. To Edgar

The entertainment was a stereopticon exhibition of French chateaux, the pictures for which, were taken by Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen in a week's journey through that interesting part of France.

TUTTLE WILL NOT BE INTIMIDATED

Congressman Sends Scathing Reply to Threat Wired in Name of Jefferson Club.

DUTY TO THE PEOPLE

Will Make "No Cowardly Surrender" But Will Be Guided Only by Best Interests of Plainfield—Guided Only by Sense of Duty.

As president of the Jefferson Democratic Club, Edward Strapp today received the following reply to a telegram sent him by that organization containing a threat to "get back" at him next fall unless he recommends Patrick J. Reville for the postmastership appointment:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of you night letter conveying the endorsement of Patrick J. Reville for the postmastership of Plainfield by the Jefferson Democratic Club.

"I have received and welcomed the advice of many citizens of Plainfield regarding the appointment of a postmaster at that city and the importance of the matter has given me much concern. I should dismiss the threat of your communication as it affects only myself were it not for the fact that it indicates a total misunderstanding of my relations to the public, my party, and the Postoffice Departments with which I am intimately connected in my capacity as a member of the House Committee on the Postoffice and Post-roads.

"Your assumption that my course in Congress is dictated and controlled by a desire for re-election has no justification in any vote or public activity of my own. If I have sacrificed personal comfort, convenience and ambition in the smallest degree it was to impress on my constituents an honest and conscientious purpose to serve their best interests without regard to the affect upon my personal ambitions and free from purely partisan purpose. If the Democrats of Union county, and the city of Plainfield, organized or unorganized have observed the rehabilitation of their party in public favor they must recognize that this has come through a high conception of its duty to the public, a recognition that its mission is that of service.

"In regard to the Plainfield postmastership—I have a special interest, that of serving the people of one of the most important cities in my district, and of being absolutely true to the department with which I am so closely associated. I shall not be deterred in performing my duty as I see it by abuse, threats, and the various forms of intimidation that seem in this instance to be inspired.

"As a party men, believing in party organization I fully appreciate Patrick J. Reville's political activities. I have frankly discussed with him and his friends the reason why he is not favorably considered for the position which he seeks. It is a condition that he himself has created and which he should have frankly disclosed to the organized Democrats of Plainfield.

"I have personally taken no action in this matter, certainly no interest I have shown has warranted the open and implied threats of many communications on the subject. I answer the threat of your communication because you say it represents the organized Democrats of Plainfield and if that is true I do not understand the Democrats of Plainfield or they do not understand me. This great honor I have comes from them and I shall, if needs be, return it to them unsullied by a cowardly surrender to threats that voice a complete ignorance of the situation. I shall hope to serve my party most by serving the city of Plainfield best and if in doing this I shall eliminate myself from further party consideration the sacrifice will not be great."

This was the telegram that prompted Tuttle's reply:

"The Jefferson Democratic Club of Plainfield, comprising seventy-five active Democrats, at a regular meeting held tonight, unanimously endorsed Patrick J. Reville for postmaster. Reville is fully capable and is only one entitled to position. Reville has approval of a large majority of Democrats and citizens as a true public official. We request you to respect the people's wishes by appointing Reville. We intend to back up our endorsement on Election Day."

When Mr. Strapp was seen by a Daily Press man he disavowed the telegram, declaring that he declined to sign it and that some one else signed his name without authority.

I wish you could see how fast my pack is filling up, but of course, there are only thirteen more business days until I come to Plainfield myself. I hope Little Kris I sent you is doing good work for me. My, how the boys and girls will get a surprise next week. You say what is it? Well, I can't tell you until everything is all O. K. I am sure it will be. Will write you all about it as early as I can

Yours,

Every conceivable method of conveyance is being employed in shipping the seals from the various state head quarters to local agents, from the ox team in Alabama and Mississippi and the pack burro in Colorado to the express train and the automobile in New York. These holiday seals are even being sold in mountain hamlets, where the snow will prevent the receipt of returns for months after the first of the year.

MO-JO White Chewing Gum

Talk No. 18

DO people really care what they put in their mouths?

The total sales of chewing gum amount to more than $34,000,000 a year, a wonderful business.

Yet no manufacturer—until now—has made his product white and clean.

They have gotten out new flavors, new trade marks, new packages—but never a Clean White Gum.

People were contented with brown, speckled chewing gum—why worry? These MO-JO Gum talks have been written to make people think.

They present the facts and in the face of these facts it is for the people to decide whether they want to go on being walking washing machines.

Ask for Pure White Gum—they cannot substitute, they will give you MO-JO Gum.

GRENFELL'S MISSION WORK.

His Undertaking In Labrador Is to Have Organized International Backing.

A plan is on foot to incorporate Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the Labrador missionary whose work among the deep sea fishermen of Newfoundland and Labrador has won the support of people in Europe and America. The idea is to centralize and co-ordinate the several organizations operating in several countries in support of Dr. Grenfell's work. Dr. Grenfell was the best man at the Wilson-Sayre wedding, and for a time Mr. Sayre served as an assistant in Dr. Grenfell's Labrador mission.

Dr. Grenfell himself is not promoting this enterprise to unite the various organizations that help his work. The movement was inaugurated at a meeting in St. John's, N. F., when a Grenfell association for Newfoundland was organized. Governor Walter E. Davidson presided, and many prominent persons in the colony were present. Out of their enthusiasm has grown the plan to bind together the American, the British and the Canadian societies which provide much of the means for carrying on the mission. The name "International Labrador Medical mission" was suggested, but Governor Davidson said the corporation should bear the name of the man who has made the mission, so it will be called "The International Grenfell association."

It was proposed that the new body consist of two representatives from New York, two from Boston, two from Canada and two from Newfoundland. The meetings, according to the present plan, will be held annually in St. John's. This central board will have direct authority in administering the mission and in planning the raising of funds for its work.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE.

It Causes Hardening of the Arteries and Other Grave Troubles.

Physicians have always studied the pulse, because it gives valuable information concerning the body's condition of health or disease. But it is only recently that they have begun to use the term "blood pressure" frequently and to regard the amount of that pressure as of great importance. That is because they now have instruments for accurately measuring the pressure, which previously they could only estimate by feeling the pulse.

Blood pressure or the degree of tension of the blood current within the arteries is chiefly significant because a permanent increase in it is quite sure to be followed in time by hardening of the arteries and by the degeneration or disease of important organs, especially the kidneys.

The blood pressure is increased by a number of causes that increase the force of the heart beat or that contract the smaller blood vessels. Any excitement—anger, joy, fear, "nervousness"—raises it temporarily. But that is of little importance unless the emotion is frequently repeated or unless the person already has diseased arteries. The blood pressure that is permanently high is more serious. That comes from long continued mental excitement, such as worry, business anxiety or political strife or from the action of certain poisons that are formed in the system and not properly excreted.

These poisons come from the waste products of digestion, especially in large meat eaters. They raise the blood pressure by causing the smaller arteries to contract.

In small amounts these poisons are excreted at once, but in persons who eat large quantities of meat, especially of beef and mutton—poultry and fish are less harmful—they are sometimes formed in amounts so large that the kidneys cannot dispose of them promptly. When this happens, especially if it occurs in a person who is under a constant mental strain, like the politician, the financier or the chronic worrier, there is grave danger of a permanently high blood pressure and, following that, of hardening of the arteries and of kidney disease, mental disturbance or apoplexy.

If you must worry be a vegetarian; if you must eat meat do so only once a day or, better still, every other day. —Youth's Companion.

ELECT PRINCETON GRADUATE A JERSEY RHODES SCHOLAR

Princeton, Dec. 10.—Wilder G. Penfield, of Hudson, Wis., a graduate this year of Princeton University, has been elected a Rhodes scholar from New Jersey, entitling him to three years at Oxford.

Penfield was one of the most prominent men in his class, of which [illegible] was the president in his junior year. He played tackle on the 1912 football team and managed the 1913 baseball team. This fall he was the freshmen's football coach.

At graduation, Penfield's classmates voted him the most respected man in the class and the one who had done the most for the class in a non-athletic way.

The committee that elected Penfield consisted of President Hibben, of Princeton; President Demarest, of Rutgers, and President Humphries, of Stevens Tech.

"STOP" TO BE RAILROAD'S NEW SIGNAL AT CROSSINGS

Trenton, Dec. 10.—The Central Railroad Company has advised the Board of Public Utility Commissioners that it proposes to make a change in its system of signaling at grade crossings to afford better protection for persons crossing its tracks. Instead of the white flag now in use the company intends to substitute a large red disk upon which the word "stop" is to be displayed in bold white letters.

The disk is to be held aloft in front of approaching vehicles by the watchman at the crossing. The company argues that this will offer a striking protest against the driver proceeding, and that it will eliminate the possibility of a misunderstanding.

The company has also informed the board that for night protection it proposes to use the color red, as prescribed by the road rules of the State of New Jersey for rear protection of automobiles and for lights covering obstructions or openings in the streets.

In its communication the company has pointed out that red is almost universally known as an indication of danger, and has stated that lamps of a special design, showing this color, will be employed and used at crossings by the company's watchmen.

The letter, from Vice President Besler, of the railroad, was in answer to a communication from the board calling attention to an accident which resulted from an automobilist mistaking the waving of a white flag for a signal to proceed. Inspector McKelvey, of the board, suggested the advisability of substituting a green flag and green light for the white flag and white light generally used on the railroad.

AT ONCE! CLOGGED NOSTRILS OPEN, HEAD COLDS AND CATARRH VANISH

Breathe Freely! Clears Stuffed-up, Inflamed Nose and Head and Stops Catarrhal Discharge—Cures Dull Headache.

Try "Ely's Cream Balm."

Get a small bottle anyway, just to try it. Apply a little in the nostrils and instantly your clogged nose and stopped-up air passages of the head will open; you will breathe freely; dullness and headache disappear. By morning the catarrh, cold-in-head or catarrhal sore throat will be gone.

End such misery now! Get the small bottle of "Ely's Cream Balm" at any drug store. This sweet, fragrant balm dissolves by the heat of the nostrils; penetrates and heals the inflamed, swollen membrane which lines the nose, head and throat; clears the air passages; stops nasty discharges and a feeling of cleansing, soothing relief comes immediately.

Don't lay awake tonight struggling for breath, with head stuffed, nostrils closed, hawking and blowing. Catarrh or a cold, with its running nose, foul mucous dropping into the throat, and raw dryness is distressing but truly needless.

Put your faith—just once—in "Ely's Cream Balm" and your cold or catarrh will surely disappear.—Adv.

DISHONEST ADVERTISERS.

The Newark Advertising Club at a meeting the other night started a crusade against lying advertisements of a certain class of merchants and has already caused one arrest to be made. This practise on the part of dishonest merchants is as harmful to the upright storekeeper as it is to the general public for while the patron at the fake sale is cheated by misrepresentation so the honest merchant loses making a sale at a fair margin of profit.

"Misrepresenting goods on sale is only one form of lying," says the Newark Evening Star. "This vice is of such general practise that it is sapping business morals," that paper continues, "and it does great injury to storekeepers who act up to business principles and honesty in their dealings. The practises of the class of dealers who set out dishonest baits for trade are well known, for they are exhibited on our business streets in "fake" sales of "bankrupt" or fire loss stock, prices in store windows marked down from impossible former prices to preposterously low ones for goods below the value of the minimum figures, and other devices to mislead the unwary."

What is being done in Newark is being done in various parts of the country. The honest merchants have the support of the honest press in their campaign to drive these unscrupulous tradesmen but of business or at least to put a stop to their nefarious practises.

POOR KIDS' XMAS.

The Federation of Church Clubs and the Federation of Men's Bible Classes have combined to provide a Christmas for the children of the poor and it goes without saying that when two such live organizations combine for this purpose the undertaking will be a big success. The scheme will be worked on the same plan as the "Good Fellow" inaugurated some few years ago by the Daily Press, with which the Charity Organization Society co-operated, and successfully conducted annually up to this year.

While Plainfield probably has fewer really poor children than most cities of the size, still last year gifts were provided for approximately 700 youngsters. Most of these little girls and boys would never have known the real joys of Christmas otherwise for their parents could not afford to buy them toys and other things dear to their hearts. Probably as many will be cared for this Christmas. It can be depended upon, as in the past, that the Charity Organization Society, which will furnish the lists, will see that only deserving cases are provided for. The whole thing is a splendid idea and the two organizations having charge of the work are to be commended for their laudable undertaking.

The Secretary of Agriculture recommends that the free distribution of seeds by congressmen be abolished. It should have been long, long ago. It is merely a form of graft for which the Government must pay heavily.

As contributing editor for Saturday's issue, Dr. William L. Saunders will discuss a matter of great importance to New Jersey but strangely enough one about which most people have little information.

And again we say, "Do Your Christmas Shopping Early."

THE RURALES OF MEXICO.

They Form a Unique Branch of the Military Service of the Republic.

The rurales (rural guards) of Mexico are a branch of the military service whose counterpart cannot be found elsewhere. The force was originally formed for the purpose of ridding the country of outlaws at a time when Mexico was overrun by bandits and robbers. Having fulfilled this duty, the organization was continued in the service of the federal government to enforce the laws and maintain order throughout the republic. The force consists of some 2,500 picked men, alike renowned for their fine appearance, good conduct and splendid horsemanship.

Though the organization of the rurales is strictly military, they are not under the jurisdiction of the war department, but under that of the department of the interior. They, however, invariably take part in the military parades on the great national holidays. Though not belonging to the regular army, they would constitute an important element of defense if the occasion should arise. The rurale is like a Cossack in that he is more at home in the saddle than on foot, but there the similarity ends. Mexico has her cavalry contingent, but that branch of the service is as distinct from the rurales as it is from the infantry or the artillery.

© by American Press Association.

THE RURALES ARE RENOWNED FOR THEIR FINE APPEARANCE AND HORSEMANSHIP.

The Mexican private soldier is from the lower class. He is very likely to be wearing the uniform because some magistrate gave him a choice of that or a term in prison. But the rank and file of the rurales is of different stuff. The rurale is a volunteer, and he must be a good one, too, or he is not accepted. That is to say, he must be intelligent, courageous and a crack marksman and horseman. If he has with these qualifications a tough record the latter will not prevent his acceptance. The rurales are generally recognized as the most efficient branch of the Mexican army.

The Mexican cavalry have often sorry mounts, but for the rurales the horses are carefully picked. Many recruits bring their own horses with them, and the members vie with one another in the appearance and training of the animals.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PRESIDENT

Governor Tener Will Return to His Early Profession of Baseball.

From professional baseball player to governor of a great state has been the remarkable career of John K. Tener, governor of Pennsylvania, and now he has decided to return to baseball again by accepting the presidency of the National Baseball league. He was elected to this position on Dec. 9 at a meeting in New York city, and his term is for four years. He has, however, declined to accept any salary for the first year of his presidency, during which time he will continue his duties as governor of Pennsylvania. In 1885 Tener secured his first professional engagement as first baseman of the Pittsburgh club. He subsequently played with the Baltimore and Chicago clubs. He finally gave up baseball to go into business at Charleroi, Pa.

The Finding of Omar.

It was the late Mr. Bernard Quaritch's father who published FitzGerald's "Omar," and, finding that the thing didn't sell, he relegated it to the penny box. Its subsequent success was due to a fortunate accident. Two friends of Rossetti came across the poem and thought it worth reading. Rossetti read it and recommended it to Swinburne. What followed Swinburne has himself told. "Having read it," he writes, "Rossetti and I invested upward of sixpence apiece—or possibly threepence; I would not wish to exaggerate our extravagance—in copies at that not exorbitant price. Next day we thought we might get some more for presents among our friends, but the man at the stall asked twopence! Rossetti expostulated with him in terms of such humorously indignant remonstrance as none but he could ever have commanded. We took a few and left him. In a week or two, if I am not much mistaken, the remaining copies were sold at a guinea. I have since * * * seen copies offered for still more absurd prices. I kept my pennyworth (the tidiest of the lot) and have it still."—London Chronicle.

Twelfth Century Football.

In the twelfth century football in England was a game for the streets. The chronicler of that period tells how after dinner the city youths "addressed themselves to football," and how the scholars of each school and the apprentices of particular trades would each have their peculiar ball. There were spectators, too, in those days—enthusiastic spectators. Fathers would come to watch their sons and "become as youthful as the youngest, their natural heat seeming to be revived at the sight of so much ability."

In later years one recalls a famous ball game played in Hyde park. In 1654, then, "there was a hurling of a great ball by fifty Cornish gentlemen on one side and fifty on the other. One party played in red caps, the other in white." And—here the historical value of the contest—Cromwell was a spectator and applauded the "great agility of body" displayed.

Aldine Editions.

The introduction of the sloping Roman letters which are known to everybody as italics was made by Aldus Manutius of Venice in the latter part of the fifteenth century. He was the most famous printer of Italy and perhaps of the world. The books he printed, known as Aldine editions, are much sought after by collectors. His first volume in the new type was a Vergil published in 1501 at the price of about 2 shillings of our money. Aldus, in fact, was the pioneer of cheap literature.

The Aldine mark is a dolphin twined about an anchor with the name "Aldys." If any reader, says Mr. J. A. Hill in the Imprint, finds a cartload of old books with this mark in his attic or lumber room, he is duly advised not to use them for lighting the fire. They would probably buy him a good annuity for the solace of his declining years.

How Koreans Advertise.

Although the Korean has stubbornly refused to adopt western ideas, he has always recognized the value of advertisement. When a Korean opens a new shop or has any particular wares he is anxious to dispose of or when a nobleman desires to convey a certain piece of intelligence to the people he seeks the services of the sandwich men. In the Hermit Kingdom, however, these men do not carry boards upon which the desired information is made known to all and sundry, but resort to the medium of picturesque flags, upon which the announcement is inscribed. Anything from one to a dozen flags may be requisitioned, and these are carried through the streets by boys and men, forming a picturesque moving advertisement.—Wide World Magazine.

Pancho Villa

General "Pancho" Villa, leader of the constitutional forces, is of magnetic personality, cunning, resourceful and alert. He has some of the capacity of "Stonewall" Jackson for driving his men on forced marches and appearing suddenly at the unexpected place, striking a telling blow, then disappearing utterly, only to be heard from a week later miles away doing more damage. He has the nerve to make a bold attack, but even his friends say he will run to avoid a pitched battle with a force of equal size.

Oil In Mexico Is a Source Of Trouble and Contention

The Story of the Concessions In Sister Republic

Some Great Companies That Have Opposing Interests

A FRENCH newspaper has recently declared that the conflicting interests of oil possessions in Mexico are at the bottom of all the trouble in that country, that only material interests are involved in the Mexican issue and that if armed intervention should result the war that would follow between the United States and Mexico would likely go down in history as "the oil war." This is an overstatement of the case, for there are other important issues at stake besides oil concessions and interests, but undoubtedly oil has played an important part in stirring up the troubled waters of Mexican politics instead of playing its part of calming the storm. The conflicting interests of certain British and American oil companies in Mexico have for some time been a matter of discussion as being intimately bound up with the course of events in the sister republic. Hence an account of these companies and of oil concessions in Mexico has a peculiar interest at this time.

The Pearson (English) concessions, which were very extensive, were granted by Porfirio Diaz. One of the chief American interests in Mexican oil was the Waters-Pierce Oil company, which until recently was the Standard Oil subsidiary operating in Texas, the southwest generally and Mexico. The Waters-Pierce company before its fight with the Standard Oil company and the severance of its relations as a subsidiary was almost entirely a marketing concern in the United States, but in Mexico it had refineries at Vera Cruz, Tampico and other places.

When the revolution against Porfirio Diaz was started it was known that Francisco Madero was favorable to the interests of the Standard Oil company, then represented by the Waters-Pierce Oil company. After Madero had driven out Diaz it was reported that he would soon take steps to revoke the Diaz concessions to the Pearson group, which might have resulted to the advantage of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, and hence to the Standard Oil company, by throwing open to them some of the oil lands then held by the Mexican Eagle company, which took over a large part of the Pearson concessions.

Before Madero, the foe of the Pearson party, was killed the Waters-Pierce company split off from the Standard Oil group and became actually independent of the Rockefeller interests through the settlement of pending litigation between them by the sale of all the stock, a majority, that had been held by the Standard Oil company to Colonel Henry C. Pierce, who already owned most of the other stock. The stock held by the Standard Oil company had been apportioned among its stockholders in carrying out the dissolution program, but it was gathered in from many individuals and turned over to Colonel Pierce. The business has since been reorganized under the name of the Pierce Oil corporation.

This left the Standard Oil group without any substantial interest in Mexico, although it has since tried to obtain lands there from which to draw crude oil for the refineries of the Magnolia Petroleum company, the Rockefeller adjunct in Texas. So far as it has had any financial interests in Mexico since that time they would be adverse to Colonel Pierce and to Madero, by whom it was favored when its interests were identical with those of Colonel Pierce. The substitution of Huerta, therefore, while inimical to Pierce, was not inimical to the Rockefeller group and was decidedly favorable to Lord Cowdray. It prevented an effective revocation of the Pearson concessions.

The Huerta regime was thus a practical restoration to power of the party that had grown up around Porfirio Diaz, that was allied with the Pearson interests and that was opposed to the Madero program in favor of the Pierce interests. Lord Cowdray has appealed to the United States to protect his oil properties, threatened by the revolutionist forces.

The Mexican Eagle Oil company, limited, was incorporated in Mexico in 1908 to take over the oil concessions, properties and interests of S. Pearson & Son, limited, in Mexico, so far as they related to or were situated in the area north and west of a straight line from Vera Cruz to Puerto Angel, on the Pacific coast. The properties consist of five concessions, under which the company has the right to exploit oil deposits in all national and vacant lands in the states of Vera Cruz, San Luis Potosi and Tamaulipas, an area of 75,000 square miles; leasehold properties of about 300,000 acres of oil lands in the state of Vera Cruz and freehold property at Vera Cruz, Tampico and Tuxpan, on which the main tanks are built.

Numerous installations are established throughout the republic with storage tanks and warehouses, and the company owns two tank steamers, oil barges and a narrow gauge railway. Exploration work has been going on continuously, except for revolutionary interruption, and large areas of oil bearing lands have been proved. A pipe line is in operation from Potrero to Tuxpan, and another is under construction from Potrero to Tampico.

Negotiations were completed last year for the acquisition from S. Pearson & Son, limited, of its remaining oil properties and interest in Mexico, including its oil leases, covering an area of over 500,000 acres, its wells, federal and state rights and the refinery at Minatitlan, which has a capacity of 9,000 barrels daily. The company agreed to pay for this additional property $20,000,000 in common stock, which was valued at 120, the price agreed upon being $24,000,000.

The total stock outstanding is $41,500,000 common and $8,500,000 preferred, a total of $50,000,000 (Mexican currency). An issue of $10,000,000 6 per cent bonds was authorized last year. The preferred stock has paid 8 per cent dividends for several years. Last year the company's income was $5,703,108, expenses $1,438,166 and surplus, after dividends, $3,584,942 (Mexican currency).

The Mexican Eagle Oil Transport company, limited, with $5,000,000 capital, was organized to build tank steamers to carry the principal company's oil to various parts of the world. Contracts have been let for nineteen tank steamers, some of which have been delivered. It is understood that these are intended partly for the transport of oil for the oil burning vessels of the British admiralty, which has been much exercised over the possibility of having to rely upon American companies for its supply.

BIKE RIDERS ENGAGE IN MANY SPRINTS

Thrills for Record Crowd of Fans in Madison Square Garden Last Night.

(By Staff Correspondent).

With the teams far ahead of the record and with the participants in better condition than in the second night grind of other years those who witnessed the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden yesterday afternoon, last night and during the early hours of this morning were treated to a program of genuine thrillers and so frequent did the sprints and spills come that the rabid spectators cheered themselves hoarse. For the first time in the history of the sport a team that is behind the leaders rules a favorite for first prize money, force of circumstances compelling "Jackie" Clarke and Alfred Grenda, hitherto bitter rivals, to team up and thus form what looks like a winning combination.

Thirty out of the thirty-four riders who were sent off at the crack of Zimmerman's pistol remained in the race last night and no such riding has ever been seen in the second day of a six-day race at Madison Square Garden. Last night's crowd was one of the biggest that ever jammed into the Garden to see the cyclists perform and with not an empty seat in any part of the big amphitheatre and hundreds standing wherever a view of the track was afforded, the assemblage reached practically capacity proportions. Along about midnight last night the invasion of thirty beautiful specimens of the fair sex from Walthour's Racing Girls' Troupe, which is performing at the Hippodrome, caused considerable excitement in the press box and lower tier of seats but the mob was soon quieted and the "bugs'" attention once more shifted to the wooden saucer where another rider was performing a loop-the-loop down the sides of the dish.

None of the riders have begun to show the effects of the grilling they are undergoing and although there has been considerable talk at the ringside of certain teams dropping out indications last night were that, barring accidents, all of the teams now pedaling, would be in at the finish.

Bike fans and famous riders from all parts of the globe gathered at the arena last night to renew old acquaintances and to get a line on what their rivals and fellow countrymen were doing in the feature event of the year in the bicycle world. Those who have been regular attendants at the Madison Square Garden event in other years claim that there is less sprinting this year than has been the rule in other races but the fast track enables the pedal artists to attain a greater average speed at all times and that the men are in far better condition than at this stage of the game in former years.

Excitement prevailed in the big bowl at the Garden all this forenoon and the riders engaged in many sprints that proved exceedingly disastrous to a couple of the teams and great strength users for the others. At 10 o'clock this morning the riders were a little less than a mile ahead of the record and maintained their same advantage until noon, when the cyclists engaged in one of the greatest spurts of the week which resulted in placing the leaders five miles ahead of the record. Another big getaway was started by the leaders just before 1 o'clock and this put the leaders eleven miles ahead of the old mark.

PADEREWSKI'S LIFE THREATENED, IS REPORT

MR. IGNACE JAN. PADEREWSKI.

A report from Chicago, Ill., says that Paderewski, the world famous pianist, has received anonymous letters threatening him with murder, bombs and vengeance for his contributions to the funds of an anti-Jewish Warsaw paper.

The news provokes indignation, as the musician takes no part in any anti Jewish movement.

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 38.

HAVE you read the Want Ads. in today's paper? If you haven't, you've missed some mighty interesting reading.

Turn to the Classified Columns, and you will fin dan array of human wants that will surprise you.

The WANT AD. columns form a mirror in which are reflected the little, everyday desires of people of all stations in life.

The WANT AD. columns are the natural market place for human wants. Here buyer and seller meet—here are the heart stories of men and women seeking employment—here are the business announcments of mrchants who cannot as yet afford to be big display advertisers, but who will be some day—here are little stories of men looking for and holding out business opportunities.

From the woman who wants a servant to the man who seeks an investment opportunity for thousands of dollars—from the merchant desirious of securing competent employes to the man who has a second-hand automobile to dispose of—from the anxious loser of some prized article to the eye specialist, or the tailor, or the furniture dealer, or the teacher of dancing, or the hair-dresser, or the milliner, or the real estate agent, on the hunt for buyers of their respective services—such, dear reader, is something of the scope of Classified advertising.

Keep an eye on the WANT ADS! They are all very human messages, indeed.

Gigantic Sale New Dress Goods; Mill Ends

At Positive Savings of ½ to 2-3--- All Brand New, Stylish Goods

About one year ago we held a sale of this kind, which proved one of the greatest successes ever identified with this store. In our preparation for this event we planned to even surpass that remarkable sale. This wonderfully fine lot of Dress Goods—5,000 yards in all—represent the short ends and mill-lengths of one of the greatest Dress Goods mills in the country; also the surplus above their advance orders. These goods are made from the finest pure worsted yarns, the widths range from 48 to 56 inches wide; absolutely new, stylish, fresh and perfect in every particular.

Plain colors of ottoman, gabardine, faille de laine, eponge, velour, vigoreaux, ratine, shadow stripe, poplin, diagonal, bedford cords, cheviot, storm serge, French serge, pilot serge, soliel, coating serge, granite, voile and chain diagonal, panama, nelrose, covert, also fancy weaves and mixtures of jacquards, black and white hair stripes, blue and white hair stripes, two-toned diagonals, boucles and many other stripes and mixtures.

The color range is as complete as any picked assortment could be; every imaginable good shade is represented, including a great quantity of navy blue and black; all cut into desirable and correct suit, dress and skirt lengths, with special tickets on, so that selections will be easy and convenient. We have arranged this mammoth purchase into three great lots, as follows:

Metropolitan Golf Association Meets and Local Links Are Offered for Tourney.

In contrast to the recent decision of the national body in golf, the Metropolitan Golf Association at its meeting last night and through its retiring president, Frederick S. Wheeler, of Apawamis, approved of a movement among the clubs in this district whereby the courses of the various members will always be at the disposal of the association for the purpose of running off championship events. Wheeler suggested that each club be always ready to take a championship, and as a result five clubs offered the use of their links for the 1914 tournaments.

In behalf of Englewood, Harry V. Keep asked for the amateur tournament, while Max H. Behr made a similar offer for Baltusrol. A. H. Pogson, of Fox Hills, spoke in behalf of his club for the metropolitan open, while Chase Mellen announced that the course of the Garden City Golf Club was at all times open for the use of the association for any of the championship tournaments, thus starting the ball rolling toward the consummation of Wheeler's suggestion. Leighton Calkins, in behalf of the Plainfield Country Club, said that his club desired to hold the women's tournament, which comes under the jurisdiction of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, but that in the event of failing in its quest the club would like to hold the junior tournament the third time in as many years. The selection of courses was left to the executive committee.

Frederick H. Thomas, the secretary, announced in his report that the membership on January 1 of this year consisted of sixty-eight clubs and that there was only one resignation, that of the Marine and Field Club of Brooklyn. The clubs are geographically divided as follows: New York, 24; New Jersey, 26; Long Island, 15, and Connecticut, 3. The secretary reported that in addition to the usual amateur open and junior championship there were fourteen invitation tournaments, which was the same amount as last year. He gave a detailed report as to the results of all of these events.

In giving the status of the finances of the organization, the treasurer announced a balance of $871.10, as against $923 last year.

A. H. Pogson, chairman of the handicap committee, mentioned the delinquency of most of the clubs in sending in the required information regarding handicaps and urged the universal adoption of the Calkins method. The 1913 report contained 536 names, and in preparing the roster something like 1,200 names were considered. He declared that the 1913 list had worked out excellently, as shown by the result of 14 handicap tournaments. He also mentioned that not a single club had reported changes in the form of its members.

Low Score Marks Smashed to Smithereens in Elks League Last Night.

Orange	4	20	906

Upsetting all precedent for low scores in the Elks' Bowling League and allowing Rahway to take a trio of victories in one night, something this team has failed to accomplish before this season on any alley, the Orange antlered pinners secured a firmer grip on the cellar position in the league standing last night at Rahway. Turning in marks of 764, 764 and 784 the Rahwayites had little trouble in disposing of the visiting clan which obliged with marks of 746, 727 and 677, the latter mark being perhaps the lowest ever pinned in the league's history.

Exceptionally low cards credited to Haines, Kearney and Captain Oetzel were responsible for the low team averages and not a man on the Orange team did any consistent rolling for the combination. Baldwin, of Rahway, was also guilty of a big drop and his tallies brought down the totals of his team considerably. Schmidt, of the winners, was high man for the evening with a score of 189, made in the third game.

PROMISING PLAYERS FOR RUTGERS' TEAM

Baseball Schedule for 1914 Season Made Public by Manager.

Manager F. O. Church today announced the Rutgers baseball schedule for the season of 1914. The list includes sixteen games, eight of which will be played in New Brunswick. The first contest will be staged March 28 at West Point. On the following Saturday Princeton will be played at Princeton, after which there will be two home games against Hamilton and R. P. I. The schedule follows: March 28, West Point at West Point; April 4, Princeton at Princeton; April 15, Hamilton at New Brunswick; April 18, R. P. I. at New Brunswick; April 22, Trinity at Hartford (pending); April 25, Union at New Brunswick; April 29, Ursinus at New Brunswick; May 2, Swarthmore at New Brunswick; May 6 Stevens at Hoboken; May 9, New York University at New Brunswick; May 13, Dickinson at New Brunswick; May 16, New York University at New York; May 23, Deleware at Newark, Del.; May 30, Union at Schenectady; June 6, Trinity at New Brunswick (pending); June 13, Stevens at New Brunswick.

Prospects for a winning team are exceptionally bright, eight of last season's regulars being still eligible. Among these men are two from Union county—Ronald Acken, of Rahway, and Ralph Seiler, of Elizabeth. Acken made his varsity letter last year as catcher and was one of the most consistent batters and steadiest fielders on the nine. Seiler played third base and left field and participated in every game. Only one man was lost by graduation, Captain Clifford Dennis, who pitched the majority of the contests. Several freshmen, however, are expected to fill the place left vacant by him, Paul Bowen, of Shiloh, being the most promising candidate.

DODGES SHERIFF'S MEN.

Deputies from the sheriff's office spent most of Monday night trying to serve an execution on Rube Marquard for a judgment of $288 obtained by the Bryant Motor Service Company. Marquard is appearing at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre and the sheriff's men tried to get to his dressing room to find out whether he had any property to apply on the judgment. Failing in this, they sent in word that they had an execution for him, but this brought no response, because executions have been served on the Rube before. Finally the deputies left the paper at the theatre and went away.

HERE ARE RULES TO GIVE A SQUARE SIX-DAY RACE.

This year's six-day cycle team race in Madison Square Garden will be an honest one and contested on its merits, provided the management and the officials find a way to enforce two rules regarding combinations that are included in the 1913 regulations. They were also part of the conditions for the 1912 event. The rules to which reference is made are as follows:

"It is specifically agreed by the entering team, and its individual components, that it shall not enter into any combination or pool for the division of prize or other moneys accruing from the race, either as a team or as individuals. Violations of this agreement shall constitute an offense punishable by forfeiture on the part of the entering team, or its individual components, at the option of the management of all claims for prize or other moneys guaranteed by the management, upon satisfactory proof of such combination or pool being submitted to the board of control of the National Cycling Association.

"The intent or these rules is to insure a race which will be won solely through the speed and endurance of the successful ones, and as much as possible have the element of luck eliminated and dishonest riding absolutely prohibited."

HEAVY-WEIGHTS DRAW.

New York, Dec. 10.—Battling Levinsky, of Philadelphia, and Jim Flynn, of Pueblo, Col., fought a hard fast battle of ten rounds to even honors at the Atlantic Garden A. C. last night. Levinsky landed the greater number of clean blows, but Flynn's punches carried the greater amount of force. Flynn's advantage of 19½ pounds was a big factor in his favor. The weights were: Flynn, 187 pounds; Levinsky, 167½ pounds. Flynn carried the fight to Levinsky in all the rounds. His bull-like rushes sent Levinsky bouncing against the ropes like a rubber ball. At close quarters Flynn smashed Levinsky in the stomach.

The Proof Is Here the Same As Everywhere.

For those who seek relief from kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder ills, Doan's Kidney Pills offer hope of relief and the proof is here, in Plainfield the same as everywhere. Plainfield people have used Doan's and Plainfield people recommend Doan's, the kidney remedy used in America for fifty years. Why suffer? Why run the risk of dangerous kidney ills—fatal Bright's disease. Here's Plainfield proof. Investigate it.

Mrs. Patience Manchester, 120 Lafayette place, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I willingly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills again. I still use this remedy occasionally and it always relieves me of serious kidney troubles. For a long time I doctored and tried various remedies for my kidneys and bladder, but did not get a cure. Doan's Kidney Pills brought me good results from the first and before long rid me of the trouble."

MAY HOLD WOMEN'S TOURNEY AT P. C. C.

It is Not Likely, However, That Junior Championships Will Be Held Here.

Although no definite plans have as yet been announced, it is understood, that the Plainfield Country Club, with its improved course, is likely to be the scene of the annual Women's Metropolitan Golf Championship tourney next year and preparations are now under way to present the matter to the Woman's Metropolitan Golf Association at its annual meeting to be held in January. Local women golfers have always been prominent participants in this event and local sentiment is strongly in favor of conducting the tournament on the local links next year.

In the event of the women's meeting being brought to Plainfield, the local links would probably be the scene of two Metropolitan tournaments as it has been the custom for the past two years to hold the annual metropolitan junior championships here. It is understood, however, that Leighton Calkins, president of the local club, has sent a communication to the Metropolitan Golf Association in which he reviews the two junior championships held here and explains that it is not likely that Plainfield will entertain the juniors next year.

He declares the tournaments were great successes and points out that, this summer, there were forty-two entries and thirty-eight starters, as compared with forty entries and thirty-seven starters of the year before. He considers it significant that there were twenty-three boys from outside clubs the first year, and that this number was increased by eleven in 1912.

OSTLIN AND WELLE ATTENDED SESSION

Local Assistant Physical Director Voted in as Member of Organization.

E. C. Ostlin, physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., and Henri Welle, assistant director of the Plainfield Association, attended the meeting of the New Jersey Physical Directors' Association held in Newark yesterday and Mr. Welle was voted in as a full fledged member of the organization. Mr. Ostlin has been an active member of the organization for sometime past but Mr. Welle only recently took up this line of work and is now planning for an active interest in the subject.

Routine business occupied the attention of the members yesterday and plans were discussed for a meeting which will be held in the near future in one of the Newark hospitals. Mr. Ostlin is chairman of the aquatic committee of the association.

C. C. Wheeler and George Schmidt, Jr., have made application to the Somerset county authorities for permission to establish a kennel on Johnston's Drive, where they intend to breed a new species of dog.

When interviewed by county authorities regarding the canine in question, Messrs. Wheeler and Schmidt declared that they would import the new animal from another country and will shortly introduce samples of the beast for observation. The new dog has short legs on the southern side of the body, and long ones on the port side, thus enabling it to run along the steep bevel of the mountains.

NATIONS' EYES ON LEWIS AERO GUN

American's Invention Promises to Revolutionize War.

FIRES 500 SHOTS A MINUTE

So Light That a Man Can Transport It Easily—Needs No Water Cooling. Army Officer's Graphic Story of Recent Tests of Wonderful Weapon at Bisley, England.

That the general adoption of the Lewis automatic machine gun will revolutionize warfare, sending the present day rifles and Maxims to the junk heap and rendering current military tactics antiquated at one stroke, is the opinion of a high army officer who was present at the recent trials at Bisley, England, of a new gun invented by Colonel Isaac N. Lewis, formerly of the United States.

The army officer, who stipulated that his name should not be mentioned for fear of a reprimand by his government, drew a vivid picture for the New York Times' London correspondent of the war of the future, if that one desire of all war offices—a portable automatic machine gun, not dependent on water for cooling—should prove no mere toy, but able to stand up under actual service conditions.

Squadrons of cavalry going into action armed with machine guns instead of the lance, saber or carbine; regiments of infantry carrying machine guns, each soldier having a potential deadliness of two or more companies armed with mere rifles; flocks of swift, light armored aeroplanes, each mounting one or two machine guns, swooping down on the enemy with a deadly hail of fire, were some of the military novelties that he prophesied for the not distant future if the Lewis gun, which was highly successful in the preliminary tests, could stand the grueling of actual service.

Equal to a Regiment.

"For the first time a machine gun, capable of firing 500 to 800 rounds a minute, is to be carried by an infantryman," says the officer. "No horses or mules are needed, as with the Maxim. This gun weighs only twenty-six and a half pounds, or less than half a soldier's normal equipment. Think what that means! One infantryman can carry a gun, and his comrade can carry the ammunition. Every company of 150 men could carry seventy-five guns. A single company would have a destructive power equal to a whole regiment at present.

"My opinion is that the new gun is bound to displace Maxim's, for it takes five mules and ten men for every Maxim as against no mules and two men for the Lewis gun. Another thing is that it will do away with the necessity of having cavalry escort for wagon trains. A machine gun could be mounted on every wagon."

The scene which the correspondent witnessed at the Bisley tests was a tremendously impressive one. The new weapon, which to a layman looked more like an overgrown rifle than a machine gun, was mounted on a small iron tripod on the 200 yard range. The inventor, Colonel Lewis, was visibly nervous as he gave final instructions to the civilian operator, while grouped behind in an interested and silent semicircle stood Major General Vondonoph, master general of ordnance; Major General Allenby, inspector of cavalry, and many other high English army officers, representatives of the admiralty, military men from South Africa, New Zealand and Australia; the Bulgarian minister, Colonel Sqiier, the American military attache, the Belgian, Austrian and Japanese attaches and representatives of nearly all the other foreign governments.

Some idea of the interest aroused may be gained from the fact that a Russian colonel, who was present, had been ordered from Sebastopol to England on two hours' notice by the Russian minister of war.

After several thousand rounds had been fired in what seemed only a few moments, the whole company of a hundred went to inspect the riddled target. Other tests were made at the 500 yard range, then the officers present had an opportunity to fire the gun themselves from the 200 yard range.

Fired From Altitude of 600 Feet.

Then the word passed that an aeroplane was coming. The company hastened to the watch tower in time to see a heavy lumbering ark of a biplane climb slowly into the cold gray sky against the brisk and treacherous head wind. In a special seat fastened under the pilot seat sat an officer with a machine gun mounted before him.

As the biplane swung toward the target at an altitude of 600 feet he fired the whole magazine of forty-seven rounds in less than five minutes, scoring a high percentage of hits. Even to the laymen the demonstration was impressive.

"I offered the invention free of charge to the United States government," Colonel Lewis said, "but it would not touch it at the time.

"Already the gun has been subjected to preliminary official firing trials in Russia, Belgium, Italy, Austria and Sweden, and is now under full official trials by a special board of officers in the United States. As a result of the tests trial orders have already been placed by several governments."

DISAPPEARANCE OF CASTRO.

Venezuela's Ex-President Has Not Been Heard From For Months.

The entire disappearance from public view of General Cipriano Castro is beginning to alarm his friends and to agitate his enemies. For months nothing has been seen or heard of the man who was only too wont to keep himself in the public eye. Information received from his adherents in Caracas and Coro tends to show that the "stormy petrel" of South American politics was himself a victim of his attempt to overthrow the government of President Gomez in Coro, Venezuela, on July 25 last. This resulted in failure, and all of General Castro's leaders were captured and imprisoned.

Cipriano Castro is reported to have landed in Coro from a small steamer on the night of July 24, accompanied by Pietro Daudet, at one time Venezuelan consul in Antwerp, and several adherents who had met him in Bridgetown, Barbados. On the following day General Castro issued his proclamation to the people of Venezuela, calling upon them to join his standard and assist him in unseating the "traitor and tyrant," President Gomez. He is said to have left the arsenal on a tour of inspection two hours later, and from that hour to this, as far as is known, he has not been seen or heard from.

The theory that General Castro is dead or held a prisoner is borne out, according to his intimates, by numerous facts. It is known that Senora Castro reached Porto Rico early in August and that she proceeded to Colombia for the purpose of rejoining her husband. Their place of meeting had been agreed upon, but General Castro failed to appear, it is said, and, after vainly seeking information of her husband's whereabouts from friends in Curacao and Trinidad, she returned to San Juan, Porto Rico, where, convinced that her husband was dead, she is said to have gone into mourning.

In the belief that Castro might have returned to Bonaire, where he found asylum for some days prior to the descent of the Castristas upon Coro, Pietro Daudet, who was to have been Castro's private secretary in the event that the revolution was successful, went to Curacao and made inquiries regarding his chief. No one could be found who recalled having seen the missing man, and Daudet, despairingly rejoined his friends in Trinidad. He remained there for some weeks, it is said, and, after vainly making inquiries in every quarter where results might reasonably be expected, he returned to Belgium.

State officials feel sure that the present winter will see a return of the gayeties that marked the Dix administration. Mrs. Glynn is a favorite at Albany. She is a type of Irish beauty with black hair, blue eyes and brilliant coloring. She has Irish wit, too, and beneath it all is a basis of solid New England intellectual training, supplemented by years in which she has read the books which Mr. Glynn has read history, politics, art, the drama and verse.

VICTIM OF POISON NEEDLE FIEND AND SUSPECT ARRESTED.

It is believed that the police of Newark, N. J., are on the trail of a band of men who have been jabbing poisoned needles into the arms of women, and in some cases trying to abduct them after the poison began to affect them. This was declared after Armand Megaro, a young South American, was held in $20,000 bail in Newark on the charges made against him by Mrs. Marjorie H. Graff, a bride of a week, who accuses the young man of having stabbed her with a hypodermic needle while she was watching a vaudeville performance.

CLERGY AND JURORS WANT PASTOR HUGGINS PARDONED

Trenton, Dec. 10.—A delegation composed of a dozen ministers called upon acting Governor Taylor yesterday and urged the granting of a pardon to Rev. George Huggins, formerly pastor of a church at Jacobstown, who is serving a term of from five to thirty years for attacking Viola Fallis. Mr. Huggins is seventy-three years old.

The clergymen were led by Rev. Dr. Isaac Wood, pastor of the State Street M. E. church of this city, who acted as spokesman. The delegation came to Trenton under the impression that there was to be a meeting of the Court of Pardons yesterday, and believing that an opportunity would be accorded for a hearing. Learning that the court was not in session the ministers decided to appeal to Governor Taylor to call a special session, if need be, to consider the case. The Governor assured the delegation that the case of Mr. Huggins would receive due consideration. He gave no assurances as to the calling of a special session of the Court of Pardons, although he said after the hearing that this might be done if the circumstances seemed to warrant.

That a determined effort is being made to bring about the release of Mr. Huggins was indicated later in the day, when his counsel, Assemblyman Peacock, called upon the Governor and presented a petition urging the granting of a pardon. The petition was signed by six of the jurors who sat in the Huggins trial, but now stated that they would not have voted for conviction had they been in possession of certain facts which they learned after the trial.

NEW PROVIDENCE ACCEPTS A SECOND FIRE COMPANY

New Providence, Dec. 10.—The Borough Council has formally recognized Hose Company No. 2 and made it a part of the borough fire department. The company applied to the Council last month for recognition, but because of a technical error in effecting the organization the Council delayed action until Monday night.

The Council refused to act upon a petition presented by property owners and citizens against the acceptance of the company, and, although it was read, together with the names of the eighty-odd signers, it was otherwise ignored.

The petition of the new firemen was presented by the fire committee with a recommendation that the charter be granted. The petition was dated Saturday and was executed according to law before E. L. McKirgan, master in Chancery.

When several questions were asked which tended to show technical errors or omissions in the methods of incorporation, the members of the company present asserted that Mr. McKirgan was their organizer, and as he is the borough attorney, the councilmen ought not to raise objection to his work.

Before final action was taken Councilman Myers explained his negative standing on the question. He said taxes were high now and would be higher next year, and that many special matters for consideration were coming up. He said the department as organized was sufficient, and he did not see the necessity for another company.

PLEADS NON VULT AND GETS TWELVE YEARS FOR MURDER

New Brunswick, Dec. 10.—Retracting his plea of not guilty, Frederick Venable, of Highland Park, upon a plea of guilty to murder in the second degree, was sentenced to State prison for a term of from twelve to thirty years by Supreme Court Justice James J. Bergen at the opening of the December term of court yesterday.

Venable shot Frank Balliani, a tailor, at his shop in George street, October 29. They had quarreled over a girl both courted. Prosecutor George S. Silzer told the court the evidence all showed that it would be difficult for the State to prove premeditation, because the condition of the man's mind, the police officers, nurses, doctors and all who had anything to do with the parts in the case having said they were stupefied, in describing the condition of the two men who, with Miss Elizabeth Oram, had been carousing the night before. Because of this condition of affairs, the prosecutor said the State would consent to a change of plea.

—Nine-tenths of the merchants would advertise honestly and frankly, whether or not that were the best policy. But the tenth one will always be wise enough to do so whether it is a principle with him or not.

Cold Weather Ventilation.

Some persons that most of us have known have solved the problem of cold weather ventilation in a simple and, to them, satisfactory way. When the first cold days arrive, they close the windows. Of course, this is beginning the question, for in spite of their protests to the contrary, the amount of air that seeps in through the window frames is quite insufficient to ventilate any room.

One of the chief reasons for the prevalence of colds in winter is that people do not get enough fresh air when it is cold and damp. It may be impossible for some persons to go out doors on many cold winter days; but it is quite possible for every one to live in a well-vetilated room. So colds could be reduced perceptibly if we all lived in well-ventilated houses.

How To Ventilate.

The most important room, so far as ventilation is concerned, is the bedroom; for there most of us spend more time than in any other one room. Moreover, the opening and closing of outside doors keeps the living rooms and halls and always the kitchen well ventilated. For another thing, we have greatly increased efficiency if we sleep well and soundly, as we are likely to do when we sleep in a well-ventilated room.

If the bedroom has two windows on walls running in different directions, one should be opened at the top and one at the bottom. One of them may occasionally have to be closed, in times of driving storms, and perhaps they cannot both be left wide open in excessively cold weather. But it is better to leave each partly open than one all the way open and the other closed, for with one open at the bottom, the other at the top, a current of air that really freshens the room is created. If the one from which the prevailing winds blow be opened at the top it will be protected from driving rain and snow by the eaves—if there are any.

Some persons have little canvas shields made for their bedroom windows, to use in very cold weather. These are no more nor less than oblongs or squares of thick, water-tight canvas, a foot wider than the lower sash and a little higher than it is. This canvas is fastened in some way by its four points to the window frame, the two lower points to the two lower corners of the frame, the two upper points to two points in the window frame on a line with the bottom of the window sash when it is open. This arrangement keeps out rain and snow, to a great extent, and also breaks the force of driving winds.

A weather board makes ventilation without draught possible. This is a board inserted under the open lower sash, which makes it possible for air to circulate constantly through the upper and lower sashes.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

Conducted by the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

VOTES FOR WOMEN — NORTH, SOUTH, EAST AND WEST.

The thing above all else that last week's suffrage convention in Washington proves is that the women of this country—all corners of it—are united and determined on this matter of votes for women.

Personal interviews with prominent women from the various sections of Uncle Sam's dominions reveal better than anything else the spirit of the day.

Here is what Alice Stone Blackwell has to say concerning New England:

"I'll begin with Maine, for it has the best showing and the best legislative success so far, and this, too, within a short time. Up to two years ago there was practically little interest shown in suffrage, but Maine suddenly awakened, and this year surprised her sister States by a large vote in favor of the bill in both houses. It was large, but not large enough to carry it, so that suffrage work is being pushed with the hope of even more successful results in the future.

"In contrast to Maine stands little Rhode Island, so hampered by her iron-bound constitution that it couldn't even be amended to give the school suffrage to women without endless red tape. However, the Legislature can give the right to vote for Presidential electors, as the Illinois Legislature has done, and this is what Rhode Island women are working for. Illinois' example has inspired them, and they are very active in the cause.

"Although Vermont is not as yet represented by a delegation at this convention, I can answer for an increasing interest felt in the cause by its women. It may be a gradual movement among them, but just lately they have become active, and I feel that great impetus and a new interest is going to come in that State for the examples of their New England sister States cannot help inspire Vermont people.

"New Hampshire's example is enough to arouse any of her neighboring States. She has a large number of organizations, and they are all very active.

"Personally, I am always glad to tell about Massachusetts. We have been very busy there lately, defeating members of the Legislature who opposed woman suffrage. We usually find that the men most opposed are very apt to be wrong in other things as well. We have looked up their records, and come to this conclusion. When we use these records to show why we don't want them elected, we find that this course is very effective.

"Last year for the first time, we had a majority in the lower house in Massachusetts. The vote was 144 to 88, but that wasn't quite sufficient. We are encouraged, however, and next year we hope, and think we have good prospect of getting the amendment submitted.

"Connecticut is one of the States that is working hardest now, and the delegation of thirty-nine at this convention shows the interest in that State. Last year they raised $20,000 for suffrage work, and when you realize that a few years ago they considered $400 a large sum, you can see how their power is increasing."

Miss Anne Martin, president of the Nevada Equal Franchise Society speaks as follows:

"Our workers travel over the whole State. That means a good deal, for Nevada is one-quarter larger than Great Britain but is very sparsely populated. The Federal Census of 1910 gave the State 82,000 inhabitants.

"Suffrage meetings are largely attended by ranchmen and their wives, prospectors, and cowboys. Those cowboys are a rough but chivalrous sort of men, and the fairness of our case appeals to them. Many of them are ardent suffragists, and we have great hope of what their vote will do for us. Some people have asked me if it isn't hard to arouse any enthusiasm in the women of these remote districts; if they aren't very provincial and behind the times in their ideas. They are not. Of course, there are some women who are not interested in anything outside their own homes and families, and who talk about 'woman's place,' but it hardly seems to me that such women are restricted to those who live in the remote parts of Nevada.

"I find that these wives of ranchmen who live isolated lives, often filled with the hardest drudgery from one day's end to the next, are in many cases remarkably thoughtful women. It is a pleasure to talk to them. Their isolation gives them time to think and form opinions as those who live in the rush of city life cannot, and they make the stanchest suffragists.

"There are now seven hundred women organized for suffrage in the State society of Nevada. A year ago our Franchise Society was practically only a local committee of five, with fourteen paid-up members, and with no county organizations. Now it is a State organization, with seven hundred members and eleven county and three auxiliary town organizations."

Such statements as the following from Jane Addams, of Hull House, carry their own weight:

"As to the effect that the granting of the municipal suffrage to women in Chicago on the first of last July, it has been such a short time that we haven't had time for many perceptible results. Still some important things have been accomplished. For instance, Miss Mary McDowell head of the University settlement, has urged year after year for eighteen years that the garbage of the city be disposed of in a more sanitary way than was the custom. But eighteen years of pleading on her part availed nothing till the municipal franchise was granted to women in July. I think it was ten, but it was certainly within fifteen days after that, that Miss McDowell got what she had been asking for all these years— a commission to look into the matter of the sanitary disposal of public garbage, and she was made a member of it.

"Ten police women have been appointed and more have been promised. These women are stationed chiefly in dance halls or on recreation piers. They have not been forced to make more than a half-dozen arrests so far, and two or three of these have been drunken men.

"Women have been appointed 'assistants to the judge' in the Municipal Court. They might almost be called judges, if it weren't for the timidity of those who regard this as a daring innovation and prefer to insist upon 'assistant.' These women hear women's cases, and there are also two women in the Morals Court who are really informal judges and adjust cases of women.

"It is in the departments of pure social service that women's help is needed, and where it is being demanded as soon as the franchise is granted. Women are especially capable in such lines. Fourteen women have just been appointed, one in each of fourteen districts, as judges of election or clerks. It is not a new idea for women to be giving valuable social service to her city or State. They have been doing it for years, but outside of the State departments."

From Charlotte Anita Whitney, of California, comes this statement as to how California women have used their votes:

"Much emphasis has been placed on the legislative reforms we have accomplished, but just as important are our victories in working against the re-election of Eddy Wolff as Senator and Charles Weller as police judge. No one ever thought, for instance, that we could oust Wolff. They said he was too firmly rooted for us to shake him, no matter how hard we tried, for he had been elected year after year. He represented all the vicious interests of San Francisco, and one of our objections to him was that he would not favor the bill that abolished race-track gambling.

"Our work in this case was purely education. We looked up his record, and then, through our organizations, saw that it was made public property. The cold, hard facts of his past record defeated that man and the women of the State were responsible for the dissemination of these facts.

"Our chief grievance against Judge Weller was that he had reduced the bail of men charged with rape, and in two instances they had actually jumped bail and gone scott free. Here again the actual facts were told and told again, over the entire State, and women responded to them. It is the moral side of the question that touches the woman voter every time.'

As to the southern women and their attitude on suffrage, "of course, we're here" said one of them. "We are not a bit behind in the suffrage movement. Women of the South have always taken an interest in politics and are well informed. They have been noted for their brilliant salons, at which politics were discussed. Now we want an active part in politics, and not mere discussion, and are working as hard as women in any part of the country to get it."

Mrs. Desha Breckenridge, great-granddaughter of Henry Clay, is president of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association, and this is what she tells of work in her State.

"Suffrage has reached the point in Kentucky when we expect to present our bill to the Legislature in January and if it goes through it will be voted on in the fall of 1915. Then we'll be voters in 1916.

"Our Equal Rights Society was founded twenty-five years ago. Since that time we have been working steadily for the industrial, legal, and educational rights of women, and have accomplished many reforms, among the most notable of which are: The law which makes a wife's wages payable to herself alone, so that they cannot be collected, as formerly, by her husband; the right of a married woman to make a will; the appointment of women physicians for the women's wards of hospitals for the insane; the bill raising the age of consent from twelve to sixteen years (we had asked to have it raised to eighteen); an equal guardianship law, which gives women joint custody of minor children; an excellent child-labor law.

"We now have organizations in sixty-two out of the 120 counties in the State. In one year we have jumped from a membership of about 800 to 5,000 this year.

"Perhaps you might say that the suffragists are adopting clinging-vine tactics in Kentucky, for we are letting the men do our fighting for us whenever it is possible. And we find many men who are glad to do it, because those who oppose us are apt to be so unscrupulous, and represent such base interests, that all good men are as anxious to defeat them as we are. They helped us win school suffrage, and the Democrats of the State now have suffrage in their platform.

"Kentucky is very proud to claim the first suffrage parade south of the Mason and Dixon line.

"But perhaps you wonder why, with all our reforms, without suffrage, we now ask for the vote. It is because although we rejoice in the just laws which we have gained through the right of petition, we know that no gift obtained in this way is safe from repeal till women have the crowning right of citizenship."

From far South, conservative Louisiana, comes this message brought by Mrs. Sake D. Meehan:

"Once we get an audience to see that child-labor laws, sanitary laws, the law concerning the age of consent, the compulsory education law, or, rather, the lack of it in Louisiana, are peculiarly the interests of women, we are apt to make them see why we want to vote. And we can't talk suffrage nowadays without including these great issues in the discussion.

"I don't know why the opinion has spread that the Southern men are all opposed to woman suffrage. We don't find them so in Louisiana. Many influential men are among our ardent supporters, and are glad to work with us. We like to enlist men and their wives, for, when they work together in this way, they accomplish surprising results.

"The only form of enfranchisement which women have in Louisiana is that which entitles us to vote on questions concerning taxes. We can't serve on any board, charitable, school, or any other kind, because we are still under the old Napoleonic code that says

"'Only duly qualified electors shall be eligible to serve on public boards.'

"We present our suffrage bill at the next Legislature, with the hope that we are going to be 'fully qualified electors' pretty soon. There are about 800 members of the Woman Suffrage Party of Louisiana and every one of us is working hard. If you ever hear anyone say that the Southern women are blocking the cause of suffrage and do not want the vote, just send them right down to Louisiana and let them see how hard we are working for it."

EVERETT COLBY'S BIRTHDAY.

Everett Colby, who was candidate of the Progressive party for governor of New Jersey in the election last month, was born in Milwaukee, Wis. Dec. 10, 1874. His family came East, and he was educated at Brown University, graduating in 1897. After leaving college he made a tour of the world. Upon his return he took up the study of law, and since 1900 he has been engaged in the practice of that profession in New York and New Jersey. Mr. Colby's public career began in 1903 when he was elected as a Republican to the lower house of the New Jersey Legislature. When serving his third term he split with his party on questions of policy and has since been a Progressive. He was a delegate to the national convention of the Progressives in Chicago two years ago and has since been looked upon as the leader of the party in New Jersey.

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7750

Simplicity is the first requirement for children's garments. The mother who makes the little dresses and coats must appreciate the few seams, straight lines and simple cut of the modish small frock of today.

7750 is cut in one piece, has an inset yoke, a slightly low round neck and elbow sleeves with an inset cuff.

Blue serge with trimmings of figured silk would make an attractive school dress, and it is also a good design for wash materials, cotton crepe, chambray or madras.

The low belt gathers the dress in a trifle at the back, and there is an inverted plait on either side of the skirt.

To make this dress in size 10 it requires 2½ yards of 36 inch material.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 4 to 12.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to give right size, passing the tape around the fullest part of the chest and well up under the arms.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Some Cookery Suggestions

THE PLUM PUDDING.

IN some households Christmas without plum pudding would be very tame indeed. The plum pudding may be boiled, baked, steamed or frozen. If boiled you should have a tight fitting mold in which to boil it. A bowl with a floured cloth to cover it is a poor substitute, for there is always the chance that the water will penetrate the cover and spoil the dough. An empty lard or cottolene pail which has a tight fitting cover is the best substitute for the mold. Grease the mold well before putting the pudding into it. Allow room for the pudding to swell.

Dredge the fruit well with flour before adding it to the pudding. When candied peel is used sometimes it is hard to cut. Put a sharp knife into boiling water so that the blade alone will be immersed. When hot take out, wipe and the peel can then be cut quite easily.

A Pudding That Will Keep.

The following pudding will keep well, but when it is not to be served at once it should be boiled only for about six hours and then hung in the storeroom until it is to be used. It should then be boiled for an hour and a half. The pudding should be kept in the vessel in which it is cooked until it is time to serve it. The quantities given here will make a pudding for twelve persons.

Boiled Plum Pudding.—Take half a pound of finely shredded suet, half a pound of washed and dried currants, three-quarters of a pound of stoned raisins, four tablespoonfuls of dried and sifted breadcrumbs, three tablespoonfuls of warm sifted flour, five ounces of cone sugar, three eggs, three ounces of shredded citron peel, half a grated nutmeg and a teaspoonful of brandy. Mix these well together, adding enough milk to make it smooth and boil for six or eight hours.

A Wholesome Pudding.

Graham Plum Pudding.—Take two cupfuls of sifted graham flour and mix with half a teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of baking powder and one cupful of almonds, English walnuts or pecan meats, a cupful of raisins, a cupful of milk and half a cupful of molasses. Wash, seed and dry the raisins and flour them lightly. Slice or chop the nut meats fine, then add molasses and milk to the flour. Mix well and quickly. Add raisins and nuts. Mix thoroughly again. Butter a pudding mold, pour in the batter and boil. Serve with lemon sauce.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Two Little Mice's Christmas Eve Party.

A Jolly Old Man Appeared.

"ONCE upon a time," began daddy, "a little mouse had heard when he was hiding in holes in the corners of the rooms that all the little boys and girls in the world once a year had a Christmas tree full of goodies. A dear old person named Santa Claus trimmed the tree for them and filled the stockings which they hung up by the fireplaces.

"The little mouse didn't see why he shouldn't have a Christmas, too, so he told another little mouse what he had heard. Together they planned what they would do. They would bore through two little holes in the parlor where they had heard the tree was to be. There they stayed every night, keeping very quiet. They heard the children talk about what they hoped Santa Claus would bring them and saw them constantly send notes up the chimney to him.

"Of course the mice had to keep very quiet, as they didn't want to let the children know they were there, and with a great deal of self denial they stayed out of the pantry, living for their very own Christmas party.

"At last Christmas eve came. They saw the children in their little nighties hang up their stockings by the fireplace and then trot off to bed.

"Before long the mice heard strange noises on the roof, and then a little soot began to fall down the chimney. Soon they saw a jolly old man appear, with white hair and a white beard, from the chimney, and they nudged each other, whispering, 'That must be Santa Claus.'

"Sure enough, it was Santa Claus, for he had a big bag of presents with him, and at once he set to work. At first he trimmed the tree. He had plenty of silver trimming and candles; but, best of all (thought the mice), he strung popcorn over the tree and made it look as if the snow had fallen over it. Then he tied on the branches candy canes and candy animals of all sorts. Next he filled the stockings, and how the mouths of the two little mice did water as they saw all sorts of nuts, raisins and big rosy cheeked apples going in! The toys didn't interest the mice, as they were longing to get at the things to eat.

"Before long Santa was through and quickly disappeared up the chimney. And then—the mice began their feast. And, oh, what a time they did have! They ate until they could eat no more, and they thought Christmas the finest time of the year, for never before had they seen food still before them which thy weren't hungry for!

"The next morning when the children saw so many nutshells and bits of popcorn lying around they knew that some little mice must have had a party, but they didn't set a cruel trap, as they thought it was fine that the mice had had a Christmas party too."

HE WILL REMAIN AS COUNCIL HEAD

George S. Clay the Unanimous Choice as President of the Governing Body.

COMMITTEES UNKNOWN

Expected That They Will Be Named at First Session to Be Held on Thursday Night, Jan. 1—Clay Ideal for Presiding Officer.

George S. Clay, of the Second ward, who was re-elected as a member of the Common Council at the November election, was the unanimous choice of the members of the 1914 Common Council for the presidency at a caucus of that body held last night. Mr. Clay has served in that capacity this year and no one else was mentioned for the place for the coming year.

All of the members of the 1914 body were present, being Councilmen A. D. Edgar, Francis J. Blatz, Leighton Calkins and Cornelius Van Herwerden, who hold over from this year, and Councilmen-elect Theodore Martin, of the First ward; George S. Clay, of the Second ward; Thomas F. Hylan, of the Third ward; C. C. Graves, of the Fourth ward, and Councilmen-elect John H. Cose, Richard A. Claybrook and Juan A. Babcock, members-at-large.

After the question of a president for next year was settled and that required but a few minutes, the members held an "acquaintance party" more of a social nature during which there was an informal discussion of various matters pertaining to the city government. The new council will hold its first meeting on Thursday night, January 1, at 8 o'clock, for organization purposes and the transaction of such other business that may properly come up at that time. In the meantime, Mr. Clay will make his choice of committees to be announced at the organization meeting.

PLAINFIELD'S HEALTH DURING MONTH PAST

Reports submitted by Health Officer Randolph Chandler at a meeting of the Plainfield Board of Health last night, showed that there were thirty-five cases of communicable disease during November as follows. Tuberculosis, 12; chicken pox, 6; whooping cough, 7; malaria, 4; scarlet fever, 2; measles, 1; diphtheria, 3. Twenty deahts were reported, also forty-nine births and twenty-seven marriages.

A total of 460 inspections were made during the month of dairies, plumbing work, communicable diseases, complaints and nuisances. One application for a permit to remove garbage was granted, one for manicuring and hair dressing and six for dumps.

EXEMPT FIREMEN INSTRUCT COUNSEL TO BEGIN SUIT

V. W. Nash, Jr., counsel for the Firemen's Relief Association, was authorized by the members at the annual meeting held last night to institute suit against local insurance agents who have been delinquent in turning over the two per cent. insurance to the association and the pension fund.

The following officers were elected at last night's session: President, T. O. Doane; vice president, William Addis; secretary, Guillermo Thorn; treasurer, William Townley.

Sebring's Auditorium Scene of Merry Time of Utilities Corporation Men.

The annual ball under the auspices of the Dunellen Public Service Social Club in Sebring's Auditorium, last night, was one of the most successful ever held by that organization and was attended by nearly 200 people. A program of terpsichore music afforded entertainment for many of the guests and the rendition of musical numbers by Allen Squier's orchestra attracted much favorable comment.

The auditorium was appropriately decorated in brilliant colors and numerous different colored lights transformed the dance hall into a blaze of glory. Those in charge of the various commitees were: Floor manager, Hugh Higgins; assistant floor manager, Harry Eick; cloak room, John Devine, John Vroom and George Mundy; programs, Frank Keenan and M. J. Nevins; reception, George Luhr, Robert Partain, H. J. Smith, M. J. Nevins, William G. Huenke, Frank Keenan, George Benton, Patrick McCollon, Charles L. FRIENDSHIP COUNCIL'S ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCE

The twenty-third anniversary of Friendship Council, No. 81, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, was appropriately celebrated Tuesday night when the members and many of their friends enjoyed a banquet at Friendship Hall in that town. Among those who spoke were Rev. Dr. Poland, pastor of the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church; William B. LaRue, State Vice-Councillor, Rene P. F. von Minden and the officers of the council.

Following the speech-making, the guests enjoyed a program of dancing until a late hour, the music being furnished by Naylor's orchestra. The committee that was in charge of the event was composed of Harry Tomlinson, William Van Nuise and Daniel Moodey.

BEEKMAN THE HOST OF HIS COLLEAGUES

Speaker of House to Entertain at a Luncheon to Be Given on Tuesday.

Trenton, Dec. 11.—Assemblyman Azariah M. Beekman, who has been selected by the majority for speaker, will act as host at a luncheon when the members of the Democratic caucus reassemble in this city next Tuesday. The caucus will meet to hear the report of the rules committee, but the manner in which the members will be brought together is most unusual.

The eleven Democratic Senators will also hold a conference on the same day. At that time they will allot the patronage of their chamber, but it is thought that there will be no great variation from the assignments made last year. It is expected that Senator-elect John A. Ackley, of Cumberland, who carried his county for a Democrat for the first time in many years, will receive generous treatment in return for his great success.

Members of the Essex county delegation will hold a meeting in Newark next Monday, when they will settle upon the men who will occupy the various places given to the county. With the exception of three more places, which the delegation has at its disposal, the probabilities are that nearly all of the other positions in the House will be filled by practically the same men who were there last winter.

Through the three additional places, caused by the reduction in the Democratic representation in the Assembly, each member of the Essex county delegation will be given a larger average. The three additional places, however, will be small positions. One of these is a file clerk and the others are pages.

Assemblyman Beekman, as speaker, and Senator Slocum, as president of the Senate, are not yet ready to announce the makeup of the committees. The probabilities are that both will likely follow custom and reserve complete announcement until January 13, when they are formally installed in office.

MRS. BEECHING DIES IN SEVENTY-EIGHTH YEAR

Mrs. Annette Palmer Beeching, aged 77 years, widow of Stephen Beeching, died of complications, this morning, at her home, 138 Grove street, the borough, following a serious illness of three weeks. Mrs. Beeching was born in Brooklyn, but for many years lived at Watchung. After the death of her husband eight years ago, Mrs. Beeching and her daughter, Miss Nettie J. Beeching, removed to North Plainfield.

Mrs. Beeching was a member of Grace M. E. church, the borough, and a regular attendant at the services until ill-health prevented. She was a devout Christian and beloved by a large number of friends and acquaintances. Her husband was for many years prominent in Masonic circles in this city.

There survives a daughter, Miss Nettie J. Beeching, who is prominent in Sunday-school work; two sons, George N. Beeching, of Watchung, and Stephen H. Beeching, of West Front street; one sister living in Brooklyn, and four grandchildren, Mrs. C. N. Sebring, Lisle A. Beeching, the Misses Grace and Edna Beeching, and a great grandchild, Charles Beeching Sebring, of this city.

The funeral will be held at the late home Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. C. C. Cain, of Grace M. E. church, assisted by Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, will officiate. The burial will be in the Methodist church.

COUNTRY STORE SOLVES HIGH COST OF LIVING

The management of Proctor's Theatre will introduce a novel "stunt" tonight and again on Monday night, when there will be a distribution of poultry, foodstuff, coal, flour, etc. Many of the articles to be given away are now on exhibition at Samuel Rothberg's clothing store, adjoining the theatre.

Each person buying a ticket for tonight's performances either at 8:15 or 10:15, will receive a coupon and certain ones will entitle the holder to receive one of the many articles to be given away by the management.

The temperature report from The State Trust Company today is as follows: 9 a. m., 32 degrees; 11 a. m., 33 degrees; 1 p. m., 33 degrees.

H. L. DYER IS DEAD; WELL KNOWN HERE

Young Man Succumbs to Heart Failure at Home of His Mother-in-law.

Word has reached here of the sudden death of Herbert Langtry Dyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Dyer, of Cincinnati, Ohio, which occurred at the home of his wife's mother, Mrs. M. A. Briggs, of Valdosta, Georgia. He formerly lived in this city. Mr. Dyer married Miss Emile Montague Briggs, of Valdosta, three years ago, and their son, Briggs is two years of age. Mr. Dyer's father-in-law, Matthew A. Briggs, died about six weeks ago, and the young couple had not yet returned to their home in Atlanta, Georgia.

Five weeks ago, Mr. Dyer was taken with an attack of the grip and was ill for three weeks, when he felt that he must return to his business against the advice of his physicians as his heart was in a weakened state. He returned each week-end after that, although hardly able to reach Valdosta the last time. After several days he attempted preparations for returning to business, when his heart failed.

For so young a man, Mr. Dyer was remarkably successful in business. Twelve years ago he joined the First Methodist Episcopal church of Plainfield, when Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass was the pastor. Mr. Dyer's sister, Mrs. Edith Dyer Horne, the wife of George A. Horne, a grandson of the late James McGee, resides in Plainfield.

Besides his wife and son, Mr. Dyer leaves his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy S. Dyer; his sisters, Alma and Eleanor Dyer, and brother, Arthur P. Dyer, all of Cincinnati. Mr. Dyer was a grandson of the late Charles B. Dyer, whose geological collection is at Harvard University and also grandson of the late Rev. Dr. Francis Hoyt, of the Methodist Episcopal church, who was the first president of Willamette University. Mr. Dyer was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

TURKISH CHRISTIAN APPEALS FOR SCHOOL

Rev. Mr. Melkonyan Says His Country's Salvation Lies in the Gospel.

Rev. Samuel M. Melkonyan, professor for fifteen years in St. Paul's institute, Tarsus, Turkey, now spending a year in study at Princeton seminary, and who is anxious to raise funds for scholarships that deserving young men and boys, orphans, in his own country may secure a Christian education, spoke at the mid-week prayer meeting at the Crescent Avenue church, last night, before a large audience.

Mr. Melkonyan described the different classes of people in his native country with a population of 30,000 people at Tarsus. He said that St. Paul's Institute is about twenty-five years old and at present there are about 250 orphan boys in the school. The speaker told of the atrocities in the early days when 90,000 people were slain, leaving about 20,000 orphans. He said that fully 70 per cent. of the graduates of the institute are engaged in work among their own people.

Mr. Melyonkan said that only through the Gospel could peace be restored in his country and he is planning to give the rest of his life to the conversion of the Turkish empire, and to do all that he possibly can to save the young men and raise the Cross of Christ. In conclusion he made an earnest appeal for support in his work.

FOURTEEN DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

DEC. 11

Only Two Weeks Are Left In Which to Do Your Christmas Shopping.

EATON APPLAUDED BY THE CANADIANS

Shares Honors With Bryan at Annual Banquet of the Dominion Club.

Nobody who heard Secretary of State Bryan's speech at the annual dinner of the Canadian Society last night at Delmonico's, in New York, had the slightest doubt that his influence will be used to the uttermost to keep American troops this side of the Rio Grande. Mr. Bryan did not mention Mexico, but those who heard his positive generalities applied them directly to the Mexican situation.

"But while we are determined that there shall be no cause for war between the United States and Great Britain we are determined also that there shall be no war between the United States and any other country," he said. "I am proud to be connected with an administration whose purpose it is to remove the causes of war."

Mr. Bryan's address was not the only notable feature of a brilliant dinner. Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, a leading New York divine who makes his abode at Watchung, as president of the society, made one great big hit. Sir John Willison, editor in-chief of the Toronto News; William T. White, Minister of Finance of the Dominion; Viscount Campden, representing the British Ambassador; William Lyon Mackenzie King, former Minister of Labor of the Dominion, and William Renwick Riddell, Justice of the High Court of Ontario, were the other speakers who, while proudly justifying their place in the Empire, stretched friendly hands across the border.

Second only to Bryan, Dr. Eaton's introductory remarks prompted the most applause. His witticisms made the Secretary of State and the other distinguished speakers keep up a constant laughing face. And when he became serious, his remarks were met with equal approval. It was the largest and best annual banquet ever held by the "transplanted" ones and after it was all over Dr. Eaton was showered with compliments for it was due to his efforts that the gathering was so remarkable in so many respects.

Among the members and guests present were several Plainfielders.

HOLIDAY RESPONSIBILITIES FOR THE P. S. C. EMPLOYES

"Holiday Responsibilities," is the title of a neatly printed card, a copy of which has been placed in the hands of every motorman and conductor in the employ of the Public Service Railway, as a reminder of the part they are expected to play in meeting the unusual transportation conditions of the holiday season. The card which is signed by N. W. Bolen, general superintendent, reads as follows:

"Shop early is the slogan this year, and it's a good one. If lived up to, it will make it easier for everybody. It's up to us to do our share towards making the new idea a success.

"SAFETY—Avoid those boarding and alighting accidents; getting on and off cars with a load of Christmas things is difficult. Lookout for the trucks and wagons loaded with Christmas gifts, the drivers are in a hurry and probably taking chances.

"COURTESY—Besides the spirit of good will, the Christmas season brings its petty annoyances and emporary trials, but a smile will settle many a misunderstanding. Courtesy will do much towards making the big crowds good humored. Lay in a large supply of it and use it liberally. Help the aged, infirm and the little children. They will appreciate it.

"LOYALTY—The loyal support of the four thousand transportation employes of the Public Service Railroad in handling the holiday patrons goes without question, and the splendid service of former years will be duplicated. Watch the Bogie."

NEW APPARATUS JAN. 15.

The new motor pumping engine which has been purchased of the Nott Fire Engine Company for Plainfield, had its first test at the factory in Minneapolis a few days ago, at which time it delivered 650 gallons of water per minute against a pump pressure of 181 pounds. This is said by the agent to be the greatest record ever made by a pumping engine either steam or gasolene, and the engine is being finished finer then any ever turned out by the Nott company. It will be delivered about January 15.

DENTISTS MEET.

Dr. Henry W. Gillett, of New York, addressed the members of the Plainfield Dental Society at its quarterly meeting and dinner at The Homestead last night. He spoke on the reconstruction of the dental organs after they have been impaired by wear and disease, with relation to physical resistance to contagion and fatigue. About twenty members of the society were present.

HOLD A RECEPTION FOR THEIR DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie Introduce Miss Mildred McKenzie Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Angus McKenzie are giving a reception at their home, 1414 Watchung avenue, this afternoon, to introduce their eldest daughter, Miss Mildred McKenzie. The home has been lavishly decorated for the occasion with a profusion of ferns, palms and flowers from Mr. McKenzie's conservatory.

Miss McKenzie, the debutante, has received a large number of gifts of beautiful flowers from relatives and friends and her entrance into society is being marked by many pleasing features.

Receiving with Mrs. McKenzie and her daughter will be Mrs. John Jay Cisco and Mrs. George H. Cisco, of New York; Mrs. Malcolm McKenzie, Mrs. Howard H. Williams, Mrs. Samuel T. Carter, Jr., Mrs. August W. Kleinecke and Miss Mabel Pierson, of Plainfield. Other members of the receiving party will be Miss Marguerite Carpenter, Miss Grace Wilcox, Miss Janet C. VanVliet, Miss Ellen Hovey and Miss Dorothy G. McKenzie, the last named a cousin of the debutante.

A large number of invitations have been issued and it is expected there will be more than three hundred guests from New York, Staten Island and this city. The hours of the reception will be from 4 to 7 o'clock.

MR. AND MRS. BABCOCK GIVE A DINNER-DANCE

Councilman-elect and Mrs. Juan A. Babcock, of Clinton avenue, gave a dinner party at their home last night in honor of Mrs. Babcock's sisters, the Misses Phillips, of Brooklyn, and Mr. and Mrs. William Ochiltree, of Jersey City, after which they gave a dance at the parish house of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

There were about fifteen couples at the dance, music for which was furnished by Glover. The parish house was attractively decorated with flags, palms and flowers. There were guests present from Plainfield, New York, Brooklyn and Dunellen. During the evening refreshments were served.

TO PLAN WINTER'S PROGRAM.

The Dunbar Social and Educational Club is planning a special program for tomorrow night. After the entertainment there will be a special business meeting to discuss plans for the winter's pleasure. Hereafter, at least once a month there will probably be special features of entertainment with an instructive lecture. All old members are urged to be present tomorrow night to help with the discussion and suggestion.

CRUELTY TO HORSE.

When his horse bit him on the hand, yesterday, Thomas Egany, of Leland avenue, picked up a stick and started to administer a beating to the animal. Edward A. Dunn, of Dixie lane, remonstrated with Egany for his alleged cruelty and had him arrested for cruelty to animals. Arraigned this morning before City Judge DeMeza, he was given a suspended sentence.

HOLY CROSS PREACHERS.

Rev. Walter DuMulin, of New York, son of the late Bishop of Niagara, and a brother of the Dean of Cleveland, will preach at the Church of the Holy Cross, North Plainfield, Sunday morning and evening. Rev. Herbert Shipman, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, will be the special preacher on Sunday night, December 28, at 7:45 o'clock.

WILL GIVE BIBLE STUDIES.

Mrs. James T. Jones, of Nyack, N. Y., will continue the series of Bible studies at the Christian and Missionary Alliance meet at the German Reformed church, Duer street and Craig place, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. All Bible students are invited.

ABOLISH DANCING.

EFFORT TO SAVE CAR WAS FATAL

William Doty Struck by "Pusher" After Companions Had Jumped.

DEATH INSTANTANEOUS

Accident Victim Was One of a Party of Signal Repairers Operating a Small Hand-car on the Jersey Central Tracks.

In an attempt to save a hand-car from destruction as a "pusher" engine bore down upon him near the Plainfield avenue bridge of the Jersey Central at 10:30 o'clock this morning, William Doty, 48 years old, of Lorraine, was struck and instantly killed. Doty, in company with two other signal repair men who gave the names of Kanecht and Roskell, did not notice the train coming toward them until it was about half a block away and although two of the men managed to jump to safety, Doty attempted to save the car and in so so doing was struck by the on-rushing train which hurled him a distance of thirty feet.

The engine that killed Doty was in charge of Edward J. Haynes, of Dunellen, and those who witnessed the fatality, the police say, allege that negligence on the part of the engineer was responsible for the death of the signal man as the engine driver had a clear view for several miles before his car hit the small vehicle and a little precaution on his part in slowing-up would have avoided a collision.

John Monch, 30 years old, of Jersey City, a section hand employed by the Jersey Central Railroad, was struck last night at 6 o'clock by a passenger train as he was walking along the tracks near the Netherwood depot. His escape from instantaneous death was little more than miraculous, a quick step to one side of the track probably saving his life. He was hit by a projecting part of the engine and rendered unconscious. Upon being removed to Muhlenberg Hospital is was learned that his injuries consists of severe body bruises and contusions about the face and arms.

GRACE CHURCH PEOPLE ATTEND THE RECEPTION

The annual reception of Grace church, held in the parish house, last night, was largely attended by the parishioners and proved to be a delightful occasion. The affair was given under the direction of the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, and the vestry and wardens of the church. The parish house was elaborately decorated with palms, ferns and flowers. The color scheme was green and effective throughout.

The reception was chiefly of a social nature, a marked feature being the informality among the large number of people present. Another feature was the dancing which was enjoyed by a number of the parishioners, an orchestra providing the music. In connection with the affair there was a brief review of the parish work. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Rev. and Mrs. E. Vicars Stevenson were assisted in receiving by the vestrymen, wardens and their wives, those in the party being Mr. and Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Claybrook, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Gough, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Iredell, Mr. and Mrs. Erickson Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Pelletier, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Feickert, Orville G. Waring and C. Ames Brooks. The details of the reception were arranged by the members who served on the above-named committee.

SANTA CLAUS WORKSHOP

North Pole, Dec. 10, 1913.

Messrs. A. E. Force & Co.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Gentlemen:—

I just had a letter from little Kris, whom I sent to you. He certainly likes your store, and the little boys and girls seem to like him. He tells me your big show window looks like my big store house, but best of all he says are the big crowds that watch him, boys and girls, mamas and papas and even fellers with their best girls. The crowds must certainly want to see everything when you had to put that big rail in front of the window. Received the big package of letters and will answer the boys and girls just as soon as I can. Hope you get this in time for Thursday's papers for in my next letter which I want you to print on Friday evening, I may be able to tell you about the big surprise.

Yours,
SANTA CLAUS.

A TRUTHFUL SERVANT.

It was a well deserved rebuke that Congressman Tuttle administered to the Jefferson Democratic Club as a reply to that organization's telegram demanding that he support a certain candidate for the postmastership and threatening to "get square" with him in the event of his refusal. We had expected that the able and conscientious representative of the Fifth district would have thrown the missive in the waste-paper basket and have left it unanswered, but he explains his reason for making a reply by stating that the message indicates ignorance of the trust reposed in him.

After making himself clear that any thought of personal political ambition could not enter into his decision as to the nomination, the congressman fearlessly declares that he will not be deterred in performing his duty as he sees it "by abuse, threats and the various forms of intimidation that seem in this instance to be inspired." And he adds: "That the great office he holds comes from the people" and he shall "return it to them unsullied by a cowardly surrender to threats that voice a complete ignorance of the situation."

We admire the congressman for his courageous stand as his statement, as published in this paper yesterday, plainly demonstrates he has only the best interests of all the people of Plainfield at heart and is not and cannot be actuated by any political or personal motive. High ideal and purpose is thus unequivocally put:

"I shall hope to serve my party most by serving the city of Plainfield best and if in doing this I shall eliminate myself from further party consideration, the sacrifice will not be great."

Mr. Tuttle has made himself all the stronger in his district by his frank, fearless and justified utterance.

FOR PLAINFIELD.

We have been most fortunate in being able to have a contributing editorial staff for our Saturday issues composed of truly great men, all of whom reside in our community, and all of whom possess a nation-wide reputation in their particular spheres of business and professional activities. Never a week passes but what some newspaper comments favorably on one of these contributed editorials and this tends to attract attention to our ideal municipality. We might cite as an instance, a comment made by The Billboard, the most influential show business weekly paper, in its issue of this week. It has words of praise for the editorial of Herbert E. Parker, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., who discussed the educational value of the moving picture, advising all its readers to send and get a copy of our issue containing this particular editorial. Each one of these brainy contributing editors in taking charge of our comment column on Saturdays are "Doing it for Plainfield," for they are attracting attention to the very best suburban community New York has and could desire.

EDITOR SAUNDERS.

Dr. William L. Saunders, former mayor of North Plainfield, and the head of one of the greatest industries in this country, will be the contributing editor for Saturday's issue. His topic will be "New Jersey's Waterways," and as he is a member of the interstate commission on waterways he has an intimate knowledge of the subject upon which he will dwell.

Tonight, Emerson E. Parvin will give a lecture before the Heavenly Rest Church Men's Club on "The Building of the Ocean Liner." We mention it because instructive talks interest most Plainfielders and some knowledge may be gained by listening to what Mr. Parvin will have to say.

Red Cross seals are on sale at the Daily Press office. They cost but a penny apiece and each one purchased means so much money for the campaign against the Great White Plague right here in our town. They are suitable for letters and packages at this season of the year.

Speaking as the representative of the President of the United States, before the Canadian Club in New York last night, the Secretary of State pledged the present administration to a policy of "Peace on earth, good will towards men."

This postmaster squabble is getting more heated every day. What Congressman Tuttle should do is to send a nomination to the President without delay and settle the matter there and then. Such a course will be best for all concerned.

Kuehnle, the corrupt boss of Atlantic City, is now known simply as "Convica No. 2,872," thanks to Woodrow Wilson.

APPEALS ON TAXES.

The Union County Board for the Equalization of Taxes is in session this afternoon in the rooms of the District Court in the City Building on North avenue, for the purpose of considering the list of appeals.

The First False Teeth.

Until little more than a century ago humanity had to rub along without false teeth, of which nowadays one firm alone claims to sell over 12,000,000 a year. The first successful maker was Giussepangelo Fonzi, an Italian dentist, who started practice in Paris in 1798 and, thanks to his skillful treatment of Lucien Bonaparte, soon made his way. After years of experiment he discovered the substance from which artificial teeth are made and received the gold medal of the French Academy of Science. One of the earliest persons fitted with false teeth was the empress of Russia. After Waterloo Fonzi migrated to London and then to Madrid, where Ferdinand VII. rewarded him with a yearly pension of 1,000 ducats for a set of false teeth.

Human Derelicts.

This is the invariable history of such cases. Let an unidentified body of a man or woman, young or old, be discovered, and from all directions will come inquiries disclosing the fact that many persons have disappeared from the knowledge of their friends. Tragedies and heartaches are thus uncovered, for the mere act of inquiry proves that some one in each case has suffered anxiety over the missing one and has feared evil happenings. Crime, shame, melancholy, discontent, unhappiness, desire for adventure, are among the causes that lead to the disappearances.—Indianapolis Star.

Jim's Advantage.

A prominent state official in a mountain region reined in his horse one hot afternoon and inquired of a barefooted woman working in the field, "Madam, can you tell me how much farther it is to Johnson's Corners?"

The woman leaned on her hoe and pondered gravely. "No," she said finally, "I can't. My son, Jim, could tell you, though. Jim's been aroun'. He's got shoes."—Everybody's.

A Deduction.

Personally we do not pretend to be much of a hand at reading character, but when we see a young man carrying a pair of kid gloves in one hand and a cane in the other we know he isn't looking for a plowing job.—Galveston News.

Only a Bluffer.

"He says he's boss—likes to show his wife that he's clothed in authority."

"All I can say is that he's a pretty poor dresser."—Town Topics.

Around the Circle.

"In my time," declared grandma, "girls were more modest."

"I know," said the flippant girl. "It was a fad once. We may get back to it."—Kansas City Journal.

Mexico's Ex-Presidents Seek Refuge In the United States

GENERAL PORFIRIO DIAZ, it is reported, will take up his residence in the United States and is negotiating for a place of permanent residence at Miami, Fla. If he should do so he would be following in the footsteps of predecessors, for two of the best known of Mexican ex-presidents found resting places, temporary or permanent, in the United States.

One of them died in New York city. That was Sebastian Lerdo de Tejada, one of the most prominent figures in Mexican history in the period which included the rule of Mexico by Emperor Maximilian. Lerdo de Tejada, with Benito Juarez, fought hard against Maximilian, and the supporters of the French-Austrian regime blamed the two principally for the execution in 1867 of the Austrian archduke who hoped and fought in vain to found a foreign dynasty south of the Rio Grande.

GENERAL PORFIRIO DIAZ, EX-PRESIDENT OF MEXICO.

When Lerdo de Tejada clashed with Diaz he was compelled to seek refuge in the United States. He died in New York city in 1889.

Thirteen years before, on June 20, 1876, there died in the City of Mexico another Mexican president and dictator who fills a much bigger place in the history of Mexico. That was General Santa Anna, who fought the Americans in the war of 1846-7.

In his day Santa Anna was the biggest figure in the Mexican government—he was the Mexican government in fact—but his fellow Mexicans tired of him, as they did later of Porfirio Diaz, and they cast him out to seek refuge on the soil of the "gringos."

Santa Anna lived for some time on Staten Island, now a part of New York city. Later his fellow countrymen permitted him to return to his native country. He died there an old man, neglected and almost forgotten by the people whom he had ruled.

GOVERNOR ASKS RETURN OF THREE PAROLED PRISONERS

Trenton, Dec. 11.—The return to this State of three prisoners of the New Jersey Reformatory who violated their parole has been requested in extradition papers to be served upon the Governors of New York and Pennsylvania. The fugitives are: Joseph Morris, Jr., Horace Driver and Thomas P. McCarthy.

Morris was convicted in Essex county for breaking and entering and s now in New York, after having been paroled from the institution; Driver was indicted for breaking and entering in Hunterdon county and is now in Pennsylvania, and McCarthy, who was convicted for assault and battery in Essex county, is now in the Tombs, New York. If the papers are approved, the prisoners will be brought back to serve their full terms.

Acting Governor Taylor has approved the requisition papers served upon him by Governor Glynn for the return to New York, of Morris Beck, who is wanted in that State on a charge of abandoning his two-year-old daughter in destitute circumstances. The penalty for the offense is two years in prison or $1,000 fine, or both.

ASBURY PARK COLLECTS $1,600 IN EXCISE FINES

Asbury Park, Dev. 11.—Defending the excise prosecutions of his administration as the most active of "any Mayor the city ever has had," Mayor Reginald S. Bennett, in a statement to Council, declared that Prosecutor John S. Applegate had withheld county support this year from the city because he was discouraged with the results of the year before.

In twenty-seven cases which the city has undertaken on its own initiative this year, the prisoners being arraigned before Police Magistrate Borden under the disorderly house act, the city has collected $1,600 in fines, the Mayor declared. But this is not a satisfactory procedure, he said, for the reason that illegal liquor sellers assert the fines imposed are cheap license fees.

SIX-DAY CYCLISTS ARE STILL WAY AHEAD OF ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS

(By Staff Correspondent).

An increase in prices at Madison Square Garden last night failed to check the enthusiasm of the vast mob of bicycle enthusiasts and shortly before midnight the big amphitheatre was packed to its capacity with rabid "bugs." With eight of the seventeen teams that started the race on Sunday night still on even terms the rivalry between the contestants and their respective supporters has grown intense. Although Clarke and Grenda have heretofore been looked upon as favorites their physical condition last night was far below the standard and both members of the popular little team appeared to be on the verge of a breakdown. Present indications favor Fogler and Goullett as winners, this pair being in the best condition for the final test that is so near at hand, but there is plenty of betting at the ringside that the European teams will be close up to the best when the final gong tolls the end of a weary week of grinding on the boarded bowl.

All yesterday afternoon and last night Jackie Clarke and Alf Grenda launched sprints but in each case they were quickly overhauled by the speedy Root who refused to allow the rival team to get the slightest advantage. Root is leading the attack at all times and he is the center of attention at the Garden while he is on the track. Several of the riders are reported to be weakening and it can be plainly seen that a number of the best are laboring under severe strains, in fact, a number seem to be in agony as they push their pedals around the track.

Frantic attempts to gain laps held the interest of the crowd and the spectators on hand at 3 o'clock this morning outnumbered by any audience of other mornings of the race recorded at that hour. Every time a rider bent low over his handle bars as though making ready for a sprint the rabid crowd went wild and the cheers and yells fairly rocked the Garden.

One of the incidents that caused considerable stir late yesterday afternoon followed a particularly long spurt in which Jackie Clarke was the central figure. After leading the pack for several minutes he suddenly dropped to the rear and appeared to be in great distress as he clung to his handle-bars. A hurry call was sent for his partner, Alf Grenda, and Clarke was carried from the track in a semi-conscious condition.

Mayor-elect John Purroy Mitchell and a party of friends witnessed the race last night and about 11 o'clock hundreds began to pour into the Garden following the closing of the theatres. Once more the arena was transformed into a bower of glory, brilliant colors being prominent along the ringside.

BAVARIA HAS A REAL KING.

Following Otto's Deposition, Ludwig Becomes Constitutional Monarch.

Bavaria, after more than a quarter of a century of regency, has now, at last, a king in the person of the former regent Prince Ludwig, who has taken the constitutional oath with the title of Ludwig III. The new king was born in 1845 and is the son of Prince Luitpold, the regent for many years before him. Ludwig succeeded to the regency last year and on account of his modesty and affability was called the "bourgeois on the throne." He takes a great interest in agricultural matters and has been a practical farmer himself, not for amusement, but to make both ends meet.

Ludwig is a cousin to the mad King Otto, who was formally deposed early in November in pursuance of the provisions of a law enacted by the two houses of the Bavarian diet. Otto had never assumed the reins of government. He was brother to the mad king, Ludwig II., who was deprived of his powers as ruler and placed under restraint and was finally drowned in Starnberg lake when attempting to escape from confinement. He is best remembered as the munificent patron of Wagner.

Otto was born in 1848, three years after Ludwig. He first came under the observation of the alienists when in 1870 the German army was at the gates of Paris. He gave the order for the advance of a regiment against a stone wall, declaring that it was a large body of the enemy. The kaiser called him to his quarters, decorated him with the Order of the Iron Cross for past services and placed him under surveillance. Otto then began to insist upon immediate peace with France, and when a correspondence with the enemy was intercepted he was sent away "on account of ill health" to travel through Italy and Spain.

He became so violent in Madrid that he had to be confined, and in Italy he displayed such signs of suicidal mania that he was hurried back to Munich and kept in restraint at the castle Nymphenburg. He appeared one day at the windows and pleaded with some farmers to rescue him from enemies who were unjustly detaining him. His situation worked so much upon his hearers that they really took steps to effect his release. He was then removed to the castle at Schleissheim, but as that did not appear safe enough he was taken to Fuerstenried, where he has remained for the past thirty years.

An Appeal

O jingo man
In this U. S.,
I would to you
This prayer express:
Do not in haste
Too forward go;
Don't war declare
With Mexico.

O jingo man
In Mexico,
I prithee, pause,
Go very slow.
And hold your wrath
Or make it less;
No war declare
With our U. S.

O jingo man,
Be cautious, please,
Nor on this chance
Too rashly seize.
Of course, we know,
All rests with you.
'Tis as you say—
Be good, now—do!

WOMEN'S SHORT HOURS PROVE BENEFIT TO ALL.

Industries Affected Not Harmed, Says Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Investigations into the hours of employment for women have shown that a reduction of the working day has not been burdensome to the industries, according to a bulletin just issued by the bureau of labor statistics in Washington. On the other hand, the report shows that the general health of the women whose hours have been reduced has been much better. The bulletin is a comprehensive review of working conditions of women all over the world and cites various authorities to bear out the statements contained in it.

The reduction in the working day has not made it more difficult for the women to compete with the men, the bulletin continues. In those countries where the hours of labor of women have been reduced there is nothing to show that the greater legal protection given to women has made it more difficult for them to obtain employment. However, this reduction has in a way benefited the men. The protection given to women has led indirectly to the reduction of the hours of work of the men employed in that industry, and as a result wages have risen in many cases.

"Industrial occupations, domestic duties and motherhood impose a very great burden on most women," says the bulletin. "If, then, it is impossible for a woman with a large family to do her washing and cleaning except on Saturday nights and if her vitality is often prematurely exhausted even when she is employed for only ten hours a day, the excessive strain to which the women in industrial employment are put in countries where long hours are worked is bound to result in self neglect on the part of the mothers and in the neglect of their children.

"The majority of women," the report continues, "make use of the addition al spare time secured to them by the reduction of the hours of labor to take greater care of their homes. Young women are also enabled to cultivate their minds and to obtain domestic instruction. Only when they are employed for short hours is it possible for young women to train themselves for more skilled trades and for the mothers of the next generation of workers to prepare themselves to bring up their children."

TO SAVE MRS. WAKEFIELD.

Connecticut Stirred by Fight to Keep Widow From the Gallows.

Connecticut women, especially the suffragists of that state, are making every effort to save Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield from the gallows. Mrs. Wakefield was convicted as an accomplice in the murder of her husband. Thousands of names have been signed to petitions, but it is doubtful that these efforts will be successful.

Governor Baldwin has been urged to intervene, but he has declared that he is powerless to do so over the head of the board of pardons, of which, however, he is a member.

The governor himself, therefore, cannot commute Mrs. Wakefield's sen tence. He can vote as an individual for such action as a member of the board of pardons. The board can also vote, under the law, to commute the sentence; hence the governor cannot save Mrs. Wakefield by his individual act, but simply in using his influence as a member ex officio of the board.

If Mrs. Wakefield is executed she will be the first woman put to death in Connecticut since 1786.

TO IDENTIFY MAN BY VEINS.

Italian Professor Proposes Substitute to the Bertillon System.

Professor Tamassia of the University of Padua, in Italy, advocates the adoption of an identification system, the basis of which is the photographing of the veins of the hands.

He says the merest novice can detect variations, while long training is necessary to distinguish differences in finger prints.

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO Y. W. C. A. PEOPLE

Miss Helen George was re-elected president, Miss Margaret Hawkins was chosen vice president and Miss Runyon was appointed secretary at the meeting of the Silver Bay Club held at the Y. W. C. A., Tuesday night, when twenty-two girls sat down to supper. The songs used at the Silver Bay Conference were sung and the girls who attended the conference were welcomed.

The walking squad of the G. Y. M. Club will take its first hike Saturday afternoon, leaving the association at 3 o'clock, and going to the Deserted Village. The usual song service will be held at the rooms Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Miss Iola Miller will read aloud this week and all women are invited to join this informal meeting by the fire.

Mrs. J. Hervey Doane will read at the Fireside Reading Club tomorrow evening. She will take her selections from Sir Walter Scott. This club is open to all members of the association and they are urged to bring their Christmas sewing and spend a pleasant evening.

Miss McCormick, of the Teachers' College, New York, will give the lecture in the Home-Makers' Course this week, speaking on "The business girl's lunch and the relation between food and working efficiency." The members of the Owaissa and the Kitchi Kimiwan Camp Fires are invited to this lecture. A birthday supper for the association members whose birthdays fall in November and December will be held on Friday evening, December 19, and those planning to attend are asked to leave their names in the office of the association.

DISCUSS CENTRAL BUREAU OF CHARITIES FOR TRENTON

Trenton, Dec. 11.—Plans looking to the organization of a central bureau of charities were discussed at a meeting of the Social Workers at the Contemporary club house.

This project has been under consideration by the members for several months, and the speaker of the evening, Arthur W. MacDougall, superintendent of the Newark Bureau of Associated Charities, was produced with the hope of giving it impetus.

The general purposes of charity organization were set forth by Mr. MacDougall, who pointed out that the ultimate object is "to make the great warm heart of the world really effective in banishing human misery."

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE ON LARRADOR IS FREE

The next entertainment in the free public school lecture course will be delivered "A Trip to Newfoundland and Labrador," by Paul G. Tomlinson, tonight, in the Washington school at 8 o'clock. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views.

Princeton College gave Dr. Grenfell a motor boat for use in his work in Labrador. Half a dozen of the Princeton men were chosen to run the boat up to Labrador. Mr. Tomlinson was one of those men, and his lecture will be a description of the trip and of the things he saw in Labrador and Newfoundland. He took many pictures on his trip and along the coast, and has since written a book on his travels which has been published.

Mr. Tomlinson is said to be a very pleasing speaker, and the entertainment promises to be a very attractive one.

SPEAKERS AT SHOW DISCUSS FRUIT CROP POSSIBILITIES

Trenton, Dec. 11.—Possibilities of the soil of this State in the production of fruit was set forth yesterday at the meeting held in connection with the exhibition of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society and the State Agricultural Society. The meeting was concluded with a session yesterday morning.

An address on peach growing was made by A. T. Henry, of Wallingford, Conn., while Professor M. A. Blake told of factors that determine color and size of peaches. Professor C. A. McCue, of Newark, Del., spoke on the relation of cover crops to fruit production. W. F. Allen, of Salisburg, Md., gave a talk on "Strawberries."

At Tuesday's session Professor J. Russell Smith, of the University of Pennsylvania, advised more tree planting. Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., owner of the largest geranium plantation in the country, gave an illustrated talk on the Holland bulb fields.

Other addresses were delivered by Samuel Fraser, of Geneseo, N. Y., who talked on the growing of the apple orchard; U. T. Cox, of Proctorville, who made some suggestions concerning fruit growing, and Emmor Roberts, who told of the best methods of marketing the crop.

THE DAILY PRESS IN DUNELLEN will be for sale or delivered to any address every afternoon by Edward Peacock, druggist and newsdealer.

RAHWAY EDUCATION BOARD IS ACCUSED OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Rahway, December 11.—The Rahway Board of Education was the object of severe criticism at the meeting of the Common Council, when Councilman E. T. Valentine accused the body of extravagance. The councilman asserted that it required $10,000 more a year to run the schools than it did to run the balance of the city government.

Mr. Valentine declared he was in favor of "higher education" when it could be afforded. "But," he said, "I think the schools are far ahead of the city."

What was considered a surprise was created by the Common Council when it appointed Patrolman John Smith detective-sergeant, to succeed Acting Detective-Sergeant Jacob Reimer, who had been recommended for the position by Mayor Thomas A. Fyffe. The Council also appointed Chanceman Joseph Gerlash to a position as patrolman. Both appointments were made upon recommendation by the police committee.

Franklin Hose Company No. 2 reported the resignations of the following members whose names were stricken from the city roll: Henry Grube, Fred Fetter, G. O. Graves, Charles Kelly and William Mohr. It was reported that the following had been added to the company's membership: De Witt Fouiks, Walter Sullivan, James O'Donnell, John Sullivan and Harry Dunham.

Protection Hose Company No. 3 reported that Arthur Coventry had been elected a member, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of George Wilson.

President Moffett named the following committee to work with a committee selected by the mayor to revise the city charter: T. E. Farrell, John Farrell, David H. Trembly, Harold Buckley and George M. Gage.

PRESS EDITORIAL PLEASED BILLBOARD

The Billboard, the show business encyclopedia of America, in yesterday's issue had this to say:

"Plainfield, N. J., is not so near to New York that the great dailies of the metropolis are allowed to stunt the enterprise of at least one of the 'home papers.' Leslie R. Fort, manager of the Plainfield Press, and Editor Ralph L. Morrow, thereof, are two live wires, and one of their innovations includes an editorial every Saturday from local citizens who are free to express their opinions.

"Thus it came about that on Saturday, November 29, Herbert E. Parker, secretary of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A., had something to say well worth saying on 'The Educational Value of Motion Pictures.' The editorial came from a man who is employed in bettering general conditions in his community. His opinions upon moving pictures are decidedly valuable, because they come from a man who is, naturally, studying every feature of life which bears directly upon social and religious welfare of his field.

"The Billboard regrets that, just now, lack of space prevents our running the editorial, even in part, but we do most earnestly urge exhibitors and manufacturers, dealers and renters of films to send to the Plainfield Press for a copy of this editorial.

"Its use in your own home paper will benefit the 'picture game' vastly and will be direct benefit to your business. As the article treats upon the exclusive 'picture house'—disclaiming any expression of opinion on mixed programs of pictures and vaudeville—the exclusive motion picture purveyor will be particularly benefited in his own community by causing the Parker editorial to be made public in some manner."

LITTLE TALKS BY THE WANT-AD MAN

Copyright, 1913, The Int. Syndicate, Baltimore.

No. 39.

"WHO is writing those Want Ad. Talks? They're bully. I read every one of them, and get a great many ideas from them that are applicable to my own business."

That was the combined question and comment fired the other day at the Business Manager of one of the newspapers in which these Talks are appearing by a gentleman who conducts the advertising of one of the largest retail establishments in his city.

Thank you, Mr. Advertising Man, for the compliment. For a busy advertiser to take time to compliment the work of another advertiser is indeed exceptional.

But it is not you whom I am trying to reach in these Little Talks, Mr. Advertising Man. Oh, no; you know all about the "pulling power" of advertising. You know, from personal, practical experience, the value of newspaper publicity, because newspaper publicity has been one of the most important factors in the growth of your own business.

It is the man or woman who looks upon advertising as a rather uncertain form of gambling that I am desirous of talking to. And I want to say that advertising isn't any more of a gamble than is any other straight-forward, legitimate way of doing business. Not every man or every woman can afford to be a big display advertiser. Newspaper display space costs money.

But every man and every woman has occasion, at some time or other, to use a newspaper's CLASSIFIED columns. WANT AD. advertising is inexpensive. It is the most "human" advertising a newspaper carries. It consists, in effect, of nothing but the messages of thousands of the "plain people" to other thousands. That is why the CLASSIFIED columns of a good newspaper are called "the natural market-place for human wants."

If you want something—want to buy, sell, rent, exchange—want a position—want help—want board—want a horse, a typewriter, a piano, a gas engine, anything—try a little WANT AD. and discover for yourself its tremendous power.

FRANCES MARSHALL

Creole Economy.

If there is one place in America where any distinctive local cooking worth boasting of has been developed, it is among the Creole cooks of Louisiana. This cooking is said to be a combination of French and Spanish culinary traditions handed down in the old New Orleans families. If it has never become very widespread, it is not because it lacks anything in delicacy of taste and economy of materials, but because it takes time and close attention and the sort of careful "nursing" which none but a real lo[illegible] is willing to bestow [illegible] seldom cooks by rule, [illegible] sort of instinct for proportions and flavors.

As an example of this method, note the way she goes about preparing the stuffing for a fowl. First she takes some stale baker's bread and mixes it with any chopped meat left from the table and a few raw oysters or cooked chestnuts. Sausage meat, roast beef or mutton is particularly good. Next she adds a boiled sweet potato, thoroughly mashed, and flavors the mixture with butter, salt, and red pepper and meat juice or thin broth of any sort that happens to be on hand. She allows this to steam in a double boiler for about half an hour and stuffs the fowl with it a few hours before roasting.

Some Creole Specialties.

First among Creole dishes are brown sweet potatoes. They have to be washed and boiled with the skins on until they are nearly done and then peeled. They should be sliced lengthwise, not too thin, and fried in butter, and then sprinkled with brown sugar, maple sugar, shaved thin, or molasses. They can be cooked some time before they are needed and kept warm in a warning oven. It is not the ingredients used in the Creole preparation of sweet potatoes so much as the careful cooking that makes them famous.

Fried bananas are prepared in this way by the Creoles: Red-skinned bananas are considered preferable to yellow ones by the Creoles, as the red ones are not so soft. They should be peeled and sliced lengthwise and sprinkled with orange juice and rolled in sifted flour. They should be well fried in fresh, hot butter and rolled in powdered sugar before serving.

Oyster Soup a la Creole.

For a quart of oysters you will need about a cupful of fried bread crumbs. Drain the oysters and add the juice to a pint of clear water. Now put a piece of butter the size of two walnuts in a saucepan. Add a tablespoonful of flour and stir till it browns, without burning. Take it from the fire and season it with pepper, cayenne and a dash of salt. Add the liquid from the oysters and the water, mix thoroughly and allow the mixture to simmer for half an hour. Just before serving add the fried breadcrumbs and a little chopped parsley, if available.

Some Cookery Suggestions

THE CHRISTMAS FOWL.

Of course, if you can afford it, the Christmas fowl will be turkey, and in spite of the grumbling against the high cost of living a large percentage of the population seem able to afford it.

After all, with a little planning the housewife can make the noble bird go far and in the end cost little more than a plebeian roast.

How to Roast It.

Roast Turkey.—The turkey should be carefully drawn. Do not break the gall bag in removing the entrails. When it is cleaned wash out the inside with cold water several times, using soda in the second water. Then take the stuffing or dressing you have decided upon and fill the craw and body with it. Stitch up the body with white cotton twine and tie the loose skin of the neck around the neck bone. Fasten the legs and wings to the body with white cotton tape or strips of muslin. If the turkey is not very plump put thin slices of fat salt pork on the breast. Then lay it on the grating of the roasting pan and pour a cupful of boiling water over it. Then put on the cover and put the turkey in the oven. It should be basted several times with the gravy from the pan. Fifteen minutes before taking the turkey from the fire wash it over with melted butter, dredge with sifted flour and return to the oven to brown.

The gravy is made by stirring with the liquid in the pan the chopped giblets, a tablespoonful of browned flour mixed to a paste with a little water and salt and pepper to taste. The gravy in the pan should, of course, have been skimmed before these ingredients are added. Boil for a couple of minutes, and it is ready to serve.

Utilizing the Cold Meat.

Scallop of Turkey With Oysters.—Cut cold turkey into pieces about an inch long and place a layer of it in a baking dish. Season with salt, pepper and bits of butter and add a layer of raw minced oysters. Season this layer, sprinkle it with stale bread crumbs, add more turkey and seasoning, then a layer of oysters, and so on until the dish is filled. Boil down the bones and stuffing in a cupful of gravy and a quart of water until about one-third of the original bulk. Then strain out the liquid and pour into the dish containing the oysters and turkey one cupful of this gravy. Sprinkle the dish with breadcrumbs and dot with butter. Cover the dish and bake for three-quarters of an hour, then uncover and brown. The oysters may be left out to make a plain turkey scallop. Minced mushrooms or sausage meat also may be substituted for the oysters.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Santa Claus Taught Teddy Obedience.

He Decided to Write to Santa Claus.

"You know," said daddy as Jack and Evelyn ran into the library for their usual bedtime story, "that Santa Claus is very particular that little boys and girls should be obedient.

"One year Santa was very, very busy, and so he sent a note to the mothers and fathers in a certain town telling them that he was so rushed he would have to leave his presents some time before Christmas, and then he would, of course, stop off a little while Christmas eve to fill all the stockings and trim the trees.

"In one house lived a very naughty little boy who was very apt to disobey. His daddy told him that Santa had left some of his presents ahead of time, but that he had especially said he did not wish the little boy to look in any of the closets and put him on his honor not to, for if he should look Santa had said he would take away the presents.

"The little boy had asked Santa Claus for a horse and cart, which he wanted more than anything in the world.

"Several days went by, and the little boy resisted the temptation of looking to see if the horse and cart had come. But one day he could stand it no longer, so when every one was out he looked into all the closets, and in the last one he saw the long wished for horse and cart. Such a beauty as it was too! The horse had a mane and tail of real hair, and the cart was painted a bright red. Oh, how delighted the little boy was, and he closed the closet door and went back to his nursery very happy.

"As no one had seen him look into the closet, the next day he thought he would take another look. What was his horror to find that the horse and cart had disappeared, and no sign of it was anywhere to be found. He then knew that Santa Claus only cared for good little boys who did what they were told, and that night he cried himself to sleep, so ashamed did he feel.

"The next morning he decided to write to Santa Claus. So he said:

"'Dear Santa Claus—I know I was a naughty boy and looked when I was told not to. Please forgive me and give me back the horse and cart and I will never be a bad boy again.'

"He put this note up the chimney, and the very next morning he found this lovely answer:

"'Dear Teddy Wells—I am sure you are sorry you were disobedient, and am certain you will never do such a thing again. So on Christmas morning when you get up you will find the horse and cart awaiting you. Your old friend, Santa Claus.'"

Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

7682

No. 7682 is a slightly draped two-piece skirt suitable for one of the soft silks or supple wool fabrics; cloth could also be used to advantage.

The design shows a slightly raised waistline and just a suggestion of fullness in the back.

Skirts today are not difficult to fit; the inside belt has done away with many of the complications that used to arise for the novice some seasons back.

It is advisable to completely finish the inside belt before adjusting the skirt. Fit it by means of darts on each side and sew on the hooks and eyes. The skirt may now be pinned on to this and tried on; the necessary changes will be very few. Never turn up the hem or arrange the facing until the skirt is adjusted at the top.

This skirt may be made in size 24 with 2¾ yards of 42 inch material and ⅞ yard of 2 inch belting for inside belt.

The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 22 to 30.

This Is a Perfect Pattern.

Be sure to state right size, taking waist measure tightly around the smallest part of the waist and hip measure loosely around the fullest part of the hips.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

Meetings of Local Parent-Teacher Associations.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Plainfield High School will meet this evening at eight o'clock. Reports of the State Congress will be made at 8:30. Principal Lindsey Best will give a short talk in the library on "What Work Should a Pupil Take in High School." An informal discussion will follow. All parents who are interested in the subject of the evening or who have children in the eighth grade; whether members of the High School Association or not, will be welcome. Parents will confer with teachers in the class-room at 8 o'clock by appointment.

A very pleasant thimble party was held at the Washington School by the Parent-Teacher Association yesterday afternoon at 3:30. The ladies brought their Christmas sewing and the president, Mrs. James E. Kimball, read several selections. Refreshments were served.

The Irving-Jefferson Parent-Teacher Association held an acquaintance party in the Jefferson School yesterday afternoon. The mothers were met as they entered the building by young girls and conducted to the various classes in which they were interested and introduced to the teachers. Later the meeting was called together and after routine business had been transacted, Mrs. William M. Sandford gave an enjoyable talk and refreshments were served.

Meeting of the Legislative Committee.

An interesting conference of legislative workers of New Jersey Federated Clubs was held under the auspices of the legislative committee of the Woman's Club of Orange, on Monday afternoon at the club house. About seventy-five ladies from various clubs of the northern part of the State were present and listened to the following program:

Address of welcome, Mrs. Cheesman; "The Widow's Pension Act," Mrs. Caroline B. Alexander, president of the State Board of Guardians; "Proposed Legislative Work of the State Federation of Women's Clubs," Mrs. Harold Buttenheim Chase; "The Industrial Welfare Commission," Miss Alice Jaynes, executive secretary Consumer's League of New Jersey; "Child Labor Legislation," Mrs. G. W. B. Cushing, chairman of the New Jersey State Child Labor Commission; "Prospective Legislation for Charities and the Proposed Legislative Bureau," A. W. McDougall, secretary of the Associated Charities of Newark, N. J.

Extract From New Jersey Child Labor Laws.

No child under fourteen years of age may be employed in any gainful occupation during the hours the public schools are in session.

No child under the age of sixteen years shall be employed, allowed or permitted to work in or in connection with any mercantile establishment more than fifty-eight hours in any one week or before seven o'clock in the morning or after seven o'clock in the evening of any day (excepting one day in the week when such minor may be permttied to work until nine o'clock in the evening).

Exception.

The provisions of this section shall not apply to the employment of such persons between the fifteenth day and the twenty-fifth day of December inclusive, when such minors may be permitted to work until ten o'clock each evening.

The only time of year when New Jersey children may be legally overworked is when Christians are preparing to celebrate the birthday of their Saviour, who loves children too well to view this spectacle with approbation, it would seem to us.

Christmas Suggestions.

Suggestions to the small boy or girl in as to a suitable gift for mother at this season of the year will no doubt be gladly received.

There are several very fine magazines at a reasonable price that any mother would be glad to receive from her small son or daughter, among which are School News, Child Welfare Magazine, Good Housekeeping, The Woman's Home Companion, The Ladies' Home Journal, The Ladies' World and American Motherhood.

"Comfy" Gifts Which Are Useful and Attractive For the Wee Baby.

Baby can never have too many of these "comfy" dainty socks, for infants are very susceptible to drafts and changes of the weather, and need these warm wool sacks even in summer.

These two designs are very attractive and very simple to embroider. They come in one size only, and the scalloped outline forms the cutting pattern.

They may be made of China silk, white broadcloth, cashmere, albatross or crepe de chine in pink, blue or white. Filo silk should be used to embroider the designs on a silk or wool material.

The sprays on the circular neck, in pattern number 14168, may be developed in solid work and eyelets in white or color. The large leaves may, however, be developed in outline and seed-stitch, if desired, and the scalloped edge should be worked in heavily padded buttonhole-stitch. Narrow wash ribbon to match the color of the embroidery should be used to tie the garment under the arms and at the neck.

Pattern number 14639 may be used for stamping a square sack, with or without the small turnover collar. The seams should be finished with cat-stitch, feather-stitch or ball-stitch. The flowers and leaves in this design may be developed in solid work and eyelets and the ribbon in solid work or outline and seed-stitch. White, pink or blue silk may be used for embroidering this little sack.

These patterns will be supplied to readers of the Daily Press for fifteen cents.

FLEMINGTON WILL VOTE ON WAY NEW ROAD WILL ENTER

Flemington, Dec. 11.—In accordance with a resolution adopted by the Common Council, a special election will be held December 23 to vote on the question of having the Flemington-Frenchtown macadam road enter Main street through Capner street.

It is expected that the Frenchtown section, which is being constructed to within a mile of Croton, will be completed by the close of the year, and the Flemington section will be constructed next year.

The Capner street entrance, it is estimated, will cost about $7,500, which it is proposed to pay for by bonding the borough. The plan will involve the widening of Capner street between Park avenue and Main street and the removal of a portion of the mercantile building belonging to Charles C. C. Gary.

William Alvater has resigned as a member of the Common Council, and the vacancy has been filled by the appointment of Marcus L. Glazer.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Lustre and Abundance.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks dry, wispy and scraggly, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the tonic at home or get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully and removes dandruff, stops scalp itching and falling hair; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.—Adv.

Scotch Plains, Playing the Role of Pace-setter, Was Nosed Out.

SECOND FOR N. P. H. S.

Final Score 32 to 29—Game a Thriller From the Start to the Finish—Lack of Teamwork Costly to Visitors.

The North Plainfield High School basketball team defeated the Scotch Plains Parish House five for the second time this season on the Saengerbund Hall court last night. The final score was 32 to 29. The game was extremely close and exciting throughout and it was only in the last five minutes of play that the schoolboys drew ahead.

In the first half Dunning, playing forward, started the scoring with two baskets in succession but these were quickly overshadowed when the visitors made seven points. From this time they retained the lead until the last few minutes of play. Roy Love, who has been out of the game for three weeks with an injured wrist, played center and put up a stellar game along the shooting end. Dunning was sent to forward and Conroy took Van Mater's place in the first half.

Scotch Plains obtained a lead of seven points during the half but the boroughites managed to crawl up within four points of their opponents before the half ended. "Jack" Ricketts made the sensational shot of the game making a long one from the center of the floor. Ricketts and Walker did most of their team's scoring in this period. The half ended 21 to 17 in favor of Scotch Plains.

Van Mater replaced Conroy in the second half and North Plainfield started out with its regular team on the floor once more. The four point lead was not overcome until the half was about over, but a basket and two fouls by Love tied the score. The home team then took the lead by one point but this was soon covered by a pretty shot from Smith. The score then see-sawed back and forth until Abrams made his only point of the game making the score 29 to 27. Love then shot a foul and Dunning ended the scoring with a basket. Scotch Plains' weak point was individuality. Ricketts tallied eleven points, being the leader of his team while Love and Dunning each made an even dozen.
